Miscellaneous Information.

Dead Letters.

By the instructions under the postal laws, UNMAILABLE LETTERS are specified to be—

Letters attempted to be sent with stamps previously used, or stamps cut from stamped envelopes.

Unpaid letters for foreign countries, on which prepayment is required by the regulations.

Letters not addressed, or so badly addressed that their destination cannot be known.

Letters misdirected to places where there are no post offices.

Civilian's letters, (domestic) wholly unpaid, (including unpaid drop letters.)

Only such letters as are herein described are, when deposited in any post office, to be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office; all others must be dispatched to their destination, charged with the amount of unpaid postage.

When unmailable letters are sent to the Dead Letter Office, the specific reason therefor must be endorsed upon the envelope of each.

These instructions will be strictly followed at all post offices.

For more full instructions relating to dead letters, advertising letters, &c., examine carefully the 7th and 8th Sections of the Act of 3d March, 1863, and the instructions attached thereto also, Sec. 1, Act of March 3, 1865.

Foreign Letters, &c.

RULE FOR RATING LETTERS TO GREAT BRITAIN, &C.

The attention of postmasters is particularly called to the mode of rating postage upon letters exchanged in the mails between this country and the United Kingdom, which differs essentially from the United States domestic scale, when the weight of the packet or letter exceeds one ounce.

The scale of progression adopted for letters exchanged with the United Kingdom is as follows, viz.:

One rate for a single letter not exceeding ½ oz. in weight.

Two rates when over ½, but not exceeding 1 ounce.

Four rates when over 1, but not exceeding 2 ounces.

Six rates when over 2, but not exceeding 3 ounces; and so on, charging two additional rates for each additional ounce or fraction of an ounce.

Thus, a letter to Great Britain, weighing 4½ ounces, should be paid $2.40, being chargeable as five ounces, or ten rates; but if $2.16 (nine rates only) are paid, owing to an omission to count the fraction as a full ounce, it then goes as unpaid, and the $2.16 is lost to the writer of the letter. These letters (and all other part paid letters to foreign countries) are treated as wholly unpaid, and the amount paid lost to the sender.

In no case should 3, 5 or 7 rates be collected upon a letter or packet addressed to the United Kingdom, the proper charges being either 1, 2, 4, 6, 8 rates, &c., according to weight.

Notwithstanding the explicit instructions of the Department on this subject, it is found that many postmasters are in the practice of charging postage upon letters and packets for the United Kingdom according to our domestic scale, (viz.: one rate for each half ounce or fraction of half an ounce,) and thus insufficient amounts of postage are frequently prepaid, which are entirely lost to the senders, as no account is taken of short payments of postage.

Letters to foreign countries, where prepayment of postage is compulsory, when insufficiently paid are sent to the Dead Letter Office, to be opened and returned to the writers, and are thereby delayed one or two mails, and, no doubt, in many cases, causing serious loss and annoyance to the writers.

REGISTERING FOREIGN LETTERS.—Letters can be registered in the United States for Great Britain and Ireland, for Germany, or any part of the German Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen, Hamburg, or Prussian closed mails. Letters to Canada can be registered, but not to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, or Prince Edward's Island. Postmasters will, therefore, decline to register letters addressed to other foreign countries.

The registry fee to be charged on registered letters to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, via Bremen or Hamburg, or by Prussian closed mail, and to Canada, is five cents—to Great Britain and Ireland, twenty cents. All registered letters must be prepaid in full to destination. See "Foreign Miscellany" on fourth page of this paper, for full information in regard to rating all foreign letters.

Our Postal Convention with the United Kingdom, provides that each country shall levy and collect its postage only, on newspapers, at the rate of two cents each, whether they are sent or received. Hence, newspapers received in this country from Great Britain come prepaid the British postage only, and postmasters must be particular, in all cases, to collect the United States charge of two cents on their delivery.

CANADIAN CORRESPONDENCE.—Irregularities having arisen in respect to Canadian correspondence, these directions must hereafter be observed:

Letters addressed to Canada must be mailed to a United States Exchange Office. Letters cannot be sent direct to Post Offices in Canada.

The postage on a single letter to and from Canada is 10 cents, prepayment optional; but the whole postage must be prepaid or none. Part prepayments are not recognized. Prepayments must be made by United States postage stamps—not in money.

A postmaster may frank a letter to Canada same as to any point in the United States; but it is optional for the Canadian P. O. Department to deliver such letter free, or charge full postage on it, at its pleasure.

COLLECTIONS IN COIN.—In pursuance of the provisions of a resolution of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails despatched to this country from Great Britain and Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen, or Belgium, are collected in gold or silver coin. Should, however, payment of such postage, and of the premium on a corresponding amount of coin, be tendered in United States notes, the same is to be accepted in lieu of coin. The amount to be collected in U. S. notes, (in case coin is not offered,) is marked on each letter on its arrival at U. S. Exchange Offices, and is charged in the post-bills. Hence, when coin is collected at the office of delivery, the difference should be entered in the account of Mails Received as an overcharge.

The above applies exclusively to the mails received from the countries mentioned.

On out-going letters the former regulations remain unchanged, and, when prepaid, the regular rates (in currency) only are to be collected.

Mail Bags and Locks.

Applications for blank registers of arrival and departure of the mails must be made direct to the "Inspection office." For special instructions, to the First Assistant Postmaster General.

All postmasters whose compensation is less than $12 50 per quarter, can purchase a reasonable quantity of wrapping paper and twine, provided the net proceeds of the office exceed twenty dollars per year.

MODE OF INDICATING THE PREPAYMENT OF POSTAGE UPON LETTERS RECEIVED FROM FOREIGN COUNTIES.

When the United States official postage entries on the letters received from Great Britain or the Continent of Europe, are in red ink, the letter is to be considered as paid, and is to be delivered accordingly; when in black ink, as unpaid, and the postage is to be collected on delivery. The postage on each letters is either wholly paid or wholly unpaid. Postmasters can readily decide any question as to prepayment, by this simple criterion.

Domestic Postages.

The law requires postage on all letters, (including those to foreign countries when prepaid,) excepting those written to the President or Vice-President, or members of Congress, or, (on official business) to the chiefs of the executive departments of the government, and the heads of bureaus and chief clerks, and others invested with the franking privilege, to be prepaid by stamps or stamped envelopes, prepayment in money being prohibited.

All drop letters must be prepaid. The rate of postage on drop letters, at offices where free delivery by carrier is established, is two cents per half ounce or fraction of a half ounce; at offices where such free delivery is not established, the rate is 1 ct.

The single rate of postage on all domestic mail letters throughout the United States is three cents per half ounce, with an additional rate of three cents for each additional half ounce or fraction of a half ounce. The ten cent (Pacific) rate is abolished.

RATES OF LETTER POSTAGE BETWEEN OFFICES IN THE UNITED STATES, AND TO AND FROM CANADA AND OTHER BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES

To and from Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., irrespective of distance.

To and from other British N. Am. Provinces, for distance not over 3,000 miles. ........ 10 cts.

For any distance over 3,000 miles. .......... 15 "

For every additional half ounce, or fraction of a half ounce, an additional rate is charged. Prepayment is optional on all letters for the British North American Provinces except Newfoundland, to which prepayment is compulsory.

Letter postage is to be charged on all handbills, circulars, or other printed matter which shall contain any manuscript writing whatever.

Daguerreotypes, when sent in the mail, are to be charged with letter postage by weight.

Photographs on cards, paper, and other flexible material, (not in cases,) can be sent at the same rates as miscellaneous printed matter—viz., two cents for each four ounces or fraction thereof.

Photographic Albums are chargeable with book postage—four cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof.

Newspaper Postage.

Postage on Daily Papers to subscribers when prepaid quarterly or yearly in advance, either at the mailing office or office of delivery, per quarter, (three months). . 35 cts.
Six times per week, " " . . 30 "
For Tri-Weekly, " " . . 15 "
For Semi-Weekly, " " . . 10 "
For Weekly, " " . . 5 "

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS (one copy only) sent by the publisher to actual subscribers within the county where printed and published, free.

POSTAGE PER QUARTER (to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance) on NEWSPAPERS and PERIODICALS issued less frequently than once a week, sent to actual subscribers in any part of the U. S.:

Semi-monthly, not over 4 oz. ................ 6 cts.
" over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. . . 12 "
" over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. . . 18 "
Monthly, not over 4 oz. ..................... 3 "
" over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. ....... 6 "
" over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. ...... 9 "
Quarterly, not over 4 oz. ................... 1 "
" over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. ...... 2 "
" over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. ..... 3 "

Quarterly postage cannot be paid for less than three months. If a subscription begins at any other time than the commencement of an official quarter, the postage received by the p. m. must still be entered in his account for that quarter. Subscribers for short terms—exceeding three months, say four or five months—can pay quarterly postage for the actual term of their subscriptions —that is for one quarter and a third one quarter and two-thirds, &c. The law only requires that at least one quarter's postage shall be prepaid, and not more than one year's postage. Any term between one quarter and one year can therefore be prepaid at proportionate rates.

PUBLISHERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS may send to each other from their respective offices of publication, free of postage, one copy of each publication, and may also send to each actual subscriber, inclosed in their publications, bills and receipts for the same, free of postage. They may also state on their respective publications, the date when the subscription expires, to be written or printed.

Religious, Educational and Agricultural Newspapers of small size, issued less frequently than once a week, may be sent in packages to one address at the rate of one cent for each package not exceeding four ounces in weight, and an additional charge of one cent is made for each additional four ounces or fraction thereof, the postage to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance.

NEWSDEALERS may send newspapers and periodicals to regular subscribers at the quarterly rates, in the same manner as publishers, and may also receive them from publishers at subscribers' rates. In both cases the postage to be prepaid, either at the mailing or delivery office.

Publications issued without disclosing the office of publication, or containing a fictitious statement thereof, must not be forwarded by postmasters unless prepaid at the mailing office at the rates of transient printed matter.

Postage on Transient Printed Matter.

[All printed matter (except single copies of news papers, magazines and periodicals to regular subscribers) sent via Overland Mail, is to be charged at letter postage rates.]

BOOKS, not over 4 oz. in weight, to one address, 4 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 8 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 12 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 16 cts.

CIRCULARS, not exceeding three in number, to one address, 2 cts.; over three and not over six, 4 cts.; over six and not over nine, 6 cts.; over nine and not exceeding twelve, 8 cts.

ON MISCELLANEOUS MAILABLE MATTER, (embracing all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, handbills and posters, book manuscripts and proof-sheets, whether corrected or not, maps, prints, engravings, sheet music, blanks, flexible patterns, samples and sample cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes or wrappers, cards, paper, plain or ornamental, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, and scions,) the postage to be pre-paid by stamps, is, on one package to one address, not over 4 oz. in weight, 2 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 4 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 6 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 8 cts.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General, the fifth subdivision of the 42d instruction of the new Post Office Law, has been amended by striking out the word twelve and inserting thirty-two before the word ounces, so that it shall read as follows—"The weight of packages of seeds, cuttings, roots and scions, to be franked, is limited to thirty-two ounces."

All mail matter not sent at letter rates of postage, embracing books, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, and other printed matter, and all other mail matter except seeds, must be so wrapped or enveloped with open sides or ends as to enable the postmaster to examine the package without destroying the wrapper, otherwise such packages must be rated with letter postage. No communication, whether in writing or in print, can be sent with any seeds, roots, cuttings or scions, maps, engravings or other matter not printed, except upon the separate payment of postage upon each separate matter at the established rates.

Exchange newspapers and periodicals cannot be remailed without being chargeable with postage.

Where packages of newspapers or periodicals are received at any post office directed to one address and the names of the club of subscribers to which they belong, with the postage for a quarter in advance, shall be handed to the postmaster, he shall deliver the same to their respective owners. But this does not apply to weekly newspapers which circulate free in the county where printed and published.

Weekly newspapers and all other printed matter to the British North American Provinces, although sent from countries bordering on the line, are chargeable with the same rates as when sent to any point in the United States.

☞ All transient matter must be prepaid by stamps. But if it comes to the office of delivery without prepayment, or short-paid, the unpaid postage must be collected on delivery at double the prepaid rate. Great neglect exists in the strict quarterly prepayment of postage on printed matter sent to regular subscribers. No such paper should be delivered, unless it is either prepaid at the mailing office, or at the delivery office for at least a quarter. If not so prepaid, postmasters must collect postage on each copy as on transient matter. If they fail, they will be charged with the full postage due, and in clear cases removed from office for neglect.

To inclose or conceal a letter or other thing (except bills and receipts for subscription) in, or to write or print anything, after its publication, upon any newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, is illegal, and subjects such printed matter, and the entire package of which it is a part, to letter postage.

Any word or communication, whether by printing, writing, marks or signs, upon the cover or wrapper of a newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, other than the name and address of the person to whom it is to be sent, and the date when subscription expires, subjects the package to letter postage.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

DEXHEIMER'S COMBINED STAMPING CUSHION AND PAD.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington, August 9, 1865.

SIR—Your favor of the 28th ult., with model of a new Stamping Tablet and Cushion, is received. The merit of your invention is perceptible at a glance, and has my hearty approval. The plan of its arrangement, together with its compact and portable form, are such as to recommend it to general use. I have no doubt, that its adoption by postmasters would tend to give a plainer post-mark upon letters, as well as a better defacement of the postage stamp. You have, therefore, the best wishes of this Department for its introduction among the various post offices of the country.

Very respectfully,
A. N. ZEVELY,
3d Ass't Postmaster General.

CHRISTIAN DEXHEIMER,
Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The inventor of the combined Stamping Cushion and Pad, above referred to, is now prepared to furnish the same, "ready for use," to postmasters and others at the following rates:

No. 1, $6.00; No. 2, $3.50. Also, the best prepared Stamping Ink furnished by the pound or less.

CHR. DEXHEIMER,
Post Office Clerk,
Milwaukee, Wis.

KRAUS' NEW STAMPING PAD

Is all that is necessary for
POSTMASTERS, BANKERS,

Or any one using a Stamp or Type for hand-printing or stamping. (Nearly every Post Office is supplied with India rubber packing or a cushion to stamp on.)

This PAD recommends itself when seen or used. No one will ever be without who has used one, or look for any other. It gives a clean, clear impression; does not gum the type; is not affected by the weather, and is certain death to postage stamps or bank paper.

The new Pad and Ink can be obtained from me for $2.50 (two dollars and fifty cents.)

†Pamphlets and Periodicals two cents each, if not weighing over two ounces, and four cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce if they exceed two ounces, to be collected in all cases in the United States.

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

TO THE BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

| Cape Breton, Pr'e Edward's Island, and Nova Scotia. To Newfoundland prepayment required. To Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., any distance. | * 10 cents when not over 3,000 miles from the line of crossing. * 15 cents when distance exceeds 3,000 miles. Prepayment optional. |

Steamers of the Cunard line sail from Boston twice each month, touching at Halifax, and when letters are sent by that conveyance for Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Prince Edward's Island, the U. S. postage is 5 cents the single rate, to be prepaid. The inland rate is collected on delivery. On newspapers by this route, the postage is two cents each.

Newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and sent to regular subscribers in the British North American Provinces, or published in those Provinces and sent to regular subscribers in the United States, are chargeable with the regular prepaid quarterly rates of United States postage to and from the line; which postage must be collected at the office of mailing in the United States on matter sent, and at the office of delivery in the United States on matter received. In like manner, such matter, if transient, is chargeable with the regular domestic transient printed matter rates to and from the line, to be collected at the office of mailing or delivery in the United States, as the case may be. Editors, however, may exchange free of expense.

Letters received from Canada, to which are affixed uncancelled United States postage stamps of sufficient value to prepay the full postage chargeable thereon, should be delivered without charge by the United States offices.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS.

Valuable letters for Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line via New York, or by the Prussian closed mail via New York and Boston, as also letters addressed to Great Britain and Canada, will be registered on the application of the person posting the same, in the same manner and on the same terms as those deliverable in the United States, provided that the full postage chargeable thereon to destination, together with a registration fee of twenty cents on each letter to Great Britain or Ireland, and five cents on each letter to the other places mentioned above, is prepaid at the mailing office. Such letters should be mailed and forwarded to the respective United States exchange offices in the same manner as domestic registered letters are mailed to those offices.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS, ETC.

All letters to and from foreign countries (the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, France and the British North American Provinces excepted,) are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of half an ounce; double rate, if exceeding half an ounce, but not exceeding an ounce; quadruple rate, if exceeding an ounce, but not exceeding two ounces; and so on, charging two rates for every ounce or fractional part of an ounce over the first ounce. As this rule differs from that followed in respect to domestic letters, great care is requisite to prevent mistakes. Letters in the mail to France are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of one quarter ounce; double rate if exceeding a quarter, but not exceeding half an ounce; and so on, an additional rate being charged for each quarter ounce or fractional part of a quarter ounce. Letters addressed to the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, and the British North American Provinces, are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, one rate being charged for each half ounce or fractional part of half an ounce. Postmasters, should be careful, where the postage is prepaid, to collect the proper amount. They should be particular to notice the route indicated on the envelopes of letters, and to collect postage accordingly. Letters mailed at some offices, marked "via England," or "via Prussian closed mail," for a German State, are frequently taken upon the prepayment of Bremen rates, and those marked "via Bremen," at Prussian closed rates, &c.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS GOING VIA FRANCE

In the case of letters to be forwarded in the British mail for transmission from England via "Marseilles," the French postage is rated at 6 cents the quarter ounce, except on letters for Java, China, Labuan, Borneo, Japan, the Moluccas and Philipine Islands, which are rated at eight cents per half ounce, and except, also, on letters for Syria and Tunis, by French packet, when the single French rate is 12 cents per quarter ounce.

The rates by "French mail" are in full to destination, except to the following places, viz.: Aden, Batavia, Ceylon, China, cities of Turkey, in Europe, except as herein mentioned, via Austria, countries to which correspondence can be sent via Suez, countries beyond seas, via France, other than those enumerated, East Indies, Gibralter, Hong Kong, Java, Mauritius, Montenegro, Penang, Portugal, Isle of Re-Union, Servia, (except Belgrade,) Shanghai, Singapore and Spain. The limit of prepayment to Spain, Portugal and Gibralter, is Behobia; to Servia, (except Belgrade,) Montenegro, and cities of Turkey in Europe, except as herein mentioned, "via Austria;" the frontier of Turkey and Austria; to Aden, East Indies, Ceylon, China, and other countries via Suez, the seaports of the Indies, or of the sea of China to which the English packets ply; and to places beyond seas, other than those designated, the limit is the port of arrival in the country of destination.

RATES ON PAMPHLETS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

On pamphlets and magazines, to or from the West coast of South America, the United States postage is four cents; and to or from all other foreign countries, (except Great Britain, Belgium, and the German States, via Bremen or Hamburg mail,) two cts. per 4 oz. or fraction thereof, to be collected in all cases in the United States.

Newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries (particularly to the continent of Europe) must be sent in narow bands, open at the sides or ends; otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage.

ROUTES OF TRANSMISSION, ETC.

To prevent mistakes at the exchange offices, it is desirable that the particular routes by which letters are to be forwarded from the United States to Europe, should be distinctly written on the covers. Letters intended for transmission in the open mail to England, should bear the direction "open mail via England;" if for transmission in the French mail, they should be directed, "via France in French mail;" if for transmission by closed mail to Prussia, they should be directed "via Prussian closed mail;" if for transmission in the closed mail to Belgium, they should be directed "via Belgian closed mail;" and if for transmission by the New York and Bremen line to Bremen, or by the New York and Hamburg line to Hamburg, they should be directed "via Bremen," or "via Hamburg."

It is important that letters addressed to Germany and other European countries, via France, where the single rate per quarter ounce is 21 cents, should be plainly marked to be sent via France; otherwise they may be missent in the open mail to Liverpool by United States packet, the 21 cent rate per half ounce being also chargeable on letters thus forwarded.

VOL. VI, No. 3. NEW YORK, DECEMBER, 1865. WHOLE No. 63.

REPORT

OF

THE POSTMASTER GENERAL.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
November 15, 1865.

FINANCES.

SIR: The revenue of this Department for the year ended June 30, 1865, were $14,556,158 70, and the expenditures $13,694,728 28, leaving a surplus of $861,430 42.

The ratio of increase of revenue was 17 per cent., and of expenditure 8 per cent., compared with previous year.

The portion of the revenues accumulated in depository and draft offices, under the supervision of the Finance Office of this Department, was $7,136,024 46; collected by the Auditor, $2,329,855 08; and retained by postmasters for salaries and office expenses, $5,090,279 16.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| The estimated expenditures for the year ending June 30, 1867, are | | $18,678,000 |
| The revenues estimated at 10 per cent. increase over last year | $16,011.773 | |
| Add amount equal to 50 per cent. of the receipts in 1860 from States lately in rebellion | 758,770 | |
| Appropriation for free matter | 700,000 | |
| | | 17,470,543 |
| Leaving a deficiency of | | 1,207,457 |

For this deficiency no special appropriation will be required, as the standing appropriations for the last three years, under acts of March 3, 1847, and March 3, 1851, amounting to $2,100,000, are unexpended. It will be necessary, however, to make special appropriations from the Treasury for steamship service between San Francisco, Japan, and China, for six months, from Jan'y 1 to June 30, 1867 .. $250,000

| | |
|---|---|
| Also for steamship service between the United States and Brazil for eight months of the current year, commencing November 1 | 100,000 |
| And the whole of next year | 150,000 |

STAMPS AND ENVELOPES.

| | |
|---|---|
| The number of postage stamps issued during the year, was 387,419,455, representing | $12,099,787 50 |
| Stamped envelopes, 25,040,425, representing | 724,135 00 |
| Stamped wrappers, 1,165,750, representing | 23,315 00 |
| Making in all | 12,847,437 50 |

An increase of $1,873,108 over the previous year. The amount sold was $12,399,727 85, being $1,623,138 27 more than the previous year.

The introduction of stamped envelopes bearing a request for the return to the writers of unclaimed letters has considerably increased the sale of envelopes, and is believed to have diminished the returns to the Dead Letter Office.

Business cards are printed on envelopes without additional cost when ordered in quantities not less than one thousand for the same parties.

To encourage the purchase of request envelopes, the law should be changed so as to allow the return of such letters to the writers free of postage.

As stamped envelopes are cancelled by use, and therefore safer against fraud than those with stamps attached, it is submitted whether the Postmaster General should not be authorized in his discretion to furnish them as the separate stamps are now, without reference to the cost of manufacture.

New stamps have been adopted of the denominations of 5, 10, and 25 cents for pre-paying postage on packages of newspapers, forwarded by publishers or news-dealers under the authority of law, whereby a revenue will be secured, hitherto lost to the Department.

Under the act for the relief of postmasters who have been robbed by bodies of armed men, seventy-seven cases have been decided, and allowances made to the amount of $4,207 75.

Appended hereto is a tabular statement exhibiting the annual receipts and expenditures of this Department from January 1, 1831, to June 30, 1865. The results are as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Aggregate receipts | $200,311,894 47 |
| Aggregate expenditures | 241,748,881 59 |
| Deficit | 44,436,697 12 |

Averaging as follows: Receipts, $5,806,141 87 per annum; expenditures, $7,094,170 48 per annum; deficit, $1,288,028 61 per annum.

CONTRACTS.

The mail service in operation on 30th June, 1865, embraced 6,012 routes, of the aggregate length of 142,340 miles, costing $6,246,884, (exclusive of compensation to route and other agents, amounting to $556,602 75.)

| | |
|---|---|
| Railroad, 23,401 miles, costing | $2,707,421 |
| Steamboat, 13,088 miles, costing | 359,598 |
| Celerity, &c., 105,851 miles | 3,179,865 |

The aggregate miles of transportation were 57,993,494.

| | |
|---|---|
| Railroad | 24,087,568 |
| Steamboat | 2,444,698 |
| Celerity, &c. | 31,461,430 |

The cost, per mile, for transportation by railroad was 11¼ cents; steamboat, 14¾ cents; celerity, &c., 10 cents.

The increased length of routes was 3,168 miles; of transportation, 1,678,137 miles; and of cost, $428,415.

OVERLAND SERVICE.

The overland mail service from the Missouri river to California is performed under two contracts, one from Atchison to Salt Lake City, and the other from the latter place to Folsom City. On the western division the service has been performed with reasonable regularity, while on the eastern portion it has been more or less irregular, owing, as alleged by the contractors, to high water, bad roads, and hostilities of the Indians, disappointing the expectations of the Department as to the value of the service.

RAILWAY POST OFFICES.

Railway post offices have been established on several leading railroads, and arrangements are in progress for their introduction on other lines. The result, so far, encourages the hope that the system, by accelerating the transmission of correspondence, and lessening the number of distributing offices, will be of permanent advantage to the postal interests of the country.

The work of preparing post-route maps, under the appropriation of the last Congress, is progressing favorably.

RESTORED SERVICE IN SOUTHERN STATES.

The number of routes ordered into operation in States lately in rebellion is 241; their length 18,640¼ miles; and compensation $721,949; a reduction, compared with former cost of service in those States, of $881,109 per annum. This, however, results in part from reduced service, which, if increased to the standard of frequency previous to the war, on the present rates of pay, the cost would be—

For railroad service $550,053, instead of $989,365 per annum.

For "star" service $266,848, instead of $320,025 per annum.

For steamboat service, which having been increased, estimated at former number of trips, is $63,501, instead of $293,668 per annum, making the aggregate pay pro rata for all the service $880,402, instead of $1,603,058, per annum; showing an aggregate decrease pro rata of $722,056 per annum.

Proposals have been invited by advertisement for carrying mails in Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida, from January 1, 1866, to June 30, 1867.

| | |
|---|---|
| Number of routes advertised | 852 |
| Number for which proposals were received | 517 |
| Number for which no proposals were received | 335 |
| Number of proposals accepted 232, at an aggregate of | $102,714 |
| Number of offers made by Department 235, at an aggregate of | 128,250 |

Number of proposals suspended 50, being those of certain railroads, and routes of doubtful utility.

Advertisements have been issued for carrying mails in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, from July 1, 1866, to June 30, 1867.

FOREIGN MAIL SERVICE.

The general results of the foreign service are as follows:

The aggregate postages, sea, inland, and foreign, upon the correspondence exchanged with foreign countries, amounted to $1,819,923 56; of which amount $1,449,530 76 accrued on the mails exchanged with Great Britain, France, Prussia, Bremen, Hamburg, and Belgium; $275,197 06 on the mails exchanged with the British North American Provinces; and $95,200 74 on the mails transmitted to and from the West Indies, Central and South America.

The amounts of United States postage, sea and inland, were:

| | |
|---|---|
| On the correspondence exchanged, with Great Britain and the continent of Europe | $570,156 81 |
| The British North American Provinces | 162,485 28 |
| And on West Indies, Central and South American mails | 95,200 74 |
| | $827,842 83 |

The cost of the United States trans-Atlantic service performed by steamships receiving the sea postage only was $405,479 56. Of this amount $213,330 23 was earned by the New York, Queenstown, and Liverpool (Dale) line; $71,106 70 by the Canadian line; $73,273 11 by the New York, Southampton, and Bremen; and $47,769 52 by the New York, Southampton, and Hamburg lines, respectively.

The excess of collections in this country over the postages collected abroad, upon the correspondence exchanged with Great Britain and the continent of Europe, was $411,582 32, causing balances against this Department on settlements of the quarterly accounts with the respective post departments, amounting to $232,439 55.

Additional articles to the United States and British postal convention have been executed, constituting Baltimore a new office of exchange on the side of the United States.

The service to Brazil, authorized by act of May 28, 1864, has been put into operation, the first steamship of the line having left New York with the mails for Brazil on the 30th of October last.

The contract for the mail steamship service to Japan and China was awarded, on the 28th of August last, to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, whose bid for the required service at the sum of $500,000 for twelve round trips per annum, between San Francisco and Hong Kong, touching on the outward and homeward passages, to land and receive mails, at the port of Honolulu, in the Sandwich Islands, and the port of Kanagawa, in Japan, was the only one received under the advertisement of this department inviting proposals for the service. The company are to build four-class sea-going steamships, of from 3,500 to 4,000 tons burden each, government measurement, and commence the service on or before the first of January, 1867.

During the rebellion American steamers engaged in the carrying trade between this country and Europe were withdrawn from service, resulting to the advantage of foreign lines which continued their regular voyages; and while the subsidies granted by Great Britain to the Cunard line, and by France to the line recently established between Harve and New York, materially aided those lines, it does not follow that they would not have been self-supporting, and even remunerative, without such aid; neither has this Department information warranting the conclusion that American lines would not have been sustained during the the same period under the provisions of the existing law allowing the United States postage as compensation for the service.

The subject of subsidizing American lines to British ports may be presented to Congress at its approaching session. Although in the last report the policy was commended of granting incidental aid to certain classes of new routes, as of those to Brazil and China, no modification of the system, based upon the postage earnings, was proposed in favor of established routes. The results of this system in regard to the service on new as well as old routes are encouraging. As to the new, several lines have been established since the close of the war, to which less than the postages have been allowed. As to the old, application has been made to resume service by American steamers between New York, Southampton, and Harve, for the sea and inland postage, as heretofore. Other lines to Great Britain are projected; one of which, between Baltimore and Liverpool, is in operation; and it is believed that our citizens directly interested in ocean steam navigation will establish lines at no distant time to all the important commercial ports of Europe.

APPOINTMENTS.

The number of post offices established on 30th June, 1865, including suspended offices in southern States, was 28,882; number subject to appointment by the President, 712; by the Postmaster General, 27,170.

New offices established during the year, 586; offices discontinued, 582; changes of names and sites, 200.

Appointments made to fill vacancies caused by—

| Deaths | 229 |
| Changes of names and sites | 132 |
| Establishment of new offices | 586 |
| Total appointments | 5,447 |

Number of cases acted upon, 6,097.

The number of offices in the late disloyal States is 8,902, of which 1,051 were reopened on November 15, 1865.

Number of route agents, 387; aggregate compensation, $229,522. Number of local agents, 51; aggregate compensation, $30,949. Number of special agents, 33; aggregate compensation, $82,790. Number of baggage masters, 110; aggregate compensation, $6,600. Number of postal railway clerks, 64; aggregate compensation, $75,000.

LETTER-CARRIERS.

The free-delivery system has been discontinued at 22 of the smaller offices, and is now in operation in 45 of the principal cities. The number of carriers employed was 757, at an aggregate compensation of $448,664 51.

NEW POST OFFICE BUILDING AT NEW YORK.

The attention of this Department has been again called to the subject of erecting a new post office building in the city of New York. The chamber of Commerce of that city have recently adopted a series of resolutions recommending the measure, in which it is urged that the present building, as regards its dimensions accessibility by the public, and accommodation in general, is inadequate for the proper management of the large and constantly increasing postal business centering at New York. The sanitary condition of the building and post office, employees is also reported by the medical officer as bad, owing to the want of sufficient room to accommodate the clerical force employed, and the impossibility of obtaining proper ventilation. If the proposed improvement can be made upon terms just to the government and the citizens of New York, this Department has no hesitation in commending the measure to the favor of congress.

DEAD LETTERS.

The number of dead letters received, examined, and disposed of was 4,367,087, an increase of 859,262 over the previous year.

The number containing money, and remailed to owners, was 42,154, with enclosures amounting to $244,373 97. Of these, 35,268, containing $210,954 90, were delivered, leaving 6,886 undelivered, with enclosures of the value of $33,419 07. The number containing sums less than one dollar was 16,709, amounting to $4,611 23, of which 12,698, containing $3,577 62, were delivered to the writers.

The number of registered letters and packages was 3,966.

The number of letters containing checks bills of exchange, deeds, and other papers of value, was 15,304, with a nominal value of 3,329,888, of which 13,746, containing $3,246.149, were delivered, leaving unclaimed 1,558, of the value of $83,739.

The number containing photographs, jewelry, and miscellaneous articles was 69,902. Of these, 41,600 were delivered, and 28,302 remain for disposal, or, being worthless, have been destroyed. the number of valuable letters sent out was 107,979; an increase of 38,792 over previous year.

There were returned to public offices, including franked letters, 28,677.

The number containing stamps and articles of small value was 8,289; and of unpaid and misdirected letters 166,215.

The number of ordinary dead letters returned to the writers was 1,188,599, and the number not delivered was 297,304, being about 23 per cent. of the whole. Of those not delivered, less than 4 per cent. were refused by the writers.

The number of foreign letters returned was 167,449, and the number received from foreign countries was 88,361.

In the last report the attention of Congress was called to the expediency of restoring prepaid letters to the owners free of postage. The measure is again commended, with the additional suggestion that letters be forwarded, at the request of the party addressed, from one post office to another without extra charge.

The number of letters conveyed in the mails during 1865 is estimated at 467,591,600. Of these 4,368,087 were returned to the Dead Letter office, including 566,097 army and navy letters, the non-delivery of which was not chargeable to the postal service, they having passed beyond its control into the custody of the military and naval authorities. Deducting 1,156,401 letters returned to writers, or held as valuable, the total number lost or destroyed was 2,352,424, or one in every two hundred mailed for transmission or delivery. Fully three-fourths of the letters returned as dead fail to reach the parties addressed through faults of the writers, so that the actual losses from irregularities of service and casualities, ordinary and incidental to the war, did not exceed one in every eight hundred of the estimated number intrusted to the mails.

The returns of dead letters from cities are largely in excess of proportions based upon population. To them special efforts have been directed to secure the most efficient service, and it is believed improvements in operation, chiefly that of free delivery, will diminish the number of undelivered letters at offices in densely populated districts.

The number of applications for missing letters was 8,664, an increase of 3,552 over previous year.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

Less than 25 per cent. of advertised letters are delivered. In some of the larger offices the proportion does not exceed 15 per cent. The payment of two cents for each letter advertised involves a yearly expenditure of about $60,000 for letters returned as dead to the department. Measures have been adopted to reduce the expense, and the advertising is now secured at one half the rate allowed by law. An obstacle to this economy is found in the law requiring the list of letters to be published in newspapers of largest circulation, which should be repealed, and the mode of advertising left to the discretion of the Postmaster General.

POSTAL MONEY-ORDER SYSTEM.

The number of offices is 419, including those in the Pacific States and Territories, and some of the principal offices in the southern States. Orders have been issued for putting into operation fifty-five additional offices.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| The number of money orders issued during the year was 74,277, of the value of | | $1,360,122 52 |
| The number paid was 70,573, of the value of | $1,291,792 22 | |
| Add amount repaid to purchasers | $21,784 86 | |
| | | 1,313,577 08 |
| Amount outstanding | | 46,545,44 |

The number of duplicate orders was 422. Of these, 355 were issued to replace originals lost in the mails; 63 invalidated by age; and 3 by illegal indorsements.

The receipts were:

| | |
|---|---|
| Fees on original orders | $11,462 95 |
| Fees on duplicate orders | 71 95 |
| Premium on exchange | 1 50 |
| | $11,536 40 |

The expenditures were:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Commissions to postmasters | $2,226 27 | |
| Clerk-hire | 8,350 72 | |
| Books and stationery | 5,255 00 | |
| Premiums on drafts | 91 70 | |
| Miscellaneous, including furniture and fixtures | 2,690 68 | |
| | | 18,584 37 |
| Excess of expenditures | | 7,047 97 |

This deficiency has been provided for by the appropriation of $100,000 of May last, leaving unexpended $92,952 03 applicable to any deficiency of the current year; and as the proceeds of the system will hardly equal the expenditures until it is more generally established, it is recommended that any balance remaining at the close of the present may be applied to the deficiency of the next fiscal year.

The maximum amount of money orders is $30, which may be judiciously increased to $50, and the restriction to sums not less than one dollar removed, retaining the present minimum fee.

Under the law, the owner of a lost certificate, to obtain a duplicate, must furnish a statement, under oath or affirmation, of its loss or destruction, and procure from the postmaster by whom it was payable a certificate that the order has not and will not be paid. These requirements work a hardship to the party, in that they compel him to pay the customary fee to the officer administering the oath, the cost of a revenue stamp affixed to that oath, and the payment of a second fee for the duplicate order. The loss of orders is seldom chargeable to any neglect of the owners, and postmasters should be authorized to administer oaths in cases of loss, and issue duplicate orders without charge.

The law would be further improved by extending the time within which the order may be paid to six months, the period now allowed of ninety days, being too limited for the necessary correspondence between distant points.

Losses have occurred to the amount of $645 by reason of the carelessness of remitters, the burning of steamers, and other causes not chargeable to the system.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Balances were due from southern postmasters at the outbreak of the rebellion amounting to $368,027 87, few of which have been paid. Means are being employed, through courts and other agencies, to collect the amounts due to the government.

The closing of the war brought with it the necessity of restoring the postal service in the southern States. No time was lost in offering to the citizens of those States all the facilities which they were in condition to accept. Special agents were appointed to assist in the work of restoration. The provisional governors were notified of the readiness of the Department to appoint postmasters upon their recommendation. They were also advised of its desire to put the mails on all the railroads within their respective States as soon as informed by them that the roads were ready to carry them, and the companies proper parties to intrust with their transportation. All applications for carrying the mails on land and water routes have been considered, and the service ordered at such rates of compensation as could be agreed upon.

Anticipating that the revenues from mail service in the south would be for some time considerably less than they were previous to the war, the necessity of reduced rates of compensation, and in many instances of reduced service, was obvious. This required new classifications of rates of payment to rail and water, and modifications of pay and service on land routes. Considerable reductions have been made in the maximum compensation to the first two classes of service, as the tables hereto appended exhibit. The reasonableness of these reductions has been geneally appreciated by the contractors, and the mails are being transported by rail under contracts till the expiration of the current fiscal year, and by water till the 30th of June, 1869.

Greater difficulties have been encountered on the land routes, although the maximum rates adjusted by the amount of service to be performed are equal to the average of compensation allowed previous to the rebellion, except on certain routes where the former pay was excessive, and has been reduced.

Although the service has been restored in each of the southern States, it is not so general as the Department has desired and the wants of the citizens require, because of the difficulty of procuring contractors and postmasters who can take the oath prescribed by the acts of July 2, 1862, and March 3, 1863, requiring uniform loyalty to the government during the rebellion as the condition of holding office and for the conveying of the mails.

The Post Office Department was established on the principle of defraying its expenses out of its revenues. Its financial history shows that its annual receipts have rarely equalled its expenditures. During the last year there was a surplus of revenue, a result the more gratifying because no part of the appropriation for franked matter has been drawn upon. But so favorable a result cannot be anticipated for the current year, in consequence of the expenditures, incident to restoring the service in the southern States, which promise proportionately small receipts, because of the confused condition of the commercial and industrial interests within those States. It is hoped, however, that this unhappy condition will be but temporary, and that under their improved auspices as free communities, their contributions to the postal revenues will soon exceed any in their past history.

Although, in view of the financial wants of the government and the large demand for postal expenditures in the southern States, this Department could but deem unwise any present reduction of domestic postage, it appreciates the duty of the government to lessen all postage rates to the minimum of not preventing the Department to support itself from its revenues, and it perceives no reason why, in a few years, with our rapidly increasing prosperity, aided by judicious legislation, a reduction may not be made to the maximum letter rate adopted by Great Britain with such beneficent results. Moreover, the hope is indulged that the experience of European governments will concur with that of this, in favor of an early reduction of the present high rates of international postage, which are greatly disproportioned to the necessary cost of the intermediate land and ocean transportation, and serious obstacles to postal intercourse, commercial and social, between this country and all parts of Europe.

Among the many remarkable facts illustrating the progress of the people of the loyal States during the rebellion, in almost every Department of material development and social advancement, having no precedent in history, and confounding the predictions of all having little faith in the vitality of free institutions and the resources of a free people, that of the increase of postal correspondence, as shown by the postal revenues, is not the least interesting and suggestive. The maximum annual receipts of this Department previous to the rebellion from all the States was $8,518,067 40, which was exceeded in the sum of $6,038,091 30 by the receipts of the last year from the loyal States alone. The revenues during the past four years amounted to $46,458,022 97, an average of $11,614,505 74 per annum. Compared with the receipts of the four years immediately preceding, which amounted to $32,322,640 73, the annual average increase of revenue was $3,533,845 56, which has not resulted from any considerable additions to the service, the ratio of receipts to expenditures having been larger than, with few exceptions, at any previous period. A proper regard to economy in administration, aided by larger contributions from all the States of the Union, will enable the Department to increase its usefulness from year to year in all of its legitimate functions. But it must not be overlooked that the ability to fully perform its mission as the postal agent of the government is greatly impaired by the burdens imposed by the franking privilege, and expensive service upon routes established for other than postal purposes, the receipts from which are largely unremunerative. However much the establishment of these routes is to be commended for national objects in which regard they command the approval of the country, it is not possible to see upon what principle they are wholly chargeable to the postal fund, which belongs to those by whom it has been contributed, and is pledged to meet the wants of the postal service.

The subjoined table illustrates the misapplication of the postal fund:

| Routes. | Pay. | Receipts. | Excess of Pay. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Salt Lake City to Folsom | $385,000 00 | $23,934 44 | $726,065 56 |
| Atchison to Salt Lake | 365,000 00 | | |
| Kansas City to Santa Fe | 35,743 00 | 6,336 57 | 29,206 43 |
| Lincoln to Portland | 225,000 00 | 24,791 67 | 200,208 33 |
| The Dalles to Salt Lake | 180,000 00 | 5,660 77 | 180,339 23 |
| Total 1,196,744 00 | $1,190,743 00 | $60,923 45 | $1,135,819 55 |

These are instructive facts, showing how largely the revenues of this Department are drawn upon for general objects of administration not properly chargeable to the postal fund. If to this be added the revenue which would accrue upon "free matter," charged with existing rates of postage, less the sum annually appropriated therefor, it is estimated that not less than two millions of dollars per annum are lost to the Department, preventing an enlargement of mail accommodations to that extent in those States from which the postal revenues are mainly derived.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM DENNISON,
Postmaster General.

THE PRESIDENT.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
October 25, 1861.

DEAR SIR,—I consider the U. S. MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT a valuable and meritorious publication, useful alike to this Department, to Postmasters throughout the country, and to the public. It is my wish to see it generally circulated among postmasters and others, and I shall with pleasure extend to you every proper facility for enlarging the sphere of its official usefulness, and the range of its circulation. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.
To. J. HOLBROOK, Special Agent P. O. Department.

The following Official Order has also been made by the Postmaster General:

Ordered, That the Assistant Postmasters General, and Chief Clerk of this Department, each cause to be furnished from time to time to J. Holbrook, for publication in the "United States Mail," all such new orders or regulations of the Department touching the business of the several bureaus as may be of general importance or interest as soon as practicable after the same shall have been promulgated or established. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington Oct. 13, 1864.

DEAR SIR.—I have no hesitation in adding my endorsement to that of my predecessor, Postmaster General BLAIR, to the usefulness of the "UNITED STATES MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT," as a medium of communicating correct information to Postmasters and others respecting postal operations, and cheerfully recommend it to the favor and support of Postmasters and other agents of the Department. W. DENNISON.
Postmaster General.
To J. GAYLER, Esq., Editor U. S. Mail.

Special Notice to Subscribers.

Each wrapper enclosing a copy of the Mail bears a number in addition to the address. This number signifies that the term for which the subscription is paid expires with the corresponding whole number of the paper. Subscribers will please take this as a notification to forward the subscription for another year, when due, if they intend to renew. Those whom this number reaches, marked 62 or 63, will please remit at once.

☞ Although it is our desire and endeavor that our paper should appear on the first of each month, yet it is sometimes, owing to various circumstances, impossible to secure that result. Important changes in the laws and regulations occasionally occur at such times as to require, for the benefit of our readers, that our issue should be postponed for a few days in order to enable us to lay the details of such changes before them at as early a date as possible, instead of allowing a month to elapse before their publication. Our subscribers will therefore readily understand that a short delay in receiving their papers is sometimes unavoidable, and that when such delay occurs, it is the result of a desire to give them advantage of the latest official information on the postal matters.

☞ There are no changes to note in our Table of Foreign Postages this month.

☞ Several interesting letters from correspondents are crowded out by the Report of the Postmaster General.

☞ We are asked by several route agents and others to once more call the attention of postmasters and assistants to the late instructions of the Postmaster General, which require the wrapping of letter packages by postmasters whose offices are not supplied by the Railway post offices.

ILLEGAL FRANKING.—Publishers of newspapers ought to understand that no specimen copies of their papers—nor any other printed matter not issued by authority of Congress—can be legally sent free in the mails under the frank of a member of Congress. We presume that those Congressmen who give their franks for this purpose are newly elected, and have not yet found time to learn the limits of their franking privilege.

HOPE FOR NEW YORK.—By a paragraph in the Postmaster General's Report, it will be seen that the subject of a proposed new post office building in the city of New York, is once more brought to the attention of Congress; and it is to be hoped that the result will be the substitution of an edifice for that purpose, in some degree suitable, in size, architecture and internal arrangement, to the wants of that not unimportant town, in place of the unsightly, inconvenient, and altogether disgraceful structure which at present is made to serve as the post office there.

POST OFFICE DEPREDATIONS.—We regret to be obliged to notice the fact that arrests for depredations upon the mails have of late become quite frequent. We do not care to fill our columns with the sad record of temptation, crime, detection and ruin, which form the details of these cases; but we should be glad if in some way the terrible consequences of a violation of the sanctity of the mails by those in whose charge they are placed could be brought visibly and practically to the attention of all who are liable to the temptation. We cannot help thinking that the pitiable spectacle presented by one who has been suddenly checked in such a career of crime by the detection which is sure to come, sooner or later, to all who pursue it, would have more effect in preventing those whose integrity might be wavering, from the commission of similar offences, and confirming the upright in a determination to "hold fast to their honor" than the printed details of a thousand arrests.

The Postmaster General's Report.

Nearly the whole of the Report of the Postmaster General will be found on the first page of our present number. It certainly exhibits a most gratifying view of the postal affairs of the country, and contains many valuable and timely suggestions, besides being an admirable summary of the operations of the Department during the year. The subject of the restoration of mail service in the Southern States of course occupies a considerable portion of the report, and the results of the labors which that important duty has entailed upon the Department are given in detail, and give promise of an early resumption of the postal facilities in that section of our own country which was so long deprived of them—and this at a considerable reduction in cost compared with that of the same service in former years. The just and pertinent concluding remarks of Gov. Dennison, in regard to the obstacles to increased efficiency of the mail service which are found in "the burdens imposed by the franking privilege, and expensive service upon routes established for other than postal purposes," contain the statement of a fact hitherto not sufficiently known or appreciated, and which will specially commend itself to the attention of all interested in postal matters.

The Report will be found an able and interesting document, and we trust none of our readers—especially those officially connected with the Department, will omit its perusal.

New Stamped Envelopes.

The Post Office Department is now prepared to furnish stamped envelopes of the denominations of 9, 12, 18, 24, 30, and 40 cents. These envelopes are intended specially to cover correspondence to be carried outside of the mail by Express companies and others. The law requires that such matter can only be so carried when enclosed in stamped envelopes of denominations in value sufficient to cover the postage thereon. The use of adhesive postage stamps to make up the proper amount when matter carried outside the mail is enclosed in stamped envelopes of insufficient value, will not answer the requirements of the law. One of the largest of our Express Companies has already given a heavy order for these new envelopes, and all others who may require them will do well to obtain a supply at once.

☞ Mr. Day, the superintendent of the Rome and Watertown R. R., has set an example to railway managers which we hope to see universally copied. At an expense of six or seven thousand dollars, he has built and placed upon that road a car, one-half of which is devoted to post office purposes, and the other half for a smoking room. The part of the car used by the mail agent is fitted up in elegant style, with boxes, drawers, closets, &c., elaborately finished, and exquisitely painted and ornamented. It is likewise provided with expensive lamps, stove, lounge, raised deck, and modern ventilators, and altogether is as convenient and comfortable as it could be made. The exterior is lightly painted, and presents a very attractive appearance. Mr. Day has taken a step in the right direction, and, in addition to his efficiency as a railroad superintendent, his liberality evidences the fact that he has a proper appreciation of the importance of the mail service, and commendable regard for the safety and comfort of its agents.

☞ Captain S. L. Phelps, a resident of Ohio, and for twenty-five years past of the United States Navy, was yesterday appointed by the Postmaster General a special agent for the government, to accompany the Pacific mail steamships, under the contract a few weeks ago entered into, and look to the interests of the United States in the execution of the agreement between the mail company and the government. Captain Phelps will leave Boston on the 6th of December for England, thence for China, and return by the Pacific route.

DEATH OF HON. JACOB COLLAMER.—On the 9th ult., the Hon Jacob Collamer, the well-known and greatly respected Senator from Vermont, died at Woodstock, in that State, at the age of 73. He was first elected to Congress, as Representative, in 1843, and re-elected several times thereafter. In March, 1849, he was appointed Postmaster General by President Taylor, but resigned on the death of the President. In 1854 he was elected U. S. Senator, which office he held up to the time of his death, being also Chairman of the Senate Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads. He was a man of clear and acute intellect and of great integrity of character.

MAIL POUCH ROBBERS.—Quite a number of these gentry have been operating with some success lately, and it will be well for route agents, mail carriers, and all in charge of mail pouches in transit, to exercise special vigilance and care in the performance of their duties, at the present time.

☞ N. G. ORDWAY, Esq., late Special Agent of the Post Office Department for the New England States, has been re-elected to the office—which he most acceptably filled during the last session of Congress—of Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives.

☞ On Saint Valentine's Day, 1864, upwards of 453,000 letters were dispatched from London, and 504,000 were delivered by the carriers.

☞ In 1683 Robert Murray, a tradesman of London, established a penny post for that city and suburbs, and he carried it on for several years. This was the model for Mr. Hill's postage system.

☞ Lady Herbert, a great grand-daughter of Lord Clive, is said to have the best collection of postage stamps in the world, it containing every postal ever issued, and all of them unused. Every country is graced by the autograph and portrait of its ruler.

ADVENTURES OF A NEWSPAPER.—An apprentice lad on board an English vessel in Calcutta had lately a packet presented to him through the post office, the postage of which amounted to 20 rupees, or about £2 sterling. It merely contained a newspaper, which some friend of his in London had enclosed in half a sheet of paper, and addressed to him when his vessel was in London, expecting that it would find him at St. Katharine's dock. His vessel, however, sailed before the letter could be delivered, and it followed him—first to Hobart Town, next to Sydney, thence to Bombay, Madras, and Calcutta, thence to the Mauritius, and finally back to Calcutta, when it caught him, after having travelled thirty thousand miles, and occupied on its tour one year and eight months.

CURIOUS POST OFFICE.—Many years ago, at the desolate island of Ascension, in the Atlantic, between Africa and Brazil, there was a peculiar crevice in a large rock termed the Sailor's Post-Office, in which the crews of vessels passing to India or returning, left such letters as they wished to send back, and which were punctually taken to their destination by the next ship that passed in a contrary way.

☞ In some parts of Germany a letter, besides the regular postage, is liable to a tax of ¼ sgr. for bringing the letter from the post office to the recipient's house. This tax is called Bestellgeld, and in Hanover may be prepaid by an envelope bearing a circular stamp pressed in the corner, and having the inscription "Bestellgeld frei." They enable the sender to pay his letter direct to the hand of the person to whom it is sent.

Answers to Correspondents.

Written Communications and Printed Matter.—R. C., K. G——, Ohio.—You were right in charging letter postage on a book which contained writing in regard to "compliments," or anything else written on the fly-leaf, see Section 130, Regulations of 1859.

Forwarding Registered Letters.—J. E. D., N——, Ct.—Registered letters can only be forwarded on the written order of the person to whom they are addressed. If a registered letter reaches your office directed to a (removed) party whose present address you know with certainty, there would be no objection to your addressing the postmaster of that place, notifying him of the fact, that he may inform the party, upon whose order then you could forward the registered letter, charging it with the additional postage.

Registered Letter Bills, &c.—A. G. B., A——, Ohio.—1. Registered letter bills are sent to the Department at the end of each quarter. 2. In counting "the letters received for delivery during the last week in each quarter," no account will be taken of the amount of postage paid thereon, but simply of the number of letters.

Return Letters.—A. E. M., N——, Ohio.—Return letters may be forwarded, on request, in the same manner as ordinary letters, charged with an additional rate of postage, besides what may be already due thereon.

Registration Fees.—T. B., R——, Ohio.—Postmasters are not entitled to any portion of the fees received for registering letters.

Mutilated Currency.—R. W. H., C——, Illinois.—The Post Office Department does not redeem mutilated currency. It should be sent (in sums not less than three dollars) either to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C., or to an Ass't. Treasurer of the United States at any city where such an office may be stationed.

Unpaid Drop Letters, &c.—M. D. H., W——, Penn.—Unpaid drop letters cannot be delivered, but must be sent to the Dead Letter Office, as per instructions under Sec. 1 Act of May 1, 1865. All domestic letters must be prepaid one full rate, by stamps, or they cannot be legally forwarded in the mails, and all such letters prepaid less than one rate are to be treated as wholly unpaid.

Unpaid Letters from England, &c.—G. L., F——, N. C.—See paragraph headed "Collections in Coin," under head of "Miscellaneous Information," in another column of this paper.

Examining Packages of Printed Matter, &c.—J. P., A——, Ohio.—Postmasters at offices of delivery are authorized to remove wrappers from printed and other matter not charged with letter postage nor lawfully forwarded, in order to detect enclosures of printed communications, &c. We have no means of knowing what is the prospect of the passage of such a law as you refer to.

Postage on Drop Letters.—G. A. H., L——, Penn.—The rate of postage on drop letters, at offices where there is no free delivery by carrier, is one cent, always to be prepaid by stamps of that denomination, which can be procured by postmasters on application to the Department.

Letters to Different Persons in One Envelope.—J. G. P., R——, Mass.—Enclosing two or more written (or partly written) notifications, addressed to different persons, in one envelope, and depositing the same in a post office, is, in our opinion (unless the same be addressed to a foreign country), a violation of the postal laws.

Transient Newspapers from Canada.—H. K. C., M——, Mich.—Two cents per four ounces is to be collected on all transient newspapers arriving from Canada. A one-cent U. S. stamp affixed to them cannot be regarded as payment of this postage.

Postage to Dutch Guiana.—A. D. B. P——, N. J.—The postage to Dutch Guiana is 33 cents per half ounce. See "West Indies—not British," Table of Foreign Postages.

Opening and Delivering Mails.—J. C. B., F——, Ill.—The mail should be opened and delivered as soon as received, if it arrives during the business hours of the office. At offices on other than railroad and steamboat routes, seven minutes are allowed by regulation for opening and closing the mail.

"Articles of Iron" in the Mails.—C. P. S. W., L——, N. H.—The articles you mention, when sent in the mails, are subject to letter rates of postage.

Newspapers to Chili.—G. P. B., W——, Mass.—The postage on newspapers to Chili, South America, is six cents each—consequently, five newspapers cannot be sent there for less than thirty cents.

Collecting Newspaper Postage.—W. W., L——, Ill.—You should deliver newspapers to all subscribers who can show a receipt for the postage from your predecessor, or who you are satisfied have paid him the postage in advance.

Mails from Separating Offices.—E. Y. S. N. Y.—The mails must always be carried in a locked pouch. If this is done we see no objection to its being carried at the time, and by the persons, you mention.

Forwarding Unpaid Foreign Letters.—E. R. B., C——, Ct.—In forwarding unpaid foreign letters, you will charge on the bill the postage due thereon, and enter the amount to your own credit in Article 10 of the Quarterly Account. In Article 11, you will credit yourself with the unpaid postage due on the uncalled-for letters sent by you to the Dead Letter Office.

Registering Letters.

"It is of the utmost importance that postmasters should exercise the greatest care and diligence in the custody and despatch of registered letters."—Instructions issued by Postmaster General with Act of March 3, 1863.

[We have compiled from the regulations of the Department the following instructions in regard to the registration of letters. They are intended specially for the benefit of postmasters at the smaller offices, and include replies to many questions on this subject, which we are constantly receiving from our subscribers.]

REGISTERED LETTER BLANKS.—All the blanks which are required for use in the registration of letters can be obtained by addressing the Blank Agents of the Department, whose names and addresses will be found in another column.

REGISTRATION FEES.—The registration fee on all registered domestic letters is twenty cents, and the same on letters to Great Britain and Ireland. On those to Canada, and to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line, or by Prussian closed mail, the fee is five cents. The places mentioned above are the only foreign countries to which letters can be sent registered. The full postage on all registered letters, both foreign and domestic, must be prepaid by stamps.—(See last column of fourth page of this paper.)

RECEIVING LETTERS FOR REGISTRATION.—A sheet is furnished by the Blank Agents, on application by postmasters, on the right hand of which is printed the form of "Registered Letter Receipt," in the centre the "Return Registered Letter Receipt," and on the left hand the "Marginal Entry." When a letter is presented for registration, the postmaster should give to the depositor the registered letter receipt, (right hand) first entering therein the registered number of the letter, the date of deposit, the name of his post office, the name and residence of the depositor, and the address of the letter. In the Return Registered Letter Receipt, (centre) should be entered the same items, and also in the Marginal Entry, (left hand.) This latter is to be retained by the postmaster, and the return receipt disposed of as hereinafter directed. No entry of the sum said to be contained in the letter is required to, or should, be made.

PREPARING REGISTERED LETTERS FOR MAILING.—After the above directions have been followed, the postmaster will fill up a "Registered Letter Bill," (which is printed on the back of the ordinary post-bills headed "Unpaid Letters," which are supplied to all small offices,) entering therein the same items which are entered in the "Return Receipt:" but being careful, when intending to forward the registered letter through a Distributing Post Office, to insert the name of that office instead of that of the office which the letter is intended finally to reach. (In all cases, however, the "Return Receipt" must be filled up with the name of the office of final destination.) Then he will fill up the "Return Bill," (which must not be confounded with the "Return Receipt") in the same manner; then enclose the letter, the "Registered Letter Bill" and the "Return Receipt" in a sealed envelope, marked "Reg." or "Registered," and addressed to the postmaster of the office to which he intends to forward it.—[N. B. The instruction printed on the present "Registered Letter Bills," to the effect that postmasters are "not required to put up registered letters in a separate envelope," &c., has been rescinded by the Department, and all registered letters are now required to be so put up.] Then he will enclose it in a wrapper, marked with the name of the same office to which he has addressed the envelope in which he has placed the letter. The package should then be placed in the mail and sent forward—but should never be placed in a bundle of letters intended for distribution—as a registered letter is always intended to reach the postmaster of whatever office it is sent to, and consequently is not, strictly speaking, a distribution letter, although it may be sent to a Distributing Office.

MAILING REGISTERED LETTERS.—It is advisable for postmasters, at all small offices, to mail such of their registered letters as are intended for offices outside of their respective States, to the first Distributing Post Office on the route over which it is intended the letters shall pass—being careful to address the sealed envelope in which they enclose them, to the postmaster of that office, and also marking the name of that office on the wrapper, and being sure that the "Registered Letter Bill" is also filled up with the name of that office. In short, registered letters sent through a Distributing Post Office, should be mailed and billed exactly the same as though they were intended for delivery there. It is only when registered letters are sent direct that the bill should be filled up with the name of the office of final destination.

THE "RETURN BILL."—This should be filled up exactly in the same manner, and bear the same date as the "Registered Letter Bill," but should be sent in the next mail which leaves the office after the one in which the letter it refers to was sent. It should be enclosed in an envelope addressed to the postmaster of the same office to which the letter was sent, whether for delivery or for distribution.

ACCOUNTS OF REGISTERED LETTERS "SENT" AND "RECEIVED."—Separate blank sheets for these accounts are furnished by the Department, and may be procured by application to the different Blank Agents. On these are entered the dates of receiving (and sending) registered letter bills, the names of the offices to which the letters are sent (and from which they are received,) the registered numbers of the letters, the names of the persons to whom they are addressed, and the amounts of the registry fees paid on them. These sheets will be retained by postmasters, copies being forwarded to the Department with the Quarterly Accounts.

DELIVERY OF REGISTERED LETTERS.—On receiving a registered letter for delivery, the postmaster should deliver it only to the person to whom it is addressed, or to some person whom he knows to be authorized to receive it, taking a receipt therefor, and also requiring the person to whom he delivers it to sign the "Return Receipt" which accompanies it. This "Return Receipt" he should then forward by first mail to the postmaster of the office at which the letter was originally mailed. When the "Return Bill" arrives, (which it should by next mail after the letter,) it should be marked "correct," and signed by the postmaster, and then forwarded by first mail to the postmaster of the office at which it is dated, whether that be a Distributing Office or the one at which the letter was originally mailed. If, however, a "Return Bill" arrives, and the letter which it calls for has not been received, the "Return Bill" must be marked "not received," signed by the postmaster, and returned in the same manner.

FORWARDING REGISTERED LETTERS.—When a registered letter arrives, addressed to a person who has removed, or who for any other cause wishes it forwarded to him at another office, it may be done at his written request. The order to forward should be noted on the account of registered letters received, opposite the name of the person making the request. The letter should then be sent forward as a registered letter—in the same manner as if originally mailed as one; but no additional registry fee is to be charged on it. The order to forward must be filed in the office of forwarding, as a voucher for the action had in the case.

Miscellaneous Information.

Dead Letters.

By the instructions under the postal laws, UNMAILABLE LETTERS are specified to be—

Letters attempted to be sent with stamps previously used, or stamps cut from stamped envelopes.

Unpaid letters for foreign countries, on which prepayment is required by the regulations.

Letters not addressed, or so badly addressed that their destination cannot be known.

Letters misdirected to places where there are no post offices.

Civilian's letters, (domestic) wholly unpaid, (including unpaid drop letters.)

Only such letters as are herein described are, when deposited in any post office, to be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office; all others must be dispatched to their destination, charged with the amount of unpaid postage.

When unmailable letters are sent to the Dead Letter Office, the specific reason therefor must be endorsed upon the envelope of each.

These instructions will be strictly followed at all post offices.

For more full instructions relating to dead letters, advertising letters, &c., examine carefully the 7th and 8th Sections of the Act of 3d March, 1863, and the instructions attached thereto, also, Sec. 1, Act of March 3, 1865.

Foreign Letters, &c.

RULE FOR RATING LETTERS TO GREAT BRITAIN, &C.

The attention of postmasters is particularly called to the mode of rating postage upon letters exchanged in the mails between this country and the United Kingdom, which differs essentially from the United States domestic scale, when the weight of the packet or letter exceeds one ounce.

The scale of progression adopted for letters exchanged with the United Kingdom is as follows, viz.:

One rate for a single letter not exceeding ½ oz. in weight.

Two rates when over ½, but not exceeding 1 ounce.

Four rates when over 1, but not exceeding 2 ounces.

Six rates when over 2, but not exceeding 3 ounces; and so on, charging two additional rates for each additional ounce or fraction of an ounce.

Thus, a letter to Great Britain, weighing 4½ ounces, should be paid $2.40, being chargeable as five ounces, or ten rates; but if $2.16 (nine rates only) are paid, owing to an omission to count the fraction as a full ounce, it then goes as unpaid, and the $2.16 is lost to the writer of the letter. These letters (and all other part paid letters to foreign countries) are treated as wholly unpaid, and the amount paid lost to the sender.

In no case should 3, 5 or 7 rates be collected upon a letter or packet addressed to the United Kingdom, the proper charges being either 1, 2, 4, 6, 8 rates, &c., according to weight.

Notwithstanding the explicit instructions of the Department on this subject, it is found that many postmasters are in the practice of charging postage upon letters and packets for the United Kingdom according to our domestic scale, (viz.: one rate for each half ounce or fraction of half an ounce,) and thus insufficient amounts of postage are frequently prepaid, which are entirely lost to the senders, as no account is taken of short payments of postage.

Letters to foreign countries, where prepayment of postage is compulsory, when insufficiently paid are sent to the Dead Letter Office, to be opened and returned to the writers, and are thereby delayed one or two mails, and, no doubt, in many cases, causing serious loss and annoyance to the writers.

REGISTERING FOREIGN LETTERS.—Letters can be registered in the United States for Great Britain and Ireland, for Germany, or any part of the German Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen, Hamburg, or Prussian closed mails. Letters to Canada can be registered, but not to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, or Prince Edward's Island. Postmasters will, therefore, decline to register letters addressed to other foreign countries.

The registry fee to be charged on registered letters to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, via Bremen or Hamburg, or by Prussian closed mail, and to Canada, is five cents—to Great Britain and Ireland, twenty cents. All registered letters must be prepaid in full to destination. See "Foreign Miscellany" on fourth page of this paper, for full information in regard to rating all foreign letters.

Our Postal Convention with the United Kingdom, provides that each country shall levy and collect its postage only, on newspapers, at the rate of two cents each, whether they are sent or received. Hence, newspapers received in this country from Great Britain come prepaid the British postage only, and postmasters must be particular, in all cases, to collect the United States charge of two cents on their delivery.

CANADIAN CORRESPONDENCE.—Irregularities having arisen in respect to Canadian correspondence, these directions must hereafter be observed:

Letters addressed to Canada must be mailed to a United States Exchange Office. Letters cannot be sent direct to Post Offices in Canada.

The postage on a single letter to and from Canada is 10 cents, prepayment optional; but the whole postage must be prepaid or none. Part prepayments are not recognized. Prepayments must be made by United States postage stamps—not in money.

A postmaster may frank a letter to Canada same as to any point in the United States; but it is optional for the Canadian P. O. Department to deliver such letter free, or charge full postage on it, at its pleasure.

COLLECTIONS IN COIN.—In pursuance of the provisions of a resolution of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails despatched to this country from Great Britain and Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen, or Belgium, are collected in gold or silver coin. Should, however, payment of such postage, and of the premium on a corresponding amount of coin, be tendered in United States notes, the same is to be accepted in lieu of coin. The amount to be collected in U. S. notes, (in case coin is not offered,) is marked on each letter on its arrival at U. S. Exchange Offices, and if charged in the post-bills. Hence, when coin is collected at the office of delivery, the difference should be entered in the account of Mails Received as an overcharge.

The above applies exclusively to the mails received from the countries mentioned

On out-going letters the former regulations remain unchanged, and, when prepaid, the regular rates (in currency) only are to be collected.

Mail Bags and Locks.

DEPOSITORIES.—The following post offices are constituted depositories for mail Bags and Locks, viz:

Postmasters in either of these States, wanting blanks of any kind should address "A. F. Lee, Blank Agent, Buffalo, N. Y.

When the postages collected at an office amount to $100 a year, the name of the postmaster and of his office will be printed on the post bills. When the postmaster's compensation exceeds $12 50 a quarter, the postmaster is entitled to wrapping paper and twine, at the above agencies.

Applications for blank registers of arrival and departure of the mails must be made direct to the "Inspection office." For special Instructions, to the First Assistant Postmaster General.

All postmasters whose compensation is less than $12 50 per quarter, can purchase a reasonable quantity of wrapping paper and twine, provided the net proceeds of the office exceed twenty dollars per year.

MODE OF INDICATING THE PREPAYMENT OF POSTAGE UPON LETTERS RECEIVED FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

When the United States official postage entries on the letters received from Great Britain or the Continent of Europe, are in red ink, the letter is to be considered as paid, and is to be delivered accordingly; when in black ink, as unpaid, and the postage is to be collected on delivery. The postage on such letters is either wholly paid or wholly unpaid. Postmasters can readily decide any question as to prepayment, by this simple criterion.

Domestic Postages.

The law requires postage on all letters, (including those to foreign countries when prepaid,) excepting those written to the President or Vice-President, or members of Congress, or, (on official business) to the chiefs of the executive departments of the government, and the heads of bureaus and chief clerks, and others invested with the franking privilege, to be prepaid by stamps or stamped envelopes, prepayment in money being prohibited.

All drop letters must be prepaid. The rate of postage on drop letters, at offices where free delivery by carrier is established, is two cents per half ounce or fraction of a half ounce; at offices where such free delivery is not established, the rate is 1 ct.

The single rate of postage on all domestic mail letters throughout the United States is three cents per half ounce, with an additional rate of three cents for each additional half ounce or fraction of a half ounce. The ten cent (Pacific) rate is abolished.

RATES OF LETTER POSTAGE BETWEEN OFFICES IN THE UNITED STATES, AND TO AND FROM CANADA AND OTHER BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES

To and from Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., irrespective of distance.

To and from other British N. Am. Provinces,

| | |
|---|---|
| for distance not over 3,000 miles. | 10 cts. |
| For any distance over 3,000 miles | 15 " |

For every additional half ounce, or fraction of a half ounce, an additional rate is charged. Prepayment is optional on all letters for the British North American Provinces except Newfoundland, to which prepayment is compulsory.

Letter postage is to be charged on all handbills, circulars, or other printed matter which shall contain any manuscript writing whatever.

Daguerreotypes, when sent in the mail, are to be charged with letter postage by weight.

Photographs on cards, paper, and other flexible material, (not in cases,) can be sent at the same rate as miscellaneous printed matter—viz., two cents for each four ounces or fraction thereof.

Photographic Albums are chargeable with book postage—four cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof.

Newspaper Postage.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Postage on Daily Papers to subscribers when prepaid quarterly or yearly in advance, either at the mailing office or office of delivery, per quarter, (three months) | | | 35 cts. |
| Six times per week, | " | " | 30 " |
| For Tri-Weekly, | " | " | 15 " |
| For Semi-Weekly, | " | " | 10 " |
| For Weekly, | " | " | 5 " |

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS (one copy only) sent by the publisher to actual subscribers within the county where printed and published, free.

POSTAGE PER QUARTER (to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance) on NEWSPAPERS and PERIODICALS issued less frequently than once a week, sent to actual subscribers in any part of the U. S.:

| | |
|---|---|
| Semi-monthly, not over 4 oz. | 6 cts. |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 12 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 18 " |
| Monthly, not over 4 oz. | 3 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 6 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 9 " |
| Quarterly, not over 4 oz. | 1 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 2 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 3 " |

Quarterly postage cannot be paid for less than three months. If a subscription begins at any other time than the commencement of an official quarter, the postage received by the p. m. must still be entered in his account for that quarter. Subscribers for short terms—exceeding three months, say four or five months—can pay quarterly postage for the actual term of their subscriptions—that is for one quarter and a third, one quarter and two-thirds, &c. The law only requires that at least one quarter's postage shall be prepaid, and not more than one year's postage. Any term between one quarter and one year can therefore be prepaid at proportionate rates.

PUBLISHERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS may send to each other from their respective offices of publication, free of postage, one copy of each publication, and may also send to each actual subscriber, inclosed in their publications, bills and receipts for the same, free of postage. They may also state on their respective publications, the date when the subscription expires, to be written or printed.

Religious, Educational and Agricultural Newspapers of small size, issued less frequently than once a week, may be sent in packages to one address at the rate of one cent for each package not exceeding four ounces in weight, and an additional charge of one cent is made for each additional four ounces or fraction thereof, the postage to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance.

NEWSDEALERS may send newspapers and periodicals to regular subscribers at the quarterly rates, in the same manner as publishers, and may also receive them from publishers at subscribers' rates. In both cases the postage to be prepaid, either at the mailing or delivery office.

Publications issued without disclosing the office of publication, or containing a fictitious statement thereof, must not be forwarded by postmasters unless prepaid at the mailing office at the rates of transient printed matter.

Postage on Transient Printed Matter.

[All printed matter (except single copies of news papers, magazines and periodicals to regular subscribers) sent via Overland Mail, is to be charged at letter postage rates.]

BOOKS, not over 4 oz. in weight, to one address, 4 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 8 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 12 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 16 cts.

CIRCULARS, not exceeding three in number, to one address, 2 cts.; over three and not over six, 4 cts.; over six and not over nine, 6 cts.; over nine and not exceeding twelve, 8 cts.

ON MISCELLANEOUS MAILABLE MATTER, (embracing all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, handbills and posters, book manuscripts and proof-sheets, whether corrected or not, maps, prints, engravings, sheet music, blanks, flexible patterns, samples and sample cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes or wrappers, cards, paper, plain or ornamental, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, and scions,) the postage to be pre-paid by stamps, is, on one package to one address, not over 4 oz. in weight, 2 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 4 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 6 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 8 cts.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General, the fifth subdivision of the 42d instruction of the new Post Office Law, has been amended by striking out the word twelve and inserting thirty-two before the word ounces, so that it shall read as follows—"The weight of packages of seeds, cuttings, roots and scions, to be franked, is limited to thirty-two ounces."

All mail matter not sent at letter rates of postage, embracing books, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, and other printed matter, and all other mail matter except seeds, must be so wrapped or enveloped with open sides or ends as to enable the postmaster to examine the package without destroying the wrapper, otherwise such packages must be rated with letter postage. No communication, whether in writing or in print, can be sent with any seeds, roots, cuttings or scions, maps, engravings or other matter not printed, except upon the seperate payment of postage upon each seperate matter at the established rates.

Exchange newspapers and periodicals cannot be re-mailed without being chargeable with postage.

Where packages of newspapers or periodicals are received at any post office directed to one address and the names of the club of subscribers to which they belong, with the postage for a quarter in advance, shall be handed to the postmaster, he shall deliver the same to their respective owners. But this does not apply to weekly newspapers which circulate free in the county where printed and published.

Weekly newspapers and all other printed matter to the British North American Provinces, although sent from countries bordering on the line, are chargeable with the same rates as when sent to any point in the United States.

☞ All transient matter must be prepaid by stamps. But if it comes to the office of delivery without prepayment, or short-paid, the unpaid postage must be collected on delivery at double the prepaid rate. Great neglect exists in the strict quarterly prepayment of postage on printed matter sent to regular subscribers. No such paper should be delivered, unless it is either prepaid at the mailing office, or at the delivery office for at least a quarter. If not so prepaid, postmasters must collect postage on each copy as on transient matter. If they fail, they will be charged with the full postage due, and in clear cases removed from office for neglect.

To inclose or conceal a letter or other thing (except bills and receipts for subscription) in, or to write or print anything, after its publication, upon any newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, is illegal, and subjects such printed matter, and the entire package of which it is a part, to letter postage.

Any word or communication, whether by printing, writing, marks or signs, upon the cover or wrapper of a newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, other than the name and address of the person to whom it is to be sent, and the date when subscription expires, subjects the package to letter postage.

RATES OF POSTAGE ON PRINTED MATTER FOR FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Five cents for each package of the weight of one ounce or fraction of an ounce, and so on, in the same proportion, for packages of greater weight. Prepayment required.

The above rates are in full of the postage to destination. In like manner similar printed matter received from Belgium, come fully paid, and is to be delivered without charge.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

DEXHEIMER'S COMBINED STAMPING CUSHION AND PAD.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington, August 9, 1865.

SIR—Your favor of the 28th ult., with model of a new Stamping Tablet and Cushion, is received. The merit of your invention is perceptible at a glance, and has my hearty approval. The plan of its arrangement, together with its compact and portable form, are such as to recommend it to general use. I have no doubt, that its adoption by postmasters would tend to give a plainer post-mark upon letters, as well as a better defacement of the postage stamp. You have, therefore, the best wishes of this Department for its introduction among the various post offices of the country.

Very respectfully,
A. N. ZEVELY,
3d Ass't Postmaster General.

CHRISTIAN DEXHEIMER,
Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The inventor of the combined Stamping Cushion and Pad, above referred to, is now prepared to furnish the same, "ready for use," to postmasters and others at the following rates:

No. 1, $6.00; No. 2, $3.50. Also, the best prepared Stamping Ink furnished by the pound or less.

CHR. DEXHEIMER,
Post Office Clerk,

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

TO THE BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

Cape Breton, Pr'e Edward's Island, and Nova Scotia. To Newfoundland prepayment required. To Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., any distance. } * 10 cents when not over 3,000 miles from the line of crossing. * 15 cents when distance exceeds 3,000 miles. Prepayment optional.

Steamers of the Cunard line sail from Boston twice each month, touching at Halifax, and when letters are sent by that conveyance for Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Prince Edward's Island, the U. S. postage is 5 cents the single rate, to be prepaid. The inland rate is collected on delivery. On newspapers by this route, the postage is two cents each.

Newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and sent to regular subscribers in the British North American Provinces, or published in those Provinces and sent to regular subscribers in the United States, are chargeable with the regular prepaid quarterly rates of United States postage to and from the line; which postage must be collected at the office of mailing in the United States on matter sent, and at the office of delivery in the United States on matter received. In like manner, such matter, if transient, is chargeable with the regular domestic transient printed matter rates to and from the line, to be collected at the office of mailing or delivery in the United States, as the case may be. Editors, however, may exchange free of expense.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS.

Valuable letters for Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line via New York, or by the Prussian closed mail via New York and Boston, as also letters addressed to Great Britain and Canada, will be registered on the application of the person posting the same, in the same manner and on the same terms as those deliverable in the United States, provided that the full postage chargeable thereon to destination, together with a registration fee of twenty cents on each letter to Great Britain or Ireland, and five cents on each letter to the other places mentioned above, is prepaid at the mailing office. Such letters should be mailed and forwarded to the respective United States exchange offices in the same manner as domestic registered letters are mailed to those offices.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS, ETC.

All letters to and from foreign countries (the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, France and the British North American Provinces excepted,) are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of half an ounce; double rate, if exceeding half an ounce, but not exceeding an ounce; quadruple rate, if exceeding an ounce, but not exceeding two ounces; and so on, charging two rates for every ounce or fractional part of an ounce over the first ounce. As this rule differs from that followed in respect to domestic letters, great care is requisite to prevent mistakes. Letters in the mail to France are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of one quarter ounce; double rate if exceeding a quarter, but not exceeding half an ounce; and so on, an additional rate being charged for each quarter ounce or fractional part of a quarter ounce. Letters addressed to the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, and the British North American Provinces, are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, one rate being charged for each half ounce or fractional part of half an ounce. Postmasters, should be careful, where the postage is prepaid, to collect the proper amount. They should be particular to notice the route indicated on the envelopes of letters, and to collect postage accordingly. Letters mailed at some offices, marked "via England," or "via Prussian closed mail," for a German State, are frequently taken upon the prepayment of Bremen rates, and those marked "via Bremen," at Prussian closed rates, &c.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS GOING VIA FRANCE

In the case of letters to be forwarded in the British mail for transmission from England via "Marseilles," the French postage is rated at 6 cents the quarter ounce, except on letters for Java, China, Labuan, Borneo, Japan, the Moluccas and Philipine Islands, which are rated at eight cents per half ounce, and except, also, on letters for Syria and Tunis, by French packet, when the single French rate is 12 cents per quarter ounce.

The rates by "French mail" are in full to destination, except to the following places, viz.: Aden, Batavia, Ceylon, China, cities of Turkey, in Europe, except as herein mentioned, via Austria, countries to which correspondence can be sent via Suez, countries beyond seas, via France, other than those enumerated, East Indies, Gibralter, Hong Kong, Java, Mauritius, Montenegro, Penang, Portugal, Isle of Re-Union, Servia, (except Belgrade,) Shanghai, Singapore and Spain. The limit of prepayment to Spain, Portugal and Gibralter, is Behobia; to Servia, (except Belgrade,) Montenegro, and cities of Turkey in Europe, except as herein mentioned, "via Austria;" the frontier of Turkey and Austria; to Aden, East Indies, Ceylon, China, and other countries via Suez, the seaports of the Indies, or of the sea of China to which the English packets ply; and to places beyond seas, other than those designated, the limit is the port of arrival in the country of destination.

RATES ON PAMPHLETS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

On pamphlets and magazines, to or from the West coast of South America, the United States postage is four cents; and to or from all other foreign countries, (except Great Britain, Belgium, and the German States, via Bremen or Hamburg mail,) two cts. per 4 oz. or fraction thereof, to be collected in all cases in the United States.

Newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries (particularly to the continent of Europe) must be sent in narow bands, open at the sides or ends; otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage.

ROUTES OF TRANSMISSION, ETC.

To prevent mistakes at the exchange offices, it is desirable that the particular routes by which letters are to be forwarded from the United States to Europe, should be distinctly written on the covers. Letters intended for transmission in the open mail to England, should bear the direction "open mail via England;" if for transmission in the French mail, they should be directed, "via France in French mail;" if for transmission by closed mail to Prussia, they should be directed "via Prussian closed mail;" if for transmission in the closed mail to Belgium, they should be directed "via Belgian closed mail;" and if for transmission by the New York and Bremen line to Bremen, or by the New York and Hamburg line to Hamburg, they should be directed "via Bremen," or "via Hamburg."

It is important that letters addressed to Germany and other European countries, via France, where the single rate per quarter ounce is 21 cents, should be plainly marked to be sent via France; otherwise they may be missent in the open mail to Liverpool by United States packet, the 21 cent rate per half ounce being also chargeable on letters thus forwarded.

Monsieur Tonson Again.

BETWEEN BOSTON AND BUFFALO.

There is no better plan, in my estimation, for imparting information or giving advice, instructing the untravelled or interesting the intelligent, than through the medium of familiar letters. Everybody writes letters and everybody reads letters, and a letter in print, whether dry or juicy, is as sure to command a reading as a spark is to fly upward. Brilliant essays, thrilling prize stories, learned criticisms and luminous editorials, are not patronized by the masses. It may not be flattery—at least some may think so—to the supposed refined taste of our times—but it is nevertheless true. A letter puts every reader in immediate communication with its writer, and its humorous or grave descriptions, speculations, revelations, structure and general appointments, by a little stretching, exactly hits or fits somebody.

By familiar letters I mean those gossippy lucubrations, which, without bothering the brain or taxing the mind, accomplish their intended purpose, and help "time and the hour" to pass pleasantly away. In my contributions to your paper, I have striven, without envy, hatred or uncharitableness, to warm up inenergetic postmasters and their clerks to the proper and full performance of their official duties; and in a familiar way found fault with many lets and improprieties existing in post offices; and it is barely presumable my letters are thought a little too familiar for one of the unannointed. Entertaining, as I do, a proper idea of the respect due to official position, whether civil or military, I think I can claim the right to take any steps, commensurate with dignity and propriety, which may help to elevate, stimulate, and otherwise regulate the standard of official efficiency, and so can "any other man" so long as he, like me, indulges in generalities. I told you long ago the cause of my quarrel with post offices, and exhausted my stock of ill-humor in fault finding—but upon the principle that "we like a man better after having fought with him," I really believe that my predilections are much stronger than ever my prejudices were—I therefore hope that I will be judged justly, understood correctly, and attended to accordingly. I don't claim for my familiar contributions to your useful paper, originality, research, acumen, or sagacity—indeed, on the contrary, I have only endeavored to embody and unbosom matter of fact observations and criticisms on ancient uses and modern abuses patent to everybody familiar with post office business, and who possess, even in a limited way, capacity for observation, discrimination and lamentation. I look upon the post office of to-day as one of the most important supports of our now measureless and still extending temple; and as careful culture and pruning promote growth, increase and yield in the vegetable, so will it in the animal kingdom—post officers not excepted.

It is just as easy to tell a careless, shiftless, and inefficient postmaster by the condition of his office and the conduct of his clerks, as it is to tell the thriftless farmer by his broken down fences, dilapidated barns, and lean, half starved cattle; or the untidy housewife by her dingy domestic utensils, and her unwashed, unkempt, and badly clad little ones.

I would like to tell of some offices I have seen in my travels—where there is a place for everything, and everything in its place—and where the postmasters and their clerks look well, act well, and deserve and receive full credit therefor, but I forbear, as it might lead to comparisons, and comparisons in the Malapropean vocabulary are called "odorous."

Years ago, when post offices were not as plenty as churches, and days instead of hours were consumed in conveying letters to their destinations, some one having a realizing sense of their great and all-pervading importance, supposing, I suppose, of course, that they were faultless in their operations, paid the following tribute to the limited institutions of his day—what could he—would he—should he say of the gigantic one of ours? "There is perhaps no possible event that would cause so great a revolution in the world as the cessation of post offices. A comet coming in collision with the earth could alone cause a greater shock to its inhabitants. It would shake nations to their centres; it would be a sort of imprisonment of the universal mind, a severing of affections, and a congelation of thought. It would be building up a wall of partition between the hearts of mother and child, and husband and wife, brother and sister. It would raise Alps between the breasts of friend and friend; and quench, as with an ocean, the love that is now breathed out in all its glowing fervor, despite of time or place. What would be all the treasures of the world, or all its praise to a feeling heart, if it could no longer pour out its fulness to its chosen friend, whom circumstances had removed afar off? What could solace the husband or the father, during his indispensable absence from the wife of his affections, or the child of his love, if he had no means of assuring them of his welfare and his unalterable love; and what could console him could be not be informed of theirs? Life, under such circumstances, would be worse than a blank, it would be death to the soul, but without its forgetfulness. "Write soon—pray do write soon and often"—are among the last words we breathe into the ears of those we love, while we grasp the hand, and look into the eye, that will soon be far from us. What other consolation or hope is left us, when the train or the steamer is bearing that beloved being from us, while we stand fixed to the spot where the last adieu was uttered. The mail is the most perfect system of intercourse that has ever been devised; it scatters wealth and happiness in a thousand directions. No place is too distant for it to reach, no village is too insignificant for it to visit. Like the sun, dispensing delight, it goes its daily journey. The heat of summer and the cold of winter are not allowed to retard it. In spite of all interference, it carries on the important business of courtship, and leads to matrimony for better or worse. It solaces the lover's hope through many a cruel mile, and the bashful batchelor, (be never lost a letter)—"may do through the medium of the mail—nay, if he prefers it, he may even put the last question into the hands of the postman."

Gentlemen—ye who have the post offices in your keeping—if it is your duty to "stand and deliver" letters, do it carefully, civilly, and cheerfully; if it is your duty to look after the internal economy of the office, do it patiently, thoroughly, and good naturedly; and when you have nothing else to do, practice patience, cultivate sympathy, study to please your customers, and wake up every morning with the pleasant recollection on your minds that you went to bed at peace with all the world generally, and your patrons in particular.

MONSIEUR TONSON.

A New Post Office in New York.

The Rondout (N. Y.) Freeman, whose editor was formerly a very efficient clerk in the New York post-office, gives the following as its views in regard to the proposed New York post office building in the latter city:

The Postmaster General recommends to Congress the erection of a new General Post Office in New York city. This is a matter of interest to the whole country, as mail matter for the whole world passes through that office, and we are all concerned in any improvement by which the work of carrying letters may be expedited. A new post office in a proper location, and built in accordance with common sense principles, would allow letters for the country to be retained for an hour's later news. The present building is in no wise adapted to the purpose of expeditious work, is of far too limited accommodations for the force required and the mail matter handled, is unhealthy and disagreeable for the clerks inside and a disgusting eyesore for the public outside, is in one of the most unhandy and crowded streets in the city, and is a subject of anoyance to every one in the city and almost every one in the country.

The most proper locations in the city for such an office would be the Park or the New York Hospital grounds. The former would still answer the same purpose for the lower part of the city as the present, as an office for the reception and delivery of mail matter, while the different lines of railroads could run their cars into the building, and receive the mailbags without the first loading of the wagons and the transfer to the cars, by which operation the greater part of an hour is consumed. The other spot, which is the best, giving the most room, and being situated in a more central part of the city, would be nearer the termini of the principal railroads, would be accessible by their cars, and time, the all important item, would be saved in the work of sending a letter out of the office as soon as possible after it comes in. The lower part of the city could be accommodated by several station houses, in which the work of delivering and receiving letters could be done, the stamping, assorting and tieing could be constantly going on, the last letters from each being carried directly into the travelling post offices. The work could thus be done in a more perfect and expeditious manner, bringing letters to several centres, each of which will be nearer to the destination of the letters received, and avoiding the necessity of compelling the whole lower part of the city to converge on one point with their mail matter. It is not right that it should be necessary for a letter to be in the office one hour and a half before the time the train carrying it leaves the city. That time is the most valuable portion of the day for letters in which business firms sum up the results of the day's business for the benefit of their country correspondents. That that time is valuable is shown by the fact that our Canal Company pays three hundred dollars for the privilege of receiving its letters mailed between 2 o'clock and 3 30 P. M.

Of course to other corporations and firms having a still greater correspondence, this time is still more valuable. Any thing which will make a later closing of the mail possible with the correct dispatch of letters and papers, will be of immense value to the country equally as well as to the city, and a new Post-office, with an intelligent application of the benefits of the traveling post offices, will accomplish that work.

☞ In France, for the furtherance of postal arrangements, the country is divided into six districts, each having a resident inspector, whose duty is to see that the mail service in his department is properly performed, and to take measures for securing the most rapid transmission of letters by railway and other conveyances.

A POSTAL EXCHANGE.—A farmer recently observed a man trespassing on his grounds. Being much enraged thereat, he threw an old post at the fellow, at the same time demanding his business there. The man spoke not, but hurled the wood back again at the querist, so that the farmer received his answer per return of post.

* NOTE.—The difference between the amount of deposits received and remitted, to wit, $12,205 91, should be added to the balance in the hands of postmasters, in order to show the true condition of the fund. The reason of this discrepancy occurs from the fact that the above amount, though remitted and credit taken therefor previous to 30th June, was not received at the deposit offices till subsequent to that date.

Railroad Companies and the Mails.

The Postmaster General has isssued the following circular to the managers of railroads carrying the mails. We hope it will have the effect of recalling to the recollection of some of those gentlemen the fact that the reception of their compensation is not the only duty which their contracts impose upon them. The complaints of mail failures made by the press and the public are in nearly all cases directed against the Post Office Department, which is thus unjustly made to bear the blame of the short-comings of the railroad companies. One of the excuses for these failures, which was offered by many of the companies during the war—that the transportation of soldiers and military stores for the goverment necessitated the derangement of the regular business of the roads—no longer exists; and it is to be hoped that a decided improvement in the punctual fulfilment of their mail contracts, now that peace is restored, will show to the public and the Department that that excuse really had a foundation in fact.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30, 1865.

It is known to you that the mail service on the railroads, generally, during last winter, was so irregularly performed as to seriously delay the transmission of the mails. Various causes were assigned for the failure, but the principal one was the great length of trains, that made it impossible for them to make their schedule time.

No satisfactory reason for this was made to this Department or the public. The compensation for carrying the mails is remunerative to the railroad companies, and their obligation is clearly to convey them according to their most expeditious schedules, whatever may be the delay to their passenger or freight traffic. The interest of the public in the regular and speedy transmission of the mails is superior to the private interests of railroad companies, and the delaying of the mails by overburdened trains is virtually a violation of the implied contracts of the companies with this Department. The remedy is with the companies. Lessen the number of cars on the mail trains, especially on those carrying the through mails, to the maximum that will not necessarily prevent the schedule times being regulary made, and the difficulty will be removed. The request, now made, for you to do so, is in no sense unreasonable, but demanded alike for the interests of the government and the public, while your faithful compliance will only be the proper observance of your contract with the Department.

I trust your company will heartily co-operate with the Department in its earnest desire to furnish the mails regularly and expeditiously to the public. Respectfully,

W. DENNISON,
Postmaster General

Registering Letters.

"It is of the utmost importance that postmasters should exercise the greatest care and diligence in the custody and despatch of registered letters."—Instructions issued by Postmaster General with Act of March 3, 1863.

[We have compiled from the regulations of the Department the following instructions in regard to the registration of letters. They are intended specially for the benefit of postmasters at the smaller offices, and include replies to many questions on this subject, which we are constantly receiving from our subscribers.]

REGISTERED LETTER BLANKS.—All the blanks which are required for use in the registration of letters can be obtained by addressing the Blank Agents of the Department, whose names and addresses will be found in another column.

REGISTRATION FEES.—The registration fee on all registered domestic letters is twenty cents, and the same on letters to Great Britain and Ireland. On those to Canada, and to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line, or by Prussian closed mail, the fee is five cents. The places mentioned above are the only foreign countries to which letters can be sent registered. The full postage on all registered letters, both foreign and domestic, must be prepaid by stamps.—(See last column of fourth page of this paper.)

RECEIVING LETTERS FOR REGISTRATION.—A sheet is furnished by the Blank Agents, on application by postmasters, on the right hand of which is printed the form of "Registered Letter Receipt," in the centre the "Return Registered Letter Receipt," and on the left hand the "Marginal Entry." When a letter is presented for registration, the postmaster should give to the depositor the registered letter receipt, (right hand) first entering therein the registered number of the letter, the date of deposit, the name of his post office, the name and residence of the depositor, and the address of the letter. In the Return Registered Letter Receipt, (centre) should be entered the same items, and also in the Marginal Entry, (left hand.) This latter is to be retained by the postmaster, and the return receipt disposed of as hereinafter directed. No entry of the sum said to be contained in the letter is required to, or should, be made.

PREPARING REGISTERED LETTERS FOR MAILING.—After the above directions have been followed, the postmaster will fill up a "Registered Letter Bill," (which is printed on the back of the ordinary post-bills headed "Unpaid Letters," which are supplied to all small offices,) entering therein the same items which are entered in the "Return Receipt;" but being careful, when intending to forward the registered letter through a Distributing Post Office, to insert the name of that office instead of that of the office which the letter is intended finally to reach. (In all cases, however, the "Return Receipt" must be filled up with the name of the office of final destination.) Then be will fill up the "Return Bill," (which must not be confounded with the "Return Receipt") in the same manner; then enclose the letter, the "Registered Letter Bill" and the "Return Receipt" in a sealed envelope marked "Reg." or "Registered," and addressed to the postmaster of the office to which he intends to forward it.—[N. B. The instruction printed on the present "Registered Letter Bills," to the effect that postmasters are "not required to put up registered letters in a separate envelope," &c., has been rescinded by the Department, and all registered letters are now required to be so put up.] Then he will enclose it in a wrapper, marked with the name of the same office to which he has addressed the envelope in which he has placed the letter. The package should then be placed in the mail and sent forward—but should never be placed in a bundle of letters intended for distribution—as a registered letter is always intended to reach the postmaster of whatever office it is sent to, and consequently is not, strictly speaking, a distribution letter, although it may be sent to a Distributing Office.

MAILING REGISTERED LETTERS.—It is advisable for postmasters, at all small offices, to mail such of their registered letters as are intended for offices outside of their respective States, to the first Distributing Post Office on the route over which it is intended the letters shall pass—being careful to address the sealed envelope in which they enclose them, to the postmaster of that office, and also marking the name of that office on the wrapper, and being sure that the "Registered Letter Bill" is also filled up with the name of that office. In short, registered letters sent through a Distributing Post Office, should be mailed and billed exactly the same as though they were intended for delivery there. It is only when registered letters are sent direct that the bill should be filled up with the name of the office of final destination.

THE "RETURN BILL."—This should be filled up exactly in the same manner, and bear the same date as the "Registered Letter Bill," but should be sent in the next mail which leaves the office after the one in which the letter it refers to was sent. It should be enclosed in an envelope addressed to the postmaster of the same office to which the letter was sent, whether for delivery or for distribution.

ACCOUNTS OF REGISTERED LETTERS "SENT" AND "RECEIVED."—Separate blank sheets for these accounts are furnished by the Department, and may be procured by application to the different Blank Agents. On these are entered the dates of receiving (and sending) registered letter bills, the names of the offices to which the letters are sent (and from which they are received,) the registered numbers of the letters, the names of the persons to whom they are addressed, and the amounts of the registry fees paid on them. These sheets will be retained by postmasters, copies being forwarded to the Department with the Quarterly Accounts.

DELIVERY OF REGISTERED LETTERS.—On receiving a registered letter for delivery, the postmaster should deliver it only to the person to whom it is addressed, or to some person whom he knows to be authorized to receive it, taking a receipt therefor, and also requiring the person to whom he delivers it to sign the "Return Receipt" which accompanies it. This "Return Receipt" he should then forward by first mail to the postmaster of the office at which the letter was originally mailed. When the "Return Bill" arrives, (which it should by next mail after the letter,) it should be marked "correct," and signed by the postmaster, and then forwarded by first mail to the postmaster of the office at which it is dated, whether that be a Distributing Office or the one at which the letter was originally mailed. If, however, a "Return Bill" arrives, and the letter which it calls for has not been received, the "Return Bill" must be marked "not received," signed by the postmaster, and returned in the same manner.

FORWARDING REGISTERED LETTERS.—When a registered letter arrives, addressed to a person who has removed, or who for any other cause wishes it forwarded to him at another office, it may be done at his written request. The order to forward should be noted on the account of registered letters received, opposite the name of the person making the request. The letter should then be sent forward as a registered letter—in the same manner as if originally mailed as one; but no additional registry fee is to be charged on it. The order to forward must be filed in the office of forwarding, as a voucher for the action had in the case.

J. GAYLER, . . . . Editor.

NEW YORK JANUARY, 1866

TERMS—One dollar per year, payable in advance. All communications to be addressed to the Publisher of the UNITED STATES MAIL, New York.

Subscriptions received at any Post Office in the United States.

☞ Letters containing remittances for subscriptions, or in reference to the business department of this paper, should be addressed to "Publisher U. S. Mail" and not to the Editor.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, October 25, 1861.

DEAR SIR,—I consider the U. S. MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT a valuable and meritorious publication, useful alike to this Department, to Postmasters throughout the country, and to the public. It is my wish to see it generally circulated among postmasters and others, and I shall with pleasure extend to you every proper facility for enlarging the sphere of its official usefulness, and the range of its circulation. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.
To J. HOLBROOK, Specil Agent P.O. Department.

The following Official Order has also been made by the Postmaster General:

Ordered, That the Assistant Postmasters General, and Chief Clerk of this Department, each cause to be furnished from time to time to J. Holbrook, for publication in the "United States Mail," all such new orders or regulations of the Department touching the business of the several bureaus as may be of general importance or interest, as soon as practicable after the same shall have been promulgated or established. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, Washington, Oct. 6, 1864.

DEAR SIR:—I have no hesitation in adding my endorsement to that of my predecessor, Postmaster General Blair, to the usefulness of the "UNITED STATES MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT," as a medium of communicating correct information to Postmasters and others respecting postal operations, and cheerfully recommend it to the favor and support of Postmasters and other agents of the Department. W. DENNISON, Postmaster General.
To J. GAYLER, Esq., Editor U. S. Mail.

Special Notice to Subscribers.

Each wrapper enclosing a copy of the Mail bears a number in addition to the address. This number signifies that the term for which the subscription is paid expires with the corresponding whole number of the paper. Subscribers will please take this as a notification to forward the subscription for another year, when due, if they intend to renew. Those whom this number reaches, marked 63 or 64, will please remit at once.

☞ Although it is our desire and endeavor that our paper should appear on the first of each month, yet it is sometimes, owing to various circumstances, impossible to secure that result. Important changes in the laws and regulations occasionally occur at such times as to require, for the benefit of our readers, that our issue should be postponed for a few days in order to enable us to lay the details of such changes before them at as early a date as possible, instead of allowing a month to elapse before their publication. Our subscribers will therefore readily understand that a short delay in receiving their papers is sometimes unavoidable, and that when such delay occurs, it is the result of a desire to give them advantage of the latest official information on the postal matters.

A Modest Suggestion.

We are glad to say that the universal testimony among postmasters who take the Mail, is, that it is of very great value to them—many write to us, saying that they "could not do without it," that the information contained in each number far outweighs the subscription price for a whole year. Relying upon our instructions and advice, they find the business of their offices going on "like clock work," and they naturally wonder that all offices are not conducted in the same proper manner. They find the true path of duty by the easiest and shortest method—by consulting the columns of our paper. Their doubts are solved by reading our "Answers to Correspondents; they meet and mingle ideas under our head of "Communications;" recent decisions of the Department, embracing instructions designed to cover certain emergencies, all appear as "Official;" changes in foreign postages are corrected monthly in the "Table of Postages to Foreign Countries;" knowledge of the utmost value to them, as well as to the public at large, is given in our "Miscellaneous Information;" a comprehensive "Foreign Miscellany" appear in every number; the list of "New Post Offices and Changes." prepared for us by the Department, is intimately connected with the business of all well regulated offices; and an agreeable general miscellany fosters and encourages that spirit of generous rivalry, which should ever be the rule and guide of the conduct of persons occupying offices of great public trust. All this they know and feel, and they tell us so; therefore, we have the less hesitation in asking them why they should not endeavor to secure for us the subscriptions of all those around them who have never taken our paper? The information we give would, in the event of these others being participants in the same, be doubly valuable to themselves, for, both doing their work by the same rule, they would all be equally correct thus lessening materially all causes of complaint. Our paper is published under the sanction of the Post Office Department, and its design is to make plain the duty of postmasters, to solve all troublesome doubts, to remove many of the perplexities inseparable from the position in which they have been placed, and to be, what we shall constantly strive to make it, and what we hope it is, to a great extent, a guide and assistant to postmasters and the public.

☞ We have received a sample of "Dexheimer's Compound Stamping Cushion and Pad." For the smaller offices it will be found a very convenient and valuable article. See advertisement.

Post Office Gossips.

We presume that few of our subscribers who have the charge of, or are employed in, post-offices of the smaller towns and villages, have escaped the petty annoyance caused by the tattle of those individuals—a sample of whom can be found in nearly or quite every community—who beguile their frequent leisure hours, and gratify their taste for scandal, by peddling out, to all who will hear them, groundless complaints of "incivility at the post office," silly opinions of "mismanagement at the post office," or even dark hints of a mysterious "something wrong at the post office." The gossips of this class are not generally of the female sex; it is not in the circle of ancient damsels seated round the festive tea-board, that this particular form of scandal is apt to be the theme of converse; but around the bar-room stove, amid the fumes of evil smelling pipes and worse cigars, sit the glib-tongued breakers of the ninth commandment, bearing false witness against their neighbor, the postmaster. Mr. Saunter Tardy, who was never known to be in time for anything but a horse race or an invitation to quench his thirst, thinks that "it's time our post office was overhauled," for the reason that the postmaster declined to accommodate him by delaying the departure of the mail for half an hour, to enable Mr. T. to write and post a letter which ought to have been written a month before. Mr. Solomon Seedy, who has expended so much of his talents for business in endeavoring to manage the affairs of his acquaintances, that he has neglected his own to such an extent as to render it probable that the sheriff will take charge of them for him next week—sympathizes cordially with Mr. Tardy, and is decidedly of opinion that the postmaster "don't know no more about runnin' a post office than a cow does about a musket," and that some "real smart man" ought to succeed to the position as soon as possible—perhaps might be willing to serve his fellow citizens as postmaster himself, but modestly abstains from saying so. Mr. Jerry Sneak, about whose dexterity in the athletic sport called "jumping the bounty," certain curious tales were afloat after his return from a visit to the city a year or so ago—and who certainly once showed visible perturbation at a casual allusion in his hearing, to a provost marshal—thinks it "kind o' curious that not long after Josh Greening sent a letter with ten dollars for a lottery ticket in it, the postmaster bought a new hat—and Josh has never heard of his ten dollars—but it may be all right at the post office—wouldn't like to say nothin' to injure no man's character." And so the dreary, senseless babble goes on, to be repeated, perhaps, next day, to other senseless babblers, until the whole village hums with idle and groundless rumors of rudeness, incompetency, or something worse, on the part of the postmaster or his clerks.

Now, we would by no means deny the right of every member of the community to hold and express his opinion as to post office matters, and to criticize and complain of the conduct of post office officials when such criticism and complaint is deserved. The post office is established for the convenience and benefit of the people, and each and every one of the people has a greater or less interest in its honest and faithful management. No postmaster, therefore, has a right to complain of any amount of watchfulness which any person may choose to exercise over his conduct as a public officer, nor of just and intelligent criticisms in regard to it. His aim should be, by careful attention to his duty and impartial courtesy to all, to avoid giving real occasion for complaint.

If he does this, the tongues of evil-speakers can do him no serious injury, however much they may irritate and annoy him if he is at all thin skinned and over-sensitive.

☞ Our correspondent "O'K," in his communication on the 2d page of this number, suggests a method of attaining a very desirable end, viz: the reimbursement to the Department of the amount expended for advertising letters. His plan is to require the affixing of a two-cent stamp by the depositor of every letter which it is desired shall be advertised, in addition to the required amount of postage. Other details of the plan are given in his letter, and we think it well worthy of consideration.

☞ A resolution has been introduced in the U. S. Senate, and adopted, instructing the Post Office Committee to inquire into and report upon the expediency of abolishing the franking privilege with regard to every thing except written matter.

Answers to Correspondents.

"Small Religious Newspapers," &c.—J. S. B., M——, Ind.—1. One of the conditions on which packages of small religious newspapers are carried in the mails at a reduced rate of postage is, that such packages shall be to one address; and they should be delivered to that address only. If the party addressed desires them to be "distributed," he has the privilege of doing that work himself. 2. No postmaster at any "head office," or any other office, has the right to open papers passing through his office, and insert therein handbills advertising his business. If you know of any person in the habit of doing so, report the matter in full to the Department.

Sale of Stamps, &c.—E. H., S——, Ky.—1. Any person has the right to sell postage stamps, provided they do not sell them at higher rates than they are sold by the Department. 2. Unpaid letters dropped in your office, marked "Paid," should of course be treated as unpaid. 3. Letters passing through your office, mailed at other offices, marked "Paid," you have nothing whatever to do with except to forward to the office of delivery. The postage on such letters has probably been prepaid in money, and though that is never to be done, except in certain extreme cases, the fact that the letters have been so pre-paid cannot in any way affect you.

Post bills with Registered Letters.—H. C., P——, Mass.—An ordinary post bill, marked "1 R.," should accompany each package of "Registered Letters." This post-bill, on its arrival at the office to which it is sent, should be checked with the initials of the clerk who opens the bundles containing the registered packages.

Wrapping Packages of Letters.—J. C., W——, Penn.—All postmasters, except those whose offices are supplied in whole or in part, by "railway post offices," are required to wrap in paper all packages of letters sent from their offices; the discontinuance of wrappers, ordered by the Department some time since, was intended to be confined to those offices receiving mails through railway post offices, and to that service exclusively.

Postmarking.—G. S. B., J——, N. Y.—All letters must bear the postmark of the date on which the mail containing them is actually sent off. If you purposely affix a false postmark to a letter deposited in your office, you will be guilty of complicity in deception, and probably fraud; therefore you will, in all cases, refuse to do so.

Withdrawing Letters. P.M., R——, Penn. You are at liberty to return to the writer thereof, or to a person presenting his written order, previous to its delivery, any letter which may have been deposited in your office.

Marking Registered Packages.—E. D., K——, Maine. The reason why the sealed envelopes directed to the postmaster should be marked "Registered," is that on arrival, it will the more readily reach the clerk, whose duty it is to take charge of registered letters.

Missing Dead Letter. R. D. T., S——, Ohio.—Report all the facts in the case to the Department for investigation.

Letters to Postmasters.—L., S——, Mich.—Postmasters can neither receive nor send letters to private individuals free, whether on official business or otherwise.

Post Office Maps.—W. A. H. F——, N. Y.—The postal maps referred to are in course of preparation by the Department, but are not yet ready for delivery.

Forwarding Franked Letters.—P. O. Clerk, I——, Ohio.—Properly forwarded letters should be forwarded without charge, when the person to whom they are addressed is absent from the place to which they are directed.

Circulars containing Writings.—T. E. N., O——, Minnesota.—Circulars partly printed, but containing written notices of any nature, are chargeable with letter postage.

Wrapping Letters. J. G., N——, Iowa.—The discontinuance of wrappers was intended to be confined to those offices receiving mail matter through railway post offices, and for that service exclusively. By the latest instructions of the Postmaster General on this subject, postmasters are directed to conform fully to the first paragraph of section 47, and to sections 42 and 43 of Chapter iv. of the regulations of 1859. Those whose offices are supplied by railway offices are to be governed by instructions from the superintendents of railway postal service in regard to the manner of making up mails.

Ordering Post Office Blanks. H. C., P——, Mass.—The ordinary post office blanks should be ordered from the blank agents. There is, however, a list of forty-four special blanks, issued by the appointment officer, which can only be obtained by a requisition upon the First Assistant Postmaster General. This list can be obtained by requesting from him copies of Blanks No. 39, "Requisition of Blanks," if it has not already been sent to you.

Unpaid Drop Letters.—J. S. V., B——, Pa.—Unpaid drop letters must be marked "held for postage." Dead Letter Office, the same as other unpaid domestic letters. See third paragraph, Instructions, under Sec. 1, Act of May 1. 1865.

Doubtfully directed Letters. K. C. B., W——, Mich.—The postmaster should satisfy himself, before allowing a person for whom a letter is supposed to be intended to open it, that it is really intended for that person. A trifling error in the name should not be taken as sufficient proof that the notice is not intended for the person who claims it. But great care and discretion should be used in all such cases.

Using Sheets of "Mails Sent"—W. W. M., R——, Mass. You should charge, on your sheet of "Mails Sent," to every office to which you send unpaid matter for delivery, the amount of postage due thereon; sending a post-bill containing a similar charge with such matter. Never charge either a separating or distributing office with matter which you send through it for transmission to other offices. As you of course wrap all your packages under the new instructions, the post-bill is to be enclosed in the wrapper with the letters.

Postage on Advertised Lists. M. J. E., P——, Ct.—As you are obliged to send your list of uncalled-for letters by mail to another town to be advertised, enclose it, under your frank, to the postmaster of that place, with a request for it to be delivered to the publisher of the newspaper.

Postmaster's Frank.—J. N. M., M——, Ohio.—You cannot frank letters to editors on any business whatever.

COMMUNICATIONS.

POSTAL REFORM.

Editor U. S. Mail: Deeming it incumbent on every post office man, however humble his position, to give the results of his experience, if they affect the general good, I trouble you with this communication.

I believe that it will be conceded that not more than one-fifth of all the letters advertised are delivered, and of course the Department looses absolutely four-fifths of the amount paid for publishing them. This is no inconsiderable sum, when we consider the vast extent of our country. It is the part of wisdom to profit by our experience, and if it teaches us that the present system of publishing uncalled for letters fails to secure the end, why not cease to advertise? Why pay to newspapers a very large sum for publishing weekly a list of strangers' names, which very seldom falls under the eyes of the class which alone might be benefitted by it?

My plan is this,—advertise all foreign letters. They are more generally called for, and international comity may demand it; but require as a condition for advertising domestic letters, that the writers signify their desire to have them so treated by affixing a two cent postage stamp thereon, in addition to the regular postage, this stamp to be cancelled when the letter is advertised. A manuscript list of all other uncalled for letters, posted at the delivery window, will serve as good a purpose as the present system. My reason for requiring two cents is, because that amount is little enough to pay a publisher for each name. The Department will, by adopting this course, save enough to pay the salaries of its Special Agents.

There is another crying evil in our present postal system, viz., permitting unpaid newspapers in the mails. What should be a source of revenue, under the present system barely pays the expense of collection. Insist on prepayment of all matter, letters and papers as a condition to mailing. I know that I will be met by the assertion that such papers as the Tribune, Herald, etc., could never mail their daily issues if prepayment was necessary. The answer is simple. Require a statement of the number of papers forwarded during the past three months, to be submitted at the beginning of a quarter, verified by the oath of the proprietor and mailing clerk. Make this the basis for the current quarter, and thus by quarterly statements through the year, the exact number of papers, as near as need be, can be ascertained and paid for in advance, and no delay occasioned. But I am told "fraud may be practised." Yes, very true. But while I am willing to take the oath of the press men generally as readily as any body of intelligent gentlemen in the land, I hazard nothing in the assertion that the Department will not lose one-twentieth as much revenue, if my plan is adopted, by false returns of newspaper men, as it does now by the carelessness of its own officials. In case of dispute, the newspaper books might be required to be exhibited to the post office agents. And then there is no estimating the advantage in the matter of good temper and other etceteras so essential to the well being of postmasters as of any other class. The publisher cannot complain, for he merely adds the yearly postage to the subscription price.

There is but one step from the sublime to the ridiculous, so pardon me for giving the following, which is "too good to keep:" In one of our goodly commonwealths resides a certain postmaster, who has been very particular to "catch up" every other brother official at all derelict in his duty. One day came a registered package, accompanied by an ordinary post-bill, bearing the cabilistic mark, "1 Reg." Our postmaster eyed this bill with wonder, and mayhap called a meeting of the village savans; he may even have submitted the mysterious document to the "squire," and finally his pent up feelings burst forth in an angry letter to the offending brother, demanding what was meant in sending such bills to him, for, said he, "I'll be qualified if I've received either key or keg from you."

Whether the Department has been called upon to despatch a "special" in search of that stray "key or keg," I haven't yet learned.

O'K.

COLLECTING NEWSPAPER POSTAGE—ANOTHER NEW PLAN.

November, 1865.

Editor U S. Mail: I see in your paper that many of your correspondents try their skill in proposing amendments to the law regulating postage on newspapers. Having caught the infection myself, I propose the following system:

All mail matters, except legal franks, must be pre-paid by stamps. Let miscellaneous and transient matter, go, as is now provided. Printed matter, regularly issued and mailed from office of publication, may be disposed of as follows:

Let government furnish stamped newspaper wrappers of the proper denomination for from one to five newspapers, and stamps for larger bundles. Let the larger bundles go by weight, and not by numbers, which would be a great deal more convenient, and more just to the smaller newspapers. Should a falling off of the revenue be apprehended, establish three ounces as the rate for bundles, or leave it four ounces, and raise the charge sufficiently not to impair the income.

If all forwarding of printed matters not fully paid by stamps, or not legally franked, were strictly prohibited, then all postage would be collected without loss to the department from dishonest publishers and postmasters, and all accounts be greatly simplified.

In regard to the objection raised by some postmasters that their salary, already small enough, would thereby be still more reduced, I will say that the good of the service is the object paramountly aimed at, but that the same power which may change the present postal law may pass such amendments as will insure to all postmasters adequate pay for all their services rendered. H. W.

LETTER FROM A PUBLISHER.

New York, December, 1865.

Editor U. S. Mail: I see in the last issue of the Mail, that matters are looking to a pre-paid newspaper postage. If publishers would study their own interests, they would be the most strenuous promoters of a pre-paid periodical and newspaper postage. The inconvenience, loss and delay which subscribers suffer, who fail to receive punctually their publications, is almost entirely their own fault. Certainly 80 per cent. of all complaints can be attributed to the non-fulfilment of the postage laws in relation to the pre-payment of postage. I come to this conclusion after fifteen years experience. Two years since I commenced publishing a periodical—my terms being inclusive of postage—I can only remember one complaint received in the two years; and on inquiry, I found the periodical had been delivered to another person of the same name in a large city.

My plan is to fill up a printed form on the day I receive a subscription, and with the requisite amount of postage for the full term of subscription, send it to our office, not even asking a receipt for the same. I find my mails go O. K., as I have no complaints. As I expect shortly to increase my business, I will have a more detailed though simple plan.

30 YEARS IN THE NEWSPAPER TRADE.

☞ The following advertisement appeared in the Syracuse Courier recently: "Manure—wanted, stable manure. Any person having from five to fifty loads to dispose of, will please send word, or drop it through the post office."

Miscellaneous Information.

Dead Letters.

By the instructions under the postal laws, UNMAILABLE LETTERS are specified to be—

Letters attempted to be sent with stamps previously used, or stamps cut from stamped envelopes.

Unpaid letters for foreign countries, on which prepayment is required by the regulations.

Letters not addressed, or so badly addressed that their destination cannot be known.

Letters misdirected to places where there are no post offices.

Civilian's letters, (domestic) wholly unpaid, (including unpaid drop letters.)

Only such letters as are herein described are, when deposited in any post office, to be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office; all others must be dispatched to their destination, charged with the amount of unpaid postage.

When unmailable letters are sent to the Dead Letter Office, the specific reason therefor must be endorsed upon the envelope of each.

These instructions will be strictly followed at all post offices.

For more full instructions relating to dead letters, advertising letters, &c., examine carefully the 7th and 8th Sections of the Act of 3d March, 1863, and the instructions attached thereto also, Sec. 1, Act of March 3, 1865.

Foreign Letters, &c.

RULE FOR RATING LETTERS TO GREAT BRITAIN, &C.

The attention of postmasters is particularly called to the mode of rating postage upon letters exchanged in the mails between this country and the United Kingdom, which differs essentially from the United States domestic scale, when the weight of the packet or letter exceeds one ounce.

The scale of progression adopted for letters exchanged with the United Kingdom is as follows, viz.:

One rate for a single letter not exceeding ½ oz. in weight.

Two rates when over ½, but not exceeding 1 ounce.

Four rates when over 1, but not exceeding 2 ounces.

Six rates when over 2, but not exceeding 3 ounces; and so on, charging two additional rates for each additional ounce or fraction of an ounce.

Thus, a letter to Great Britain, weighing 4½ ounces, should be paid $2.40, being chargeable as five ounces, or ten rates; but if $2.16 (nine rates only) are paid, owing to an omission to count the fraction as a full ounce, it then goes as unpaid, and the $2.16 is lost to the writer of the letter. These letters (and all other part paid letters to foreign countries) are treated as wholly unpaid, and the amount paid lost to the sender.

In no case should 3, 5 or 7 rates be collected upon a letter or packet addressed to the United Kingdom, the proper charges being either 1, 2, 4, 6, 8 rates, &c., according to weight.

Notwithstanding the explicit instructions of the Department on this subject, it is found that many postmasters are in the practice of charging postage upon letters and packets for the United Kingdom according to our domestic scale, (viz.: one rate for each half ounce or fraction of half an ounce,) and thus insufficient amounts of postage are frequently prepaid, which are entirely lost to the senders, as no account is taken of short payments of postage.

Letters to foreign countries, where prepayment of postage is compulsory, when insufficiently paid are sent to the Dead Letter Office, to be opened and returned to the writers, and are thereby delayed one or two mails, and, no doubt, in many cases, causing serious loss and annoyance to the writers.

REGISTERING FOREIGN LETTERS.—Letters can be registered in the United States for Great Britain and Ireland, for Germany, or any part of the German Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen, Hamburg or Prussian closed mails. Letters to Canada can be registered, but not to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, or Prince Edward's Island. Postmasters will, therefore, decline to register letters addressed to other foreign countries.

The registry fee to be charged on registered letters to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, via Bremen or Hamburg, or by Prussian closed mail, and to Canada, is five cents—to Great Britain and Ireland, twenty cents. All registered letters must be prepaid in full to destination. See "Foreign Miscellany" on fourth page of this paper, for full information in regard to rating all foreign letters.

Our Postal Convention with the United Kingdom, provides that each country shall levy and collect its postage only, on newspapers, at the rate of two cents each, whether they are sent or received. Hence, newspapers received in this country from Great Britain come prepaid the British postage only, and postmasters must be particular, in all cases, to collect the United States charge of two cents on their delivery.

CANADIAN CORRESPONDENCE.—Irregularities having arisen in respect to Canadian correspondence, these directions must hereafter be observed:

Letters addressed to Canada must be mailed to a United States Exchange Office. Letters cannot be sent direct to Post Offices in Canada.

The postage on a single letter to and from Canada is 10 cents, prepayment optional; but the whole postage must be prepaid or none. Part prepayments are not recognized. Prepayments must be made by United States postage stamps—not in money.

A postmaster may frank a letter to Canada same as to any point in the United States; but it is optional for the Canadian P. O. Department to deliver such letter free, or charge full postage on it, at its pleasure.

COLLECTIONS IN COIN.—In pursuance of the provisions of a resolution of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails despatched to this country from Great Britain and Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen, or Belgium, are collected in gold or silver coin. Should, however, payment of such postage, and of the premium on a corresponding amount of coin, be tendered in United States notes, the same is to be accepted in lieu of coin. The amount to be collected in U. S. notes, (in case coin is not offered,) is marked on each letter on its arrival at U. S. Exchange Offices, and if charged in the post-bills. Hence, when coin is collected at the office of delivery, the difference should be entered in the account of Mails Received as an overcharge.

The above applies exclusively to the mails received from the countries mentioned

On out-going letters the former regulations remain unchanged, and, when prepaid, the regular rates (in currency) only are to be collected.

Mail Bags and Locks.

DEPOSITORIES.—The following post offices are constituted depositories for mail Bags and Locks, viz:

Applications for blank registers of arrival and departure of the mails must be made direct to the "Inspection office." For special instructions, to the First Assistant Postmaster General.

MODE OF INDICATING THE PREPAYMENT OF POSTAGE UPON LETTERS RECEIVED FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

When the United States official postage entries on the letters received from Great Britain or the Continent of Europe, are in red ink, the letter is to be considered as paid, and is to be delivered accordingly; when in black ink, as unpaid, and the postage is to be collected on delivery. The postage on such letters is either wholly paid or wholly unpaid. Postmasters can readily decide any question as to prepayment, by this simple criterion.

Domestic Postages.

The law requires postage on all letters, (including those to foreign countries when prepaid,) excepting those written to the President or Vice-President, or members of Congress, or, (on official business) to the chiefs of the executive departments of the government, and the heads of bureaus and chief clerks, and others invested with the franking privilege, to be prepaid by stamps or stamped envelopes, prepayment in money being prohibited.

All drop letters must be prepaid. The rate of postage on drop letters, at offices where free delivery by carrier is established, is two cents per half ounce or fraction of a half ounce; at offices where such free delivery is not established, the rate is 1 ct.

The single rate of postage on all domestic mail letters throughout the United States is three cents per half ounce, with an additional rate of three cents for each additional half ounce or fraction of a half ounce. The ten cent (Pacific) rate is abolished.

RATES OF LETTER POSTAGE BETWEEN OFFICES IN THE UNITED STATES, AND TO AND FROM CANADA AND OTHER BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES

To and from Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., irrespective of distance.

To and from other British N. Am. Provinces,
for distance not over 3,000 miles. ........ 10 cts.
For any distance over 3,000 miles.......... 15 "

For every additional half ounce, or fraction of a half ounce, an additional rate is charged. Prepayment is optional on all letters for the British North American Provinces except Newfoundland, to which prepayment is compulsory.

Letter postage is to be charged on all handbills, circulars, or other printed matter which shall contain any manuscript writing whatever.

Daguerreotypes, when sent in the mail, are to be charged with letter postage by weight.

Photographs on cards, paper, and other flexible material, (not in cases,) can be sent at the same rate as miscellaneous printed matter—viz., two cents for each four ounces or fraction thereof.

Photographic Albums are chargeable with book postage—four cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof.

Newspaper Postage.

" over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz... .. 3 "

Quarterly postage cannot be paid for less than three months. If a subscription begins at any other time than the commencement of an official quarter, the postage received by the p. m. must still be entered in his account for that quarter. Subscribers for short terms—exceeding three months, say four or five months—can pay quarterly postage for the actual term of their subscriptions that is for one quarter and a third, one quarter and two-thirds, &c. The law only requires that at least one quarter's postage shall be prepaid, and not more than one year's postage. Any term between one quarter and one year can therefore be prepaid at proportionate rates.

PUBLISHERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS may send to each other from their respective offices of publication, free of postage, one copy of each publication, and may also send to each actual subscriber, inclosed in their publications, bills and receipts for the same, free of postage. They may also state on their respective publications, the date when the subscription expires, to be written or printed.

Religious, Educational and Agricultural Newspapers of small size, issued less frequently than once a week, may be sent in packages to one address at the rate of one cent for each package not exceeding four ounces in weight, and an additional charge of one cent is made for each additional four ounces or fraction thereof, the postage to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance.

BOOKS, not over 4 oz. in weight, to one address, 4 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 8 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 12 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 16 cts.

CIRCULARS, not exceeding three in number, to one address, 2 cts.; over three and not over six, 4 cts.; over six and not over nine, 6 cts.; over nine and not exceeding twelve, 8 cts.

ON MISCELLANEOUS MAILABLE MATTER, (embracing all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, handbills and posters, book manuscripts and proof-sheets, whether corrected or not, maps, prints, engravings, sheet music, blanks, flexible patterns, samples and sample cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes or wrappers, cards, paper, plain or ornamental, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, and scions,) the postage to be pre-paid by stamps, is, on one package to one address, not over 4 oz. in weight, 2 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 4 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 6 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 8 cts.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General, the fifth subdivision of the 42d instruction of the new Post Office Law, has been amended by striking out the word twelve and inserting thirty-two before the word ounces, so that it shall read as follows—"The weight of packages of seeds, cuttings, roots and scions, to be franked, is limited to thirty-two ounces."

All mail matter not sent at letter rates of postage, embracing books, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, and other printed matter, and all other mail matter except seeds, must be so wrapped or enveloped with open sides or ends as to enable the postmaster to examine the package without destroying the wrapper, otherwise such packages must be rated with letter postage. No communication, whether in writing or in print, can be sent with any seeds, roots, cuttings or scions, maps, engravings or other matter not printed, except upon the seperate payment of postage upon each separate matter at the established rates.

Exchange newspapers and periodicals cannot be remailed without being chargeable with postage.

Where packages of newspapers or periodicals are received at any post office directed to one address and the names of the club of subscribers to which they belong, with the postage for a quarter in advance, shall be handed to the postmaster, he shall deliver the same to their respective owners. But this does not apply to weekly newspapers which circulate free in the county where printed and published.

Weekly newspapers and all other printed matter to the British North American Provinces, although sent from countries bordering on the line, are chargeable with the same rates as when sent to any point in the United States.

☞ All transient matter must be prepaid by stamps. But if it comes to the office of delivery without prepayment, or short-paid, the unpaid postage must be collected on delivery at double the prepaid rate. rent neglect exists in the strict quarterly prepayment of postage on printed matter sent to regular subscribers. No such paper should be delivered, unless it is either prepaid at the mailing office, or at the delivery office for at least a quarter. If not so prepaid, postmasters must collect postage on each copy as on transient matter. If they fail, they will be charged with the full postage due, and in clear cases removed from office for neglect.

To inclose or conceal a letter or other thing (except bills and receipts for subscription) in, or to write or print anything, after its publication, upon any newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, is illegal, and subjects such printed matter, and the entire package of which it is a part, to letter postage.

Any word or communication, whether by printing, writing, marks or signs, upon the cover or wrapper of a newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, other than the name and address of the person to whom it is to be sent, and the date when subscription expires, subjects the package to letter postage.

DEXHEIMER'S COMBINED STAMPING CUSHION AND PAD.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington, August 9, 1865.

SIR—Your favor of the 28th ult., with model of a new Stamping Tablet and Cushion, is received. The merit of your invention is perceptible at a glance, and has my hearty approval. The plan of its arrangement, together with its compact and portable form, are such as to recommend it to general use. I have no doubt, that its adoption by postmasters would tend to give a plainer post-mark upon letters, as well as a better defacement of the postage stamp. You have, therefore, the best wishes of this Department for its introduction among the various post offices of the country.

Very respectfully,
A. N. ZEVELY,
3d Ass't Postmaster General.

CHRISTIAN DEXHEIMER,
Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The inventor of the combined Stamping Cushion and Pad, above referred to, is now prepared to furnish the same, "ready for use," to postmasters and others at the following rates:

No. 1, $6.00; No. 2, $3.50. Also, the best prepared Stamping Ink furnished by the pound or less.

CH. DEXHEIMER,

POSTMASTERS, BANKERS,

Or any one using a Stamp or Type for hand-printing or stamping. (Nearly every Post Office is supplied with India rubber packing or a cushion to stamp on.)

This PAD recommends itself when seen or used. No one will ever be without who has used one, or look for any other. It gives a clean, clear impression; does not gum the type; is not affected by the weather, and is certain death to postage stamps or bank paper.

The new Pad and Ink can be obtained from me for $2.50 (two dollars and fifty cents.)

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

TO THE BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

Cape Breton, Pr'e Edward's Island, and Nova Scotia. To Newfoundland prepayment required. To Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., any distance.

* 10 cents when not over 3,000 miles from the line of crossing.
* 15 cents when distance exceeds 3,000 miles. Prepayment optional.

Steamers of the Cunard line sail from Boston twice each month, touching at Halifax, and when letters are sent by that conveyance for Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Prince Edward's Island, the U. S. postage is 5 cents the single rate, to be prepaid. The inland rate is collected on delivery. On newspapers by this route, the postage is two cents each.

Newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and sent to regular subscribers in the British North American Provinces, or published in those Provinces and sent to regular subscribers in the United States, are chargeable with the regular prepaid quarterly rates of United States postage to and from the line; which postage must be collected at the office of mailing in the United States on matter sent, and at the office of delivery in the United States on matter received. In like manner, such matter, if transient, is chargeable with the regular domestic transient printed matter rates to and from the line, to be collected at the office of mailing or delivery in the United States, as the case may be. Editors, however, may exchange free of expense.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS.

Valuable letters for Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line via New York, or by the Prussian closed mail via New York and Boston, as also letters addressed to Great Britain and Canada, will be registered on the application of the person posting the same, in the same manner and on the same terms as those deliverable in the United States, provided that the full postage chargeable thereon to destination, together with a registration fee of twenty cents on each letter to Great Britain or Ireland, and five cents on each letter to the other places mentioned above, is prepaid at the mailing office. Such letters should be mailed and forwarded to the respective United States exchange offices in the same manner as domestic registered letters are mailed to those offices.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS, ETC.

All letters to and from foreign countries (the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, France and the British North American Provinces excepted,) are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of half an ounce; double rate, if exceeding half an ounce, but not exceeding an ounce; quadruple rate, if exceeding an ounce, but not exceeding two ounces; and so on, charging two rates for every ounce or fractional part of an ounce over the first ounce. As this rule differs from that followed in respect to domestic letters, great care is requisite to prevent mistakes. Letters in the mail to France are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of one quarter ounce; double rate if exceeding a quarter, but not exceeding half an ounce; and so on, an additional rate being charged for each quarter ounce or fractional part of a quarter ounce. Letters addressed to the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, and the British North American Provinces, are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, one rate being charged for each half ounce or fractional part of half an ounce. Postmasters, should be careful, where the postage is prepaid, to collect the proper amount. They should be particular to notice the route indicated on the envelopes of letters, and to collect postage accordingly. Letters mailed at some offices, marked "via England," or "via Prussian closed mail," for a German State, are frequently taken upon the prepayment of Bremen rates, and those marked "via Bremen," at Prussian closed rates, &c.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS GOING VIA FRANCE

In the case of letters to be forwarded in the British mail for transmission from England via "Marseilles," the French postage is rated at 6 cents the quarter ounce, except on letters for Java, China, Labuan, Borneo, Japan, the Moluccas and Philipine Islands, which are rated at eight cents per half ounce, and except, also, on letters for Syria and Tunis, by French packet, when the single French rate is 12 cents per quarter ounce.

The rates by "French mail" are in full to destination, except to the following places, viz.: Aden, Batavia, Ceylon, China, cities of Turkey, in Europe, except as herein mentioned, via Austria, countries to which correspondence can be sent via Suez, countries beyond seas, via France, other than those enumerated, East Indies, Gibralter, Hong Kong, Java, Mauritius, Montenegro, Penang, Portugal, Isle of Re-Union, Servia, (except Belgrade,) Shanghai, Singapore and Spain. The limit of prepayment to Spain, Portugal and Gibralter, is Behobia; to Servia, (except Belgrade,) Montenegro, and cities of Turkey in Europe, except as herein mentioned, "via Austria;" the frontier of Turkey and Austria; to Aden, East Indies, Ceylon, China, and other countries via Suez, the seaports of the Indies, or of the sea of China to which the English packets ply; and to places beyond seas, other than those designated, the limit is the port of arrival in the country of destination.

RATES ON PAMPHLETS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

On pamphlets and magazines, to or from the West coast of South America, the United States postage is four cents; and to or from all other foreign countries, (except Great Britain, Belgium, and the German States, via Bremen or Hamburg mail,) two cts. per 4 oz. or fraction thereof, to be collected in all cases in the United States.

Newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries (particularly to the continent of Europe) must be sent in narow bands, open at the sides or ends; otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage.

ROUTES OF TRANSMISSION, ETC.

To prevent mistakes at the exchange offices, it is desirable that the particular routes by which letters are to be forwarded from the United States to Europe, should be distinctly written on the covers. Letters intended for transmission in the open mail to England, should bear the direction "open mail via England;" if for transmission in the French mail, they should be directed, "via France in French mail;" if for transmission by closed mail to Prussia, they should be directed "via Prussian closed mail;" if for transmission in the closed mail to Belgium, they should be directed "via Belgian closed mail;" and if for transmission by the New York and Bremen line to Bremen, or by the New York and Hamburg line to Hamburg, they should be directed "via Bremen," or "via Hamburg."

It is important that letters addressed to Germany and other European countries, via France, where the single rate per quarter ounce is 21 cents, should be plainly marked to be sent via France; otherwise they may be missent in the open mail to Liverpool by United States packet, the 21 cent rate per half ounce being also chargeable on letters thus forwarded.

American Postal History.

JANUARY, 1866.

Editor U. S. Mail: Herewith I send you a memorandum of a few facts relating to the postal history of this country, which have come in my way in the course of my reading. They present an outline which, perhaps, some one of your learned correspondents may be prompted to fill out. I presume they might be largely extended by any one who had the leisure. P.

1639. Nov. 5.—The General Court of the Colony of Massachusetts, voted as follows, viz: "For preventing the miscarriage of letters, it is ordered that notice be given that Richard Fairbanks, his house in Boston, is the place appointed for all letters which are brought from beyond the seas, or are to be sent thither, to be brought to; and he is to take care that they be delivered or sent according to their directions; and is allowed for every such such letter a 1d., and must answer all miscarriages through his own neglect in this kind; provided that no man shall be compelled to bring his letters thither, except he please."

1677 June 1—"In answer to the request of several merchants of Boston, declaring that they have heard many complaints made by merchants and others that they have been sensible of the loss of letters, whereby merchants with their friends and employers in foreign parts are greatly damnified, many times letters are thrown upon the exchange, that who will may take them up, &c., therefore humbly desire this Court to depute some meete person to take in and convey letters according to yr direction, this Court judgeth it mete to grant the petitioner's request herein, and have made choyce of Mr. John Hayward, the scrivener, to be the person for that service."

1685. Nov. 19.—Edward Randolph received a royal commission to be postmaster for New England.

1687. Nov. 23.—A monthly post was now contemplated, to pass between Boston and the furthest settlements of distant Connecticut, Governor Andros wrote from Boston to John Allyn, Secretary of Connecticut: "I have spoken to Perry of his going between this and Hartford once a month this winter, if not further, as far as Fairfield and Stamford, as I design oftener in the spring." To which Allyn replied, Dec. 5: "I believe Perry will undertake once a month to pass from Fairfield to Boston in the winter, and once in three weeks in the summer, or oftener if your Excellency desire it, and the charge of it upon the whole will be no great matter. Should it be put upon letters at first, I believe it will not answer the charge, to satisfy the post. But if it were tried one year by any, the better guess may be given for a future settlement of it."

1691. Feb. 17.—Two years after the accession of William and Mary, Thomas Neale was by their patent authorized "to erect, settle and establish within the chief ports of their Majesties' Colonies and Plantations in America, an office or offices for the receiving and despatching letters and packets," and to receive for the service "such rates and sums of money as the planters should agree to give." The office having been made assignable, was assigned by Neale to Andrew Hamilton, who applied to the General Court of Massachusetts for an Act fixing the rates of postage within that Colony. The Act, passed June 9, 1693, fixed the postage of a letter carried between Boston and Salem at three pence; between Boston and places further east, within the limits of the Province, at four pence; between Boston and Piscatequa, or Boston and Rhoda Island, at six pence; and between Boston and Connecticut, Boston and New York, Boston and New Jersey or Pennsylvania, and Boston and Maryland or Virginia, at nine pence, twelve pence, fifteen pence, and two shillings respectively. There was even thus early a penny-post in Boston. "If any letters or packets shall lie and remain in the office uncalled for, by the space of forty-eight hours, the postmaster then sending them forth to the respective houses of the persons to whom they are directed, shall receive one penny more for each letter or packet."

1692.—Sir Edmund Andros having been expelled from Boston, was sent back by King William to America as Governor of Virginia and Maryland. He laid Neale's patent before the Virginia Assembly, with a view to a similar arrangement to what was made in Massachusetts. But the scheme came to nothing "on account of the dispersed situations of the inhabitants."

1694. June 20—Duncan Campbell, a Scotsman, "Deputy-postmaster for New England, on behalf of the undertakers and Colonel Andrew Hamilton, Postmaster General," represented to the General Court that "the charges of his post office were thrice the income," and asked for a salary, whereupon the Court gave him twenty-five pounds a year for two years. He also asked the privilege of "retailing of strong drink and other liquors" free of the excise; a privilege which, he said, was enjoyed by "postmasters in other their Majesties' Plantations" But this it does not appear that the Court allowed.

1701.—Duncan Campbell died, and was succeeded by his son John as "Master of the Post Office of Boston and New England."

1710.—An Act of Parliament, providing for the establishment of post offices in all the Queen's dominions, authorized the Postmaster General to "keep one chief letter office in New York, and other chief offices at some convenient place or places in each of her Majesty's Provinces or Colonies in America." The legal postage for letters or parcels passing between London and New York was, if single, one shilling; if double, two shillings; if triple, three shillings; it weighing an ounce, four shillings. The single rate for letters and parcels passing between New York, Boston, Portsmouth, Newport, or Annapolis, and any place distant not more than sixty miles, was four pence, which payment was doubled, tripled, and quadrupled, for double and triple letters, and letters of an ounce weight.

1700–1720.—In the beginning of the last century, a succession of editors of newspapers were postmasters of Boston,—a thing not without example in other times and places. John Campbell owned the Boston News Letter, the first newspaper in the Colonies; set up in 1704. To judge from one of his advertisements, he turned his position to account by what the Postmaster General at home might have reckoned some official freedoms. He notifies to his patrons, who, without doubt, had the same desire as even now prevails, to get their writing through the mails in the payment of newspaper postage, that, at his office, "an entire sheet of paper, one-half with the news, and the other half good writing paper to write their letter on, may be had for every one that pleases to have it every Monday." William Brooker, Campbell's successor as postmaster, established in 1719, the Boston Gazette, the second newspaper in the Colonies, employing James Franklin, elder brother of Benjamin, as his printer. The Boston Weekly Post-Boy, dating from 1734, was also set up by the postmaster. It might almost seem as if, in our ancient times, that official, like an aspiring statesman of the present, expected to have a paper of his own.

1737.—In this year, Colonel Spotswood, then Postmaster General for the English Colonies, appointed Benjamin Franklin to be Postmaster of Philadelphia. Some of Franklin's advertisements, while he held this position, are instructive in respect to the amount of mail service then rendered. October 27, 1737, he published a notice that "the post office of Philadelphia is now kept at B. Franklin's, in Market Street, and that Henry Pratt is appointed Riding Postmaster for all the stages between Philadelphia and Newport in Virginia, who sets out about the beginning of each month, and returns in twenty-four days; by whom gentlemen, merchants and others may have their letters carefully conveyed, and business faithfully transacted." In 1743, Franklin advertised as follows (April 14): "After this week, the Northern post will set out for New York on Thursdays, at three o'clock in the afternoon till Christmas, [after which it was to go once a fortnight during the winter.] The Southern post sets out next Monday at eight o'clock for Annapolis, and continues going every fortnight during the summer season."

1743 March 7.—Ellis Huske and William Pepperell [afterwards Sir William, the hero of Louisburgh,] gave a bond "in the sum of five hundred pounds sterling, to be paid to Head Lynch, Esq., Deputy Postmaster General of North America, in case the said Ellis Huske should not faithfully discharge the office of Deputy-Postmaster of Boston, and the district thereto belonging."

1753.—By a commission from the Postmaster General of England Benjamin Franklin, jointly with William Hunter, was made Postmaster General for the Colonies.

1760. June 18.—A General Court of Massachusetts "voted that a carrier be employed to ride from Boston to Albany, and back again to Boston, once every fortnight during the present campaign, to carry the several public despatches that may be necessary to be sent. And, also, that the said carrier carry to and from the soldiers in the service of the Province, such letters as they may write home, and as may be sent to them. And that such carrier be allowed for every such journey, and duly performing the same, the sum of six pounds out of the public treasury." At this time the troops of New England and New York were on their way, under General Amherst, to the attack on Montreal.

1768. Sept. 18.—A post rider got into trouble by doing his work in Massachusetts on a Sunday. He petitioned the General Court for relief as follows, viz:

"The petition of David Hyde, of Boston, post rider, humbly showeth.—

"That he was in the month of September last employed by the selectmen of Boston, to carry expresses to the selectmen of the other towns in this Province, relating to matters of a public and important nature, which required the greatest despatch; he, therefore, thought himself obliged, in faithfulness to his employers, to ride from Belchertown to Montague on the 18th of September, being Lord's day; for which he was brought before the Honorable Court of Sessions for the County of Hampshire, convicted and sentenced to pay a fine to the King of ten shillings, and had costs taxed at eighteen shillings, which with the expenses and loss of time, has been a considerable damage as well as trouble to your petitioner.

"Your petitioner presumes not to make any reflections upon the treatment he has received, but throws himself upon the favor of the Honorable Court, praying that his case may be considered, and such redress given, as to your Excellency and Honors may seem meet. And, as in duty bound, shall ever pray."

The Court considered the exigency of the case, and paid him one pound and eight shillings.

1774.—When, after twenty-one year's service, Franklin was discharged from the Postmaster Generalship by the British ministry, as the Revolutionary crisis approached, he wrote in his Autobiography: "Before I was displaced by a freak of the ministers, we had brought the office to yield three times as much clear revenue to the Crown as the post office of Ireland. Since that impudent transaction, they have received from it—not one farthing."

1775. April 28.—[The week after Lexington fight] the Committee of Safety sitting at Cambridge "voted to recommend to the Colony Congress now sitting in Watertown, and it is recommended accordingly, to make an establishment] for post riders between the Massachusetts forces and the town of Worcester."

1775—The Continental Congress made provision for a post office establishment; appointed Franklin Postmaster General, with a salary of a thousand dollars a year, and authorized him to establish such and so many post routes and post offices as he should think proper.

1777. May 16.—Jefferson wrote to John Adams from Williamsburg: "I wish the regulation of the post office, adopted by Congress last September, could be put in practice. It was for the riders to travel night and day, and to go their several stages three times a week." May 26, Adams wrote to Jefferson from Philadelphia: "The post is now extremely regular from North and South, although it comes but once a week. It is very difficult to get faithful riders to go oftener. And the expense is very high, and the profits, so dear is everything, and so little correspondence except in franked letters, will not support the office. Mr. Hazard is now gone southward in the character of Surveyor of the Post Office, and I hope will have as good success as he lately had eastward, where he put the office into very good order." Franklin had been succeeded as Postmaster General by his son-in-law Richard Bache, and his successor was Ebenezer Hazard, who still held the place when the Government was organized under the Federal Constitution. Before the year was out, the office was given to Samuel Osgood. He resigned it in 1792, and it was conferred on Timothy Pickering, and three years later on Judge Habersham, of Georgia, being still unaccompanied by a seat in the Cabinet.

1797.—In this year, the number of post offices in the United States was 480; the number of miles traveled by the mails 14,385; and the gross revenue $46,000. In the last year of the last century, the gross revenue had increased to $80,000.

Monsieur Tonson Again.

BETWEEN BOSTON AND BUFFALO.

It is not imperatively necessary that a man should be a parson to perform the marriage ceremony, for city mayors and country magistrates do it and do it well; nor that he should be a shoemaker or tailor to enable him to judge of the fit and finish of his boots and breeches. It is not necessary that a captain of a steamer should be a practical engineer, a telescope maker an astronomer, or a sewing machine manufacturer a milliner. There is no reason why a dog fancier should be a zoologist, a tobacco chewer a botanist, a guager a spirit rapper, a rejected lover a suicide, a gay, handsome rich young widow a nun, an editor a millionaire, or a critic an author, artist or actor—certainly not—therefore upon this principle I must not be taken for a pedagogue because I attempt to teach, a cynic because I grumble, or a public functionary because I speak sometimes like one in authority.

I deprecate, however, any distrust of my motives or intentions—for they are honest—and have for their object the diffusion of piety, propriety and useful knowledge among the postal multitude.

If I only had the opportunity of meeting some of these officials, I would make good use of my time by personally appealing to their intelligence and judgment, and through those channels attempt to convince them that they commit numberless errors which could be easily avoided, tangle simple business which a novice could perform, and so confound special and general duties as to render their performance difficult, unpleasant and unsatisfactory. One of the most prominent faults is neglect of official instructions in regard to cancelling stamps. A postmark means something or nothing—and ought either to be carefully performed, or entirely abandoned. For business purposes it is invaluable, for reference generally it is very desirable, and for the recovery of lost letters it is almost a necessity. Why, I have received letters frequently with the post-mark so blurred and indistinct as to make me suspect that it was done intentionally for some sinister purpose. Postmasters! don't do it, nor allow your clerks to do it—it looks suspicious, and in the event of local trouble, it will make your record look bad. Therefore, don't.

Again—I have lost letters, and have had letters delayed so as to lose the good effects of their contents—and upon inquiry I have learned that they have been missent by mistake. Now can there be a good excuse for such carelessness? A green hand, to be sure, might err in learning, but for a skilful distributor to be guilty of such culpable work, is to my mind altogether inexcusable. I don't think that the distribution of mail matter is half as difficult as the distribution of type, yet a compositor will work at his case for hours and never throw a letter into the wrong box. Now if delicate pieces of metal can be so artistically managed, why should not letters and papers, with superscriptions upon them plain and palpable? The fact is, the wish to be considered "fast" is paramount to the desire of being considered cautious—hence the annoyance. In this case "slow and sure" should be made the scale by which to measure the capacity of a clerk for such duty—and 2.40 folks should be put at something else.

Speaking of delays, I do not want to be understood as insinuating or asserting that they always occur in post offices. In its desperate inflatory effort to swell itself to the proud proportions of such a "King" as cotton whilom was foolishly supposed to be—the railway monopoly throughout the land has striven to subject every other interest to its will and caprice; and to prevent complaints from quarters which the Department would listen to and act upon, "free passes" and local patronage are resorted to—and it works like a charm. Mails are carried when and how it suits, without reference to their safety, convenience, quick despatch or prompt delivery. Everything else is hurried forward—but when mails are detained, whether by accident or design, and which is frequently the case, it creates no regret, excites no surprise, and there is none so poor as to do them reverence.

There are honorable exceptions, I am glad to admit. One reason of this disrespect and indifference towards the mail service is to be found, I think, in the fact that a very great proportion of the correspondence between railway people is conducted outside of the mails and without payment of postage. Letters marked "R. R. B." are constantly being conveyed by employees from town to town and from station to station, in which there may be a very little "railroad business" and a great deal of something else—love, law and politics; business and pleasure; sales and purchases; supplies and demand; religion and mesmerism; petroleum and Fenianism; agriculture and finance, and various other topics are no doubt discussed in these unpaid epistles, at a great saving of expense in the aggregate to the writers, but certainly defrauding the Post Office Department of that amount of just revenue.

The late cold snap rather abridged my opportunities for general observation, but I promise you that I will soon mount my spectacles and grasp my baize satchel again—and crowned with a new broad-brim, I will go forth with philanthropy in my heart and charity in my eye to do all the good I can.

MONSIEUR TONSON.

Organization of the Department.

At the request of numerous correspondents, we publish below a statement of the organization of the Department, with the functions assigned to each of its officers and bureaus. Postmasters will find this statement useful for reference when in doubt as to the proper heads of the Department to whom to address their various communications:

The direction and management of the Post Office Department are assigned by the Constitution and laws to the Postmaster General. That its business may be the more conveniently arranged and prepared for its final action, it is distributed among several bureaus, as follows: The Appointment Office, in charge of the First Assistant Postmaster General; the Contract Office, including the Inspection Division, in charge of the Second Assistant Postmaster General; the Finance Office, in charge of the Third Assistant Postmaster General; and the Money Order Office, in charge of its Superintendent.

APPOINTMENT OFFICE.—The First Assistant Postmaster General: To this office are assigned all questions which relate to the establishment and discontinuance of post offices, changes of sites and names, appointment and removal of postmasters, route and local agents, also the giving of instructions to postmasters. Postmasters are furnished with marking and rating stamps and letter balances by this bureau, which is also charged with providing blanks and stationery for the use of the Department, and with the superintendence of the several agencies established for supplying postmasters with blanks. To this bureau is likewise assigned the supervision of the Ocean Mail Steamship lines, and of the Foreign Postal arrangements.

CONTRACT OFFICE.—The Second Assistant Postmaster General: To this office is assigned the business of arranging the mail service of the United States, and placing the same under contract, embracing all correspondence and proceedings respecting the frequency of trips, mode of conveyance, and times of departures and arrivals on all the routes, the course of the mail between the different sections of the country, the points of mail distribution, and the regulation for the government of the domestic mail service of the United States. It prepares the advertisements for mail proposals, receives the bids, and takes charge of the annual and occasional mail lettings, and the adjustment and execution of the contracts. All applications for the establishment or alteration of mail arrangements, and for mail messengers, should be sent to this office. All claims should be submitted to it for transportation service not under contract. From this office all postmasters at the ends of routes receive the statement of mail arrangements, prescribed for the respective routes, and to it application should be made for mail bags, locks and keys. It reports weekly to the Auditor all contracts executed, and all orders affecting accounts for mail transportation; prepares the statistical exhibits of the mail service, and the reports of the mail lettings, giving a statement of each bid; also of the contracts made, the new service originated, the curtailments ordered, and the additional allowances granted within the year.

[INSPECTION DIVISION.]—This division, formerly a distinct office, is now merged in and made part of the Contract Office. To this division is assigned the duty of receiving and examining the registers of the arrivals and departures of the mails, certificates of the service of route agents, and reports of mail failures; noting the delinquencies of contractors, and preparing cases thereon for the action of the Postmaster General; furnishing blanks for mail registers, reports of mail failures, and other duties which may be necessary to secure a faithful and exact performance of all mail contracts.

All cases of mail depredation, or violation of law by private expresses, or by the forging or illegal use of postage stamps, are under the supervision of this office, and should be reported to it.

All communications respecting lost money, letters, mail depredations, or other violations of law, should be directed "Contract Office, Inspection Division, Post Office Department."

All registers of the arrivals and departures of the mails, certificates of the service of route agents, and clerks in railway post offices, reports of mail failures, applications for blank registers, and reports of failures, and all complaints against contractors for irregular or imperfect service, should be directed "Contract Office, Inspection Division, Post Office Department."

FINANCE OFFICE.—The Third Assistant Postmaster General: To this office is assigned the issuing of warrants and drafts in payment of balances reported by the Auditor to be due to mail contractors and other persons, and the superintendence of the rendition by postmasters of their quarterly returns of postage. It has charge of the DEAD-LETTER OFFICE and of the issuing of postage stamps and stamped envelopes for the prepayment of postage.

To the Third Assistant Postmaster General all postmasters should direct their quarterly returns of postage; those at draft offices their letters reporting quarterly the net proceeds of their offices, and those at depositing offices their certificates of deposit; to him should also be directed the weekly and monthly returns of the depositaries of the department, as well as all applications and receipts for postage stamps and stamped envelopes, and for dead letters.

MONEY ORDER OFFICE.—To this office is assigned the general supervision and control of the postal money order system throughout the United States.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Jewelry and Lottery Swindlers.

———, ILL., Jan, 1866.

Editor U. S. Mail: I have been (in common, no doubt, with hundreds of other postmasters,) seriously annoyed by the repeated complaints of persons who have been so foolish as to post letters in my office, containing money, and addressed to some of the numerous swindling rascals who are flooding the country, through the mails, with their lying circulars, some offering to send, by means of the "certificate" system, gold and silver watches, chains, diamond breastpins, rings, &c., for sums far below their value—and others offering (on condition that the lucky fellow to whom it is sent, will "show the greenbacks" to his friends) to insure a "prize of at least $5,000" in a Kentucky lottery, for the moderate sum of $10. I am sorry to say that a good many simpletons living in my neighborhood have sent money to these rascals, and—of course having received no return—have been ever since calling at the office and making complaints to me, some of them showing letters from the swindlers, which they had received in reply to their inquiries why the "watch" or the "$5,000 prize" had not been sent. These replies state "we have received no money from you, and if you sent any it has been lost in the post office;" "Your letter must have been lost in the mail;" "You had better call and see your postmaster," &c., &c. Not a few of the victims have gone so far as to hint that their money never left this post office. Now this thing was getting to be such a decided nuisance that I cudgelled my brains to devise a scheme to put a stop to it, and finally hit upon the following, which I am glad to say has "worked to a charm:"

I caused a few copies of the following handbill to be struck-off, and posted them conspicuously in the post office—one just over the letter-drop:

"TAKE WARNING!

"BEWARE OF JEWELRY & LOTTERY SWINDLERS!

"All persons doing business at this post office are hereby cautioned against sending money to the swindlers who are constantly sending through the mails fraudulent circulars, offering JEWELRY CERTIFICATES and PRIZES IN LOTTERIES. Those who issue these circulars are all CHEATS AND SWINDLERS, and all persons are warned against sending them money through the mails, as they are in the habit of pocketing it and denying its receipt. Take no notice of their circulars if they are sent to you"

Since the adoption of this plan, I have had very little trouble with complaints of the "loss" of letters sent to these scamps; and many a greenhorn, who had enclosed his $5 or $10 "greenback" in a letter addressed to some of them, has been induced, by reading the above handbill, to keep his money for a better purpose than throwing it away on these Jeremy Diddlers. I wish every postmaster in the country would post up such a notice (either printed or plainly written) in his office. It would be a benefit both to the public and the Post Office Department, on which these villains throw the blame of their knavish tricks. Yours, &c.,

G. B., P. M.

Three boys at New Haven, Conn., under 12 years of age, have been detected in quite extensive mail robberies and forgeries. One of the boys had in his pocket when arrested a check for $3,300. They are said to be the sons of respectable and worthy parents.

Latter Addresses.

Mr. Postman, of Ashland, don't frown, my good friend,
Because to Ohio this letter I send,
With rhyming address—when with specs on your nose,
You attempt to decipher the place where it goes,
And wonder that those who send letters to you
Cannot plainly direct them as other folks do.
It is simply enough when no other party
Will ask for this letter save Miss Kate McCarty.
Put your specs in their case, and don't trouble your brains,
These stanzas have cost me no end of pains.
There is no rythm left, and the very next time
When I write there shan't be a vestige of rhyme.

STILL ANOTHER.

To the dear town of Ashland, named after Old Harry,
In the county of Ashland, this letter please carry;
Where the men of Ohio, in their might like the fates,
Cut the thread of the traitor who "watches and waits."
In that embryo city, where girls are so sweet,
Just choose on the sweetest and lay at her feet.
This letter of mine, so blooming and hearty,
You certainly cannot Miss Kate McCarty:
Don't tell her what's in it, but quiet and canny,
Say, bearer will wait for an answer to Nannie.

Now, you go across
To John Quackenboss,
Whose middle initial is "D;"
A rollicking blade, he's
The pet of the ladies,
And humors their whims to a "T."
In New York, a street,
As straight as 'tis neat,
West end, eight added to twenty;
Go past every door,
Till you stand one before
Says 201—that's a plenty.
But being no poet—
My doggerel will show it—
My love of entree I'll retire on;
But Johnny well knows—
The "first," indeed, shows—
It's from his fast friend, "exiled" MIRON.

UNITED STATES MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT.

Established 1860. . . By J. HOLBROOK.
J. OAYLER, . . . . Editor.

NEW YORK. FEBRUARY, 1866

TERMS—One dollar per year, payable in advance. All communications to be addressed to the Publisher of the UNITED STATES MAIL, New York.

Subscriptions received at any Post Office in the United States.

☞ Letters containing remittances for subscriptions, or in reference to the business department of this paper, should be addressed to "Publisher U. S. Mail" and not to the Editor.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, October 25, 1861.

DEAR SIR,—I consider the U. S. MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT a valuable and meritorious publication, useful alike to this Department, to Postmasters throughout the country, and to the public. It is my wish to see it generally circulated among postmasters and others, and I shall with pleasure extend to you every proper facility for enlarging the sphere of its official usefulness, and the range of its circulation. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.
To J. HOLBROOK, Special Agent P. O. Department.

The following Official Order has also been made by the Postmaster General:

Ordered, That the Assistant Postmasters General, and Chief Clerk of this Department, each cause to be furnished from time to time to J. Holbrook, for publication in the "United States Mail," all such new orders or regulations of the Department touching the business of the several bureaus as may be of general importance or interest, as soon as practicable after the same shall have been promulgated or established. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, Washington, Oct. 13, 1864.

DEAR SIR:—I have no hesitation in adding my endorsement to that of my predecessor, Postmaster General BLAIR, to the usefulness of the "UNITED STATES MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT," as a medium of communicating correct information to Postmasters and others respecting postal operations; and cheerfully recommend it to the favor and support of Postmasters and other agents of the Department. W. DENNISON, Postmaster General.
To J. GAYLER, Esq., Editor U. S. Mail.

Special Notice to Subscribers.

Each wrapper enclosing a copy of the Mail bears a number in addition to the address. This number signifies that the term for which the subscription is paid expires with the corresponding whole number of the paper. Subscribers will please take this as a notification to forward the subscription for another year, when due, if they intend to renew. Those whom this number reaches, marked 64 or 65, will please remit at once.

☞ Although it is our desire and endeavor that our paper should appear on the first of each month, yet it is sometimes, owing to various circumstances, impossible to secure that result. Important changes in the laws and regulations occasionally occur at such times as to require, for the benefit of our readers, that our issue should be postponed for a few days in order to enable us to lay the details of such changes before them at as early a date as possible, instead of allowing a month to elapse before their publication. Our subscribers will therefore readily understand that a short delay in receiving their papers is sometimes unavoidable, and that when such delay occurs, it is the result of a desire to give them advantage of the latest official information on the postal matters.

Prepayment of Printed Matter.

The new Post Office Bill, now in the hands of the Post Office Committee of the Senate, contains a section providing that prepayment of postage shall be required at the office of mailing on all newspapers and periodicals passing through the mails, (including those sent to regular subscribers from the office of publication) after January 1, 1867. We feel sure that the great majority of our subscribers will join us, in the hope that this excellent provision of the bill will become a law—not only on account of the confusion, trouble, and vexation which at present attend the collection of such postage from subscribers at the offices of delivery—and which have been so often and feelingly alluded to in the many communications from postmasters which have appeared in these columns touching this subject—but on account of the substantial pecuniary advantage which would thereby accrue to the Department. There can be little doubt in the mind of any person familiar with this matter, that under the present system a considerable revenue is annually lost to the Department by neglect and evasion of the law on the part of both postmasters and the public. We can see no good reason why a distinction should be made, in the manner of payment of postage, between printed matter and written correspondence, nor how any injustice can be done by the passage of a law to secure, by this simple and sure means, the payment of what is conceded to be no more than a fair equivalent for the service performed by the Department in the transmission of printed matter. No honest subscriber to a paper will thereby be obliged to pay more for it than at present; nor will any of them be called on—as some insist they now are—for a second payment of the same quarter's postage, by postmasters with short memories. In every way the proposed plan would be an improvement upon that now in operation, and we hope to see it, before our next issue, established as a law.

NEW EDITION OF POST OFFICE LAWS AND REGULATIONS.—Joseph A. Ware, Esq., Solicitor of the Treasury for the P. O. Department, has in preparation a compilation of all existing laws of Congress relating to postal affairs, together with the Revised Regulations of the Department, the work to be issued under the authority of the Postmaster General. No edition of these Laws and Regulations has been issued since that of 1859, and many of those contained in that volume have been superseded by subsequent legislation and the establishment of new regulations. The need of such a work has long been sorely felt, and its appearance—which we understand will not be long delayed—will be welcomed by all connected with the postal service.

Cheap Postage.

The Postmaster General, in his last Annual Report, throws out an intimation which cannot fail to be received with cordial satisfaction by all classes of the community; and the most intelligent and reflecting men will be the most gratified by it. The experiment of one penny postage (equivalent, with us, to two cents) for all distances, has succeeded perfectly in Great Britain, and, through the vast increase of correspondence occasioned by it, has proved far more remunerative than the higher rates. Mr. Dennison says (Annual Report, p. 18):

This Department * * * * * * perceives no reason why, in a few years, with our rapidly increasing prosperity, aided by judicious legislation, a reduction may not be made to the maximum letter rate adopted by Great Britain with such beneficial results."

The question of cheap postage is by no means a question of finance only, nor merely of public accommodation, superficially considered. It is a question vitally connected with the public happiness, intelligence and morality. We have before us a speech on the subject, made in the House of Representatives in 1849, by Mr. Palfrey, of Massachusetts, on the introduction by him of a bill to reduce the single domestic rate to two cents, which he argued would not diminish the gross postal revenue, unless for a very short time. The following is the concluding paragraph:

"Mr. Speaker, if I had time, which I have not, I should not know where to begin to enumerate the blessings of which this simple agency of a reformed postage system would be the certain source,—in such grandeur and beauty does the prospect open before one's view. As to influence on mere industrial prosperity, how mightily would it operate on the activity of business, and accordingly on the wealth of the nation! But this would not be the whole of the benefit or its best part. How would science, letters, invention, benevolent enterprises, rejoice in this privilege of free communication! What an intellectual action would it quicken in every class! I think very much of colleges. I dearly love common schools. But I shall not at present undertake to say that cheap postage will not turn out to be an institution for education more efficient than either. It would set everybody to learning to read and write, who had not already learned; and those who had, it would teach to describe, and narrate, and would excite them to study and observe. I cannot tell how soon it might become a question whether the Mariner's Compass or the Art of Printing had changed the condition of man more than a good system of letter postage. Then as to its bearing on the cultivation of the character and affections;—no consideration could be more fit to be presented here, for a man must be far too stupid to have a place in this hall who does not see its profound and intimate connection with all the sources of a nation's best welfare. Friends,—brothers and sisters,—even parents and children,—separate, to pass the rest of their lives apart. Why is it that in time many become almost strangers to each other? Young men and women leave their homes for business, for service, for school. Why does not a letter sent and received two or three times a week—every day—keep up their interest in their homes, renew constantly a pure enjoyment, and afford the best security against every moral danger? Simply because it would cost too much time and money. But for that, the daily greeting of a written line while absent, would with most, or with many, be as regular as that of the gathering to the morning or the evening repast. Then would follow the better mutual acquaintance of citizens of different parts of the Republic; cementing the political union through their free interchanges of thought and multiplied social relations. But the subject opens too largely, and I forbear. Never was a simpler mechanism for working out great and good effects. A more beneficial agency of government can scarcely be imagined. And before long this Nation and Christendom will say so."

Proposed Amendments to Postal Laws.

On the 12th ult., Senator Dixon, of Connecticut, introduced a bill to amend the Postal Laws which provides:

First—That after January, 1867, all newspapers and periodicals, including those mailed from the office of publication, shall be prepaid, and none shall be carried without payment except those coming from foreign countries. Second—That the Postmaster General may sell stamped envelopes at the value of the stamps impressed upon them. Third—After the 1st of April next, letters forwarded from one post office to another at the request of the person addressed shall be sent without additional postage, and dead letters shall be returned free. Fourth—Letters indorsed to be returned to the writers (act of March 3, 1863,) shall be returned free. Fifth—Authorizes the sending of letters to any part of the United States and any foreign port at a cost not exceeding the sea postage. Sixth—The provision for publishing lists of non delivered letters in newspapers of the largest circulation is repealed, and advertising left discretionary with the Postmaster General. Seventh—The balance of the appropriation of $100,000 under the 13th section of the act of May 19, 1864, may be used as far as necessary to supply deficiencies in the proceeds of the money order system for the current year. Eighth—That any sum not exceeding $50 may be sent by money order, and the fee for from $30 to $40 shall be thirty cents. Ninth—That a money order shall be good for 12 months, and if lost a duplicate shall be issued free. Tenth—That all railroads carrying the mails shall carry without extra charge all printed matter directed by the Postmaster General. Eleventh—That persons maliciously interfering with letter boxes shall be fined from $100 to $1,000 and imprisoned not less than three years. Twelfth—That the President may direct appropriations from one branch of the postal service to another when necessary.

The bill is still in the hands of the Post office Committee, and it is possible that some of its provisions may be amended or stricken out before it is reported back. We understand that the object of that portion of the bill which authorizes the sale of postage stamps on credit, as appears from a letter from the Postmaster General to the Chairman of the Senate Post Office Committee, is to enable the Department to circulate its stamps through the States lately in rebellion. He says this cannot be done to any considerable extent for the reason that the law only authorizes the sale of stamps to postmasters for cash, and that there are many places where there are not qualified persons who can take the oath to fill the post offices, nor persons of sufficient means to enable them to purchase stamps for cash. There are many persons who cannot take the oath who can furnish good bonds, and thus accommodate a very great demand for stamps. He indicates his intention, if the bill passes, to appoint, as far as practicable, assessors, collectors, and other officers of the United States; While the compensation proposed is small, the penalties provided are severe, as in the case of receivers and custodians of the public money. He says further: "It is believed that a measure of the character proposed will not only produce considerable revenue to the Department, but will tend to promote a feeling of contentment and subordination among the people of the Southern States, and at the same time protect the Department against loss."

POST OFFICE CLERKS.—While we cheerfully subscribe to the general opinion that post office clerks are fully up to the average of men of intelligence, industry and faithfulness in other situations, and that they possess one virtue—patience—in a larger measure than is vouchsafed to the majority of the human family, we can not close our eyes or our ears to the fact that in very many instances clerks are found who possess few, if any qualifications so imperatively demanded in the responsible positions they occupy. Granted that a majority of the post office clerks are, in popular parlance, "all right." It is not of these we wish now to speak, but of the other class, happily the minority, who are not the "right men in the right places." And this suggests the question—Do postmasters exercise proper caution in the selection of their clerks or assistants? Not always. The question is easily answered, for complaints, well authenticated, frequently come to us of incapacity, incivility, and sometimes positive rudeness on the part of these officials, which proves that either their general character was not properly inquired into before their appointment, or that they have sadly retrograded since that time. Postmasters cannot be too particular in this respect. Many and peculiar qualifications go to make up the fitness of a person for the position of post office clerk, chiefest among which are honesty and politeness. A rapid workman is not always the best; a talkative clerk does not always make himself agreeable; taciturnity and stupidity are intolerable. There is a mean between rapidity and slowness—between talkativeness and taciturnity. Accuracy should never be sacrificed to rapidity, and a clerk should never be allowed to do his work rapidly who at the same time cannot insure its accuracy in every respect. A letter missent may be gone many days before it can return, and it is no great hardship for a person to wait for his letters a few minutes, while the clerk is properly assorting them and putting them in their respective boxes, especially when he knows that the work is being properly done. True politeness never degenerates into talkativeness. In business, only the necessary words should be used which will quickly and properly express what one wishes to say. Post office clerks should never allow themselves to be drawn into long conversations during business hours.

Honesty is a virtue which, of all others, is essential in a post office clerk, and a postmaster should be well assured of the honesty of a man before giving him a place in his office. No truly honest man, who applies for a situation of such responsibility, can object to have the most searching investigation instituted respecting his character. In fact, justice to himself demands that he should court such investigation, in order that perfect confidence may exist between his employer and himself. This confidence, when thus established, should never be disturbed for a slight cause, for it is the basis of that harmony which, more than anything else, insures the proper transaction of business.

Answers to Correspondents.

About the "U. S. Mail."—W. W., F——, Ind.—1. The U. S. Mail is not sent under the franking privilege, and its subscribers are required to pay the usual postage at quarterly rates, the same as for other monthly publications. 2. The subscription to the U. S. Mail cannot be charged in the quarterly account as part of the necessary expenses of the office, though most of its subscribers, we are glad to say, consider it a necessary part of the office belonging. 3. The questions as to fees for monthly registers and for registering letters are not understood, and had better be repeated more in detail.

Duties of Mail Carriers.—G. F., H——, North H., Vt., (and others.)—The regulations of the Department provide that "if the mail be carried in a stage coach or sulkey, it will be the duty of the driver to deliver it as near the door of the Post Office as he can come with his vehicle, but not to leave his horses, and he should not be permitted to throw his mail on the ground."

Wrapping Letters, (again.)—B. E. W., B——, N. Y.—There is an existing rule of the Department, contained in an order of the Postmaster General, dated May 1 1865, requiring postmasters whose offices are not supplied by "railway post offices," to wrap all letters sent from their offices. Your office is not so supplied, consequently you will conform in this matter to the first paragraph of Sec. 47, and to Sections 42 and 43 of Chap. 4, Regulations of 1859.

Postage on Pamphlets to Great Britain, &c.—A. Mc. M., W——, Mass.—The proper postage on a pamphlet addressed to Great Britain or Ireland weighing over two ounces, is 4 cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce. Consequently a pamphlet so addressed weighing two and a half ounces, requires the payment of twelve cents. If weighing two ounces or less, the proper postage is two cents.

Railroad Letters.—D. B., A——, Tenn.—Railroad employees are only authorized to carry, outside of the mail, (except those sealed and addressed in and prepaid by stamped envelopes of suitable denominations,) such letters as have relation to some article conveyed at the same time by such railroad.

Allowance for Clerk Hire.—A. E. A., I——, Iowa.—Allowance for clerk hire, in the class of offices to which you refer, is made in the discretion of the Postmaster General; an application for the same should be accompanied by a detailed statement of the circumstances of the case.

Marking and Rating Stamps.—J. W. F., P——, Md.—Applications for postmarking stamps should be made to the Appointment office, P. O. Department.

Letters to Members of Congress.—D. P., F——, Missouri.—All letters to and from Members of Congress pass free in the mails as plainly provided by law, and as often repeated in these columns.

Officers' Letters.—E. K. R——, Ohio.—There is no law authorising the transmission, unpaid, of letters written by the officers of the army or navy. You are perfectly correct in not 'seeing' the right of an ex-officer of the army to have his letters forwarded unpaid, unless they are on official business, addressed to such heads of departments and chief clerks of official bureaus as are mentioned in Sec. 42, Act of March 3d, 1863.

Misdirected Letters.—B., S——, Michigan. There is no "rigid" requirement of the Postal Laws which will render it necessary for you to "go against all reason" in this matter. If, as you say, you are certain that the letter you refer to is for Mrs. Mary, A. E——, though there is a trifling error in the address, "reason" and duty require you to deliver it.

Oath attached to Quarterly Account.—H. K., H——, Ind., (and others.)—The law requiring the oath to be attached to each quarterly account, makes no exceptions. Though it seems to bear rather hardly, in a pecuniary way, on you, we know of no remedy. The fee charged by the officer administering the oath, and the expense of the necessary stamp, must be borne by the P. M.

Exchange Papers, &c.—P. M., V——, N. J. 1. We know of no law providing restrictions on the exchange of newspapers between publishers. 2. Weekly newspapers to actual subscribers can pass free in the mails within the county in which they are published, but are not entitled to be delivered free, when deposited in the post office for delivery of the same. 3. The rate now authorised to be paid for advertising letters is one cent each.

Subscribers' Clubs.—J. S., S——, N. Y.—Postmasters are not obliged to write the names of club subscribers on the newspapers, but they are required to deliver such papers on being furnished with a list of the members of the club.

Letters to Commissioner of Pensions.—A. M., O——, N. Y.—Letters on official business to the Commissioner of Pensions are entitled to pass free in the mails, no matter by whom written.

Packages outside the Mails.—J. R., P——, Vt.—We know of no law prohibiting the carrying of bank bills, circulars, handbills, or photographs, outside the mails by mail drivers. A receipt for a package delivered is not a letter. A sealed package which he knows contains a letter or letters he has no right to carry; but it would be difficult to devise a plan by which he could know that every sealed package in his charge, of whatever bulk or form, does not contain a letter.

Mails at Separating Offices.—S. J. H., M——, Ind.—Postmasters at separating offices, when receiving from offices supplied through them "mail matter in a very loose and careless condition," should notify the delinquent postmasters, and suggest a reform. In the meantime see that such matter leaves the separating office in a proper condition. Your first question is too indefinite in its terms to allow of an answer.

Miscellaneous Information.

Dead Letters.

By the instructions under the postal laws, UNMAILABLE LETTERS are specified to be—

Letters attempted to be sent with stamps previously used, or stamps cut from stamped envelopes.

Unpaid letters for foreign countries, on which prepayment is required by the regulations.

Letters not addressed, or so badly addressed that their destination cannot be known.

Letters misdirected to places where there are no post offices.

Civilian's letters, (domestic) wholly unpaid, (including unpaid drop letters.)

Only such letters as are herein described are, when deposited in any post office, to be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office; all others must be dispatched to their destination, charged with the amount of unpaid postage.

When unmailable letters are sent to the Dead Letter Office, the specific reason therefor must be endorsed upon the envelope of each.

These instructions will be strictly followed at all post offices.

For more full instructions relating to dead letters, advertising letters, &c., examine carefully the 7th and 8th Sections of the Act of 3d March, 1863, and the instructions attached thereto; also, Sec. 1, Act of March 3, 1865.

Foreign Letters, &c.

RULE FOR RATING LETTERS TO GREAT BRITAIN, &C.

The attention of postmasters is particularly called to the mode of rating postage upon letters exchanged in the mails between this country and the United Kingdom, which differs essentially from the United States domestic scale, when the weight of the packet or letter exceeds one ounce.

The scale of progression adopted for letters exchanged with the United Kingdom is as follows, viz.:

One rate for a single letter not exceeding ½ oz. in weight.

Two rates when over ½, but not exceeding 1 ounce.

Four rates when over 1, but not exceeding 2 ounces.

Six rates when over 2, but not exceeding 3 ounces; and so on, charging two additional rates for each additional ounce or fraction of an ounce.

Thus, a letter to Great Britain, weighing 4½ ounces, should be paid $2.40, being chargeable as five ounces, or ten rates; but if $2.16 (nine rates only) are paid, owing to an omission to count the fraction as a full ounce, it then goes as unpaid, and the $2.16 is lost to the writer of the letter. These letters (and all other part paid letters to foreign countries) are treated as wholly unpaid, and the amount paid lost to the sender.

In no case should 3, 5 or 7 rates be collected upon a letter or packet addressed to the United Kingdom, the proper charges being either 1, 2, 4, 6, 8 rates, &c., according to weight.

Notwithstanding the explicit instructions of the Department on this subject, it is found that many postmasters are in the practice of charging postage upon letters and packets for the United Kingdom according to our domestic scale, (viz.: one rate for each half ounce or fraction of half an ounce,) and thus insufficient amounts of postage are frequently prepaid, which are entirely lost to the senders, as no account is taken of short payments of postage.

Letters to foreign countries, where prepayment of postage is compulsory, when insufficiently paid are sent to the Dead Letter Office, to be opened and returned to the writers, and are thereby delayed one or two mails, and, no doubt, in many cases, causing serious loss and annoyance to the writers.

REGISTERING FOREIGN LETTERS.—Letters can be registered in the United States for Great Britain and Ireland, for Germany, or any part of the German Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen, Hamburg, or Prussian closed mails. Letters to Canada can be registered, but not to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, or Prince Edward's Island. Postmasters will, therefore, decline to register letters addressed to other foreign countries.

The registry fee to be charged on registered letters to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, via Bremen or Hamburg, or by Prussian closed mail, and to Canada, is five cents—to Great Britain and Ireland, twenty cents. All registered letters must be prepaid in full to destination. See "Foreign Miscellany" on fourth page of this paper, for full information in regard to rating all foreign letters.

Our Postal Convention with the United Kingdom, provides that each country shall levy and collect its postage only, on newspapers, at the rate of two cents each, whether they are sent or received. Hence, newspapers received in this country from Great Britain come prepaid the British postage only, and postmasters must be particular, in all cases, to collect the United States charge of two cents on their delivery.

CANADIAN CORRESPONDENCE.—Irregularities having arisen in respect to Canadian correspondence, these directions must hereafter be observed:

Letters addressed to Canada must be mailed to a United States Exchange Office. Letters cannot be sent direct to Post Offices in Canada.

The postage on a single letter to and from Canada is 10 cents, prepayment optional; but the whole postage must be prepaid or none. Part prepayments are not recognized. Prepayments must be made by United States postage stamps—not in money.

A postmaster may frank a letter to Canada same as to any point in the United States; but it is optional for the Canadian P. O. Department to deliver such letter free, or charge full postage on it, at its pleasure.

COLLECTIONS IN COIN.—In pursuance of the provisions of a resolution of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails despatched to this country from Great Britain and Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen, or Belgium, are collected in gold or silver coin. Should, however, payment of such postage, and of the premium on a corresponding amount of coin, be tendered in United States notes, the same is to be accepted in lieu of coin. The amount to be collected in U. S. notes, (in case coin is not offered,) is marked on each letter on its arrival at U. S. Exchange Offices, and if charged in the post-bills. Hence, when coin is collected at the office of delivery, the difference should be entered in the account of Mails Received as an overcharge.

The above applies exclusively to the mails received from the countries mentioned.

On out-going letters the former regulations remain unchanged, and, when prepaid, the regular rates (in currency) only are to be collected.

Mail Bags and Locks.

DEPOSITORIES.—The following post offices are constituted depositories for mail Bags and Locks, viz:

C., Augusta, Savannah and Columbus, Ga., Tallahassee, Fla., Mobile, Montgomery and Huntsville, Ala., Jackson and Natchez, Miss., New Orleans, La., Little Rock, Ark., Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis, Tenn., Louisville, Ky., Columbus, Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio; Detroit, Mich. Indianapolis, Ind., Springfield and Chicago, Ill., St. Louis, Jefferson City and St. Joseph, Mo., Milwaukee, Wis., Keokuk and Dubuque, Iowa, Galveston, Clarksville and Nacogdoches, Texas; San Francisco, Cal., and Astoria, Oregon.

Postmasters in either of these States or Territories, wanting blanks of any kind, should address "Beverly Clarke, Blank Agent, New York, N. Y."

DISTRICT NO. 3—Supplies blanks for the States of Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, New Mexico, Utah, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska. Postmasters in either of these States, wanting blanks of any kind should address "A. F. Lee, Blank Agent, Buffalo, N. Y."

When the postages collected at an office amount to $100 a year, the name of the postmaster and of his office will be printed on the post bills. When the postmaster's compensation exceeds $12 50 a quarter, the postmaster is entitled to wrapping paper and twine, at the above agencies.

Applications for blank registers of arrival and departure of the mails must be made direct to the "Inspection office." For special instructions, to the First Assistant Postmaster General.

All postmasters whose compensation is less than $12 50 per quarter, can purchase a reasonable quantity of wrapping paper and twine, provided the net proceeds of the office exceed twenty dollars per year.

United States Exchange Offices for Foreign Mails.

Y.; Richford, Franklin, Derby Line, North Troy, Swanton and Canaan, Vt. Cleveland, Ohio, (with Port Stanley in summer,) Sault St. Mary, Port Huron, Detroit and Algonac, Mich.; Fort Fairfield, Robinson, Calais, Houlton and Eastport, Me.

MODE OF INDICATING THE PREPAYMENT OF POSTAGE UPON LETTERS RECEIVED FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

When the United States official postage entries on the letters received from Great Britain or the Continent of Europe, are in red ink, the letter is to be considered as paid, and is to be delivered accordingly; when in black ink, as unpaid, and the postage is to be collected on delivery. The postage on such letters is either wholly paid or wholly unpaid. Postmasters can readily decide any question as to prepayment, by this simple criterion.

Domestic Postages.

The law requires postage on all letters, (including those to foreign countries when prepaid,) excepting those written to the President or Vice-President, or members of Congress, or, (on official business) to the chiefs of the executive departments of the government, and the heads of bureaus and chief clerks, and others invested with the franking privilege, to be prepaid by stamps or stamped envelopes, prepayment in money being prohibited.

All drop letters must be prepaid. The rate of postage on drop letters, at offices where free delivery by carrier is established, is two cents per half ounce or fraction of a half ounce; at offices where such free delivery is not established, the rate is 1 ct.

The single rate of postage on all domestic mail letters throughout the United States is three cents per half ounce, with an additional rate of three cents for each additional half ounce or fraction of a half ounce. The ten cent (Pacific) rate is abolished.

RATES OF LETTER POSTAGE BETWEEN OFFICES IN THE UNITED STATES, AND TO AND FROM CANADA AND OTHER BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES

To and from Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., irrespective of distance.

To and from other British N. Am. Provinces,

| | |
|---|---|
| for distance not over 3,000 miles | 10 cts. |
| For any distance over 3,000 miles | 15 " |

For every additional half ounce, or fraction of a half ounce, an additional rate is charged. Prepayment is optional on all letters for the British North American Provinces except Newfoundland, to which prepayment is compulsory.

Letter postage is to be charged on all handbills, circulars, or other printed matter which shall contain any manuscript writing whatever.

Daguerreotypes, when sent in the mail, are to be charged with letter postage by weight.

Photographs on cards, paper, and other flexible material, (not in cases,) can be sent at the same rate as miscellaneous printed matter—viz., two cents for each four ounces or fraction thereof.

Photographic Albums are chargeable with book postage—four cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof.

Newspaper Postage.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Postage on Daily Papers to subscribers when prepaid quarterly or yearly in advance, either at the mailing office or office of delivery, per quarter, (three months) | | | 35 cts. |
| Six times per week, | " | " | 30 " |
| For Tri-Weekly, | " | " | 15 " |
| For Semi-Weekly, | " | " | 10 " |
| For Weekly, | " | " | 5 " |

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS (one copy only) sent by the publisher to actual subscribers within the county where printed and published, free.

POSTAGE PER QUARTER (to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance) on NEWSPAPERS and PERIODICALS issued less frequently than once a week, sent to actual subscribers in any part of the U. S.:

| | |
|---|---|
| Semi-monthly, not over 4 oz. | 6 cts. |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 12 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 18 " |
| Monthly, not over 4 oz | 3 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 6 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 9 " |
| Quarterly, not over 4 oz. | 1 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 2 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 3 " |

Quarterly postage cannot be paid for less than three months. If a subscription begins at any other time than the commencement of an official quarter, the postage received by the p. m. must still be entered in his account for that quarter. Subscribers for short terms—exceeding three months, say four or five months—can pay quarterly postage for the actual term of their subscriptions—that is for one quarter and a third, one quarter and two-thirds, &c. The law only requires that at least one quarter's postage shall be prepaid, and not more than one year's postage. Any term between one quarter and one year can therefore be prepaid at proportionate rates.

PUBLISHERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS may send to each other from their respective offices of publication, free of postage, one copy of each publication, and may also send to each actual subscriber, inclosed in their publications, bills and receipts for the same, free of postage. They may also state on their respective publications, the date when the subscription expires, to be written or printed.

Religious, Educational and Agricultural Newspapers of small size, issued less frequently than once a week, may be sent in packages to one address at the rate of one cent for each package not exceeding four ounces in weight, and an additional charge of one cent is made for each additional four ounces or fraction thereof, the postage to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance.

NEWSDEALERS may send newspapers and periodicals to regular subscribers at the quarterly rates, in the same manner as publishers, and may also receive them from publishers at subscribers' rates. In both cases the postage to be prepaid, either at the mailing or delivery office.

Publications issued without disclosing the office of publication, or containing a fictitious statement thereof, must not be forwarded by postmasters unless prepaid at the mailing office at the rates of transient printed matter.

Postage on Transient Printed Matter.

[All printed matter (except single copies of newspapers, magazines and periodicals to regular subscribers) sent via Overland Mail, is to be charged at letter postage rates.]

BOOKS, not over 4 oz. in weight, to one address, 4 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 8 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 12 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 16 cts.

CIRCULARS, not exceeding three in number, to one address, 2 cts.; over three and not over six, 4 cts.; over six and not over nine, 6 cts.; over nine and not exceeding twelve, 8 cts.

ON MISCELLANEOUS MAILABLE MATTER, (embracing all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, handbills and posters, book manuscripts and proof-sheets, whether corrected or not, maps, prints, engravings, sheet music, blanks, flexible patterns, samples and sample cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes or wrappers, cards, paper, plain or ornamental, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, and scions,) the postage to be pre-paid by stamps, is, on one package to one address, not over 4 oz. in weight, 2 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 4 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 6 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 8 cts.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General, the fifth subdivision of the 42d instruction of the new Post Office Law, has been amended by striking out the word twelve and inserting thirty-two before the word ounces, so that it shall read as follows—"The weight of packages of seeds, cuttings, roots and scions, to be franked, is limited to thirty-two ounces."

All mail matter not sent at letter rates of postage, embracing books, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, and other printed matter, and all other mail matter except seeds, must be so wrapped or enveloped with open sides or ends as to enable the postmaster to examine the package without destroying the wrapper, otherwise such packages must be rated with letter postage. No communication, whether in writing or in print, can be sent with any seeds, roots, cuttings or scions, maps, engravings or other matter not printed, except upon the seperate payment of postage upon each separate matter at the established rates.

Exchange newspapers and periodicals cannot be remailed without being chargeable with postage.

Where packages of newspapers or periodicals are received at any post office directed to one address and the names of the club of subscribers to which they belong, with the postage for a quarter in advance, shall be banded to the postmaster, he shall deliver the same to their respective owners. But this does not apply to weekly newspapers which circulate free in the county where printed and published.

Weekly newspapers and all other printed matter to the British North American Provinces, although sent from countries bordering on the line, are chargeable with the same rates as when sent to any point in the United States.

☞ All transient matter must be prepaid by stamps. But if it comes to the office of delivery without prepayment, or short-paid, the unpaid postage must be collected on delivery at double the prepaid rate. Great neglect exists in the strict quarterly prepayment of postage on printed matter sent to regular subscribers. No such paper should be delivered, unless it is either prepaid at the mailing office, or at the delivery office for at least a quarter. If not so prepaid, postmasters must collect postage on each copy as on transient matter. If they fail, they will be charged with the full postage due, and in clear cases removed from office for neglect.

To inclose or conceal a letter or other thing (except bills and receipts for subscription) in, or to write or print anything, after its publication, upon any newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, is illegal, and subjects such printed matter, and the entire package of which it is a part, to letter postage.

Any word or communication, whether by printing, writing, marks or signs, upon the cover or wrapper of a newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, other than the name and address of the person to whom it is to be sent, and the date when subscription expires, subjects the package to letter postage.

RATES OF POSTAGE ON PRINTED MATTER FOR FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

1. TO OR FROM GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND, IN UNITED STATES AND BRITISH MAILS.—Newspapers two cents each without regard to weight; pamphlets and periodicals, two cents each if not weighing over two ounces, and four cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce if exceeding two ounces; which is the United States postage only; but pamphlets weighing over eight ounces, or periodicals weighing over sixteen ounces, are chargeable with letter postage. Books and all other descriptions of printed matter, are subject to letter rate of postage. Neither pamphlets nor periodicals are entitled to conveyance in the British mail, through England, to countries on the Continent of Europe.
2. TO OR FROM FRANCE, ALGERIA, OR IN FRENCH MAIL OR VIA ENGLAND.—Newspapers, periodical works, books stitched or bound, pamphlets, catalogues, papers of music, prospectuses, circulars, and all other kinds of printed matter addressed to France, Algeria, or cities of Turkey, Syria, and Egypt in which France has post offices, (viz: Alexandria, Alexandretta, Beyrout, Constantinople, Dardanelles, Galatz, Gallipoli, Ibraila, Ineboli, Jaffa, Kerassund, Latakia, Messina, in Asiatic Turkey, Mitylene, Rhodes, Salonica, Samsoun, Sinope, Smyrna, Sulino, Trebizond, Tripoli, in Syria, Tultcha, Varna, and Volo,) can be despatched to France direct, or by way of England, on prepayment of the United States postage, viz: newspapers, two cents each; periodical works, catalogues, or pamphlets, two cents per four ounces or fraction thereof; and all other kinds of printed matter the same as domestic rates; to be in all cases collected in the United States, whether sent or received. France in like manner collects its own postage on all kinds of printed matter, whether sent or received.
3. TO OR FROM THE GERMAN-AUSTRIAN POSTAL UNION IN THE PRUSSIAN CLOSED MAIL.—Newspapers sent in the Prussian closed mail are chargeable with a postage of six cents each, prepayment compulsory, being in full to destination to any part of the German Austrian Postal Union. Newspapers received by the Bremen or Hamburg line are in like manner prepaid in Germany. On pamphlets, magazines and other printed matter, one cent an ounce or fraction of an ounce must be prepaid at the mailing office when sent from, and collected at the office of delivery when received in the United States. This is the United States postage only.

5. TO BELGIUM, IN THE UNITED STATES AND BELGIUM CLOSED MAIL.—Newspapers, gazettes and periodical works:

DEXHEIMER'S COMBINED STAMPING CUSHION AND PAD.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington, August 9, 1865.

SIR—Your favor of the 28th ult., with model of a new Stamping Tablet and Cushion, is received. The merit of your invention is perceptible at a glance, and has my hearty approval. The plan of its arrangement, together with its compact and portable form, are such as to recommend it to general use. I have no doubt, that its adoption by postmasters would tend to give a plainer post-mark upon letters, as well as a better defacement of the postage stamp. You have, therefore, the best wishes of this Department for its introduction among the various post offices of the country.

Very respectfully,
A. N. ZEVELY,
3d Ass't Postmaster General.

CHRISTIAN DEXHEIMER,
Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The inventor of the combined Stamping Cushion and Pad, above referred to, is now prepared to furnish the same, "ready for use," to postmasters and others at the following rates:

No. 1, $6.00; No. 2, $4.50. Also, the best prepared Stamping Ink furnished by the pound or less.

CHR. DEXHEIMER,
Post Office Clerk,

KRAUS' NEW STAMPING PAD

Is all that is necessary for
POSTMASTERS, BANKERS,

Or any one using a Stamp or Type for band-printing or stamping. (Nearly every Post Office is supplied with India rubber packing or a cushion to stamp on.)

This PAD recommends itself when seen or used. No one will ever be without who has used one, or look for any other. It gives a clean, clear impression; does not gum the type; is not affected by the weather, and is certain death to postage stamps or bank paper.

The new Pad and Ink can be obtained from me for $2.50 (two dollars and fifty cents.)

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

TO THE BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

| | |
| Cape Breton, Pr'e Edward's Island, and Nova Scotia. To Newfoundland prepayment required. To Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., any distance. | * 10 cents when not over 3,000 miles from the line of crossing. * 15 cents when distance exceeds 3,000 miles. Prepayment optional. |

Steamers of the Cunard line sail from Boston twice each month, touching at Halifax, and when letters are sent by that conveyance for Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Prince Edward's Island, the U. S. postage is 5 cents the single rate, to be prepaid. The inland rate is collected on delivery. On newspapers by this route, the postage is two cents each.

Newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and sent to regular subscribers in the British North American Provinces, or published in those Provinces and sent to regular subscribers in the United States, are chargeable with the regular prepaid quarterly rates of United States postage to and from the line; which postage must be collected at the office of mailing in the United States on matter sent, and at the office of delivery in the United States on matter received. In like manner, such matter, if transient, is chargeable with the regular domestic transient printed matter rates to and from the line, to be collected at the office of mailing or delivery in the United States, as the case may be. Editors, however, may exchange free of expense.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS.

Valuable letters for Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line via New York, or by the Prussian closed mail via New York and Boston, as also letters addressed to Great Britain and Canada, will be registered on the application of the person posting the same, in the same manner and on the same terms as those deliverable in the United States, provided that the full postage chargeable thereon to destination, together with a registration fee of twenty cents on each letter to Great Britain or Ireland, and five cents on each letter to the other places mentioned above, is prepaid at the mailing office. Such letters should be mailed and forwarded to the respective United States exchange offices in the same manner as domestic registered letters are mailed to those offices.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS, ETC.

All letters to and from foreign countries (the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, France and the British North American Provinces excepted,) are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of half an ounce; double rate, if exceeding half an ounce, but not exceeding an ounce; quadruple rate, if exceeding an ounce, but not exceeding two ounces; and so on, charging two rates for every ounce or fractional part of an ounce over the first ounce. As this rule differs from that followed in respect to domestic letters, great care is requisite to prevent mistakes. Letters in the mail to France are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of one quarter ounce; double rate if exceeding a quarter, but not exceeding half an ounce; and so on, an additional rate being charged for each quarter ounce or fractional part of a quarter ounce. Letters addressed to the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, and the British North American Provinces, are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, one rate being charged for each half ounce or fractional part of half an ounce. Postmasters, should be careful, where the postage is prepaid, to collect the proper amount. They should be particular to notice the route indicated on the envelopes of letters, and to collect postage accordingly. Letters mailed at some offices, marked "via England," or "via Prussian closed mail," for a German State, are frequently taken upon the prepayment of Bremen rates, and those marked "via Bremen," at Prussian closed rates, &c.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS GOING VIA FRANCE

In the case of letters to be forwarded in the British mail for transmission from England via "Marseilles," the French postage is rated at 6 cents the quarter ounce, except on letters for Java, China, Labuan, Borneo, Japan, the Moluccas and Philipine Islands, which are rated at eight cents per half ounce, and except, also, on letters for Syria and Tunis, by French packet, when the single French rate is 12 cents per quarter ounce.

The rates by "French mail" are in full to destination, except to the following places, viz.: Aden, Batavia, Ceylon, China, cities of Turkey, in Europe, except as herein mentioned, via Austria, countries to which correspondence can be sent via Suez, countries beyond seas, via France, other than those enumerated, East Indies, Gibralter, Hong Kong, Java, Mauritius, Montenegro, Penang, Portugal, Isle of Re-Union, Servia, (except Belgrade,) Shanghai, Singapore and Spain. The limit of prepayment to Spain, Portugal and Gibralter, is Behobia; to Servia, (except Belgrade,) Montenegro, and cities of Turkey in Europe, except as herein mentioned, "via Austria;" the frontier of Turkey and Austria; to Aden, East Indies, Ceylon, China, and other countries via Suez, the seaports of the Indies, or of the sea of China to which the English packets ply; and to places beyond seas, other than those designated, the limit is the port of arrival in the country of destination.

RATES ON PAMPHLETS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

On pamphlets and magazines, to or from the West coast of South America, the United States postage is f[our] cents; and to or from all other foreign countries, (except Great Britain, Belgium, and the German States by Bremen or Hamburg mail,) two cts. per 4 oz. or fraction thereof, to be collected in all cases in the United States.

Newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries (particularly to the continent of Europe) must be sent in narow bands, open at the sides or ends; otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage.

ROUTES OF TRANSMISSION, ETC.

To prevent mistakes at the exchange offices, it is desirable that the particular routes by which letters are to be forwarded from the United States to Europe, should be distinctly written on the covers. Letters intended for transmission in the open mail to England, should bear the direction "open mail via England;" if for transmission in the French mail, they should be directed, "via France in French mail;" if for transmission by closed mail to Prussia, they should be directed "via Prussian closed mail;" if for transmission in the closed mail to Belgium, they should be directed "via Belgian closed mail;" and if for transmission by the New York and Bremen line to Bremen, or by the New York and Hamburg line to Hamburg, they should be directed "via Bremen," or "via Hamburg."

It is important that letters addressed to Germany and other European countries, via France, where the single rate per quarter ounce is 21 cents, should be plainly marked to be sent via France; otherwise they may be missent in the open mail to Liverpool by United States packet, the 21 cent rate per half ounce being also chargeable on letters thus forwarded.

Opening Letters in the British Post Office.

We copy from Mr. Wm. Lewins' "History of the British Post Office," an interesting account of the investigation into the fact—the revelation of which created so great an excitement at the time—that it was a practice of the British Government to open letters passing through the Post Office for the purpose of defeating certain political plots against foreign governments. It is proper to say that this investigation led to a total abandonment of the system; and we print the article simply as a reminiscence of the past, and not as reflecting upon the present management of the British Office:

It will be fresh in the memory of many readers, that the year 1844 revealed to the public certain usages of the British Government, and a branch of post-office business—previously kept carefully in the dark—which went far to destroy the confidence of the nation in the sanctity of its correspondence. In the session of 1844, Mr. Thomas S. Duncombe presented a petition from Mr. W. J. Linton, M. Mazzini, and two other persons residing at 47, Devonshire Street, Queen's Square, complaining that their letters were regularly detained and opened at the Post-Office. The petitioners declared that they "considered such a practice, introducing the spy-system of foreign states, as repugnant to every principle of the British constitution, and subversive of that public confidence which was [illegible] to a commercial country." The petitioners prayed for an inquiry, and Mr. Duncombe supported their prayer. Sir James Graham, then Home Secretary, got up in the House and stated that, as regarded three of the petitioners, their letters had not been detained; as for the case of M. Mazzini, a warrant had been obtained from the Home-Office to stop and open the correspondence of that person. He had the power by law and he exercised it. "The authority," said Sir James, "was vested in the responsible Ministers of the Crown, and was intrusted to them for the public safety: and while Parliament placed its confidence in the individual exercising such a power, it was not for the public good to pry or inquire into the particular causes which called for the exercise thereof." He hoped that the House would confide in his motives, and that they would not call upon him to answer any further inquiries. The speech of the Home Secretary added fuel to the same. Had Sir James Graham entered more fully into the subject, and gone into the real state of the law, it is probable that the subject might have been allowed to drop. Not only was the slightest explanation of the principle adopted refused by the Home Secretary, but that refusal was given somewhat cavalierly. Public attention was thus roused; the most exaggerated rumors got abroad; it was openly stated by the press that a gigantic system of espionage had been established at St. Martin's le-Grand, and now no mere general assurances of its unreality could dispel the talk or stop newspaper extravagances. Sir James Graham was abused most unreasonably. There was hardly a public print or public speaker in the kingdom that did not heap insults or expressions of disgust on his name. This state of things could not continue; accordingly, we find Lord Radnor, moving soon after in the House of Lords, for a return of all warrants which had been issued for the detention of letters during a certain period, animadverting especially upon the alleged practice of general warrants to intercept all letters addressed to a certain person instead of there being issued a separate warrant in the case of each letter. This mode of proceeding as he truly said, if acted upon, was a flagrant violation of the words of the statute. Lord Campbell expressed the same views. Lord Brougham observed that the first statute conferring this power had been framed by Lord Somers. It had been continued ever since by various Acts, and had been exercised by Sir Robert Walpole, Lord Grenville, and Mr. Fox, as well as under the administrations of Lord Grey and Lord Melbourne. If Lord Campbell's construction of the Act were correct, the sooner they had a new one the better. Lord Denman was for putting an end to the power altogether. The return was granted, the Duke of Wellington approving the Home Secretary's conduct notwithstanding.

On the 24th of June, 1844, Mr. Duncombe again called the attention of the House of Commons to the subject, by presenting a petition from Mr. Charles Stolzman, a Polish refugee, complaining that his letters had been detained and opened. Mr. Duncombe contended that the Act of 1837 never meant to confer an authority upon a Minister of the Crown to search out the secrets of exiles resident in this country at the instance of foreign Governments, but was only designed to meet the case of domestic treason. "Mr. Stolzman was a friend of M. Mazzini," said Mr. Duncombe, "and this was why his letters had been tampered with." After describing the way in which letters were opened, he concluded a most powerful speech by again moving for a committee of inquiry. He did not want to know Government secrets; he doubted if they were worth knowing; but he wanted to inquire into the practice of the Department, which he contended was unconstitutional and contrary to law. Sir James Graham, without entering into any further explanation, except saying that the law had not been violated, and that if it had, the honourable member might prove it before a legal tribunal, objected strongly, and in almost a defiant manner, to any committee. Mr. Macaulay, Lord Howick, Mr. Sheil, and Lord John Russell warmly supported the motion for an inquiry. Sir Robert Peel, Lord Stanley, and Mr. Monckton Milnes opposed it, when it was rejected by a majority of forty-four. What party speeches failed in doing, the clamour and the popular tumult outside at length accomplished. Popular ridicule settled upon the subject; pencil and pen set to work upon it with a will. Newspapers were unusually, and sometimes unreasonably, free in their comments, and all kinds of stories about the Post-Office went the round of the press. Sir James Graham had to bear the brunt of the whole business; whereas the entire Cabinet, but especially Lord Aberdeen, the Foreign Secretary, ought equally to have shared the opprobrium. As it was, the bearing of the Home Secretary in the House of Commons was singularly unwise and unadroit. The subject had now come to be regarded as of too great public importance to be suffered to rest; besides, it was an attractive one for the Opposition side of the House. Mr. Duncombe renewed his motion towards the end of July in the same session. It was in a slightly altered form, inasmuch as he now moved for a select committee "to inquire into a department of Her Majesty's Post-Office commonly called 'the secret or inner office,' the duties and employment of the persons engaged therein, and the authority under which the functions of the said office were discharged." Mr. Duncombe made some startling statements as to the mode and extent of the practice of letter-opening, all of which he declared he could prove if the committee was granted. The Government saw the necessity of giving way, in order that the public mind might be quieted. The Home Secretary now acknowledged, that since he was last questioned on the subject, the matter had assumed a very serious aspect, and he thought it was time that the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, should be told. Though he would have readily endured the obliquy cast upon him, even though it should crush him, rather than injure the public service; and though he had endured much, especially after the votes and speeches of the Opposition leaders—all men conversant with official duties—in favour of Mr. Duncombe's former motions, he now felt himself relieved from his late reserve, and felt bound to confess that he believed it to be impossible to maintain the power confided to him longer without a full inquiry. He would now not only consent to the committee, but would desire that it should make the fullest possible inquiry, and he would promise on his part, not only to state all he knew, but lend all the resources of his Department to attain that object. In accordance with this determination he proposed that the Committee should be a secret one, invested with the amplest powers to commence the investigation at once, and should be composed of five usually voting against the Government, viz., Sir C. Lemon, Mr. Warburton, Mr. Strutt, Mr. Orde, and the O'Connor Don; and four who generally support them, viz.: Lord Sandon (chairman), Mr. T. Baring, Sir W. Heathcote, and Mr. H. Drummond. "To this committee," said Sir James, "I gladly submit my personal honour and my official conduct, and I make my submission without fear." The committee was appointed after Mr. Wilson Patten's name had been substituted for Mr. Drummond's on account of the latter being a lawyer; and after an unsuccessful attempt to add Mr. Duncombe's name, which was rejected by 128 to 52. Its object was "to inquire into the state of the law with respect to the detaining of letters in the General Post-Office, and to the mode in which that power had been exercised, and that the Committees should have power to send for persons, papers, and records, and to report the result of their inquiry to the House." A Committee of the House of Lords was appointed at the same time. Sir James Graham's examination lasted four days, when he fulfilled his pledge to make a full and unreserved disclosure of all he knew. Almost all the members of that and former Governments were examined. Lord John Russell confessed to having done the same as Sir James Graham when he held the seals of the Home-Office, though he had not used the power so frequently. He also stated that he supported Mr. Duncombe in his previous motions for inquiry, because he thought it necessary that the public should have the information asked for. Lord Normanby had used the power in Ireland for detecting "low ribbonism, which could not be ferretted out by other means." Lord Tankerville testified to the existence of a warrant signed by Mr. Fox in 1782, ordering the detention and opening of all letters addressed to foreign ministers; another, ordering that all the letters addressed to Lord George Gordon should be opened. Witnesses were also brought from the Post-Office. Mr. Duncombe, on being asked for a list of witnesses to prove his allegations, refused to hand in their names unless he were allowed to be present during the examination. This the Committee had no power to grant, and consequently he declined to proceed. Mr. Duncombe appealed to the House, but the decision of the Committee was confirmed.

No considerable part of the Committee's time was taken up in the production and examination of records, acts, and precedents bearing on the subject. The officers of the State Paper Office and other high Government functionaries produced records and State papers of great importance, from which we learn many interesting particulars of early postal history. At some risk of being charged anachronism, we have thought it desirable to introduce these details in the order of the subject under treatment.

James I. in establishing a foreign post, was more anxious that Government secrets should not be disclosed to foreign countries, "which cannot be prevented if a promiscuous use of transmitting foreign letters and packets should be suffered," than that the post should be of use to traders and merchants. There was a motive for the jealous monopoly of postal communications; and if the proclamation from which the above is taken (Ryner's Fœdera) is not clear on the subject, the following extract from a letter written by the one of Jame's secretaries to the other, Lord Conway, is sufficiently explicit: "Your Lordship best knoweth what account we shall be able to give in our place in Parliament of that which passeth by letters in and out of the land, if every man may convey lettres as he chooseth." Sir John Coke, the writer of the above, would seem to have got rid of the difficulty in a thorough manner, if we may believe an English letter-writer addressing a friend in Scotland, when he wrote, "I hear the posts are waylaid, and all letters taken from them and brought to Secretary Coke."

During the Commonwealth, of course, letter opening was to be expected. The very reason which Cromwell gave for establishing the posts was, that they would be "the best means of discovering and preventing many wicked designs against the Commonwealth, intelligence whereof cannot well be communicated but by letter of escript." Foreign and home letters shared an equal fate. On one occasion, the Venetian ambassador remonstrated openly that his letters had been delayed and read, and it was not denied. At the restoration, a distinct clause in the "Post-Office Charter" provided that "no one, except under the immediate warrant of one of our principal Secretaries of State, shall presume to open any letters or pacquets not directed unto themselves."

Under the improved Act of Queen Anne, 1711, it is again stated that "no person or persons shall presume to open, detain, or delay any letter or letters, after the same is or shall be delivered into the General or other Post-Office, and before delivery to the persons to whom they are addressed, except by an express warrant in writing under the hand of one of the principal Secretaries of State for every such opening, detaining, or delaying." This Act was continued under all the Georges, and again agreed to in 1837, under 1 Vict. C. 32.

During the last century, the practice of granting warrants was exceedingly common; and they might have been had on the most trivial pretences. It was not the practice to record such warrants regularly in any official book, and few are so recorded: we can only guess at their number from the frequent mention made of them in the state trials of the period, and in other incidental ways. In 1723, at Bishop Atterbury's trial, copies of his letters were produced and given in evidence against him. A clerk from the Post-Office certified to the fact that they had passed through the post, and that he had seen them opened, read and copied. Atterbury, as well he might, asked for the authority for this practice; and, especially, if the Secretary of State had directed that his letters should be interfered with? A majority in the House of Lords decided that the question need not be answered. It is pleasant to relate that twenty nine peers recorded an indignant protest against this decision. One of them proposed to cross-examine the Rev. (!) Edward Willes, "one of his Majesty's Post-Office decipherers," but the majority going to a still greater length, resolved; "That it is the opinion of this House that it is not consistent with the public safety to ask the decipherers any questions which may tend to discover the art or mystery of deciphering." Again, at the trial of Horne Tooke for high treason in 1795, a letter written to him by Mr. Joyce, a printer, was intercepted at the Post-Office, and was stated by the prisoner to be the immediate occasion of his apprehension. On his requiring its production, a duly certified copy was brought into Court by the Crown officer and given in evidence.

Twelve years after the trial of Bishop Atterbury, members of both Houses became alarmed for the safety of their correspondence, and succeeded in getting up an agitation on the subject.

Several members of the House of Commons complained that their letters had been opened. Revelations were made at this time which remind us strongly of the episode of 1844, both discussions resulting in a parliamentary committee of inquiry. It was stated in the debate of [illegible] liberty which the Act gave "could serve no purpose but to enable the idle clerks about the office to pry into the private affairs of every merchant and gentleman in the kingdom. It transpired on this occasion that a regular organization existed, at enormous expense, for the examination of home and foreign correspondence. The Secretary of the Post Office stated that the greater part of 45,000*l.* had been paid, without voucher of any kind, to Robert, Earl of Oxford, for defraying the expenses of this establishment. Among the principal annual expenses were the salaries of the chief decipherers (Dr. Willis and his son), 1000*l.*; the second decipherers, 800*l.*; the third 500*l.*; four clerks, 1,600*l.*; doorkeeper, 50*l.*; incidental charges, but principally for seals, 100*l.* The result of the inquiry was, that the Committee condemned the practice, and the House declared that it was a breach of priviledge on the part of the Government to use the power except in the exact manner described in the statute.

Whether any real improvement took place may best be judged by the following circumstances. Walpole, who doubtless carried his prerogative in those matters beyond any two Secretaries of State we could mention, lent his ear to both public and private applications alike, issuing warrants even to further cases of private tyranny. In the Report of the Secret Committee, p. 12, we find that a warrant is granted, in 1741, for what purpose may be judged by the following: "At the request of A, a warrant is issued to permit A's eldest son to open and inspect any letters which A's youngest son might write to females, one of which that youngest son had imprudently married." And this inquisitorial spirit beginning with the highest, decended even to the lowest class of officials. A writer in the Encyclopædia Britannica, vol. xviii. p. 405 (quoting from the State Trials, vol. xviii. p. 1369), tells us, in relation to this subject, that so little attention was paid to the requirements of the Act of Queen Anne, or the Committee of the House of Commons just referred to, the very bellmen took to scrutinizing the letters given them for their bags. One of those functionaries was examined at the trial of Dr Hensey in 1758, and deposed as follows: "When I have got all my letters together I carry them home and sort them. In sorting them I observed that the letters I received of Dr. Hensey were generally directed abroad and to foreigners; and I, knowing the Doctor to be a Roman Catholic, advised the examining-clerk at the office to inspect his letters." This witness, in answer to the questions, "How came you to know Dr. Hensey to be a Roman Catholic?" and "What had you to do with his religion?" clinched his evidence thus: "We letter-carriers and postmen have great opportunities to know the characters and dispositions of gentlemen, from their servants, connexions, and correspondents. But, to be plain, if I once learn that a person who lives a genteel life is a Roman Catholic, I immediately look upon him as one who, by education and principle, is an inveterate enemy to my King and country."

Back Numbers of the Mail.—Many of our new subscribers request us to forward back numbers of the Mail; but we regret to say that it is out of our power to comply with this request to any great extent. The increase in our subscription list has exhausted the issues of several months, and we are only able to supply those of the present year and a few of some of those of the past. We shall send as many back numbers as possible to those who order them; but those who do not receive all they wish will understand the reason.

POST OFFICE MATTERS PAST AND PRESENT.

Editor U. S. Mail: The writer of this was once a boy, his paternal parent a postmaster in a very nice town near Cincinnati, Ohio. It was when the Western Stage Company ran Troy coaches through the country on all good and often awful roads. This boy still has a distinct recollection of how the drivers were wont to issue clarion notes from some old battered and cracked bugle, keyless, and with only one circle. These notes were "demand," and if you were not present to redeem the issue, you generally heard notes of quite a different sound and value, partaking of the guttural muchly.

In those days postage was "up," twenty-five cents for Pittsburg or New York letters—ten cents for state letters. People wrote letters then, foolscap was even too small. Love missives could not be borne on note or letter. Not at all. Words, sighs, vows, embraces, heart yearnings, &c., all came well mixed. Business letters related to weather as well as commercial statistics and transactions; politicians wrote by volume, in fact letters were letters, and none declined paying the price demanded.

The Post Office Department was one of the wonders then. The arrival of the mail was one of the events that was marked with considerable consideration by the little community.

In those days the metallic currency jingled with its music, and the writer says he never knew a person who did not love its melodious notes, and more especially if the currency was his own. The copper pieces then were used to pay the letter carrier for his work, and this boy used to have plenty. Foreign letters often brought him a dozen, so pleased were the Germans or Britons to receive one from the old country.

But the past is past, the country—yes, the world—has our history. Time changes all things. The old and once familiar machinery of the Post Office Department has changed. These changes are good, progression is the law, and those who will violate it must suffer. The adoption of pre-paid postage on letters has proved conclusively that the Department can be made, as it has, a self supporting one, and in view of this important financial as well as practical fact, it is the duty of Congress to extend the theory and practice still farther in the Department. Let the law extend to the newspapers and literary publications throughout the land. Let this be done, and then the United States will see how much more the benefits apply to the system of prepayment of postage. Old times are past. New times are upon us. And this demands that progression must be applied to the Post Office Department as well as to the army and navy. Look at the ordnance improvements. Do we see old Harper Ferry flint-locks now in use? No. But the Springfield rifle of 1861 to 1863. Let the Post Office Department use the same calibre, by loading with the cartridges of universal prepayment of all kinds of United States postage. It will only require one or two volleys, or one or two rounds from the new guns to convince all of the superior applications of this law. As I have carried a musket for over four years, I ought to know something about them. This law will enable the Post Office Department to receive all the postage that is due, and will relieve the many thousands of postmasters from the painful necessity of demanding postage, or withholding the mail matter. Many postmasters pay the postage often, because they cannot collect it, and would rather do so than to have the matter in their offices, while the writer has but little doubt that thousands of dollars of postage is not paid, because it is not reported, but not intentionally, on the part of postmasters, but because the matter is often transient, and only comes occasionally. Let us have prepayment on all printed matter.

Registering Letters.

"It is of the utmost importance that postmasters should exercise the greatest care and diligence in the custody and despatch of registered letters."—Instructions issued by Postmaster General with Act of March 3, 1863.

[We have compiled from the regulations of the Department the following instructions in regard to the registration of letters. They are intended specially for the benefit of postmasters at the smaller offices, and include replies to many questions on this subject, which we are constantly receiving from our subscribers.]

Registered Letter Blanks.—All the blanks which are required for use in the registration of letters can be obtained by addressing the Blank Agents of the Department, whose names and addresses will be found in another column.

Registration Fees.—The registration fee on all registered domestic letters is twenty cents, and the same on letters to Great Britain and Ireland. On those to Canada, and to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line, or by Prussian closed mail, the fee is five cents. The places mentioned above are the only foreign countries to which letters can be sent registered. The full postage on all registered letters, both foreign and domestic, must be prepaid by stamps.—(See last column of fourth page of this paper.)

Receiving Letters for Registration.—A sheet is furnished by the Blank Agents, on application by postmasters, on the right hand of which is printed the form of "Registered Letter Receipt," in the centre the "Return Registered Letter Receipt," and on the left hand the "Marginal Entry." When a letter is presented for registration, the postmaster should give to the depositor the registered letter receipt, (right hand) first entering therein the registered number of the letter, the date of deposit, the name of his post office, the name and residence of the depositor, and the address of the letter. In the Return Registered Letter Receipt, (centre) should be entered the same items, and also in the Marginal Entry, (left hand.) This latter is to be retained by the postmaster, and the return receipt disposed of as hereinafter directed. No entry of the sum said to be contained in the letter is required to, or should, be made.

Preparing Registered Letters for Mailing.—After the above directions have been followed, the postmaster will fill up a "Registered Letter Bill," (which is printed on the back of the ordinary post-bills headed "Unpaid Letters," which are supplied to all small offices,) entering therein the same items which are entered in the "Return Receipt;" but being careful, when intending to forward the registered letter through a Distributing Post Office, to insert the name of that office instead of that of the office which the letter is intended finally to reach. (In all cases, however, the "Return Receipt" must be filled up with the name of the office of final destination.) Then he will fill up the "Return Bill," (which must not be confounded with the "Return Receipt") in the same manner; then enclose the letter, the "Registered Letter Bill" and the "Return Receipt" in a sealed envelope, marked "Reg." or "Registered," and addressed to the postmaster of the office to which he intends to forward it.—[N. B. The instruction printed on the present "Registered Letter Bills," to the effect that postmasters are "not required to put up registered letters in a separate envelope," &c., has been rescinded by the Department, and all registered letters are now required to be so put up.] Then he will enclose it in a wrapper, marked with the name of the same office to which he has addressed the envelope in which he has placed the letter. The package should then be placed in the mail and sent forward—but should never be placed in a bundle of letters intended for distribution—as a registered letter is always intended to reach the postmaster of whatever office it is sent to, and consequently is not, strictly speaking, a distribution letter, although it may be sent to a Distributing Office.

Mailing Registered Letters.—It is advisable for postmasters, at all small offices, to mail such of their registered letters as are intended for offices outside of their respective States, to the first Distributing Post Office on the route over which it is intended the letters shall pass—being careful to address the sealed envelope in which they enclose them, to the postmaster of that office, and also marking the name of that office on the wrapper, and being sure that the "Registered Letter Bill" is also filled up with the name of that office. In short, registered letters sent through a Distributing Post Office, should be mailed and billed exactly the same as though they were intended for delivery there. It is only when registered letters are sent direct that the bill should be filled up with the name of the office of final destination.

The "Return Bill."—This should be filled up exactly in the same manner, and bear the same date as the "Registered Letter Bill," but should be sent in the next mail which leaves the office after the one in which the letter it refers to was sent. It should be enclosed in an envelope addressed to the postmaster of the same office to which the letter was sent, whether for delivery or for distribution.

Accounts of Registered Letters "Sent" and "Received."—Separate blank sheets for these accounts are furnished by the Department, and may be procured by application to the different Blank Agents. On these are entered the dates of receiving (and sending) registered letter bills, the names of the offices to which the letters are sent (and from which they are received,) the registered numbers of the letters, the names of the persons to whom they are addressed, and the amounts of the registry fees paid on them. These sheets will be retained by postmasters, copies being forwarded to the Department with the Quarterly Accounts.

Delivery of Registered Letters.—On receiving a registered letter for delivery, the postmaster should deliver it only to the person to whom it is addressed, or to some person whom he knows to be authorized to receive it, taking a receipt therefor, and also requiring the person to whom he delivers it to sign the "Return Receipt" which accompanies it. This "Return Receipt" he should then forward by first mail to the postmaster of the office at which the letter was originally mailed. When the "Return Bill" arrives, (which it should by next mail after the letter,) it should be marked "correct," and signed by the postmaster, and then forwarded by first mail to the postmaster of the office at which it is dated, whether that be a Distributing Office or the one at which the letter was originally mailed. If, however, a "Return Bill" arrives, and the letter which it calls for has not been received, the "Return Bill" must be marked "not received," signed by the postmaster, and returned in the same manner.

Forwarding Registered Letters.—When a registered letter arrives, addressed to a person who has removed, or who for any other cause wishes it forwarded to him at another office, it may be done at his written request. The order to forward should be posted on the account of registered letters received, opposite the name of the person making the request. The letter should then be sent forward as a registered letter—in the same manner as if originally mailed as one; but no additional registry fee is to be charged on it. The order to forward must be filed in the office of forwarding, as a voucher for the action had in the case.

Letter Addresses.

Swift as lightning, letter glide,
To an Alling, called Alide
Visiting in Cincinnati,
Oh-oh! that's what's the matter.
Then hurry up as for your life,
To Seventh Street. 375.

Oh! Postman dear, this letter send
To E. G. O., my early friend,
To Louisville in Kentuckey state,
For I have paid the Postman's rate,
First Division 15 Corps,
Camped close by Ohio's shore;
Eighty first Regt Co. 1,
Ohio's Brave Bold infantry;
And you'll receive the hearty thanks
Of your friend & Pitcher.—Crippled Shanks.

[From a letter from San Francisco, Cal., via Overland route;]

"Too late for the steamer, oh great is my sorrow,
For by overland mail this will start out to-morrow.
Start, and that's all, t'will never get there,
For the overland is a nuisance I surely declare.
Half the letters are lost that start o'er the plains,
And all that are lost are Ben Holliday's gains,
However, I hope that this one will prove,
Quite lucky enough to keep on the move,
By coaches, and ox teams, and never keep still,
Till it reaches the town which is dubbed Jacksonville,
In old Illinois where I hope this brave rover
May be handed at once to Miss Mary A. Glover."

The following address was on a white envelope:

My little white winged messenger
To ALLIS M. OGDEN flee
O'er plain—through vale—along the rail,
And halt at WASHINGTON, D. C.
A trusty hand will take you then
To the office of Q. M. G.,
Or General Meigs—'tis all the same—
And from the mail-bag set you free.

You'll find the boy up stairs, I think—
A second-class red-headed clerk,
Laboring as hard, I trust you'll find
As those chaps usually work.
If he should chance to take offence
At aught that your inside contains
Why tell him you're not half so bad
As one that was received by GAINES.

POST OFFICE ASSISTANT.

Established 1860. . . By J. HOLBROOK.
J. GAYLER, . . . . . Editor.

NEW YORK, MARCH, 1866.

TERMS—One dollar per year, payable in advance. All communications to be addressed to the Publisher of the UNITED STATES MAIL, New York.

Subscriptions received at any Post Office in the United States.

☞ Letters containing remittances for subscriptions, or in reference to the business department of this paper, should be addressed to "Publisher U. S. Mail" and not to the Editor.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
October 25, 1861.

DEAR SIR,—I consider the U. S. MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT a valuable and meritorious publication, useful alike to this Department, to Postmasters throughout the country, and to the public. It is my wish to see it generally circulated among postmasters and others, and I shall with pleasure extend to you every proper facility for enlarging the sphere of its official usefulness, and the range of its circulation. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.
To J. HOLBROOK, Special Agent P. O. Department.

The following Official Order has also been made by the Postmaster General:

Ordered, That the Assistant Postmasters General, and Chief Clerk of this Department, each cause to be furnished from time to time to J. Holbrook, for publication in the "United States Mail," all such new orders or regulations of the Department touching the business of the several bureaus as may be of general importance or interest as soon as practicable after the same shall have been promulgated or established. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington Oct. 14, 1864.

DEAR SIR,—I have no hesitation in adding my endorsement to that of my predecessor, Postmaster General Blair, to the usefulness of the "UNITED STATES MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT," as a medium of communicating correct information to Postmasters and others respecting postal operations, and cheerfully recommend it to the favor and support of Postmasters and other agents of the Department. W. DENNISON,
Postmaster General.
To J. GAYLER, Esq., Editor U. S. Mail.

Special Notice to Subscribers.

Each wrapper enclosing a copy of the Mail bears a number in addition to the address. This number signifies that the term for which the subscription is paid expires with the corresponding whole number of the paper. Subscribers will please take this as a notification to forward the subscription for another year, when due, if they intend to renew. Those whom this number reaches, marked 65 or 66, will please remit at once.

☞ Although it is our desire and endeavor that our paper should appear on the first of each month, yet it is sometimes, owing to various circumstances, impossible to secure that result. Important changes in the laws and regulations occasionally occur at such times as to require, for the benefit of our readers, that our issue should be postponed for a few days in order to enable us to lay the details of such changes before them at as early a date as possible, instead of allowing a month to elapse before their publication. Our subscribers will therefore readily understand that a short delay in receiving their papers is sometimes unavoidable, and that when such delay occurs, it is the result of a desire to give them advantage of the latest official information on the postal matters.

☞ Through an error of the mailing clerk, several copies of the January number of the Mail were sent to subscribers, instead of that for February. If those who suffered through this mistake will notify the publisher, it will be corrected by sending them a February number.

☞ If any of our readers (especially postmasters) desire to obtain full and trustworthy information concerning the operations of the swindling lottery and jewelry gentry who have been doing so large a business through the mails, we advise them to procure a copy of the American Agriculturist for march, which contains a full exposure of these matters. The Agriculturist is a first-class "live" newspaper, published by Orange Judd, New York, at $1 50 per year.

LUDICROUS BLUNDER.—At a fair held at Dundee, Scotland, lately, many persons were greatly amused in watching the proceedings of a simple country girl, who, with a letter in her hand, stood for some time in a hesitating way, near one of the street "pillar boxes" for the reception of letters, and, after rapping on the top with her knuckles sharply several times, without eliciting any response, at length applied her mouth to the orifice and testily inquired, "Can ye no sell a body a postage stamp?"

"TUTTLE" DEPRAVITY.—Our readers' old acquaintance, "Jason H. Tuttle," formerly of Tuttle's Corners, N. J., but more lately of Flatbrookville in the same State, where he is carrying one of his "little games" which have for their object the relief of the overstocked purses of fools, lately came to pecuniary grief as follows: Desiring to obtain from the post office at the last mentioned place a large number of letters which had accumulated there, containing remittances from persons who had invested in his benevolent "gift enterprise," but, with becoming modesty, desiring also to avoid personal contact with any "minions of the law" who might possibly be in waiting at the P. O. to receive him—he entrusted a youthful relative with an order for the letters, which was duly presented and honored; but sad to relate, the young man, profiting, perhaps by the example his kinsman's peculiar mode of doing business had offered, appropriated the letters to his own use and departed. At last accounts Jason was still in pursuit of the "golden fleece" (estimated at between $1000 and $5000) of which he had been so ruthlessly shorn. May he succeed as he desires—even if he is obliged to travel as far as the State Prison.

The Post Office Bills in Congress.

On the 14th inst., the House passed the Senate Bill authorizing an increase by the Postmaster General to the clerical force in the Post Office Department at Washington—consisting of twenty nine additional clerks. The amount of labor which has been thrown upon the Department through the resumption of postal communication with the Southern States rendered this increase absolutely necessary for the proper performance of the business of the Department.

On the same day a resolution was passed by the House, appointing Postmaster KELLY, Mayor HOFFMAN, District Attorney DICKINSON, A. A. Low, Esq., President of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and JACKSON S. SHULTZ, Esq., a Committee to select a proper site for a building for a post office and the accommodation of the United States Courts in the city of New York, to report to the Postmaster General and the Secretary of the Interior. The introduction of the resolution elicited some discussion, in the course of which Hon. Wm. A. DARLING, of New York, said that he "Thought that citizens of New York, with their usual liberality would donate a site for a post office, so that proper arrangements could be made for the convenience of the people, and also for the United States Courts. The present post office building is contracted, ill ventilated, dark and very difficult of approach. The present building was not suitable for a city like New York. Persons have to form in line, and sometimes have to stand in mud and water waiting their turn to procure letters. It was a disgrace to the nation that there should be such a place for a post office as exists to day."

Which latter sentiment all of Mr. DARLING's constituents will heartily endorse.

Directly after the passage of the above resolution, Mr. ALLEY, chairman of the Post Office Committee, introduced the bill referred to in our last, authorising the sale of postage stamps and stamped envelopes by agents, at a commission of five per cent. Mr. Alley caused to be read a letter from the Postmaster General, in which the latter says the object of the bill is to enable the Department to circulate and sell stamps in the States lately in the rebellion. This could not now be done to any considerable extent, owing to the fact that there are many persons who cannot take the oath of qualification of Postmaster: but there were persons who could give the necessary security in the sale of stamps for the accommodation of the community. The arrangement would add to the revenue of the Department while the Department would be protected from loss.

It was further explained that the present bill did not provide for the sale of stamps on credit, as was provided by a former bill. The bill was the subject of considerable discussion, and the "morning hour" having expired, it went over.

On the 15th the consideration of the same subject was resumed, and led to an extended debate, when the whole matter was finally postponed for two weeks.

Mr. ALLEY then introduced the Bill to amend the Postal Laws, which authorizes the Postmaster-General to sell postage-stamped envelopes for newspapers or letters at the value of the stamps impressed upon them, and allow dead letters to be returned free of postage, and prepaid letters to be forwarded at request of the person addressed to another post office, without additional charge, and also letters indorsed, "to be returned to the writer," shall be free of postage on their return. It also authorizes the transportation of mails by sailing vessels to and from foreign ports, at a cost not exceeding sea postage. The mode of advertising letters is left with the Postmaster General. The Money-order fees are made 10 cents on $30, 25 cents or $40 and 30 cents on $50. The order shall be good for one year.

The consideration of this bill was also postponed for two weeks.

Postal Troubles—One of their Causes.

None of our post-official readers need to be informed that verbal complaints on the part of the public, of the failure of mail-matter to reach its destination, are of not unfrequent occurrence at nearly every post office throughout the country—nor that it is not an unheard-of thing for editors and correspondents of newspapers to indulge in wrathful denunciations of the carelessness, delay, want of punctuality, and general disregard of the public convenience which, they allege—apropos of some special grievance—characterizes the performance of the postal business of the country. Now, no one connected with the service can deny that there are carelessness, negligence, and disregard of the public convenience on the part of some of the subordinates connected with the post office—as there are on the part of some of those belonging to every branch of the public service. The existence of these faults is to be regretted, but cannot well be ignored; and complaints resulting from them are entitled to respectful hearing and prompt action in the way of redress, or punishment of the offenders. That such complaints are more frequent in regard to the postal than any of the other branches of the government service, is no doubt due to the fact that in none of those other branches are so many persons employed, and that the operations of none of them are of such a nature as to bring them into so immediate contact with the business and social interests of all classes of the community. There is no doubt, moreover, that to the system of rotation in office, which has grown to be an apparently inseparable portion of our public policy, many of the shortcomings complained of are referable—but the Post Office Department is no more responsible for the establishment or perpetuation of that system than it is for the acts of a buried generation. Our present purpose, however, is not so much to defend the post office against complaints of the kind we have mentioned, as to endeavor to show that on at least one point it has an undoubted ground of counter-complaint against the public.

The task of conveying and delivering the correspondence of a population so large and intelligent as is that of this country, covering a geographical space so immense as ours, is no light one, and needs for its proper performance every assistance and facility which can be rendered to it. And yet in one most important matter, a large number of the people, for whose benefit the postal system is carried on, and who are so ready to criticise and complain of any symptom of its mismanagement, do quite as much to embarrass and obstruct its operations as any amount of heedlessness and inefficiency on the part of its subordinates could do. We refer to the careless, incomplete and slovenly manner in which a very great number of the letters passing through the United States mails are addressed.

An examination of the precise, carefully written addresses of the great majority of letters arriving here from foreign countries, and a comparison with the average of those of our domestic letters, will show that in no country in the world is so little pains taken by the writers of mail letters to ensure their prompt and proper delivery as in this. It is not an uncommon thing to hear, from persons complaining of delays, &c., in the post office, of the superiority of the express system over that institution. Without stopping to notice such statements—further than to say that we believe they are generally made without due knowledge of the facts, and that express blunders, delays and losses are at least equal, in proportion, to those occurring in the post office—we can safely assert that no express company would undertake to deliver, properly, packages addressed with so little care as are hundreds of thousands of the letters daily deposited in the post office. A merchant who would not think of forwarding goods by express, without first causing the packages to be plainly and carefully marked with the name, occupation, and exact address of the person for whom they are intended, has no hesitation in depositing in the post office a valuable letter directed simply to the name and city of residence of the same person—though the name may be one borne by a dozen persons in the same city. He knows for whom he intends it—he has bought and affixed his stamp, entrusted his letter to the post office—and let the post office look to it that it reaches his correspondent and no one else, or beware his wrath and a denunciatory communication in the newspapers.

It is unreasonable and unjust to demand of the post office that it shall do more than convey and deliver mail matter according to its address and the best of its ability. Where that address is incomplete, however, the post office does more: it endeavors to supply the writer's lack of care, and adopts every means in its power to ascertain what the address does not indicate, viz.: the actual person for whom it is intended—and deliver it. It cannot always do this, and it is of course likely that errors and delays in delivery will sometimes occur in such cases—but the blame of those errors and delays rests not with the post office, but with the public.

This difficulty is of course more common in the large cities than elsewhere. At the smaller towns, a letter, if bearing a correct name, even if no occupation, street or number be given, stands a much better chance of prompt and correct delivery than a similar letter would in New York or Boston, for reasons which are obvious. Take, for an example, the case of such a letter arriving at the New York Office, and simply directed to "Wm. H. Taylor, New York." By the city directory for the present year, it appears that seven persons bear that name who reside or do business there. Each of those persons has an equal claim to the letter, so far as can be judged by the address—and yet the one person among the seven for whom it is really intended probably expects that it should be promptly delivered to him, and to him only—with what degree of reason any fair-minded person is capable of saying.

"But," says one of these Messrs. Taylor, when he calls to complain of the delay or non-receipt of a letter addressed as above, "I have a box, and pay rent therefor; and it is the business of yon post office gentlemen to know the names of your boxholders, and to place their letters in those boxes."

So it is, Mr. T.; but perhaps you are not aware that the number of those boxes is nearly 6,000; that in each of them are placed, in addition to the letters addressed to the individual or firm in whose name the box is rented, those which are addressed to (on an average) five other persons in some way connected, as special partners, agents, clerks, &c., with those individuals or firms; that together, these form an aggregate of about 36,000 names, each of which, in connection with its appropriate box-number, it is requisite should be remembered by the sorting-clerks and those whose duty it is to place the letters each in its proper box; that an average of about 128,000 letters per day are received at the New York Office; that as each of them passes through the hands of the sorting-clerks they are obliged to decide, at once—1st, whether the person or firm to whom the letter is addressed is a box-holder, or whether it should be delivered by a carrier or placed in the general delivery to be called for; 2d, if addressed to a box-holder, to what particular "section" of the boxes (which are divided into five sections) the letter should be sent for boxing; that in case the letter is found to be intended for a box-holder, the clerk in charge of that "section" has then to decide in which particular box the letter belongs; that the doing of all this with unvarying correctness, even in the case of properly directed letters, requires the possession by the clerks of memories little short of superhuman—and that it is rather a matter of surprise that so few errors occur in such cases as yours than for complaint when one does occur. The letter—being addressed simply to your name, and no occupation, street or number being given, bore on its face absolutely nothing to guide the clerks in deciding how, where and to whom it should be delivered. If they happen to decide wrongly and your letter is delayed, or even lost, blame your correspondent (or perhaps yourself, for neglecting to instruct him as to your proper address,) but do not blame the post office or its clerks, who have done the best they could with the imperfect lights you and your correspondent have vouchsafed to them.

This article is already extended beyond its proposed limits. We shall refer to the subject again; and for the present conclude by saying that in our opinion a remedy for a very large number of complaints against the post office would be found in the establishment of a regulation by the Department that on and after a certain future date, it will not be responsible, in any way, (though continuing all proper efforts in that direction) for the correct delivery of any mail matter, unless the same shall be properly addressed—if intended for a large city, to a box-number, [and, by the way, the intensely absurd fear, on the part of many box-holders, lest any publicity should be given to their box numbers, is something neither we nor they can reasonably account for,] or to a street and number; or if neither of these be known by the writer, that the occupation, at least, of the person addressed shall follow his name.

When the people of this country exercise half the care that those of other countries do in addressing their mail letters, we shall have no more than half the present number of complaints from them of the annoyances of an inefficient postal service.

Answers to Correspondents.

Quarterly Returns, &c.—A. G. D., L——, Cal.—Pursue the old system of making out your returns until you receive the proper notification. The answer to your second question is embraced in the above.

Application for Regulations, &c.—J. W. T., P——, Md.—Apply to the First Assistant Postmaster-General, Washington, D. C.

Postage to Port au Prince.—J. F. H., O——, Ohio.—Postage to Port au Prince is 34 cents. To all British West Indies 10 cents, the same as to Brazil. Letters to the West Indies are forwarded by new line of steamers to Brazil.

Stopping Letters in Transit.—H. H. C., L. M——, Wis.—Your question is this—Post Office "B." is discontinued. "C." is the nearest office. Persons whose P. O. address has been "B.," residing near "A.," desire to receive their letters at "A.," where the mail for "C." is made up, thereby saving several miles' travel and several days' delay, as "C." only receives a mail semi-weekly. The regulation of the Department respecting mail matter in transit for discontinued offices, like the majority of regulations or laws, cannot cover every real or suppositious case. Postmasters should be careful to follow their instructions as near as possible; but expediency would suggest that, in cases like the above, a departure from the strict rule may be permitted, if the parties addressed make application in writing for their letters at "A." Of course the Postmaster may refuse to deliver such letters, if he chooses to do so; but where all parties are agreed, we see no reason why the persons addressed may not be accommodated.

Mis-sending Mail Matter.—J. R. L., P——, Pa.—If the Postmaster of whom you complain persists in his wrong practice, in spite of your request and in defiance of law, report him to the Department without delay. Such action is extremely reprehensible.

Congressional Globe.—R. K. S., Mt. C——, Ill.—The "Congressional Globe and Appendix" are by law entitled to pass free in the mails. Collect the usual postage on the Daily Globe.

Letters for Deputy Sheriff.—J. W. B., F——, N. Y.—If there is no such officer in your town, forward all letters, so addressed, to the Sheriff of the county.

Mistake in Mailing.—W. P. H., R——, Ohio.—No entry of unpaid bill should have been made on your account. Your duty in the case was to forward the letter to its proper address, without extra charge, and to return the post-bill to the office of original mailing, with a proper explanation.

Austrian Postal Union.—J. L. E., E——, Ohio.—The Austrian Postal Union is the term by which we designate the union of certain German States for the purpose of securing the best mail facilities with other nations. Letters sent by Prussian closed mail are subject to British and Belgic postage. If sent direct, the rate is about one-half that of the Prussian closed mail. We must refer you to the Department at Washington for an answer to your third question, which strikes us as being very vague.

Miscellaneous Information.

Dead Letters.

By the instructions under the postal laws, UNMAILABLE LETTERS are specified to be—

Letters attempted to be sent with stamps previously used, or stamps cut from stamped envelopes.

Unpaid letters for foreign countries, on which prepayment is required by the regulations.

Letters not addressed, or so badly addressed that their destination cannot be known.

Letters misdirected to places where there are no post offices.

Civilian's letters, (domestic) wholly unpaid, (including unpaid drop letters.)

Only such letters as are herein described are, when deposited in any post office, to be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office; all others must be dispatched to their destination, charged with the amount of unpaid postage.

When unmailable letters are sent to the Dead Letter Office, the specific reason therefor must be endorsed upon the envelope of each.

These instructions will be strictly followed at all post offices.

For more full instructions relating to dead letters, advertising letters, &c., examine carefully the 7th and 8th Sections of the Act of 3d March, 1863, and the instructions attached thereto; also, Sec. 1, Act of March 3, 1865.

Foreign Letters, &c.

RULE FOR RATING LETTERS TO GREAT BRITAIN, &C.

The attention of postmasters is particularly called to the mode of rating postage upon letters exchanged in the mails between this country and the United Kingdom, which differs essentially from the United States domestic scale, when the weight of the packet or letter exceeds one ounce.

The scale of progression adopted for letters exchanged with the United Kingdom is as follows, viz.:

One rate for a single letter not exceeding ½ oz. in weight.

Two rates when over ½, but not exceeding 1 ounce

Four rates when over 1, but not exceeding 2 ounces

Six rates when over 2, but not exceeding 3 ounces; and so on, charging two additional rates for each additional ounce or fraction of an ounce.

Thus, a letter to Great Britain, weighing 4½ ounces, should be paid $2.40, being chargeable as five ounces, or ten rates; but if $2.16 (nine rates only) are paid, owing to an omission to count the fraction as a full ounce, it then goes as unpaid, and the $2.16 is lost to the writer of the letter. These letters (and all other part paid letters to foreign countries) are treated as wholly unpaid, and the amount paid lost to the sender.

In no case should 3, 5 or 7 rates be collected upon a letter or packet addressed to the United Kingdom, the proper charges being either 1, 2, 4, 6, 8 rates, &c., according to weight.

Notwithstanding the explicit instructions of the Department on this subject, it is found that many postmasters are in the practice of charging postage upon letters and packets for the United Kingdom according to our domestic scale, (viz.: one rate for each half ounce or fraction of half an ounce,) and thus insufficient amounts of postage are frequently prepaid, which are entirely lost to the senders, as no account is taken of short payments of postage.

Letters to foreign countries, where prepayment of postage is compulsory, when insufficiently paid are sent to the Dead Letter Office, to be opened and returned to the writers, and are thereby delayed one or two mails, and, no doubt, in many cases, causing serious loss and annoyance to the writers.

REGISTERING FOREIGN LETTERS.—Letters can be registered in the United States for Great Britain and Ireland, for Germany, or any part of the German Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen, Hamburg or Prussian closed mails. Letters to Canada can be registered, but not to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, or Prince Edward's Island. Postmasters will, therefore, decline to register letters addressed to other foreign countries.

The registry fee to be charged on registered letters to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, via Bremen or Hamburg, or by Prussian closed mail, and to Canada, is five cents—to Great Britain and Ireland, twenty cents. All registered letters must be prepaid in full to destination. See "Foreign Miscellany" on fourth page of this paper, for full information in regard to rating all foreign letters.

Our Postal Convention with the United Kingdom, provides that each country shall levy and collect its postage only, on newspapers, at the rate of two cents each, whether they are sent or received. Hence, newspapers received in this country from Great Britain come prepaid the British postage only, and postmasters must be particular, in all cases, to collect the United States charge of two cents on their delivery.

CANADIAN CORRESPONDENCE.—Irregularities having arisen in respect to Canadian correspondence, these directions must hereafter be observed:

Letters addressed to Canada must be mailed to a United States Exchange Office. Letters cannot be sent direct to Post Offices in Canada.

The postage on a single letter to and from Canada is 10 cents, prepayment optional; but the whole postage must be prepaid or none. Part prepayments are not recognized. Prepayments must be made by United States postage stamps—not in money.

A postmaster may frank a letter to Canada the same as to any point in the United States; but it is optional for the Canadian P. O. Department to deliver such letter free, or charge full postage on it, at its pleasure.

COLLECTIONS IN COIN.—In pursuance of the provisions of a resolution of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails despatched to this country from Great Britain and Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen, or Belgium, are collected in gold or silver coin. Should, however, payment of such postage, and of the premium on a corresponding amount of coin, be tendered in United States notes, the same is to be accepted in lieu of coin. The amount to be collected in U. S. notes, (in case coin is not offered,) is marked on each letter on its arrival at U. S. Exchange Offices, and if charged in the post-bills. Hence, when coin is collected at the office of delivery, the difference should be entered in the account of Mails Received as an overcharge.

The above applies exclusively to the mails received from the countries mentioned.

On out-going letters the former regulations remain unchanged, and, when prepaid, the regular rates (in currency) only are to be collected.

Mail Bags and Locks.

DEPOSITORIES.—The following post offices are constituted depositories for mail Bags and Locks, viz:

Portland and Bangor, Me., Concord, N. H., Montpelier and Rutland, Vt., Boston, Mass., Providence, R. I., Hartford and New Haven, Conn., New York, Albany, Rochester and Buffalo, N. Y., Trenton, N. J. C., Augusta, Savannah and Columbus, Ga., Tallahassee, Fla., Mobile, Montgomery and Huntsville, Ala., Jackson and Natchez, Miss., New Orleans, La., Little Rock, Ark., Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis, Tenn., Louisville, Ky., Columbus, Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio; Detroit, Mich. Indianapolis, Ind., Springfield and Chicago, Ill., St. Louis, Jefferson City and St. Joseph, Mo., Milwaukee, Wis., Keokuk and Dubuque, Iowa, Galveston, Clarksville and Nacogdoches, Texas; San Francisco, Cal., and Astoria, Oregon.

POST OFFICE BLANKS.

The agencies for supplying postmasters with blanks are as follows:

DISTRICT No. 1—Supplies blanks for the District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida. Postmasters in either of these States, wanting blanks of any kind, should address "Wm. O. Redden," Blank Agent, Washington, District of Columbia."

DISTRICT No. 2—Supplies blanks for the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, California, Nevada and Oregon, and Washington Territory. Postmasters in either of these States or Territories, wanting blanks of any kind, should address "Beverly Clarke, Blank Agent, New York, N. Y."

DISTRICT No. 3—Supplies blanks for the States of Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, New Mexico, Utah, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska. Postmasters in either of these States, wanting blanks of any kind should address "A. F. Lee, Blank Agent, Buffalo, N. Y."

When the postages collected at an office amount to $100 a year, the name of the postmaster and of his office will be printed on the post bills. When the postmaster's compensation exceeds $12 50 a quarter, the postmaster is entitled to wrapping paper and twine, at the above agencies.

Applications for blank registers of arrival and departure of the mails must be made direct to the "Inspection office." For special instructions, to the First Assistant Postmaster General.

All postmasters whose compensation is less than $12 50 per quarter, can purchase a reasonable quantity of wrapping paper and twine, provided the net proceeds of the office exceed twenty dollars per year.

United States Exchange Offices for Foreign Mails.

Boston is an office of Exchange for British, French, Prussian and Belgian Mails.
Philadelphia is an office of Exchange for British and French Mails.
San Francisco is an office of Exchange for British Mails only.

Y.; Richford, Franklin, Derby Line, North Troy, Swanton and Canaan, Vt. MODE OF INDICATING THE PREPAYMENT OF POSTAGE UPON LETTERS RECEIVED FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

When the United States official postage carries on the letters received from Great Britain or the Continent of Europe, are in red ink, the letter is to be considered as paid, and is to be delivered accordingly; when in black ink, as unpaid, and the postage is to be collected on delivery. The postage on such letters is either wholly paid or wholly unpaid. Postmasters can readily decide any question as to prepayment, by this simple criterion.

Domestic Postages.

The law requires postage on all letters, (including those to foreign countries when prepaid,) excepting those written to the President or Vice-President, or members of Congress, or, (on official business) to the chiefs of the executive departments of the government, and the heads of bureaus and chief clerks, and others invested with the franking privilege, to be prepaid by stamps or stamped envelopes, prepayment in money being prohibited.

All drop letters must be prepaid. The rate of postage on drop letters, at offices where free delivery by carrier is established, is two cents per half ounce or fraction of a half ounce; at offices where such free delivery is not established, the rate is 1 ct.

The single rate of postage on all domestic mail letters throughout the United States is three cents per half ounce, with an additional rate of three cents for each additional half ounce or fraction of a half ounce. The ten cent (Pacific) rate is abolished.

RATES OF LETTER POSTAGE BETWEEN OFFICES IN THE UNITED STATES, AND TO AND FROM CANADA AND OTHER BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES

To and from Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., irrespective of distance.
To and from other British N. Am. Provinces, for distance not over 3,000 miles, ........ 10 cts.
For any distance over 3,000 miles.......... 15 "

For every additional half ounce, or fraction of a half ounce, an additional rate is charged. Prepayment is optional on all letters for the British North American Provinces except Newfoundland, to which prepayment is compulsory.

Letter postage is to be charged on all handbills, circulars, or other printed matter which shall contain any manuscript writing whatever.

Daguerreotypes, when sent in the mail, are to be charged with letter postage by weight.

Photographs on cards, paper, and other flexible material, (not in cases,) can be sent at the same rate as miscellaneous printed matter—viz., two cents for each four ounces or fraction thereof.

Photographic Albums are chargeable with book postage—four cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof.

Newspaper Postage.

| | |
|---|---|

| Six times per week, " " | 30 " |

| For Semi-Weekly, " " | 10 " |
| For Weekly, " " | 5 " |

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS (one copy only) sent by the publisher to actual subscribers within the county where printed and published, free.

POSTAGE PER QUARTER (to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance) on NEWSPAPERS and PERIODICALS issued less frequently than once a week, sent to actual subscribers in any part of the U. S.:

| | |
|---|---|
| Semi-monthly, not over 4 oz. | 6 cts. |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 12 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 18 " |
| Monthly, not over 4 oz. | 3 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 6 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 9 " |
| Quarterly, not over 4 oz. | 1 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 2 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 3 " |

Quarterly postage cannot be paid for less than three months. If a subscription begins at any other time than the commencement of an official quarter, the postage received by the p. m. must still be entered in his account for that quarter. Subscribers for short terms—exceeding three months, say four or five months—can pay quarterly postage for the actual term of their subscriptions—that is for one quarter and a third, one quarter and two-thirds, &c. The law only requires that at least one quarter's postage shall be prepaid, and not more than one year's postage. Any term between one quarter and one year can therefore be prepaid at proportionate rates.

PUBLISHERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS may send to each other from their respective offices of publication, free of postage, one copy of each publication, and may also send to each actual subscriber, inclosed in their publications, bills and receipts for the same, free of postage. They may also state on their respective publications, the date when the subscription expires, to be written or printed.

Religious, Educational and Agricultural Newspapers of small size, issued less frequently than once a week, may be sent in packages to one address at the rate of one cent for each package not exceeding four ounces in weight, and an additional charge of one cent is made for each additional four ounces or fraction thereof, the postage to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance.

NEWSDEALERS may send newspapers and periodicals to regular subscribers at the quarterly rates, in the same manner as publishers, and may also receive them from publishers at subscribers' rates. In both cases the postage to be prepaid, either at the mailing or delivery office.

Publications issued without disclosing the office of publication, or containing a fictitious statement thereof, must not be forwarded by postmasters unless prepaid at the mailing office at the rates of transient printed matter.

Postage on Transient Printed Matter.

[All printed matter (except single copies of news papers, magazines and periodicals to regular subscribers) sent via Overland Mail, is to be charged at letter postage rates.]

BOOKS, not over 4 oz. in weight, to one address, 4 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 8 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 12 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 16 cts.

CIRCULARS, not exceeding three in number, to one address, 2 cts.; over three and not over six, 4 cts.; over six and not over nine, 6 cts.; over nine and not exceeding twelve, 8 cts.

ON MISCELLANEOUS MAILABLE MATTER, (embracing all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, handbills and posters, book manuscripts and proof-sheets, whether corrected or not, maps, prints, engravings, sheet music, blanks, flexible patterns, samples and sample cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes or wrappers, cards, paper, plain or ornamental, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, and scions,) the postage to be pre-paid by stamps, is, on one package to one address, not over 4 oz. in weight, 2 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 4 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 6 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 8 cts.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General, the fifth subdivision of the 42d instruction of the new Post Office Law, has been amended by striking out the word twelve and inserting thirty-two before the word ounces, so that it shall read as follows—"The weight of packages of seeds, cuttings, roots and scions, to be franked, is limited to thirty-two ounces."

All mail matter not sent at letter rates of postage, embracing books, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, and other printed matter, and all other mail matter except seeds, must be so wrapped or enveloped with open sides or ends as to enable the postmaster to examine the package without destroying the wrapper, otherwise such packages must be rated with letter postage. No communication, whether in writing or in print, can be sent with any seeds, roots, cuttings or scions, maps, engravings or other matter not printed, except upon the separate payment of postage upon each separate matter at the established rates.

Exchange newspapers and periodicals cannot be re-mailed without being chargeable with postage.

Where packages of newspapers or periodicals are received at any post office directed to one address and the names of the club of subscribers to which they belong, with the postage for a quarter in advance, shall be handed to the postmaster, he shall deliver the same to their respective owners. But this does not apply to weekly newspapers which circulate free in the county where printed and published.

Weekly newspapers and all other printed matter to the British North American Provinces, although sent from countries bordering on the line, are chargeable with the same rates as when sent to any point in the United States.

☞ All transient matter must be prepaid by stamps. But if it come to the office of delivery without prepayment, or short-paid, the unpaid postage must be collected on delivery at double the prepaid rate. Great neglect exists in the strict quarterly prepayment of postage on printed matter sent to regular subscribers. No such paper should be delivered, unless it is either prepaid at the mailing office, or at the delivery office for at least a quarter. If not so prepaid, postmasters must collect postage on each copy as on transient matter. If they fail, they will be charged with the full postage due, and in clear cases removed from office for neglect.

To inclose or conceal a letter or other thing (excepting bills and receipts for subscription) in, or to write or print anything, after its publication, upon any newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, is illegal, and subjects such printed matter, and the entire package of which it is a part, to letter postage.

Any word or communication, whether by printing, writing, marks or signs, upon the cover or wrapper of a newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, other than the name and address of the person to whom it is to be sent, and the date when subscription expires, subjects the package to letter postage.

RATES OF POSTAGE ON PRINTED MATTER FOR FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

1. TO OR FROM GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND, IN UNITED STATES AND BRITISH MAILS.—Newspapers two cents each without regard to weight; pamphlets and periodicals, two cents each if not weighing over two ounces, and four cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce if exceeding two ounces; which is the United States postage only; but pamphlets weighing over eight ounces, or periodicals weighing over sixteen ounces, are chargeable with letter postage. Books and all other descriptions of printed matter, are subject to letter rate of postage. Neither pamphlets nor periodicals are entitled to conveyance in the British mail, through England, to countries on the Continent of Europe.
2. ADVERTISEMENTS.

DEXHEIMER'S COMBINED STAMPING CUSHION AND PAD.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington, August 9, 1865.

SIR—Your favor of the 28th ult., with model of a new Stamping Tablet and Cushion, is received. The merit of your invention is perceptible at a glance, and has my hearty approval. The plan of its arrangement, together with its compact and portable form, are such as to recommend it to general use. I have no doubt, that its adoption by postmasters would tend to give a plainer post-mark upon letters, as well as a better defacement of the postage stamp. You have, therefore, the best wishes of this Department for its introduction among the various post offices of the country.

Very respectfully,
A. N. ZEVELY,
3d Ass't Postmaster General.

CHRISTIAN DEXHEIMER,
Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The inventor of the combined Stamping Cushion and Pad, above referred to, is now prepared to furnish the same, "ready for use," to postmasters and others at the following rates:

No. 1, $6.00; No. 2, $3.50. Also, the best prepared Stamping Ink furnished by the pound or less.

CHR. DEXHEIMER,
Post Office Clerk,

KRAUS' NEW STAMPING PAD

Is all that is necessary for
POSTMASTERS, BANKERS,
Or any one using a Stamp or Type for hand-printing or stamping. (Nearly every Post Office is supplied with India rubber packing or a cushion to stamp on.)

This PAD recommends itself when seen or used. No one will ever be without who has used one, or look for any other. It gives a clean, clear impression; does not gum the type; is not affected by the weather, and is certain death to postage stamps or bank paper.

The new Pad and Ink can be obtained from me for $2.50 (two dollars and fifty cents.)

M. KRAUS, Milwaukie, Wis.

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

TO THE BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

Cape Breton, Pr'e Edward's Island, and Nova Scotia. To Newfoundland prepayment required. To Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., any distance. — * 10 cents when not over 3,000 miles from the line of crossing. * 15 cents when distance exceeds 3,000 miles. Prepayment optional.

Steamers of the Cunard line sail from Boston twice each month, touching at Halifax, and when letters are sent by that conveyance for Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Prince Edward's Island, the U. S. postage is 5 cents the single rate, to be prepaid. The inland rate is collected on delivery. On newspapers by this route, the postage is two cents each.

Newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and sent to regular subscribers in the British North American Provinces, or published in those Provinces and sent to regular subscribers in the United States, are chargeable with the regular prepaid quarterly rates of United States postage to and from the line; which postage must be collected at the office of mailing in the United States on matter sent, and at the office of delivery in the United States on matter received. In like manner, such matter, if transient, is chargeable with the regular domestic transient printed matter rates to and from the line, to be collected at the office of mailing or delivery in the United States, as the case may be. Editors, however, may exchange free of expense.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS.

Valuable letters for Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line via New York, or by the Prussian closed mail via New York and Boston, as also letters addressed to Great Britain and Canada, will be registered on the application of the person posting the same, in the same manner and on the same terms as those deliverable in the United States, provided that the full postage chargeable thereon to destination, together with a registration fee of twenty cents on each letter to Great Britain or Ireland, and five cents on each letter to the other places mentioned above, is prepaid at the mailing office. Such letters should be mailed and forwarded to the respective United States exchange offices in the same manner as domestic registered letters are mailed to those offices.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS, ETC.

All letters to and from foreign countries (the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, France and the British North American Provinces excepted,) are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of half an ounce; double rate, if exceeding half an ounce, but not exceeding an ounce; quadruple rate, if exceeding an ounce, but not exceeding two ounces; and so on, charging two rates for every ounce or fractional part of an ounce over the first ounce. As this rule differs from that followed in respect to domestic letters, great care is requisite to prevent mistakes. Letters in the mail to France are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of one quarter ounce; double rate if exceeding a quarter, but not exceeding half an ounce; and so on, an additional rate being charged for each quarter ounce or fractional part of a quarter ounce. Letters addressed to the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, and the British North American Provinces, are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, one rate being charged for each half ounce or fractional part of half an ounce. Postmasters should be careful, where the postage is prepaid, to collect the proper amount. They should be particular to notice the route indicated on the envelopes of letters, and to collect postage accordingly. Letters mailed at some offices, marked "via England," or "via Prussian closed mail," for a German State, are frequently taken upon the prepayment of Bremen rates, and those marked "via Bremen," at Prussian closed rates, &c.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS GOING VIA FRANCE

In the case of letters to be forwarded in the British mail for transmission from England via "Marseilles," the French postage is rated at 6 cents the quarter ounce, except on letters for Java, China, Labuan, Borneo, Japan, the Moluccas and Philipine Islands, which are rated at eight cents per half ounce, and except, also, on letters for Syria and Tunis, by French packet, when the single French rate is 12 cents per quarter ounce.

The rates by "French mail" are in full to destination, except to the following places, viz.: Aden, Batavia, Ceylon, China, cities of Turkey, in Europe, except as herein mentioned, via Austria, countries to which correspondence can be sent via Suez, countries beyond seas, via France, other than those enumerated, East Indies, Gibralter, Hong Kong, Java, Mauritius, Montenegro, Penang, Portugal, Isle of Re-Union, Servia, (except Belgrade,) Shanghai, Singapore and Spain. The limit of prepayment to Spain, Portugal and Gibralter, is Behobia; to Servia, (except Belgrade,) Montenegro, and cities of Turkey in Europe, except as herein mentioned, "via Austria;" the frontier of Turkey and Austria; to Aden, East Indies, Ceylon, China, and other countries via Suez, the seaports of the Indies, or of the sea of China to which the English packets ply; and to places beyond seas, other than those designated, the limit is the port of arrival in the country of destination.

RATES ON PAMPHLETS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

On pamphlets and magazines, to or from the West coast of South America, the United States postage is four cents; and to or from all other foreign countries, (except Great Britain, Belgium, and the German States, via Bremen or Hamburg mail,) two cts. per 4 oz. or fraction thereof, to be collected in all cases in the United States.

Newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries (particularly to the continent of Europe) must be sent in narow bands, open at the sides or ends; otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage.

ROUTES OF TRANSMISSION, ETC.

To prevent mistakes at the exchange offices, it is desirable that the particular routes by which letters are to be forwarded from the United States to Europe, should be distinctly written on the covers. Letters intended for transmission in the open mail to England, should bear the direction "open mail via England;" if for transmission in the French mail, they should be directed, "via France in French mail;" if for transmission by closed mail to Prussia, they should be directed "via Prussian closed mail;" if for transmission in the closed mail to Belgium, they should be directed "via Belgian closed mail;" and if for transmission by the New York and Bremen line to Bremen, or by the New York and Hamburg line to Hamburg, they should be directed "via Bremen," or "via Hamburg."

It is important that letters addressed to Germany and other European countries, via France, where the single rate per quarter ounce is 21 cents, should be plainly marked to be sent via France; otherwise they may be missent in the open mail to Liverpool by United States packet, the 21 cent rate per half ounce being also chargeable on letters thus forwarded.

Opening Letters in the British Post Office.

We give below the conclusion of this article from Lewins' "History of the British Post Office:"

At the beginning of the present century an improvement was carried out. It was seen that the indiscriminate issue of the warrants was stimulated and fostered by the fact that no account was kept of them. As a means of placing a necessary check upon the officers, Lord Spencer, then Home Secretary, introduced the custom in 1806, of recording the dates of all warrants granted, and the purposes for which they were issued. Since the year 1822, the whole of the warrants themselves have been preserved at the Home Office. In comparing the numbers of warrants issued by different Home Secretaries during the present century, we find that Sir James Graham enjoys the unenviable notoriety of having granted the greatest number, though the fact is partly explained by the commotion which the Chartists made in the north of England, 1842-3.

The revelations made in the two Committees with reference to foreign correspondence, especially that of foreign Ministers accredited at the English Court, were very remarkable, and not likely to induce confidence in our postal arrangements on the part of other powers. It was shown that in times of war whole foreign mails had been known to have been detained, and the letters almost individually examined. The Lords' Committee went so far as to say it was clear, "that it had been for a long period of time and under successive administrations, up to the present time, an established practice that the foreign correspondence of Ministers passing through the General Post-Office should be sent to a department of the Foreign Office, before the forwarding of such correspondence, according to the address." What the feelings of foreign Governments were at this revelation may be imagined. They would know, of course, that the English Government, hundreds of years ago, had not scrupled to lay violent hands on their representatives, if by any possibility they could get hold of them. When Wolsey, for example, wanted possession of the letters of the ambassadors of Charles V., he went to work very openly, having ordered "a watche should be made" in and about London, and all persons going en route to the Continent to be questioned and searched. "One riding towards Brayneford," says an early record, "when examyned by the watche, answered so closely, that upon suspicion thereof, they searched hym, and found secretly byd ahoute hym, a pacquet of letters in French." In the reign ~~of Queen Mary~~, Gardiner ordered that the messengers of Noailles, the French ambassador, should be taken and searched in much the same manner. Notwithstanding this, they would scarcely be prepared for the information that later Governments, with less to fear, had preferred more secret measures, establishing a system of espionage which was certainly not in accordance with the English character, or likely to subserve the interests of peace in Europe. That the arrangement with regard to foreign mails was unlawful, may be judged by the prompt action which was taken in the matter. "Since June, 1844, the Postmaster-General," so runs the Lords' Report two months later, "having had his attention called to the fact, that there was no sufficient authority for this practice, has discontinued it altogether."

The Commons' Committee reported that the letter-opening warrants might be divided into two classes—(1) Those issued in furtherance of criminal justice, usually for the purpose of affording some clue to the hiding place of an offender, or to the mode or place of concealment of property. (2) Those issued for the purpose of discovering the designs of persons known or suspected to be engaged in proceedings dangerous to the State, or deeply involving British interests, from being carried on in the United Kingdom. In the case of both classes of warrants, the mode of proceeding was nearly similar. The first were issued on the application of the law-officers; the principal Secretary of State himself determined when to issue the latter. No record was kept of the grounds on which the second class of warrants were issued. "The letters which have been detained and opened are," according to the Committee, "unless retained by special order, as sometimes happens in criminal cases, closed and re-sealed without affixing any mark to indicate that they have been so detained and opened, and are forwarded by post according to their respective superscriptions." They then classed the warrants issued during the present century in the following way:—For thefts, murders, and frauds, 162; for treason and sedition, 77; foreign correspondence, 20; prisoners of war, 13; miscellaneous, 11; and for uncertain purposes, 89. Undoubtedly, with one class of letters, the Government were only performing a duty in applying the law as laid down in 1 Vict. c. 33. The information obtained by the warrants to find the locale of Chartist disaffection was described by the Committee as most valuable and useful to the Government. While the whole history of the transaction in question grates unpleasantly on English ears, there can be no doubt that in other cases—such as frauds on the banks and revenue, forgeries, murders, &c.—the power was used impartially to the advantage of individuals and the benefit of the State. Whether, however, the discoveries and the benefits were so many as to counterbalance the odium of countenancing what was so like a public crime, and which violated public confidence in the Post-Office, or whether the issue of a few warrants annually, in proportion to the 40,000 committals which took place yearly at that time could by any means be called an efficient instrument of police, are vastly different questions. With regard to the general question of letter-opening, the issue was altogether vague and uncertain. Though the practical end of the inquiry was, no doubt, gained, and warrants may almost be said to have ceased, still the Committees recommended Parliment to decide that the power and prerogative of opening letters, under certain given circumstances, should not be abrogated. They argued that, if the right of the Secretary of State was denied, it would be equivalent to advertising to every criminal conspirator against the public peace, that he might employ the Post-Office with impunity. It was decided, in consequence of this finding, that the law should remain unaltered.

Mr. Duncombe was not satisfied. In the next session he attempted to revive the subject by calling the attention of the House to what he termed the evasive and unsatisfactory character of the report of the Secret Committee, and moving the appointment of a Select Committee to investigate the whole subject over again: but he met with little success. Sir J. Graham, Sir R. Peel, Viscount Sandon, Mr. Warburton, Mr. Ward, and Lord John Manners, spoke against his motion, which he then withdrew. Upon this Lord Howick tried to carry a resolution for the appointment of a Committee to inquire into the case of Mr. Duncombe's letters only. Mr. Disraeli seconded the motion, desiring not to have the Government censured, but to see the practice condemned. Mr. Roebuck believed that the country would not be content until the invidious power intrusted to the Secretary of State respecting letter-opening was absolutely abolished. Lord John Russell spoke against the motion, which was negatived by 240 to 145 members. A few days later Mr. Duncombe renewed his attack in another form, moving that Colonel Mabberly, Secretary to the Post-Office, should attend at the bar and produce certain books connected with this office. The Home Secretary resisted the motion, grounding his objection on the reports of the Committees and the necessities of the public service. Lord John Russell and a great number of the Liberal party concurring in this view, the motion was again rejected by 188 to 113. For some weeks the subject was not again noticed in Parliament, and probably would have dropped; but it was a theme on which the Press could not be induced to be silent. Fresh events occurring in Italy, owing, it was said, to the past action of the English Government at the Post-Office, Mr. Sheil gave notice of a resolution, which he moved on the 1st of April, 1845, expressing regret that Government had opened the letters of M. Mazzini, thus frustrating the political movement in Italy. Few members, however, showed any desire to prolong a desultory debate, and thirty-eight only were found willing to affirm Mr. Sheil's proposition. Mr Wakley, a day or two afterwards, tried to revive the same discussion, but a motion which he made was negatived by three to one. On the 8th of April, 1845, Mr Duncombe, while intimating his desire to waive personal questions, and disclaiming all party feeling, moved for leave to bring in a Bill "to secure the inviolability of letters passing through the Post-Office." He was at war with the system, not with the Government. Let the Government approach the subject in a fair and not in a party spirit. All the Ministers, however, and the chiefs of the Liberal party, again stoutly resisted any change in the law; and this long controversy was finally set at rest by an adverse decision of 161 to 78.

The English people, it must be added, all along objected less to the power which the Government possessed in the exertion of their discretion, than to the manner in which that power was exercised. Mr. Duncombe's statements during the earlier stages of the discussions, relating to the "secret office"—never denied—could not be forgotten by the public when they intrusted their letters to the custody of the Post-Office. The revelations in question caused a perfect paroxysm of national anger, because it was felt, throughout the length and breadth of the land, that such arrangements were repugnant to every feeling of an Englishmen. Had the officers of the Government broken open letters in the same way as, under certain circumstances, the law allows the sheriff's officers to break open houses and writing-desks, there might still have been complainings, but these complainings would neither have been so loud nor yet so justifiable. There was something in the melting apparatus, in the tobacco-pipe, in the forged plaster of paris seals, in the official letter picker, and in the place where, and manner how, he did his work, utterly disgusting to John Bull, and most unsuitable to the atmosphere of England. The law, it is true, remains unaltered, but it is believed to be virtually a dead letter.

* Among many expressions of opinion to which the inquiry on the subject gave rise, we find the following characteristic effusion from Thomas Carlyle: "It is a question vital to us that sealed letters in an English post-office be, as we all fancied they were, respected as things sacred; that opening of men's letters, a practice near of kin to picking men's pockets, and to other still viler and far fataler forms of scoundrelism, be not resorted to in England, except in cases of the very last extremity. When some new Gunpowder Plot may be in the wind, some double-dyed high treason, or imminent national wreck not avoidable otherwise, then let us open letters; not till then. To all Austrian Kaisers and such like, in their time of trouble, let us answer, as our fathers from of old have answered—Not by such means is help here for you."

Monsieur Tonson Again.

BETWEEN BOSTON AND BUFFALO.

A key and a kite string revealed to Dr. Franklin the occult mysteries of electricity. The discoveries of the available power of gunpowder and steam were accidental, and nearly all of our great useful inventions have been matured from suddenly conceived brain-births.

From these beginnings our whole general economy has derived advantages far beyond finite calculation. In every branch of agriculture and mechanics, wonderful improvements have been introduced, and science and art, through the agency of laboratories, studios, observatories, colleges, and schools, have become as familiar as household words. In this approach to perfection the government has sympathized warmly, and through its exertions incalculable benefits have been conferred upon the country. In no department, however, have so many improvements been introduced for the immediate benefit of communities as in the General Post Office. Well devised and well matured practical plans have been elaborated and adopted to increase the usefulness, convenience, and safety of our postal system, and if its subordinates would all co-operate in carrying out these designs, there would be no cause of complaint from any quarter. But a good many sub-post offices seem to be conducted upon the same principle which governs modern horse fanciers in getting up expensive Irish matches—no two animals alike. Your postal laws and regulations are wide enough, long enough, high enough, and plain enough,—for I have read them—and strict attention to their teachings ought to enable the whole fraternity to act alike, and work in concert, for mutual advantage, if for nothing else. It ought to be their highest ambition to make the post office, in all its ramifications, the most perfect of our institutions, as it is the "central and master spring that regulates and keeps in motion all the wheels of our political system." Every new incumbent should try to improve on his predecessors' management—and in no instance allow a retrograde movement in the slightest particular, and old stagers should have the legend "excelsior" constantly before their own eyes, and those of their employes.

Unfortunately, however, I am afraid there are some deputy postmasters a good deal like the servant in the parable—who, instead of investing the funds confided to him for the benefit of his master, wrapped them "soap" carefully in a napkin, and returned it just as he received it, and for which he incurred his master's displeasure. "The hearing of this observation lays in application on it."

Offices of the same grade should be as similar in their arrangement, management and operations as "two peas," and in the routine business of post marking, cancelling, wrapping, distributing, delivering and dispatching letters all offices should be so much alike that "you could't tell the 'tother from which."

Is it not truly surprising that among the multitude of learned and skillful post office operators, not one of them has prepared a hand-book or manual for the use of post office clerks, defining their various duties so that the whole class could work understandingly in concert, no matter how far apart they might be.

The discipline and routine business of the army and navy are the same on ship and shore, in fort or tented field. Telegraph operators and railway employes are governed by fixed rules, which must be obeyed; and almost every public and private enterprise which employs a large number of persons at different points, and civil and political wide-spread organizations, have their regulations and by-laws for general government, which are strictly respected from the center to the edges. Of course there are some duties—the delivery for instance—no manual could make improvement on a bad tempered or untidy clerk there. Patience and polish must be staple ingredients in his composition—good looks and clean collars to the contrary notwithstanding.

I have received letters from post offices crumpled and mutilated, ink stained, grease stained and tobacco stained, which I know were not so when deposited by the hand that wrote them. Old pens, pieces of candles, stumps of segars, or the green ooze from veteran pipes, lying round loose, had all contributed their mite. To my mind there is a great deal in the appearance of a letter—clean, crisp, plainly superscribed, legibly postmarked, and the stamp neatly cancelled—it looks as inviting as strawberries and cream, and the contents, whether "grave or gay, lively or severe," command a prompter examination. O, I have stood by delivery windows waiting my turn, and have seen clerks pawing over letters, their thumbs constantly on the go to their mouth for more moisture, until the letters, with great smears over them, looked more like an old pack of cards than anything else I can liken them to; and then to receive one so soiled, it takes away the zest: the relish is departed, the appetite is gone under. The contents must be very important or very agreeable to bring about a reaction.

Another fault I have to find with some workmen in the postal vineyard—is the culture of a too prurient curiosity to know what the contents of some letters are. The senses of feeling, smelling and seeing, are brought into requisition, sometimes, prompted, I have no doubt, by honest curiosity—but it has a very bad look to the outside congregation, and "should be honored more in the breach than in the observance." Don't do it, it may lead to improprieties, and life-long remorse.

Mons Tonson.

Letter Addresses.

On the banks of the Hudson, a beautiful stream,
  Stands a city—Poughkeepsie 'tis called,
A college is near, of one Vassar the scheme,
  In which hundreds of maidens are walled.

And among them is one whom this letter should reach,
  Of her name ask the flowers and birds.
The Lily will nod, if she cannot find speech,
  And the Swift will respond to your words.

At Dover, in the Granite State,
  It is, dear Mr. Post,
That of a "Register of Deeds,"
  The people there can boast.

His name is Hayee, (John S. I'm sure,)
  His thanks you'll get, I know
If you to him without delay
  Will let this missive go.

P. M.

Shove this through without delay
Nor hold it back a single day
But send it on—to where I'll tell
To Mr. F. Townsend who does dwell
In Williamsport ye city great
In Lycoming County situate
That's in Pennsylvania I suppose you know
So pray dear sir now don't be slow
But send it quickly is my prayer fervent
And much oblige your humble servant.

Registering Letters.

"It is of the utmost importance that postmasters should exercise the greatest care and diligence in the custody and despatch of registered letters."—Instructions issued by Postmaster General with Act of March 3, 1863.

[We have compiled from the regulations of the Department the following instructions in regard to the registration of letters. They are intended specially for the benefit of postmasters at the smaller offices, and include replies to many questions on this subject, which we are constantly receiving from our subscribers.]

Registered Letter Blanks.—All the blanks which are required for use in the registration of letters can be obtained by addressing the Blank Agents of the Department, whose names and addresses will be found in another column.

Registration Fees.—The registration fee on all registered domestic letters is twenty cents, and the same on letters to Great Britain and Ireland. On those to Canada, and to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line, or by Prussian closed mail, the fee is five cents. The places mentioned above are the only foreign countries to which letters can be sent registered. The full postage on all registered letters, both foreign and domestic, must be prepaid by stamps.—(See last column of fourth page of this paper.)

Receiving Letters for Registration.—A sheet is furnished by the Blank Agents, on application by postmasters, on the right hand of which is printed the form of "Registered Letter Receipt," in the centre the "Return Registered Letter Receipt," and on the left hand the "Marginal Entry." When a letter is presented for registration, the postmaster should give to the depositor the registered letter receipt, (right hand) first entering therein the registered number of the letter, the date of deposit, the name of his post office, the name and residence of the depositor, and the address of the letter. In the Return Registered Letter Receipt, (centre) should be entered the same items, and also in the Marginal Entry, (left hand.) This latter is to be retained by the postmaster, and the return receipt disposed of as hereinafter directed. No entry of the sum said to be contained in the letter is required to, or should, be made.

Preparing Registered Letters for Mailing.—After the above directions have been followed, the postmaster will fill up a "Registered Letter Bill," (which is printed on the back of the ordinary post-bills headed "Unpaid Letters," which are supplied to all small offices,) entering therein the same items which are entered in the "Return Receipt;" but being careful, when intending to forward the registered letter through a Distributing Post Office, to insert the name of that office instead of that of the office which the letter is intended finally to reach. (In all cases, however, the "Return Receipt" must be filled up with the name of the office of final destination.) Then he will fill up the "Return Bill," (which must not be confounded with the "Return Receipt") in the same manner; then enclose the letter, the "Registered Letter Bill" and the "Return Receipt" in a sealed envelope, marked "Reg." or "Registered," and addressed to the postmaster of the office to which he intends to forward it.—[N. B. The instruction printed on the present "Registered Letter Bills," to the effect that postmasters are "not required to put up registered letters in a separate envelope," &c., has been rescinded by the Department, and all registered letters are now required to be so put up.] Then he will enclose it in a wrapper, marked with the name of the same office to which he has addressed the envelope in which he has placed the letter. The package should then be placed in the mail and sent forward—but should never be placed in a bundle of letters intended for distribution—as a registered letter is always intended to reach the postmaster of whatever office it is sent to, and consequently is not, strictly speaking, a distribution letter, although it may be sent to a Distributing Office.

Mailing Registered Letters.—It is advisable for postmasters, at all small offices, to mail such of their registered letters as are intended for offices outside of their respective States, to the first Distributing Post Office on the route over which it is intended the letters shall pass—being careful to address the sealed envelope in which they enclose them, to the postmaster of that office, and also marking the name of that office on the wrapper, and being sure that the "Registered Letter Bill" is also filled up with the name of that office. In short, registered letters sent through a Distributing Post Office, should be mailed and billed exactly the same as though they were intended for delivery there. It is only when registered letters are sent direct that the bill should be filled up with the name of the office of final destination.

The "Return Bill."—This should be filled up exactly in the same manner, and bear the same date as the "Registered Letter Bill," but should be sent in the next mail which leaves the office after the one in which the letter it refers to was sent. It should be enclosed in an envelope addressed to the postmaster of the same office to which the letter was sent, whether for delivery or for distribution.

Accounts of Registered Letters "Sent" and "Received."—Separate blank sheets for these accounts are furnished by the Department, and may be procured by application to the different Blank Agents. On these are entered the dates of receiving (and sending) registered letter bills, the names of the offices to which the letters are sent (and from which they are received,) the registered numbers of the letters, the names of the persons to whom they are addressed, and the amounts of the registry fees paid on them. These sheets will be retained by postmasters, copies being forwarded to the Department with the Quarterly Accounts.

Delivery of Registered Letters.—On receiving a registered letter for delivery, the postmaster should deliver it only to the person to whom it is addressed, or to some person whom he knows to be authorized to receive it, taking a receipt therefor, and also requiring the person to whom he delivers it to sign the "Return Receipt" which accompanies it. This "Return Receipt" he should then forward by first mail to the postmaster of the office at which the letter was originally mailed. When the "Return Bill" arrives, (which it should by next mail after the letter,) it should be marked "correct," and signed by the postmaster, and then forwarded by first mail to the postmaster of the office at which it is dated, whether that be a Distributing Office or the one at which the letter was originally mailed. If, however, a "Return Bill" arrives, and the letter which it calls for has not been received, the "Return Bill" must be marked "not received," signed by the postmaster, and returned in the same manner.

Forwarding Registered Letters.—When a registered letter arrives, addressed to a person who has removed, or who for any other cause wishes it forwarded to him at another office, it may be done at his written request. The order to forward should be posted on the account of registered letters received, opposite the name of the person making the request. The letter should then be sent forward as a registered letter—in the same manner as if originally mailed as one; but no additional registry fee is to be charged on it. The order to forward must be filed in the office of forwarding, as a voucher for the action had in the case.

Answers to Correspondents.

Account of Newspapers Received.—J. E. R., P. P——, Iowa.—Yes, where the postage is collected by you.

Stopping at D. P. O. Letters having old Stamp.—A. J. C., C——, Tenn.—No. The letter should have been sent to Dead Letter Office from the mailing office, but having been started it should be allowed to go to its destination, and the postmaster there should make the proper charge.

British Postage.—P. R., S. C——, Pa.—The shilling stamp pays the postage in full. If the postage is prepaid the letter is stamped in red, if not prepaid in black. All other marks are to be disregarded by you.

Papers with Unlawful Enclosure.—W. E. W., W——, N. Y.—Letter postage should be demanded of person to whom paper is addressed. If such payment is refused, return it to P. M. at mailing office, for him to collect penalty. If mailing office is not known, send the paper to Dead Letter Office.

Rate of Postage on Drop Letters and Papers in Country P. O.—S. M. W., New B——, N. H. Postage on Drop Letters one cent the half ounce, on newspapers one cent for 4 ounces.

Quarterly Returns and Box Rents.—J. W., C. H——, N. C.—1. Send transcripts of all your accounts with quarterly returns. 2. Postmasters who have had their salaries fixed by the Department, are not entitled to the Box Rents, even though the boxes are their private property. The amount of such rents is supposed to be included in the salary.

Suspicions of Mail Depredations.—J. L. E., B—— N. Y.; C. T. R., M——, Ind., and others.—If you have good reason to suspect the commission of depredations upon the mails, do not "try to catch the rogue," but report the facts (signing your own names) to the "Second Assistant Postmaster General, Contract Office, Inspection Division, Washington, D. C.," stating your reasons for such suspicions. The matter then will be placed in the hands of the proper agent for investigation.

Postage on Periodicals sent as Transient Matter.—G. A., P——, O.—1. Periodicals sent as transient matter should be charged with 2 cts. for 4 oz., or fraction thereof, and not 4 cts. 2. Law of 1859 has been modified by Laws of 1863, '64 and '65; these should be found in every office.

Mrs. Grundy.—J. B. K——, Ohio.—The Magazine, if addressed to Mrs. G., belongs and should be delivered to her only. Mr. G. has no claim to it, especially under the unfortunate connubial circumstances you mention.

Delivery of Mail by Contractor.—S. W. L., B——, Mass.—1. Contractor is not obliged to deliver mail if post office is over 80 rods from the depot. 2. Application for mail messenger should be sent to the Contract Office, Post Office Department, stating your distance from depot.

Jewelry and Lottery "Firms."—J. B. V., M——, Iowa, (and others.)—We are constantly receiving inquiries similar to those you make respecting the "reliability" of certain persons who promise, in the circulars they issue, gold watches for $5.24 and $5.000 prizes in lotteries for $10. We have not space to reply to all these queries, but will answer them "in a lump," by saying that such promises are not worth the paper they are printed or written upon, and are issued by rogues who owe it to their good fortune, rather than to their merits, that they are still outside of the penitentiary.

Returning Newspapers and Magazines to Publishers.—S. M., B——, Ind.—Sec. 9 and accompanying instructions, Act of March 3, 1863, must be your guide in this matter. We know of no law or regulation by which uncalled for or refused printed matter can be returned to the publisher.

Delivery of Mail Pouch.—C. P., N——, N. H.—If the railroad depot is not more than eighty rods from your office, it is the duty of the railroad company to attend to the delivery of mail pouches. If more than eighty rods, it is your duty to see that the mails are carried to and from the station by a sworn messenger, if you have one: by yourself or clerk, if no carrier has been provided for this purpose.

Franking.—F. C. I., R——, N. Y.—The franking privilege is limited to such persons as are mentioned in Sec. 42, Act of March 3, 1863. Letters on official business to these persons may be sent free in the mails.

Franking Public Documents, etc.—J. W. B., S. F——, N. H.—1. Members of Congress have a right to employ such persons as they choose to do this clerical business. In the case you speak of, the persons to whom these documents, legally franked, are sent, (i. e. each bearing the official signature of the member of Congress,) by directing them only act in the capacity of clerks. The original frank covers the whole until the package reaches the person to whom it is directed. 2. Miscellaneous mail matter can be legally forwarded to the new P. O. address of the party for whom it is intended, without an additional pre-payment of postage, but it must be charged with the additional rate to be collected on delivery. 3. Printed mail matter to regular subscribers who have paid their quarterly postage at one office, can be forwarded to another office without an additional payment of postage, on the subscriber showing his receipt to the postmaster at the office to which it is forwarded. Send the usual notice to to the Publishers.

Justice of the Peace.—L. M. P. B., R——, Pa.—A postmaster can legally hold the office of Justice of the Peace.

Old Stamps.—P. M., W——, Ohio.—Send all letters that are not prepaid one full rate by proper stamps to the Dead Letter Office. The law is perfectly plain in this matter.

Postage on Religious Periodicals, &c.—C. A. S., P——, Ind.—1. Postage on small religious periodicals is the same as on other periodicals, and not the same as on small religious newspapers. 2. For postage to Cairo see Table of Postages in "Mail," under head of "Egypt."

☞ Letters containing remittances for subscriptions, or in reference to the business department of this paper, should be addressed to "Publisher U. S. Mail" and not to the Editor.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
October 25, 1861.

DEAR SIR,—I consider the U. S. MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT a valuable and meritorious publication, useful alike to this Department, to Postmasters throughout the country, and to the public. It is my wish to see it generally circulated among postmasters and others, and I shall with pleasure extend to you every proper facility for enlarging the sphere of its official usefulness, and the range of its circulation. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.

To J. HOLBROOK, Special Agent P.O. Department.

The following Official Order has also been made by the Postmaster General:

Ordered, That the Assistant Postmasters General, and Chief Clerk of this Department, each cause to be furnished from time to time to J. Holbrook, for publication in the "United States Mail," all such new orders or regulations of the Department touching the business of the several bureaus as may be of general importance or interest, as soon as practicable after the same shall have been promulgated or established. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington Oct. 13, 1864.

DEAR SIR. I have no hesitation in adding my endorsement to that of my predecessor, Postmaster General BLAIR to the usefulness of the "UNITED STATES MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT," as a medium of communicating correct information to Postmasters and others respecting postal operations, and cheerfully recommend it to the favor and support of Postmasters and other agents of the Department. W. DENNISON,
Postmaster General.

To J. GAYLER, Esq. Editor U. S. Mail.

Special Notice to Subscribers.

Each wrapper enclosing a copy of the Mail bears a number in addition to the address. This number signifies that the term for which the subscription is paid expires with the corresponding whole number of the paper. Subscribers will please take this as a notification to forward the subscription for another year, when due, if they intend to renew. Those whom this number reaches, marked 65 or 66, will please remit at once.

☞ Although it is our desire and endeavor that our paper should appear on the first of each month, yet it is sometimes, owing to various circumstances, impossible to secure that result. Important changes in the laws and regulations occasionally occur at such times as to require, for the benefit of our readers, that our issue should be postponed for a few days in order to enable us to lay the details of such changes before them at as early a date as possible, instead of allowing a month to elapse before their publication. Our subscribers will therefore readily understand that a short delay in receiving their papers is sometimes unavoidable, and that when such delay occurs, it is the result of a desire to give them advantage of the latest official information on the postal matters.

Letters to Great Britain and Ireland.

MODIFIED RULE FOR RATING LETTERS BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND THE UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND.—We are requested to state, that from the 1st of April, 1866, the postage upon letters to and from Great Britain and Ireland, will be charged by a scale of progression having half an ounce as a unit throughout, the same as the United States domestic scale, the postage advancing by a single rate for each half ounce, instead of by two rates for every ounce after the first ounce.

Postmasters will take notice of this important change, and charge postage accordingly, in future.

MAIL BOXES.—The St. Louis Republican has the following description of a "mail box" invented by Marshall Smith, Esq., Assistant P. M. at that city, and which he proposes as a substitute for the leather or canvas pouch. Some of these boxes are at present in use experimentally; and they seem to us to possess many advantages:

"The invention consists of a box, instead of a leather pouch, as a receptacle for letters, during their transit from one part of the country to another. The box is made of wood, strongly bound with iron, and secured by the usual post-office padlock. The box is about two feet long by ten inches wide, and four or five inches deep. Within, on the sides of the box, are iron-toothed guides with a follower, designed to press the letters into a compact form. The letters are placed in the box upon their edges, with iron labels separating the parcels for different offices, the follower pushed up, the lid closed and locked, and the mail is ready to depart. With this arrangement, no wrappers are used for the parcels designed for different offices, and the mail can be closed within a few minutes of the time for its departure from the office."

KEEP THEM SEPARATE.—Judging from the number of letters deposited in post-offices bearing an "Internal Revenue" instead of a Postage Stamp, we should suppose that many persons were in the habit of keeping their supplies of these two very different articles in one common receptacle. We would advise those who do not desire to have their letters "held for postage" in consequence of an error of this sort, to provide against its occurrence by keeping the two kinds of "gum-backs" carefully separate.

Over two hundred Money Orders were issued by the San Francisco Cal., office on the fifth of February, the day of commencing the Business.

THE NEW FIFTEEN-CENT STAMPS are now in readiness to be issued on the requisition of Postmasters. They are printed in black ink, and bear in an oval, an excellent likeness of Abraham Lincoln, supported on each side by the fasces emblematic of Union. The design is tasteful, and the workmanship of the same excellence which has already given to American postage stamps the reputation of superiority in this respect to those of any other nation.

Postal Legislation.

On the 26th ult., the Bill to Amend the Postal Laws—a synopsis of which was published in the U. S. Mail for February—came again before the House of Representatives for consideration. Considerable debate took place on the subject, and the following sections which originally formed part of the bill, were struck out:

SEC. 1.—Authorizing the Postmaster-General to sell stamped envelopes at the value of the stamps impressed upon them, without reference to the cost of the envelopes.

SEC 4.—Authorizing the Postmaster-General to cause the mails to be transported by sailing vessels between any part of the United States and any foreign ports.

SEC. 5.—Repealing the law requiring the publication of the list of undelivered letters and leaving the matter to the discretion of the Postmaster-General.

SEC. 6. Authorizing the application of the balance of the appropriation of $100,000 under section 13, Act of May 19, 1864, to supply deficiencies in the proceeds of the Money Order system for the current year.

SEC. 11.—Authorizing the transfer of appropriations from one branch of expenditure to another.

SEC. 12.—Fixing the rates of postage on newspapers, circulars, pamphlets &c., deposited for local delivery.

SEC. 13.—Repealing the present law authorizing postmasters to contract with publishers of newspapers, periodicals and circulars, for delivery by carriers, of publications not coming through the mails.

After having undergone this somewhat extensive pruning, the bill was finally passed by the House in the following form:

SECTION 1.—Enacts that from and after the 1st day of April, 1866, prepaid letters shall be forwarded, at the request of the party addressed, from one Post-office to another without additional postage charge, and returned dead letters shall be restored to the writers thereof free of postage.

SEC. 2.—That the tenth section of the act entitled "An Act to Establish Salaries for Postmasters and for other Purposes," approved July 1, 1864, and so much of the 28th section of the act entitled "An act to amend the laws relating to the Post-Office Department, approved March 3, 1863, as requires postage to be charged at the prepaid rate to be collected on the return delivery of letters indorsed with a request for their return to the writers, be and the same are hereby repealed, and all letters bearing such indorsement shall hereafter be returned to the writers thereof without additional postage charge.

SEC. 3.—That the third section of the act entitled "An act to establish a Postal Money order System," approved May 17, 1864, be and the same is hereby amended so as to authorize the issuing of money-orders for any sum not to exceed fifty dollars, and that the charge or fee for an order not exceeding twenty dollars shall be ten cents, and for an order exceeding twenty dollars, twenty-five cents.

SEC 4.—That a money order shall be valid and payable when presented to the Deputy Postmaster on whom it is drawn within one year after its date, but for no longer period; and in case of the loss of a money order, a duplicate thereof shall be issued without charge on the application of the remitter or payee, who shall make the required proofs, and Postmasters at all money-order offices are hereby authorized and required to administer to the applicant or applicants in such cases the required oath or affirmation free of charge.

SEC. 5.—That all railroad companies carrying the mails of the United States shall convey without extra charge, by any train which they may run over their roads, all such printed matter as the Postmaster-General shall from time to time direct to be transported thereon, with the persons in charge of the mails, designated by the Post-Office Department for that purpose.

SEC. 6.—That if any person shall wilfully and maliciously injure, deface or destroy any mailable matter deposited in any letter-box, pillar-box, or other receiving-boxes established by authority of the Postmaster-General of the United States for the safe deposit of matter for the mails or for the delivery, or shall wilfully aid or assist in injuring such mailable matter so deposited as aforesaid, either by pouring into such boxes oil, water or other fluids, or by any other means; every such offender thereof being duly convicted, shall for every such offence be fined not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, or be imprisoned not less than one year nor more than three years, at the discretion of the court.

SEC. 7.—That whenever it shall become expedient in the opinion of the Postmaster-General to substitute a different kind of postage stamps for those now in use, he shall be and he is hereby authorized to notify the existing contract for the manufacture of postage stamps so as to allow to the contractors a sum sufficient to cover the increased expense, if any, of manufacturing the stamps so substituted.

SEC. 8.—That section 2 of chapter 137 of the Act approved July 1, 1864, be amended by adding the following: Provided that when the quarterly returns of any Postmaster of the third, fourth or fifth class shows that the salary allowed is ten per cent. less than it would be on the basis of commission under the act of 1854 fixing compensation, then the Postmaster-General shall review and readjust under the provision of said section.

It will be remembered that the bill has not yet become a law—not having passed the Senate. It will probably be brought up for action before that body at an early day.

Volunteer P. O. Clerks, &c.

One of the greatest drawbacks to the efficiency of the Post Office Department is the practice extensively allowed in many country Post Offices of volunteer clerks or assistants. By these we mean those persons, old and young, who make a practice of hanging round post offices till a mail arrives, and then rushing into the room where it is opened and assisting the postmaster, either with or without his direct consent, not only in distributing the matter for other offices, but aiding in the opening of the mail for his own office; and if they do not actually assist the clerk in sorting and boxing the mail matter, they hang around the boxes, impede the clerk in his movements, distract his attention by asking questions, and otherwise hinder him in a quick and correct discharge of his duties. Some of these volunteer clerks are also excellent post office spies, and make a practice and amusement of three or four times a day looking over outgoing or incoming mails, to see who of their friends receive or send letters. We have no fear of contradiction, when we say that to volunteer assistants may be attributed much of the missending of mail matter. But there is a more serious objection than either interference or missending mail matter. It is in cases of depredation—volunteer assistants enlarge to an almost unlimited extent, the field of operations in case of search for a lost letter, and greatly decrease the chances of success in the search,—for there is as much justice in suspecting a volunteer as there is in suspecting a regularly sworn clerk; and a great deal more reason, from the fact that he has the same opportunities for purloining, much better for concealment, and is less likely to have suspicion turned toward him. We hope postmasters will take the hint conveyed above and those who are not inclined to do so, we would refer to Chap. III, Sec. 23, of Regulations of 1859, which, although rather old, are still in force, and which section reads as follows:

"SEC. 23. Mails should not be opened or made up by the postmaster or his assistant within the reach of persons not authorized to handle them; the postmaster will therefore, while discharging these duties, if a room be appropriated to the use of his office, exclude from it all persons except his assistants regularly employed and sworn."

Duty and Courtesy, in Post-Offices.

If Postmasters would do their duty and make up mails according to Instructions, they would add much to the efficiency of our Postal System. But besides duty in the matter, courtesy could be made an element in the management of Post-offices. Suppose every postmaster should take a little extra time and trouble, in order to save the next person who must handle mail matter coming from his hands, a great deal of time and trouble, this would be the courtesy which we now advocate. We will illustrate our position by the case of a postmaster whose office is a meeting point for several small mails, perhaps we should say, is a "Separating Office." Such postmaster, in the course of a day, receives letters in small numbers, which, in the aggregate, make a large number, to be handled by a route agent, or the postmaster of another separating office; if the postmaster of the first office would face up and tie in one or more convenient sized packages, all the letters he receives from small mails, and which are to go into some large bag or pouch, to be handled by a route agent or postmaster, he would save the latter much of the time and trouble, the saving of which we desire to promote, in the case of a route agent while passing from station to station, or of a postmaster, at a time when time is of most value to him, viz.: on the arrival of an important mail. In nearly every separating office several important mails are put up daily; in some of the offices large boxes are provided, into which are thrown promiscuously, letters, packages, and single newspapers, for each particular mail. We will suppose there are five or six important mails, let each postmaster then provide a box or case containing as many pigeon-holes, each capable of holding fifty or one hundred letters, and into these pigeon-holes place the letters for each specified mail, the letters faced one way, and when there are enough to make a package of a convenient size, tie them up and put them in the proper distributing box, or in the pouch. There should be such a case of pigeon-holes, for each person distributing a mail; only very few offices would want more than two of them, many not more than one. The boxes would be small, and readily moved about, if necessary, and consequently not in the way on a distributing table, and the expense would be trifling. Postmasters, think over this suggestion, and try it.

Disorderly Persons.—S. J. W., M——, Ind.—You are right in excluding disorderly persons from your office during the time of assorting the mails. Be careful not to occupy more time in assorting than is necessary. The arrest and punishment of a few of these offenders may have a good effect upon the whole of them.

Remailing, &c.—D. P. M., C——, N. Y.—In forwarding an unpaid letter through a D. P. O., simply mark it "Due 3" (or more, as the case may be), and send it along. No postbill is necessary. Foreign unpaid letters the same.

Box Rents.—J. W. B., S. B——, N. H.—All money received for box rents should be accounted for to the Department, no matter whether the boxes were put up at your cost or not. Your first question has been answered many times.

Money Order.—R. O. C., K. C——, Mo.—There is no question as to a person's right to have a money order made payable to himself, and paid to him on presentation.

Marking up Matter in Transit.—L. R. H., D., ——, Ill.—Your decision that a broom passing in the mails, should be charged with letter postage, is correct. If postmasters would consult the laws and regulations of the Department, they would soon learn what rates of postage it is proper to charge upon matter sent to them for mailing. The question has been so often asked that we are tired of answering it. Respecting your action in "marking up" the "broom" package, mailed at T., and re-distributed at your office, we find no authority in the laws or regulations which commanded your interference. It is supposed that Postmasters will, and they are expressly enjoined to, in all cases, exercise proper vigilance in administering the charge intrusted to them, so that the Department shall not be defrauded of its just revenues. But zeal in the discharge of self-imposed duties may lead to abuses. Still, we think, if a glaring discrepancy is discovered in the rating of mail matter, the postmaster or clerk of an office through which it is passing is always justified in correcting the error; but he should be careful not to transcend his duty. He may suspect that a package on which newspaper postage is charged, contains some article which subjects it to letter postage; but the extreme measure for ascertaining the fact is not the right and duty of the official through whose office the package is in transit, except in certain large offices to which positive instructions for such supervision may have been sent from the Department.

Free Letters.—J. B. R., C——, Pa.—Letters to Quartermaster General are entitled to go free; see Instruction 42, Act of March 3, 1863.

Old Issue of Postage Stamps.—T. B., P——, Fla.—The old issue of Postage Stamp is not legal.

Prepayment of Postage in Full.—T. B. S., P——, Oregon. A letter must be prepaid in full, if you know who mailed it. But if deposited in post office by some one unknown, but with one full rate prepaid, it should be sent to office of destination, charged with the unpaid postage due. 2. No. A distributing office cannot stop a letter.

Disposition of Newspapers and Pamphlets Remaining in Post Office.—S. A., F——, Wis.—See above.

Delivering Letters.—R. G., M——, Ind.—Letters bearing a box number, but addressed to a person not having a box, should be delivered to the person whose address they bear—the number of the box being evidently an error.

Postmasters and Pensions.—F. D., T—— N. Y.—Persons in the employ of the United States cannot receive a pension while so employed.

Number on Receipt for Registered Letter, &c.—A. P. R., F——, Pa.—1. Enter the number on the bill from D. P. O. 2. Fill up the blank with the name of the office from which you received the bill. You have nothing to do with the Foreign Post Mark.

Seeds, Scions, &c., to California.—J. W. B., West M——, N. Y.—If sent by overland route letter postage must be charged; if sent by steamer, 2 cts. for 4 ozs., package not to exceed 32 ozs. in weight, and should be marked By Steamer.

Delivery of Mail Pouch.—E. B. P., A. B——, Penn.—If the lane, or path, or common leading to your house is not recognized as a part of the post road, and if the driver of the mail wagon or coach cannot bring his vehicle up to your door and have sufficient room for turning the same to regain the proper road, it is your duty to go, or send a properly authorized person, to the side of his wagon or coach, and receive the mail from his hands; as he is not compelled to leave his horses to accommodate you. In case of your refusal to do this, the driver would be justified in refusing to leave the mail in an exposed situation, or to place the same in charge of an unauthorized person.

Packages to News Dealers.—L. A. B., C——, N. Y.—Section 8, Chap. I, referred to by you does not provide for the difficulty you complain of. Our judgment is this—If the number of newspapers received by the news dealer varies from time to time, collect quarterly postage of him upon the maximum number; taking care to ascertain, from time to time, what the maximum number really is. Books, pamphlets, etc., and all irregular publications must be charged as transient matter. The latter cannot be sent in the package with newspapers, without subjecting the whole to transient rates. You had better address the Department, stating the case, as it is one involving some little doubt as to the strictly proper course to be pursued.

Return Letters.—A. L. B., W——, Iowa.—Return letters are to be entered on your account of "mails received," the same as any other unpaid letters. One entry alone is required. Your mistake is in supposing that a separate account is to be kept of these return letters.

Female Clerks.—D. W. C. G., E. S——, Mich.—We quite agree with you that females make good P. O. clerks in all offices where they can with propriety be employed. In large offices there would be many objections to them as clerks. Your first suggestion we can make no use of, as all postmasters must arrange the interior of their offices in such manner as shall best accommodate themselves.

Delivery of Newspapers.—L. N. W., E——, Vt.—Postmasters are compelled to deliver newspapers to the subscribers in a club upon a list of names being furnished them, if the said newspapers reach their offices as mail matter, or, in other words, through the mails.

Forwarding Registered Letters.—B. S., T——, Penn.—Registered letters can be forwarded, charged with the additional postage due, but without the payment of an additional registry fee. They must be re-registered.

Postage on "Leather Sermon Cover," &c.—S. R. A., G——, Ohio.—You were right in charging letter postage on the "leather sermon cover." Pocket handkerchiefs and such matter should be charged letter postage. See sections 19 and 20, Act of March 3, 1863.

Letters to Minors.—J. M. K., R——, N. Y. You were right in refusing to stop the letters, they being addressed to another Post Office.

Postage on Books.—C. E. I., G——, Mass. Books can be sent by mail at the rate of two cents for every four ounces. If over four ounces an additional rate is charged. Four ounces bring the limit of one rate, it necessarily follows that an additional rate governs until the limit of another rate is attained; and so on up to four pounds, which is the limit of weight allowed upon a package going in the mails.

Collecting Postage Quarterly or Yearly.—W. F. R., McC——, G. Ill.—You can collect the postage either quarterly or yearly. But subscriber is not obliged to pay yearly.

Papers Free within the Country.—T. C. T., C——, O.—If the office without the County is his usual post office, a subscriber can receive his county paper free through that office.

Letters not to be Advertised.—G. P. M., S——, Pa.—Instruction No. 7, Act of March 3, 1863, specifies such letters as are not to be advertised—among them are those for persons who regularly call or send to the post office. There is no law or regulation on this point specially applicable to letters from lottery managers.

Delivery of Mail Pouch, &c.—C. H. De C., M——, N. Y.—1. A mail driver is not obliged to leave his horses to receive or deliver a mail pouch. It would be well for you to be on the lookout for his arrival at the time he is due. 2. "The way to stop a paper when the owner does not pay the postage," is to refuse (as you are required by law to do) to deliver it until the postage has been paid in advance. Bills for overdue quarterly postage should be unknown in post offices, as all postmasters are required to swear once a quarter that they have not delivered any mail matter until all postage due on same has been paid. 3. There can be no objection to the use of the stamp under the circumstances you mention.

Transient Papers by Overland Mail.—J. M. M. P——, Wis.—By Act of March 5, 1864, all transient papers conveyed by mail beyond western boundary of Kansas, are subject to prepaid letter rates. This is the reason why your papers, if paid at newspaper rates, do not reach their destination.

Entering Return Letters.—G. L., F——, N. C.—If return letters reach you from a D. P. O., duly billed, enter them as received from that office. If no bill accompanies them enter the amount due as an undercharge.

Postage to Pacific Coast.—J. H. M., C——, N. Y.—"The 10 cent Pacific rate," referred to in columns of Domestic Postages as being abolished, means former rates to domestic offices on Pacific Coast, and not, as you seem to suppose, to foreign ports, or vessels lying therein, on the same coast.

Violation of Postal Laws.—B. F. O., G——, N. Y.—Section 128, P. O. Regulations, fully covers the ground of your complaint. A member of the Legislature has no more right to violate the law than any other citizen. Postmasters are not excusable for neglecting to collect the full amount of postage on a package or letter; and if detected in this evasion of the law should be reported to the Department.

Miscellaneous Information.

Dead Letters.

By the instructions under the postal laws, UNMAILABLE LETTERS are specified to be—

Letters attempted to be sent with stamps previously used, or stamps cut from stamped envelopes.

Unpaid letters for foreign countries, on which prepayment is required by the regulations.

Letters not addressed, or so badly addressed that their destination cannot be known.

Letters misdirected to places where there are no post offices.

Civilian's letters, (domestic) wholly unpaid, (including unpaid drop letters.)

Only such letters as are herein described are, when deposited in any post office, to be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office; all others must be dispatched to their destination, charged with the amount of unpaid postage.

When unmailable letters are sent to the Dead Letter Office, the specific reason therefor must be endorsed upon the envelope of each.

These instructions will be strictly followed at all post offices.

For more full instructions relating to dead letters, advertising letters, &c., examine carefully the 7th and 8th Sections of the Act of 3d March, 1863, and the instructions attached thereto, also, Sec. 1, Act of March 3, 1865.

Foreign Letters, &c.

RULE FOR RATING LETTERS TO GREAT BRITAIN, &C.

The attention of postmasters is particularly called to the mode of rating postage upon letters exchanged in the mails between this country and the United Kingdom, which differs only in the rate, and not, as heretofore, in the weight or standard. The maximum standard weight is now half an ounce, and the rate is twenty-four cents; postage to Great Britain and Ireland, therefore, is as follows, viz.:

One rate (24 cents) for a single letter not exceeding ½ oz. in weight.

Two rates (48 cents) when over ½, but not exceeding 1 ounce.

Three rates (36 cents) when over 1, but not exceeding 1½ ounces, &c., &c.

Thus, a letter to Great Britain, weighing 4½ ounces, should be paid $2.16, being chargeable with nine rates. All part paid letters to foreign countries are treated as wholly unpaid, and the amount paid left to the sender.

Letters to foreign countries, where prepayment of postage is compulsory, when insufficiently paid are sent to the Dead Letter Office, to be opened and returned to the writers, and are thereby delayed one or two mails, and, no doubt, in many cases, causing serious loss and annoyance to the writers.

REGISTERING FOREIGN LETTERS.—Letters can be registered in the United States for Great Britain and Ireland, for Germany, or any part of the German Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen, Hamburg, or Prussian closed mails. Letters to Canada can be registered, but not to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, or Prince Edward's Island. Postmasters will, therefore, decline to register letters addressed to other foreign countries.

The registry fee to be charged on registered letters to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, via Bremen or Hamburg, or by Prussian closed mail, and to Canada, is five cents—to Great Britain and Ireland, twenty cents. All registered letters must be prepaid in full to destination. See "Foreign Miscellany" on fourth page of this paper, for full information in regard to rating all foreign letters.

Our Postal Convention with the United Kingdom, provides that each country shall levy and collect its postage only, on newspapers, at the rate of two cents each, whether they are sent or received. Hence, newspapers received in this country from Great Britain come prepaid the British postage only, and postmasters must be particular, in all cases, to collect the United States charge of two cents on their delivery.

CANADIAN CORRESPONDENCE.—Irregularities having arisen in respect to Canadian correspondence, these directions must hereafter be observed:

Letters addressed to Canada must be mailed to a United States Exchange Office. Letters cannot be sent direct to Post Offices in Canada.

The postage on a single letter to and from Canada is 10 cents, prepayment optional; but the whole postage must be prepaid or none. Part prepayments are not recognized. Prepayments must be made by United States postage stamps—not in money.

A postmaster may frank a letter to Canada the same as to any point in the United States; but it is optional for the Canadian P. O. Department to deliver such letter free, or charge full postage on it, at its pleasure.

COLLECTIONS IN COIN.—In pursuance of the provisions of a resolution of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails despatched to this country from Great Britain and Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen, or Belgium, are collected in gold or silver coin. Should, however, payment of such postage, and of the premium on a corresponding amount of coin, be tendered in United States notes, the same is to be accepted in lieu of coin. The amount to be collected in U. S. notes, (in case coin is not offered,) is marked on each letter on its arrival at U. S. Exchange Offices, and if charged in the post-bills. Hence, when coin is collected at the office of delivery, the difference should be entered in the account of Mails Received as an overcharge.

The above applies exclusively to the mails received from the countries mentioned

On out-going letters the former regulations remain unchanged, and, when prepaid, the regular rates (in currency) only are to be collected.

Mail Bags and Locks.

DEPOSITORIES.—The following post offices are constituted depositories for mail Bags and Locks, viz:

Portland and Bangor, Me., Concord, N. H., Montpelier and Rutland, Vt., Boston, Mass., Providence, R. I., Hartford and New Haven, Conn., New York, Albany, Rochester and Buffalo, N. Y., Trenton, N. J. Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburg, Penn., Baltimore, Md., Washington, D. C., Richmond, Wheeling and Abingdon, Va., Raleigh and Ashville, N. C., Charleston and Columbia, S. C., Augusta, Savannah and Columbus, Ga., Tallahassee, Fla., Mobile, Montgomery and Huntsville, Ala., Jackson and Natchez, Miss., New Orleans, La., Little Rock, Ark., Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis, Tenn., Louisville, Ky., Columbus, Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio; Detroit, Mich. Indianapolis, Ind., Springfield and Chicago, Ill., St. Louis, Jefferson City and St. Joseph, Mo., Milwaukee, Wis., Keokuk and Dubuque, Iowa, Galveston, Clarksville and Nacogdoches, Texas; San Francisco, Cal., and Astoria, Oregon.

POST OFFICE BLANKS.

The agencies for supplying postmasters with blanks are as follows:

DISTRICT No. 1—Supplies blanks for the District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida. Postmasters in either of these States, wanting blanks of any kind, should address "Wm. O. Redden," Blank Agent, Washington, District of Columbia."

DISTRICT No. 2—Supplies blanks for the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, California, Nevada and Oregon, and Washington Territory. Postmasters in either of these States or Territories, wanting blanks of any kind, should address "Beverly Clarke, Blank Agent, New York, N. Y."

DISTRICT No. 3—Supplies blanks for the States of Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, New Mexico, Utah, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska. Postmasters in either of these States, wanting blanks of any kind should address "A. F. Lee, Blank Agent, Buffalo, N. Y.

When the postages collected at an office amount to $100 a year, the name of the postmaster and of his office will be printed on the post bills. When the postmaster's compensation exceeds $12 50 a quarter, the postmaster is entitled to wrapping paper and twine, at the above agencies.

Applications for blank registers of arrival and departure of the mails must be made direct to the "Inspection office." For special instructions, to the First Assistant Postmaster General.

All postmasters whose compensation is less than $12 50 per quarter, can purchase a reasonable quantity of wrapping paper and twine, provided the net proceeds of the office exceed twenty dollars per year.

United States Exchange Offices for Foreign Mails.

New York is an office of Exchange for British, French, Prussian, Belgian, Bremen and Hamburg Mails.
Boston is an office of Exchange for British, French, Prussian and Belgian Mails.
Philadelphia is an office of Exchange for British and French Mails.
San Francisco is an office of Exchange for British Mails only.
Portland, Detroit, and Chicago, are offices of Exchange for British, Prussian and French Mails.

EXCHANGE OFFICES FOR BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN MAILS.

Portland and the Route Agents thence to the Canada line exchange with the Route Agents beyond. Buffalo exchanges with Toronto, Hamilton, Queenstown, London and other offices on Lake Erie; Whitehall, Plattsburgh, Rouse's Point, N. Y. with St. John's; Burlington and Rutland with St. John's and Montreal; Island Pond with Montreal, Sherbrook and Route Agents. The following exchange with their nearest corresponding offices on the other side; Black Rock, Suspension Bridge, Dovers, Lewiston, Youngstown, Rochester, (with Coburg in summer), Cape Vincent, Morristown, Ogdensburgh and Fort Covington, N. Y.; Richford, Franklin, Derby Line, North Troy, Swanton and Canaan, Vt. Cleveland, Ohio, (with Port Stanley in summer,) Sault St. Mary, Port Huron, Detroit and Algonac, Mich.; Fort Fairfield, Robinson, Calais, Houlton and Eastport, Me.

MODE OF INDICATING THE PREPAYMENT OF POSTAGE UPON LETTERS RECEIVED FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

When the United States official postage entries on the letters received from Great Britain or the Continent of Europe, are in red ink, the letter is to be considered as paid, and is to be delivered accordingly; when in black ink, as unpaid, and the postage is to be collected on delivery. The postage on such letters is either wholly paid or wholly unpaid. Postmasters can readily decide any question as to prepayment, by this simple criterion.

Domestic Postages.

The law requires postage on all letters, (including those to foreign countries when prepaid,) excepting those written to the President or Vice-President, or members of Congress, or, (on official business) to the chiefs of the executive departments of the government, and the heads of bureaus and chief clerks, and others invested with the franking privilege, to be prepaid by stamps or stamped envelopes, prepayment in money being prohibited.

All drop letters must be prepaid. The rate of postage on drop letters, at offices where free delivery by carrier is established, is two cents per half ounce or fraction of a half ounce; at offices where such free delivery is not established, the rate is 1 ct.

The single rate of postage on all domestic mail letters throughout the United States is three cents per half ounce, with an additional rate of three cents for each additional half ounce or fraction of a half ounce. The ten cent (Pacific) rate is abolished.

RATES OF LETTER POSTAGE BETWEEN OFFICES IN THE UNITED STATES, AND TO AND FROM CANADA AND OTHER BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES

To and from Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., irrespective of distance.
To and from other British N. Am. Provinces, for distance not over 3,000 miles. ........ 10 cts.
For any distance over 3,000 miles.......... 15 "

For every additional half ounce, or fraction of a half ounce, an additional rate is charged. Prepayment is optional on all letters for the British North American Provinces except Newfoundland, to which prepayment is compulsory.

Letter postage is to be charged on all handbills, circulars, or other printed matter which shall contain any manuscript writing whatever.

Daguerreotypes, when sent in the mail, are to be charged with letter postage by weight.

Photographs on cards, paper, and other flexible material, (not in cases,) can be sent at the same rate as miscellaneous printed matter—viz., two cents for each four ounces or fraction thereof.

Photographic Albums are chargeable with book postage—four cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof.

Newspaper Postage.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Postage on Daily Papers to subscribers when prepaid quarterly or yearly in advance, either at the mailing office or office of delivery, per quarter, (three months) | | 35 cts. |
| Six times per week, | " " | 30 " |
| For Tri-Weekly, | " " | 15 " |
| For Semi-Weekly, | " " | 10 " |
| For Weekly, | " " | 5 " |

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS (one copy only) sent by the publisher to actual subscribers within the county where printed and published, free.

POSTAGE PER QUARTER (to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance) on NEWSPAPERS and PERIODICALS issued less frequently than once a week, sent to actual subscribers in any part of the U. S.:

| | |
|---|---|
| Semi-monthly, not over 4 oz. | 6 cts. |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 12 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 18 " |
| Monthly, not over 4 oz. | 3 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 6 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 9 " |
| Quarterly, not over 4 oz. | 1 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 2. " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 3 " |

Quarterly postage cannot be paid for less than three months. If a subscription begins at any other time than the commencement of an official quarter, the postage received by the p. m. must still be entered in his account for that quarter. Subscribers for short terms—exceeding three months, say four or five months—can pay quarterly postage for the actual term of their subscriptions—that is for one quarter and a third, one quarter and two-thirds, &c. The law only requires that at least one quarter's postage shall be prepaid, and not more than one year's postage. Any term between one quarter and one year can therefore be prepaid at proportionate rates.

PUBLISHERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS may send to each other from their respective offices of publication, free of postage, one copy of each publication, and may also send to each actual subscriber, inclosed in their publications, bills and receipts for the same, free of postage. They may also state on their respective publications, the date when the subscription expires, to be written or printed.

Religious, Educational and Agricultural Newspapers of small size, issued less frequently than once a week, may be sent in packages to one address at the rate of one cent for each package not exceeding four ounces in weight, and an additional charge of one cent is made for each additional four ounces or fraction thereof, the postage to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance.

NEWSDEALERS may send newspapers and periodicals to regular subscribers at the quarterly rates, in the same manner as publishers, and may also receive them from publishers at subscribers' rates. In both cases the postage to be prepaid, either at the mailing or delivery office.

Publications issued without disclosing the office of publication, or containing a fictitious statement thereof, must not be forwarded by postmasters unless prepaid at the mailing office at the rates of transient printed matter.

Postage on Transient Printed Matter.

[All printed matter (except single copies of newspapers, magazines and periodicals to regular subscribers) sent via Overland Mail, is to be charged at letter postage rates.]

BOOKS, not over 4 oz. in weight, to one address, 4 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 8 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 12 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 16 cts.

CIRCULARS, not exceeding three in number, to one address, 2 cts.; over three and not over six, 4 cts.; over six and not over nine, 6 cts.; over nine and not exceeding twelve, 8 cts.

ON MISCELLANEOUS MAILABLE MATTER, (embracing all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, handbills and posters, book manuscripts and proof-sheets, whether corrected or not, maps, prints, engravings, sheet music, blanks, flexible patterns, samples and sample cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes or wrappers, cards, paper, plain or ornamental, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, and scions,) the postage to be pre-paid by stamps, is, on one package to one address, not over 4 oz. in weight, 2 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 4 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 6 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 8 cts.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General, the fifth subdivision of the 42d instruction of the new Post Office Law, has been amended by striking out the word twelve and inserting thirty-two before the word ounces, so that it shall read as follows—"The weight of packages of seeds, cuttings, roots and scions, to be franked, is limited to thirty-two ounces."

All mail matter not sent at letter rates of postage, embracing books, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, and other printed matter, and all other mail matter except seeds, must be so wrapped or enveloped with open sides or ends as to enable the postmaster to examine the package without destroying the wrapper, otherwise such packages must be rated with letter postage. No communication, whether in writing or in print, can be sent with any seeds, roots, cuttings or scions, maps, engravings or other matter not printed, except upon the seperate payment of postage upon each separate matter at the established rates.

Exchange newspapers and periodicals cannot be remailed without being chargeable with postage.

Where packages of newspapers or periodicals are received at any post office directed to one address and the names of the club of subscribers to which they belong, with the postage for a quarter in advance, shall be handed to the postmaster, he shall deliver the same to their respective owners. But this does not apply to weekly newspapers which circulate free in the county where printed and published.

Weekly newspapers and all other printed matter to the British North American Provinces, although sent from countries bordering on the line, are chargeable with the same rates as when sent to any point in the United States.

☞ All transient matter must be prepaid by stamps. But if it comes to the office of delivery without prepayment, or short-paid, the unpaid postage must be collected on delivery at double the prepaid rate. reat neglect exists in the strict quarterly prepayment of postage on printed matter sent to regular subscribers. No such paper should be delivered, unless it is either prepaid at the mailing office, or at the delivery office for at least a quarter. If not so prepaid, postmasters must collect postage on each copy as on transient matter. If they fail, they will be charged with the full postage due, and in clear cases removed from office for neglect.

To inclose or conceal a letter or other thing (except bills and receipts for subscription) in, or to write or print anything, after its publication, upon any newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, is illegal, and subjects such printed matter, and the entire package of which it is a part, to letter postage.

Any word or communication, whether by printing, writing, marks or signs, upon the cover or wrapper of a newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, other than the name and address of the person to whom it is to be sent, and the date when subscription expires, subjects the package to letter postage.

RATES OF POSTAGE ON PRINTED MATTER FOR FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

1. TO OR FROM GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND, IN UNITED STATES AND BRITISH MAILS.—Newspapers two cents each without regard to weight; pamphlets and periodicals, two cents each if not weighing over two ounces, and four cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce if exceeding two ounces; which is the United States postage only; but pamphlets weighing over eight ounces, or periodicals weighing over sixteen ounces, are chargeable with letter postage. Books and all other descriptions of printed matter, are subject to letter rate of postage. Neither pamphlets nor periodicals are entitled to conveyance in the British mail, through England, to countries on the Continent of Europe.

2. ADVERTISEMENTS.

DEXHEIMER'S COMBINED STAMPING CUSHION AND PAD.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington, August 9, 1865.

SIR—Your favor of the 28th ult., with model of a new Stamping Tablet and Cushion, is received. The merit of your invention is perceptible at a glance, and has my hearty approval. The plan of its arrangement, together with its compact and portable form, are such as to recommend it to general use. I have no doubt, that its adoption by postmasters would tend to give a plainer post-mark upon letters, as well as a better defacement of the postage stamp. You have, therefore, the best wishes of this Department for its introduction among the various post offices of the country.

Very respectfully,
A. N. ZEVELY,
3d Ass't Postmaster General.

CHRISTIAN DEXHEIMER,
Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

TO THE BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

| | |
| Cape Breton, Pr'e Edward's Island, and Nova Scotia. To Newfoundland prepayment required. To Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., any distance. | * 10 cents when not over 3,000 miles from the line of crossing. * 15 cents when distance exceeds 3,000 miles. Prepayment optional. |

Steamers of the Cunard line sail from Boston twice each month, touching at Halifax, and when letters are sent by that conveyance for Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Prince Edward's Island, the U. S. postage is 5 cents the single rate, to be prepaid. The inland rate is collected on delivery. On newspapers by this route, the postage is two cents each.

Newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and sent to regular subscribers in the British North American Provinces, or published in those Provinces and sent to regular subscribers in the United States, are chargeable with the regular prepaid quarterly rates of United States postage to and from the line; which postage must be collected at the office of mailing in the United States on matter sent, and at the office of delivery in the United States on matter received. In like manner, such matter, if transient, is chargeable with the regular domestic transient printed matter rates to and from the line, to be collected at the office of mailing or delivery in the United States, as the case may be. Editors, however, may exchange free of expense.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS.

Valuable letters for Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line via New York, or by the Prussian closed mail via New York and Boston, as also letters addressed to Great Britain and Canada, will be registered on the application of the person posting the same, in the same manner and on the same terms as those deliverable in the United States, provided that the full postage chargeable thereon to destination, together with a registration fee of twenty cents on each letter to Great Britain or Ireland, and five cents on each letter to the other places mentioned above, is prepaid at the mailing office. Such letters should be mailed and forwarded to the respective United States exchange offices in the same manner as domestic registered letters are mailed to those offices.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS, ETC.

Letters addressed to Great Britain and Ireland are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, a single rate being charged for each half ounce, &c.

Letters in the mail to France are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of one quarter ounce; double rate if exceeding a quarter, but not exceeding half an ounce; and so on, an additional rate being charged for each quarter ounce or fractional part of a quarter ounce. Letters addressed to the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, and the British North American Provinces, are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, one rate being charged for each half ounce or fractional part of half an ounce. Postmasters, should be careful, where the postage is prepaid, to collect the proper amount. They should be particular to notice the route indicated on the envelopes of letters, and to collect postage accordingly. Letters mailed at some offices, marked "via England," or "via Prussian closed mail," for a German State, are frequently taken upon the prepayment of Bremen rates, and those marked "via Bremen," at Prussian closed rates, &c.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS GOING VIA FRANCE

In the case of letters to be forwarded in the British mail for transmission from England via "Marseilles," the French postage is rated at 6 cents the quarter ounce, except on letters for Java, China, Labuan, Borneo, Japan, the Moluccas and Philipine Islands, which are rated at eight cents per half ounce, and except, also, on letters for Syria and Tunis, by French packet, when the single French rate is 12 cents per quarter ounce.

The rates by "French mail" are in full to destination, except to the following places, viz.: Aden, Batavia, Ceylon, China, cities of Turkey, in Europe, except as herein mentioned, via Austria, countries to which correspondence can be sent via Suez, countries beyond seas, via France, other than those enumerated, East Indies, Gibralter, Hong Kong, Java, Mauritius, Montenegro, Penang, Portugal, Isle of Re-Union, Servia, (except Belgrade,) Shanghai, Singapore and Spain. The limit of prepayment to Spain, Portugal and Gibralter, is Behobia; to Servia, (except Belgrade,) Montenegro, and cities of Turkey in Europe, except as herein mentioned, "via Austria;" the frontier of Turkey and Austria; to Aden, East Indies, Ceylon, China, and other countries via Suez, the seaports of the Indies, or of the sea of China to which the English packets ply; and to places beyond seas, other than those designated, the limit is the port of arrival in the country of destination.

RATES ON PAMPHLETS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

On pamphlets and magazines, to or from the West coast of South America, the United States postage is four cents; and to or from all other foreign countries, (except Great Britain, Belgium, and the German States, via Bremen or Hamburg mail,) two cts. per 4 oz. or fraction thereof, to be collected in all cases in the United States.

Newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries (particularly to the continent of Europe) must be sent in narow bands, open at the sides or ends; otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage.

ROUTES OF TRANSMISSION, ETC.

To prevent mistakes at the exchange offices, it is desirable that the particular routes by which letters are to be forwarded from the United States to Europe, should be distinctly written on the covers. Letters intended for transmission in the open mail to England, should bear the direction "open mail via England;" if for transmission in the French mail, they should be directed, "via France in French mail;" if for transmission by closed mail to Prussia, they should be directed "via Prussian closed mail;" if for transmission in the closed mail to Belgium, they should be directed "via Belgian closed mail;" and if for transmission by the New York and Bremen line to Bremen, or by the New York and Hamburg line to Hamburg, they should be directed "via Bremen," or "via Hamburg."

It is important that letters addressed to Germany and other European countries, via France, where the single rate per quarter ounce is 21 cents, should be plainly marked to be sent via France; otherwise they may be missent in the open mail to Liverpool by United States packet, the 21 cent rate per half ounce being also chargeable on letters thus forwarded.

VOL. VI, No. 8. NEW YORK, MAY, 1866. WHOLE No. 68.

Postal Laws and Regulations.

The new and revised edition of the Laws and Regulations of the Post Office Department is now nearly ready for publication, and will doubtless soon be issued to Postmasters. It forms a volume of somewhat over two hundred pages, and contains a careful compilation of all the existing laws relating to the Post Office Department, and also the various Regulations established by the Postmaster General. It was prepared under the supervision of JOSEPH A. WARE, Esq., Solicitor of the Treasury for the Post Office Department, assisted by B. F. WILKINS, Esq., of the Contract Office, and to the courtesy of the former gentleman we are indebted for advance sheets of the work, which is one of signal ability, and evinces a marked improvement in several respects upon previous publications of the same nature. The Laws are carefully classified according to the several subjects to which they relate, arranged in order of date, and explained and illustrated by notes of the judicial rulings and decisions which have been made under them. The index to the Laws is copious, and prepared with great care and judgment—qualities (as most book readers, to their cost and vexation, well know) too often lacking in the majority index-makers.

The Regulations occupy about ninety pages of the work, and embrace instructions on all points connected with the duties of post office officials—all former regulations which have been rendered obsolete by the enactment of late laws being omitted, and new ones introduced to meet the present requirements of those laws. As our readers will no doubt be anxious to obtain a sight of these latter, we append a few extracts from them. We begin with the "Special Notice," with which the Regulations are introduced:

All instructions and regulations promulgated by the Postmaster General, conformably to law, for the guidance of persons employed by the department, are the law of the land, and entitled to the same respect and obedience as acts of Congress. Any disregard or disobedience of such regulations entails upon postmasters, contractors, and other employees of the Post Office Department the same liabilities and penalties as a violation of any specific law of Congress. The following regulations and instructions are made for the purpose of organizing the business of the department, and all official acts of the officers of the department must be done and performed in strict conformity thereto. Every deviation from these instructions and regulations will be followed by appropriate penalties or punishment.

SEC. 3. No person can be appointed postmaster who cannot legally execute an official bond, and take the required oath. Minors and married women are, by law, incapable of holding the office of postmaster.

SEC. 52. Distributing offices are established to insure certainty and regularity in the transmission of letters and packets between remote points; and to this end, besides the usual business of a post office, certain peculiar duties are performed therein. Offices of this character will be designated from time to time by the Postmaster General, and the allowance for extra service fixed as the exigencies of the service may require.

SEC. 56. The following is a list of the distributing offices on the 1st of April, 1866:

| | |
|---|---|
| Boston, Massachusetts. | St. Louis, Missouri. |
| Portland, Maine. | Louisville, Kentucky. |
| Hartford, Connecticut. | Maysville, Kentucky |
| New York, New York. | Dubuque, Iowa. |
| Albany, New York. | San Francisco, California. |
| Buffalo, New York. | Sacramento, California. |
| Philadelphia, Penn. | Norfolk, Virginia. |
| Pittsburgh, Penn. | Richmond, Virginia. |
| Baltimore, Maryland. | Kanawha, West Virginia. |
| Washington, Dist. of Co. | Raleigh, North Carolina. |
| Wheeling, Virginia | Montgomery, Alabama. |
| Cincinnati, Ohio. | New Orleans, Louisiana. |
| Columbus, Ohio. | Charleston, South Carolina. |
| Cleveland, Ohio. | Savannah, Georgia |
| Toledo, Ohio. | Columbus, Georgia. |
| Detroit, Michigan. | Nashville, Tennessee. |
| Indianapolis, Indiana | Memphis, Tennessee. |
| Cairo, Illinois. | Little Rock, Arkansas. |
| Chicago, Illinois. | Napoleon, Arkansas. |
| St. Joseph, Missouri. | Galveston, Texas. |

SEC. 74. Every postmaster will enter the amount of unpaid letters, as it is charged in the bill whether the charge be correct or erroneous. If erroneous, it falls either under the denomination of undercharged or overcharged, and by an entry of the sum, undercharged or overcharged, in the proper column, that error is balanced.

SEC. 90. Letters received to be sent by mail should be carefully marked with the name of the post office at which they are received, and the abbreviated name of the State or territory, the day of the month on which they are forwarded in the mail, and the rate of postage chargeable on them; or if they be free, with the word Free. The name, date, and Free, may be either written or stamped.

SEC. 92. Post-bills are used only for unpaid and registered letters. No entry need be made in the right-hand column of the post-bill if the letters received correspond with the statement of the mailing postmaster. Unpaid letters sent to a distributing office for distribution should not be post-billed. A post-bill is required only when mailing direct for delivery.

SEC. 99. Only such letters as there is good reason to believe were written after the usual hour for closing the mail at the local post office, and such as could not, with due diligence, have been placed in the offices in due time to be despatched in the outgoing mail, may be received by the agent and mailed in the cars, excepting railway post offices, which are required to receive letters up the last moment prior to the moving of the train.

SEC. 114. Special reports are to be made when mails are received wet or in otherwise bad condition; also of extraordinary failures, interruptions, or abandonment of routes; and, from time to time, of all such information as may aid the department in enforcing the strictest performance of duty on the part of contractors, and securing for the community the greatest possible regularity, safety, and efficiency in the mail service. These special reports should state the number, or, if the number is not known, the termini of the route.

SEC. 115. The registers and special reports must be forwarded to the Contract Office, Inspection Division. In no case are they to be sent with the quarterly returns. A copy of each register sent to the department should be kept by the postmaster.

SEC. 140. All franking by postmasters, or to them, except upon their official communications to the department and to each other, is prohibited. In such cases the envelope should bear the certificate "official business," signed by the postmaster writing.

SEC. 142. The franking privilege, heretofore accorded to widows of Presidents, is, by the law of March 3, 1863, entirely abrogated.

SEC. 144. By a law of Congress passed in 1866 all letters and packets carried by post to and from Mrs. Mary Lincoln, widow of the late President Lincoln, are to be conveyed free of postage during her natural life.

SEC. 145. Copyright books, charts, &c., required to be delivered to the library of Congress or Smithsonian institution, and which are entitled to pass free in the mail, should be superscribed "Copyright for Congress Library," or "Smithsonian Institution," as the case may be.

SEC. 149. Postmasters will, as far as possible report the postage accruing at their offices upon each of the three classes of mailable matter enumerated in section 19, act of March 3, 1863, viz: first, letters; second, regular printed matter; third, miscellaneous matter.

SEC. 150. If any matter on which by law the postage is required to be prepaid at the mailing office shall reach its destination without such prepayment, the prepaid rates shall be charged and collected on delivery, and this regulation applies to all letters not duly franked or prepaid (except soldiers' and naval letters,) and all printed matter except that sent to regular subscribers, and to all miscellaneous mail matter.

SEC. 152. Postmasters must never give credit for postage, nor deliver any letter, newspaper pamphlet, magazine, or other package, unless the postage thereon be paid. Printed matter must be retained until it is paid for, either at transient or quarterly rates. Unmailable matter will never be delivered.

SEC. 157. Letters mailed in the cars can be prepaid only by using postage stamps or stamped envelopes, and, when not thus prepaid, it is the duty of postmasters to treat all such letters as unpaid, although marked "paid"—no route agent being permitted to receive prepayment in money.

SEC. 184. When a registered package of stamps or envelopes has been forwarded from a distributing office, and no "correct" return bill therefor has been received by due course of mail, the case must be immediately referred to a special agent, and the facts reported to the Third Assistant Postmaster General.

SEC. 186. Route agents are required to note upon their mail bills the registered number and address of each package of stamps and box of stamped envelopes that may pass under their notice; and also to keep a record of the same, in which they will enter the name of the person to whom such package or box is delivered, and from whom they will be careful to take a receipt.

SEC. 189. The postage on stamped envelopes spoiled in directing may be refunded in stamps by a postmaster, if satisfied that they have never been sent by mail, and that the misdirection actually occurred at the place where the redemption is claimed. In no case is an envelope to be redeemed at the post office to which it is directed. Postmasters will send such spoiled envelopes, with a special letter, to the Third Assistant Postmaster General.

SEC. 199. The 10 or 15 cents (according to the distance) pays for the single letter from any post office in the United States to any post office in either of the British North American provinces, and vice versa; prepayment is optional in either country, but a prepayment of anything less than the full rate is not to be regarded.

SEC. 200. The sixpence (6d.) and shilling marks of prepayment in British North America will be recognized.

SEC. 210. The following is the form of oath prescribed to be taken by publishers as to the transmission of printed mail matter to other than bona fide subscribers:

State of ——, county of ——:

The undersigned, —— ——, publisher of —— ——, in the city of ——, county of ——, State of ——, does swear (or affirm) that he, as publisher, has not sent, nor permitted to be sent by any clerk, agent, or employee, within his knowledge, any copies of the —— —— without prepayment of postage by postage stamps, except the same were sent to bona fide and regular subscribers.

Sworn and subscribed to before me, a ——, this —— day of ——.

SEC. 211. It is the duty of a postmaster to receive and deliver to subscribers, newspapers, magazines, and periodicals which come in the mail, and to put the address on such publications sent to clubs, or to deliver them from a list of subscribers, provided such list is furnished and the postage on the whole packet paid for one quarter in advance.

SEC. 214. The privilege of publishers to send their publications free of postage is limited to one copy of each issue, and that can only be sent free when sent direct from one publisher to another. It can neither be sent to any other person, nor forwarded after one delivery to any other place, without payment of postage thereon.

SEC. 215. Postmasters and special agents will report all cases where papers or periodicals are sent without prepayment to other than regular subscribers.

SEC. 229. In the territory included between the western boundary of Kansas and the eastern boundary of California, letter postage must be charged upon all printed matter, except upon newspapers, periodicals, &c., sent from a known office of publication to bona fide subscribers. One copy only of each such newspaper, periodical, &c., can be received by a subscriber at rates charged on printed matter.

SEC. 286. Every postmaster of a "special office" will report to the Postmaster General, at the end of each quarter, the balance in his hands, over and above the sums due the contractor for supplying his office with the mail, in order that the department may make a proper disposition of such balance.

SEC. 287. Postmasters at "special offices," when under order to pay their respective contractors, will not only pay promptly, but lose no time in transmitting to the Auditor for the Post Office Department the receipts taken for their quarterly payments.

SEC. 288. All payments to the department, whether upon drafts or otherwise, must be in specie, United States Treasury notes, or notes of the national banks; and postmasters, in receiving payment of postages or other dues to the department, should always bear in mind that they are bound to pay them over in the legal currency of the United States.

SEC. 289. No allowance can be made to a postmaster for deficiency in weight of coin, or for any counterfeit money received for postage. Neither can any compensation be made for collecting or paying over moneys to the department, not arising from postages at his office.

SEC. 294. In case of death, resignation, or removal of a postmaster, or discontinuance of an office; or in case of the giving of a new official bond in consequence of a change in the name of an office, the expiration of the term for which the postmaster may have been appointed, or other reason, the accounts must be made up to the day (though it be not the end of the quarter) in which the office ceases to operate or the new appointment, or the new bond, as the case may be, takes effect.

SEC. 295. Many postmasters have been in the habit of forwarding to the department, contrary to regulation, their original accounts, keeping no duplicate or copy. This violation of rule cannot be permitted nor overlooked. Transcripts or copies only must be sent, and the original accounts must be carefully preserved for inspection by any agent of the department who may require it.

SEC. 298. If any postmaster shall neglect to render his accounts for one month after the time, and in the form and manner prescribed by law, and by the Postmaster General's instructions, he shall forfeit double the value of postages which shall have arisen at his office.

SEC. 299. The Postmaster, though he may have mailed his accounts, will not be considered as discharged from the penalty mentioned in the foregoing section, unless within one month after being notified that they have not been received at the department, he transmits duplicate transcripts from the original accounts retained in his possession.

NOTE.—Postmasters will bear in mind that unless the two preceding sections are strictly complied with, the penalty of their omission will be enforced.

SEC. 302. Every postmaster shall keep, in a book separate from his other accounts, a record

1. Of all postage stamps and stamped envelopes received by him.
2. Of all postal books, blanks, or other property turned over by his predecessor, or received from the Post Office Department, or from any of its agents, during his term of office.
3. Of all payments of postages in money.
4. Of all box-rents. The entry of money received for box-rents should show the number of the box for which the payment was made.
5. Of all other rents, emoluments, and moneys received by him as postmaster, or as custodian of the building in which the post office is located.

SEC. 303. Every postmaster will keep the above accounts separately, and charge himself with all receipts thereon. He will make quarterly returns thereof to the Auditor, and turn over his records to his successor.

SEC. 307. To insure a correct and expeditious settlement of the quarterly accounts of postmasters, it is indispensable that each return should arrive at the department in one perfect, unbroken bundle or packet. Each postmaster, therefore, should observe the following directions in packing up his returns for transmission in the mail.

SEC. 308. Put up each part of the return, if large, in a separate parcel, with strong paper, tying it with twine, and writing on each parcel its proper contents, and the name of the office, county, and State. Then pack up all the parcels, constituting the entire quarterly return, in one compact bundle or packet, and having postmarked it, direct it plainly to the Auditor of the Treasury for the Post Office Department.

SEC. 309. No letter, receipt, paper, or other thing whatever, not strictly belonging to the quarterly return, as enumerated and described in this chapter, should be put up in it.

SEC. 310. Newspaper account.—Every postmaster will keep an account in which he will enter at the beginning of the quarter, or on first receiving any particular paper, all newspapers by name that are to come regularly to his office, except such weekly papers as are free, and in the proper column opposite each paper, the amount of postage thereon for the quarter. The postage is to be collected in advance. In the same account, and in the same manner, he will enter all periodicals regularly received, and which have not been prepaid at the mailing office. At the end of the quarter he will correct this account, first, by adding to it all the extras, supplements, and duplicates of said papers which have been received; and second, by deducting the amount he may have refunded for papers which failed to arrive.

An account, in the form prescribed by the department, must be kept by every postmaster of all printed matter received at his office other than that embraced in the above account, and on which the postage was payable at his office. This account will, therefore, include the amount of postage on each and every transient newspaper, unsealed circular, handbill, engraving, pamphlet, periodical, magazine, book, and every other description of printed matter received at his office, except newspapers for actual and bona fide subscribers, and periodicals published at intervals of not more than three months. It will also include the postage on any such matter deliverable at his office, which, through inattention of the postmaster, or otherwise, may not have been prepaid at the mailing office, and the postage on every description of printed matter mailed or received at his office to or from foreign countries.

SEC. 311. Where a postmaster collects from regular subscribers the postage on printed matter for more than a quarter in advance, he must account for the same quarterly.

SEC. 313. As the account current is intended to show the net proceeds of the office for the quarter, no balance due on a former quarter, nor any payment to, or collection for, the department is to be inserted in it. All vouchers for expenses charged in the account current, whether for emolument, contingent, or general expense account, must be transmitted with the said accounts, and if for advertising letters, must state the number of letters. Unreasonable delay not only implies neglect of the public business, but is calculated to bring suspicion upon the claims withheld; and the department, therefore, reserves to itself the right to reject all such claims made after the quarterly accounts have been adjusted.

SEC. 319. Postmasters must send with their quarterly accounts current a complete dead-letter bill for the whole quarter, corresponding in amount with the credits claimed for dead letters in articles 11 and 11*a*.

SEC. 321. Items relating to money-order business should not be entered on the account current.

SEC. 322. Items relating to previous quarters should not be entered in subsequent returns.

SEC. 323. A cheap plain desk or case, for the safe-keeping of letters and packets, is the only furniture allowed in the contingent expenses; but before purchasing, application should be made to the Auditor's office for directions, &c.

SEC. 324. No allowance will be made for any charge to the contingent or incidental expense unless accompanied by the proper voucher—that is, a bill receipted.

SEC. 325. PARTICULAR ATTENTION IS DIRECTED TO INSTRUCTIONS ON THE BACK OF THE QUARTERLY ACCOUNT CURRENT.

SEC. 465. At all large offices at which daily mails from other large offices are received, care should be taken to note the fact, if the usual mail from any of those offices fail for any given day to arrive; and if subsequent mails arrive, leaving that for a preceding day still due, the mailing office should be immediately written to for information whether such mail as that supposed to be missing was actually sent, and if the answer be in the affirmative, a report of the loss should immediately be made to the department.

SEC. 473. The Post Office Department neither owns, erects, nor repairs letter boxes in post offices, except where the building is owned by the United States. Letter boxes are the property of those postmasters who choose to put them up.

SEC. 474. The salaries of postmasters are established upon the basis of ALL THE REVENUES of their post offices during the two years preceding the passage of the law—i. e., 1863 and 1864. Box rents are included in these revenues. Every postmaster receives in the form of salary as much compensation as he formerly received from commissions and box-rents.

SEC. 475. Any postmaster may put up boxes in his office. These boxes are his private property, but the revenues thereof must be paid over to the department. Under the system of salaries, the postmaster receives the benefit of those revenues as effectually as he could under the system of commissions and emoluments.

SEC. 476. Where the justice of the case demands, the Postmaster General has authority to readjust salaries oftener than once in two years; and under this provision of law all inaccuracies and inadequate or excessive allowances of salary can be readily corrected; so that where there is an extraordinary increase or decrease of box-rents within the two years, the salary may be readjusted so as to meet the requirements contemplated by the law.

SEC. 477. Box rents in all post offices must be paid for at least one quarter in advance.

SEC. 478. Each postmaster must keep a list of all box-holders, with the number of the box assigned to each, and the time during which he has used it. This list will be examined by special agents, and be delivered to his successor in office. The postmaster must state in his quarterly returns the amount of box-rents accrued in each quarter, and whether he has collected them or not.

SEC. 503. Special agents will examine, at all offices visited, the "complaint book," which all postmasters are required to keep, and in which they are required to enter all reports of missing letters, mailed to or from their offices, which may be made to them, with full particulars of each case. At any office where such a book is not kept, direct that it be procured and put in use.

SEC. 505. It is not allowable for a route agent to leave his duties in charge of a substitute, except under the most urgent circumstances, without permission being first granted by the Postmaster General, on a written application through his Second Assistant, and such permission will be in writing for a specified time, the limitation of which must be strictly observed.

SEC. 506. When a sudden and urgent necessity arises for the temporary absence of a route agent from his duties, allowing no sufficient time for a reference of his application to the department, a postmaster at the end of his route may grant leave for such absence, but only on a written application, which he will refer to the department for approval by the first mail thereafter; and the leave thus granted must be limited to the shortest time in which such application can reach, and be returned from, the department by mail.

SEC. 507. As there are reasons for believing that this rule is sometimes violated by route agents without proper notice being taken of the matter by postmasters, special agents are instructed to make special inquiry respecting such violations at offices at and from which route agents arrive and depart.

Monsieur Tonson Again.

BETWEEN BOSTON AND BUFFALO.

I accidentally heard a remark the other day, which fell from the lips of an official, that "Monsieur Tonson's letters were not as funny as they used to be." Goodness gracious! Funny! there's praise for you! I looked over my spectacles at the rash speaker, and mentally mathematized his sum total. Here it is: As a boy, impaling flies, tying two cats by the tails and hanging them over a line, or fastening tin kettles to the caudal extensions of strange dogs, to accelerate their propelling power, must have been very funny; and as a man, railroad collisions, steamboat explosions, and public executions, must be the funniest of fun. What he could find in any of my contributions to call funny is beyond my comprehension. That man, I believe, would pronounce the most pathetic discourse hugely funny, and the oration of Mark Anthony over the dead body of Cæsar a good "goak." It is a fortunate thing that he cannot live a hundred years longer, and that there are but few such unsusceptibles in the Department.

That any one could imagine that I would censure or praise official acts in a spirit of levity, is extremely mortifying to me; and did I for a moment suppose that this cold-blooded fellow had a single sympathizer in his estimate of my benevolent efforts, I would put up the shutters and quit.

Is it funny to enjoin on post office people diligence and industry, care and caution, civility and politeness? Is it funny to urge upon them the prompt despatch and delivery of mails, and the importance of receiving, protecting, and delivering letters, whether full of money, full of love, or full of business? Is it funny to ask them to bestow the same attention on their official duties, as they would upon their most private important affairs? I apprehend not. Nor is it funny, I take it, to shield them from unjust charges made against them for faults which they do not commit. If it is fun, it must be kindred to that spoken of by Esop, in his fable of the "Boys and the Frogs." I have nothing extenuated—set down naught in malice. I claim to be the friend of the post office clerk, for I have learned to appreciate him, and I have a decided appreciation of the labors of the letter carrier—about whom a popular writer says, "He is every one's man; he is loved by all, expected by all; he is hope in human form. He comes, he goes, he returns, he goes again, and upon the whole of his route he finds nothing but smiles. The messenger of death or love, satisfied or disappointed ambition, he is always welcome; for his presence, and that which he brings, whether joy or grief, puts a period to the most cruel of all evils, suspense. He is at once blame and praise, consolation and dispair."

An occurrence to which I am about to allude, merely to show how easy it is to pack blame on a post office without cause, when it attaches elsewhere, may be thought "funny" by a certain party, but I did not so regard it:

There is a law, I believe, requiring all letters deposited in post offices unstamped, to be sent to the Dead Letter Office—and of course a great many are so sent. I blundered myself the other day, and was put to a good deal of inconvenience for my neglect. The way of it was this: A pretty young lady, residing in a village some distance from the metropolis, knowing me to be a very obliging old gentleman, called upon me, and placed in my possession some money and a memorandum, to forward to a certain address in New York, and receive an answer in my name. I glanced curiously at the articles enumerated, such as rats, mice, waterfalls, &c., and without having the remotest idea of what it all meant, I enclosed what she gave me in an envelope, and superscribed it according to her directions. Not having a stamp, I went to the post office and purchased one, wet it, and was just in the act of placing it upon the letter, when a very choleric gentleman seized me rudely by the arm, and asked me "what the d——l I was playing penny post to his niece for," and pursing his lips and inflating his cheeks, he glared at me, and as he glared he continued to swell, until I fain thought the skin of his head must give way unless he opened his mouth, (unburied his nostrils) which he did; then, in a sepulchral monotonous tone—he stung my ear and my feelings—while the under finger of his dexter hand sawed the air—"Old Top, you can't throw dust in my eyes; she says you are old enough to be her grandfather. I don't see it—beware!" For a moment I was perfectly dumbfounded at this sudden unexpected attack, but soon recovered my presence of mind, and carefully preserving my equanimity, I blandly looked at him over my glasses, (my usual mode of making my glance effective) and assured him that he was never so mistaken in his life.

My calm demeanor and candid look mollified him at once, and he apologized; but in the confusion I dropped the letter in the aperture, and did not notice until next day that I had accidentally placed the stamp on the head of my cane, instead of the letter, where I found it firmly fastened. I at once proceeded to the office to explain, but found to my mortification that the letter had been sent to the dead letter office. Letters are dropped in offices sometimes unsealed, sometimes without an address, and sometimes so badly addressed as to render the superscription perfectly unintelligible. Now I think if postmasters were to place a conspicuous notice over the drop box, to this effect: Persons should carefully observe that their letters are properly sealed, addressed, and stamped, before depositing them in the office for mailing, that much annoyance, inconvenience, and pecuniary injury would be avoided. This is merely a suggestion, however, thrown out for the benefit of any body to make use of, or improve upon.

Established 1860 By J. HOLBROOK.
J. GAYLER, . . . . . Editor.

NEW YORK MAY, 1866

TERMS—One dollar per year, payable in advance. All communications to be addressed to the Publisher of the UNITED STATES MAIL, New York.

Subscriptions received at any Post Office in the United States.

☞ Letters containing remittances for subscriptions, or in reference to the business department of this paper, should be addressed to "Publisher U. S. Mail" and not to the Editor.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, October 25, 1861.

DEAR SIR,—I consider the U. S. MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT a valuable and meritorious publication, useful alike to this Department, to Postmasters throughout the country, and to the public. It is my wish to see it generally circulated among postmasters and others, and I shall with pleasure extend to you every proper facility for enlarging the sphere of its official usefulness, and the range of its circulation. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.
To J. HOLBROOK, Special Agent P.O. Department.

The following Official Order has also been made by the Postmaster General:

Ordered, That the Assistant Postmasters General, and Chief Clerk of this Department, each cause to be furnished from time to time to J. Holbrook, for publication in the "United States Mail," all such new orders or regulations of the Department touching the business of the several bureaus as may be of general importance or interest as soon as practicable after the same shall have been promulgated or established. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, Washington Oct. 13, 1864.

DEAR SIR —I have no hesitation in adding my endorsement to that of my predecessor, Postmaster General Blair, to the usefulness of the "UNITED STATES MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT," as a medium of communicating correct information to Postmasters and others respecting postal operations; and cheerfully recommend it to the favor and support of Postmasters and other agents of the Department. W. DENNISON, Postmaster General.
To J. GAYLER, Esq., Editor U. S. Mail.

Special Notice to Subscribers.

Each wrapper enclosing a copy of the Mail bears a number in addition to the address. This number signifies that the term for which the subscription is paid expires with the corresponding whole number of the paper. Subscribers will please take this as a notification to forward the subscription for another year, when due, if they intend to renew. Those whom this number reaches, marked 65 or 66, will please remit at once.

☞ There are no changes to note in our Table of Foreign Postages.

☞ Although it is our desire and endeavor that our paper should appear on the first of each month, yet it is sometimes, owing to various circumstances, impossible to secure that result. Important changes in the laws and regulations occasionally occur at such times as to require, for the benefit of our readers, that our issue should be postponed for a few days in order to enable us to lay the details of such changes before them at as early a date as possible, instead of allowing a month to elapse before their publication. Our subscribers will therefore readily understand that a short delay in receiving their papers is sometimes unavoidable, and that when such delay occurs, it is the result of a desire to give them advantage of the latest official information on the postal matters.

Rating Foreign Postage.

The article announcing a change in the method of rating letters to Great Britian and Ireland (ONLY) which appeared in our last number, would seem to have been rather carelessly read by some of our subscribers. Quite a number of letters addressed to other foreign countries than those mentioned above were, during last month, received from other Post Offices at the New York office for transmission abroad, insufficiently prepaid—some postmasters evidently being under the impression that the mode of rating letters to all foreign countries had been changed. This is not the case—the alteration applying only to letters for Great Britian and Ireland, while the rules for rating all other foreign letters remain unchanged. See last column of fourth page.

PRESENTATIONS.—JAMES P. ROGERS, Esq., for some years past Assistant Postmaster at New York, retired from that office on the 10th ult., and on the same evening, being invited to meet a few friends at the house of Hon. James Kelly, Postmaster, was agreeably surprised by the presentation of a beautiful watch and chain, the gift of Mr. Kelly and the principal officers of the Post Office. Directly afterward, Mrs. Rogers was presented with a similar token of the regard of her husband's friends. Mr. Rogers resigned in consequence of having been called to the Vice-Presidency of an Insurance Company, and we are sure that all who know him will feel that the Post Office has lost the services of an accomplished officer, and a courteous and genial gentleman.

JOHN H. HALLETT, Esq., Superintendent of the City Delivery at the New York Post Office, was also lately presented, by the letter carriers of that establishment, with a handsome watch and chain—the case of the former bearing a well engraved view of the Post Office, and the latter ornamented with a key ingeniously fashioned into the form of a miniature letter, postmarked and stamped, addressed to Mr. Hallett, whose long and faithful services justly entitle him to the graceful compliment which is thus paid to him.

THE POST OFFICE BILL, which was noticed in our last as having passed the House of Representatives, has not yet been acted on by the Senate.

Stamping Missent Letters.

The Postmaster at New York has received from the postmaster at a neighboring office, a letter enclosing another, which he says has been three times missent to his office, whereas it should have been sent to an office with a somewhat similar name.

The Regulations require that missent letters should have the word "missent," together with the name of the office to which they were missent, stamped or written on them, and then forwarded. Had this been done in the case mentioned, the letter instead of being missent three times, would after the first time have gone at once to its proper destination. The fault therefore of its delay is with the postmaster who neglected to comply with the regulations, and stamp it "missent." Postmasters should consider themselves responsible both to the Department and to the public, both of whom look to him, and expect him to do his whole duty. The Regulations are established for his instruction, and any failure to comply with them is just so much dereliction of duty, and merits just so much condemnation.

☞ DON'T FORGET, when mailing a registered letter: 1st. To date the return bill the day of the departure of the letter from the mailing office. 2d. To mail the letter to the first Distributing Post Office on the route, if there be one. 3rd In doing so, to send it, with return receipt and registered letter bill, in a sealed envelope addressed to the Postmaster of the Distributing Post Office, just as if it were to be delivered there—of course sending the return bill to him also by next mail. (Will some of our friends at the West and South take a special note of the above, and not send their registered letters for New York, Philadelphia, Boston, &c., direct to those cities?) 5th. To place all registered packages in delivery bundles, and never with letters for distribution. 6th. To send with each registered package an ordinary post bill marked "Reg." or "R."

A POSER.—A postmaster (we are sorry to say) writes us to inquire whether, when he has brought the mail pouch to the side of the stage which is to carry it to its destination, it is his "duty" to hand it to the driver, or whether the latter "must not leave his seat" to take it? The question is of so profound and important a nature that it will require some time to consider it in all its bearings, and while we are attempting to prepare an answer, we will ask the querist to inform us what, in his opinion, would be the most judicious course to accomplish the cooking of an egg, supposing the egg to be procured and the water to be boiling? If unable to decide, he is at liberty to consult the stage driver.

☞ Two mortifying blunders of a typographical nature, occurred in our issue of last month. The first was contained in one of our "Answers to Correspondents," in which the types made us give "two cents for each four ounces or fraction thereof," as the proper rate of postage on books, whereas four cents is the proper rate. The second error caused thirty-six cents to be given as the postage on a letter of 1¼ ounces to Great Britain or Ireland, instead of seventy two cents. The pressure of official duties, causing the editor's absence at proof reading time, must be our apology for these mistakes, and we shall try to avoid the appearance of similar ones.

DEATH OF COL. TROTT.—We regret to learn of the recent death, at Washington, of Col. Thos. P. Trott, well known to many of our readers as formerly Chief Clerk of the Post Office Department. At that time the Inspection Office was in charge of the Chief Clerk, and Col. Trott was a faithful and efficient officer. He was the inventor of the reversible labels or tags now in use on the mail pouches, and supplied them under a contract with the Department.

PERSONAL.—Hon. A. N. ZEVELY, Third Assistant Postmaster-General, arrived at New York on the 16th ult. from New Orleans. Mr. Zevely has been for some time absent in the South, on an official tour of inspection of postal matters there. C. F. MACDONALD, Esq., Superintendent of the Money Order Department, and who also acted as Third Assistant during Mr. Zevely's absence, sailed on the 14th ult. for Europe, where he intends a brief stay, partly for the benefit of his health, and partly for the purpose of observation of the different postal systems there.

SUGGESTIVE.—A short time since, two newsboys were arrested, charged with repeated thefts of baggage from the cars on which they pursued their vocation. By a singular coincidence, this road is the same on which some of the Route Agents were in the habit of allowing the newsboys to enter and remain in the mail car—notwithstanding the fact that they (the agents) knew that quite a number of letters, as well as baggage, had been lost on that line. We hope that any who may still be violating the Regulations by allowing newsboys or other "outsiders" to make a lounging place of the mail car, will not wait to hear of another similar arrest before turning over a new leaf in this matter.

POSTAL MAPS.—During a recent visit to Washington, we had the pleasure of inspecting some of the maps now being prepared by W. L. Nicholson, Esq., the very able Topographer of the Post Office Department. They are arranged in such a manner as to show, by the variation of the colors used in printing the lines representing the mail routes, the mode and frequency of service on each, and, with little trouble, alterations corresponding with the changes which may occur in those respects can be made. It is to be hoped that Congress will not fail to make the necessary appropriations for the completion of this series of maps, which will be not only useful to the Department, but of great value to the country at large.

LABOR LOST.—The Postmaster of New York requests us to state that the practice of enclosing money in letters to him, with requests that he will if he thinks it advisable, invest the same, for the writers, in lottery tickets, gold (?) watches, sewing machines, "European time keepers," and the endless variety of trash advertised in newspapers and circulars by swindlers hailing from this city, had better be discontinued, as such foolish demands will meet with no sort of attention beyond the return of the money to the simpletons who send it. We take it for granted that this notice is not intended for the readers of the Mail, but if any of them who are postmasters know of any person intending to make such a request, they will please advise him to save his time and postage stamps.

QUINBY'S PATENT LETTER CASE.—An advertisement setting forth the merits of this case, will be found in this month's Mail. It is highly recommended by many postmasters, and as far as we can judge, deserves the praises it has received.

We have been requested by several correspondents to publish a list of Stamps and Stamped Envelopes, a request with which we cheerfully comply:

STAMPS. 1, 2, 3, 5, 10, 12, 15, 24, 30, 90 cents.

STAMPED ENVELOPES.—2 cent, ungummed, for circulars; 2 cent, gummed, for drop letters, where there is a free delivery. 3 cent—No. 1, note; No. 2, letter; extra letter (not numbered): No. 3 official. 6 cent—No. 2, letter; No. 3, official. 9 cent, No. 3, official. 10 cent, No. 2, letter. 12, 18, 20, 24, 30, 40 cent, No. 3, official.

Answers to Correspondents.

Box Rents.—P. M., F——, Ohio, (and many others.)—Sec. 7, Act of July 1, 1864, enacts as follows:—"That all postages, and BOX RENTS at post offices, and all other receipts and emoluments at a post office, shall be received and accounted for as a part of the postal revenues; and any part thereof which the postmaster ought to have collected, but has neglected to collect, shall be charged against him in his account, and he shall be liable therefor in the same manner as if the same had been collected; and he shall receive no fees or perquisites beyond his salary." The instructions of the Department under this section, are as follows:—"Under the law of March 3, 1863, box rents in all post offices must be paid for at least one quarter in advance. Receipts and emoluments from this and all other sources are hereafter to be accounted for as part of the postal revenues, and forms of accounts will be prescribed accordingly." Our numerous correspondents who write to us on this subject cannot fail to perceive that so long as the above law is unchanged the receipts from box-rents at every post office must be paid over to the Department. On the first of July next a review and readjustment of salaries at post offices is to be made, and at those where an increase of business has occurred, a proportionate increase of salary will be allowed.

Registered Letter Receipts, Notification to Publisher, &c.—A. R. S., R——, Ga.—1. You have confounded the Return Registered Letter Receipt, with the Return Registered Letter Bill. The Receipt must be sent with the letter, the bill by the next mail. 2. Notify a publisher by directing to the "postmaster" for the publisher. 3. Letters are to be advertised weekly, and hence you cannot be allowed for more frequent advertising. 4. By Act of May 1, 1865, postage on drop letters is reduced to one cent, except in places where there is a free delivery; in such places it is still two cents. 5. One cent for each letter is now allowed for advertising. 6. Dead letters must each be stamped on the sealed side, and the cause of non delivery written or stamped on the face of the letter. 7. When a postmaster claims credit for postage stamps or stamped envelopes, alleged to have been lost in the mails, burnt, or otherwise destroyed, his own affidavit stating the circumstances and amount of loss, &c., is required to be forwarded to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, but this will not relieve postmasters from the duty of extraordinary care of their stamps.

Letters to Heads of Departments, &c.—S. F. B., F——, N. H. Instruction 1. Act of May 1, 1865, provides substantially "That all communications on official business, of whatever origin, addressed to heads of the Executive Departments of Government, or heads of bureaus therein, or to such chief clerks of departments, as are authorized by the Postmaster General to frank official matter, shall be received and conveyed by mail free of postage, without being franked "Official Business.""

Returning Sacks to Mail Agent, &c.—A. D. L., G——, Ind.—1. You are not bound to return to mail agent the same sack that he leaves off. But mail agents and mail carriers generally prefer the same sacks, and therefore where it can be done without detriment to your office, it is as well to make a practice of returning the mail in the same bag in which it was received. 2. Circulars can only be distributed in a post office on payment of the proper postage.

Postage on "The Mail."—E. B., R——, Pa.—Postmasters should pay the postage on "The Mail."

Forwarding Books, &c.—I. H. J. N., H. B——, N. H.—Books and other printed matter, forwarded, should be charged with the original postage, to be collected by the Postmaster to whose office they are forwarded, and he should enter the amount in his proper account, but no bill need be sent with such matter.

Papers free within the County.—E. F., N. T——, Me.—To enable a subscriber to receive a newspaper free, he must reside within the county of publication, and it is only a weekly newspaper that can be delivered free of postage. If a subscriber's usual post office, (not residence) is in an adjoining county he may receive his county paper free, but not a paper published in the said adjoining county.

Paying Postage on Newspapers.—P. M., N——, N. Y.—Postage on regular newspapers can be paid either at the mailing office or at the office of delivery though the latter is the usual course; the payment, of course, is to the Postmaster.

Breaking Packages of Papers Directed to One Address.—J. S., C——, Mich.—"Postmasters are required to deliver from a furnished list, all papers upon which the postage has been paid quarterly in advance." This decision is official, and applies to packages of newspapers and periodicals of all kinds.

Credit for Unpaid Letters, &c. ——— ——, ——, Pa.—1. Credit for unpaid letters received at your office and then forwarded by you, is obtained by entering the amount in the column of overcharges, in the "Account of Undercharges, Overcharges, &c.," furnished by the Department; at the end of the quarter the footing of this column is to be entered in No. 10, account current. 2. Publishers of newspapers have no right to enclose in their papers anything but "bills and receipts for subscription by regular subscribers." 3. Transient newspapers, books, &c., are to be forwarded, charged with the original postage, to be collected by the postmaster to whose office they are forwarded.

Postage on Printed Matter to Great Britain and Ireland.—Asst. P. M., W——, Vt. The letter postage is twenty-four cents the half ounce, to Great Britain and Ireland, and on pamphlets over eight ounces, and periodicals over sixteen ounces in weight, the above letter rates must be charged.

Distributing Papers that Require Refolding. J. B. T., W——, Ind.—You had better be guided by the amount of time you have. If there is a crowd waiting for you to open the delivery, put the papers aside for a while.

Disposition of Return Registered Letter Receipt, &c.—W. R. T., P——, Vt.—1. The return registered letter receipt should be given to the person sending the letter. 2. Blank applications for money orders are generally issued by the Postmaster of a money order office to applicants only as they are required for immediate use.

Postage on Papers to a Party who has Removed.—The postage on papers should be collected at the office where they are received, and the papers forwarded charged with the usual postage, or they may be forwarded and charged with both amounts. But the proper way, where a subscriber has removed, is to notify the publisher of the fact, and request him to discontinue sending the paper to your office.

Entries on the Account of Registered Letters Sent, &c.—P. O. Clerk, L——, O.—1. Enter the name of the office to which you bill the letter, or from which it is billed to you. 2. The amount due for "Dead Letters returned to the writers" should be separated from the amount due for other letters; but in small offices it is not the practice to do so, but to include the first in the last and make a memorandum of the fact in Nos. 2 A. and 11 A. of quarterly account current.

Right of Mail Carrier to Collect Fees.—T. E. S., So. D——, Mass.—The right of mail carrier to collect a fee for conveying a stamped letter to the next post office, was repealed by § 31, Act of March 3, 1863.

Sending Post Bill with Registered Letter to D. P. O.—J. W. L., Fort D——, Kan.—See the Special Instructions in this No. of the Mail.

Claim of Late Postmaster for Stamps.—T. J. S., P——, Mich.—The late Postmaster has no claim on you for postage stamps transferred to you, if the transfer was made according to regulations.

Disorderly Persons.—W. E., J——, Ill.—There is no post office law to punish persons creating disturbances in a post office building, but the town constable or justice of the peace would doubtless correct the evil.

Circulars &c.—A. J. B., A——, Ill.—Circulars directed to persons not residing in the vicinity of your office, and not called for, should be sold and the money credited to the Post Office Department.

Stamp on Oath to Quarterly Return.—L. E. L., S——, N. Y.—Affix a stamp to your Quarterly Return and to your Report of Boxes. 2. We do not see how a Justice of the Peace can administer an oath to himself.

Marking Stamps.—R. F. R., P——, Ill.—Marking stamps are furnished to all offices whose receipts amount to $75 a year.

Verbal Messages.—L. R., O——, Ill.—We do not know why a postmaster has not a right to deliver a verbal message.

Directing Letters to the Old Name of a Post Office.—G. L. R., R——, Me.—There is no remedy for the evil you complain of; its worst effects fall upon the correspondents themselves, and they should not complain if their letters do not reach them.

General Account with P. O. Department. J. T. J., T——, N. Y.—The Department does not furnish blanks for a General Account. Such account should be kept in an ordinary ledger; enter on the Dr. side all sums due by you to the Department, and on the Cr. side all sums claimed by you from the Department. This account should be closed at the end of each quarter: the balance shows what you owe the Department. In your case the $1 should be entered on the Dr. side as soon as you are notified, and then at the end of that quarter it would be included in the amount due the Department. See Chapter xxiv., Regulations of 1859.

Fitting Up Free Boxes.—W. W., O——, N. H.—Sec. 3 of Act of March 3, 1863, provides that "No box at any post office shall be assigned to the use of any person until the rent thereof has been paid for at least one quarter."

Charges on Missent Letters.—J. B., B——, Wis.—We cannot decide on your case without a better knowledge of all the circumstances. In general, however, no charge should be made for forwarding a missent letter properly prepaid; and a postmaster receiving such a missent letter with charges on it, should deliver the letter, and enter the amount of charge on the column of overcharges.

Franking Privilege of Members of Congress.—R. D. T., S——, O.—You were wrong in charging postage. The franking privilege of members of Congress expires on the first Monday of December following their term of office. See Sec. 42, Act March 3, 1863.

Miscellaneous Information.

Dead Letters.

By the instructions under the postal laws, UNMAILABLE LETTERS are specified to be—

Letters attempted to be sent with stamps previously used, or stamps cut from stamped envelopes.

Unpaid letters for foreign countries, on which prepayment is required by the regulations.

Letters not addressed, or so badly addressed that their destination cannot be known.

Letters misdirected to places where there are no post offices.

Civilian's letters, (domestic) wholly unpaid, (including unpaid drop letters.)

Only such letters as are herein described are, when deposited in any post office, to be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office; all others must be dispatched to their destination, charged with the amount of unpaid postage.

When unmailable letters are sent to the Dead Letter Office, the specific reason therefor must be endorsed upon the envelope of each.

These instructions will be strictly followed at all post offices.

For more full instructions relating to dead letters, advertising letters, &c., examine carefully the 7th and 8th Sections of the Act of 3d March, 1863, and the instructions attached thereto, also, Sec. 1, Act of March 3. 1865.

Foreign Letters, &c.

RULE FOR RATING LETTERS TO GREAT BRITAIN, &C.

The attention of postmasters is particularly called to the mode of rating postage upon letters exchanged in the mails between this country and the United Kingdom, which differs only in the rate, and not, as heretofore, in the weight or standard. The maximum standard weight is now half an ounce, and the rate is twenty-four cents; postage to Great Britain and Ireland, therefore, is as follows, viz.:

One rate (24 cents) for a single letter not exceeding ½ oz. in weight.

Two rates (48 cents) when over ½, but not exceeding 1 ounce.

Three rates (72 cents) when over 1, but not exceeding 1½ ounces, &c., &c.

Thus, a letter to Great Britain, weighing 4½ ounces, should be paid $2.16, being chargeable with nine rates. All part paid letters to foreign countries are treated as wholly unpaid, and the amount paid lost to the sender.

Letters to foreign countries, where prepayment of postage is compulsory, when insufficiently paid are sent to the Dead Letter Office, to be opened and returned to the writers, and are thereby delayed one or two mails, and, no doubt, in many cases, causing serious loss and annoyance to the writers.

REGISTERING FOREIGN LETTERS.—Letters can be registered in the United States for Great Britain and Ireland, for Germany, or any part of the German Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen, Hamburg, or Prussian closed mails. Letters to Canada can be registered, but not to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, or Prince Edward's Island. Postmasters will, therefore, decline to register letters addressed to other foreign countries.

The registry fee to be charged on registered letters to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, via Bremen or Hamburg, or by Prussian closed mail, and to Canada, is five cents—to Great Britain and Ireland, twenty cents. All registered letters must be prepaid in full to destination. See "Foreign Miscellany" on fourth page of this paper, for full information in regard to rating all foreign letters.

Our Postal Convention with the United Kingdom, provides that each country shall levy and collect its postage only, on newspapers, at the rate of two cents each, whether they are sent or received. Hence, newspapers received in this country from Great Britain come prepaid the British postage only, and postmasters must be particular, in all cases, to collect the United States charge of two cents on their delivery.

CANADIAN CORRESPONDENCE.—Irregularities having arisen in respect to Canadian correspondence, these directions must hereafter be observed:

Letters addressed to Canada must be mailed to a United States Exchange Office. Letters cannot be sent direct to Post Offices in Canada.

The postage on a single letter to and from Canada is 10 cents, prepayment optional; but the whole postage must be prepaid or none. Part prepayments are not recognized. Prepayments must be made by United States postage stamps—not in money.

A postmaster may frank a letter to Canada the same as to any point in the United States; but it is optional for the Canadian P. O. Department to deliver such letter free, or charge full postage on it, at its pleasure.

COLLECTIONS IN COIN.—In pursuance of the provisions of a resolution of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails despatched to this country from Great Britain and Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen, or Belgium, are collected in gold or silver coin. Should, however, payment of such postage, and of the premium on a corresponding amount of coin, be tendered in United States notes, the same is to be accepted in lieu of coin. The amount to be collected in U. S. notes, (in case coin is not offered,) is marked on each letter on its arrival at U. S. Exchange Offices, and if charged in the post-bills. Hence, when coin is collected at the office of delivery, the difference should be entered in the account of Mails Received as an overcharge.

The above applies exclusively to the mails received from the countries mentioned.

On out-going letters the former regulations remain unchanged, and, when prepaid, the regular rates (in currency) only are to be collected.

Mail Bags and Locks.

DEPOSITORIES.—The following post offices are constituted depositories for mail Bags and Locks, viz:

Postmasters in either of these States, wanting blanks of any kind should address "A. F. Lee, Blank Agent, Buffalo, N. Y."

When the postages collected at an office amount to $100 a year, the name of the postmaster and of his office will be printed on the post bills. When the postmaster's compensation exceeds $12 50 a quarter, the postmaster is entitled to wrapping paper and twine, at the above agencies.

Applications for blank registers of arrival and departure of the mails must be made direct to the "Inspection office." For special instructions, to the First Assistant Postmaster General.

All postmasters whose compensation is less than $12 50 per quarter, can purchase a reasonable quantity of wrapping paper and twine, provided the net proceeds of the office exceed twenty dollars per year.

STAMPS.

Post Offices, the gross receipts of which are over $1,000 per annum, will be furnished with circular marking and rating stamps of class No. 1; less than $1,000 and over $500, with stamps of class No. 2; less than $500 and over $100, with stamps of class No. 4. Applications for these stamps should be made to the Appointment office.

Postmasters at offices, the gross receipts of which are less than $75 per annum, if they use rating stamps must obtain the same at their own expense.

Letter balances, upon the like application, are furnished to offices which collect in postages $75 a year.

MODE OF INDICATING THE PREPAYMENT OF POSTAGE UPON LETTERS RECEIVED FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

When the United States official postage entries on the letters received from Great Britain or the Continent of Europe, are in red ink, the letter is to be considered as paid, and is to be delivered accordingly; when in black ink, as unpaid, and the postage is to be collected on delivery. The postage on such letters is either wholly paid or wholly unpaid. Postmasters can readily decide any question as to prepayment, by this simple criterion.

Domestic Postages.

The law requires postage on all letters, (including those to foreign countries when prepaid,) excepting those written to the President or Vice-President, or members of Congress, or, (on official business) to the chiefs of the executive departments of the government, and the heads of bureaus and chief clerks, and others invested with the franking privilege, to be prepaid by stamps or stamped envelopes, prepayment in money being prohibited. Postmasters can send official letters to other Postmasters free.

All drop letters must be prepaid. The rate of postage on drop letters, at offices where free delivery by carrier is established, is two cents per half ounce or fraction of a half ounce; at offices where such free delivery is not established, the rate is 1 ct.

The single rate of postage on all domestic mail letters throughout the United States is three cents per half ounce, with an additional rate of three cents for each additional half ounce or fraction of a half ounce. The ten cent (Pacific) rate is abolished.

RATES OF LETTER POSTAGE BETWEEN OFFICES IN THE UNITED STATES, AND TO AND FROM CANADA AND OTHER BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES

To and from Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., irrespective of distance.

| | |
|---|---|
| To and from other British N. Am. Provinces, for distance not over 3,000 miles | 10 cts. |
| For any distance over 3,000 miles | 15 " |

For every additional half ounce, or fraction of a half ounce, an additional rate is charged. Prepayment is optional on all letters for the British North American Provinces except Newfoundland, to which prepayment is compulsory.

Letter postage is to be charged on all handbills, circulars, or other printed matter which shall contain any manuscript writing whatever.

Daguerreotypes, when sent in the mail, are to be charged with letter postage by weight.

Photographs on cards, paper, and other flexible material, (not in cases,) can be sent at the same rate as miscellaneous printed matter—viz., two cents for each four ounces or fraction thereof.

Photographic Albums are chargeable with book postage—four cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof.

Newspaper Postage.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Postage on Daily Papers to subscribers when prepaid quarterly or yearly in advance, either at the mailing office or office of delivery, per quarter, (three months) | | 35 cts. |
| Six times per week, | " " | 30 " |

| For Semi-Weekly, | " " | 10 " |
| For Weekly, | " " | 5 " |

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS (one copy only) sent by the publisher to actual subscribers within the county where printed and published, free.

POSTAGE PER QUARTER (to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance) on NEWSPAPERS and PERIODICALS issued less frequently than once a week, sent to actual subscribers in any part of the U. S.:

| | |
|---|---|
| Semi-monthly, not over 4 oz. | 6 cts. |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 12 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 18 " |
| Monthly, not over 4 oz. | 3 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 6 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 9 " |
| Quarterly, not over 4 oz. | 1 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz. | 2 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz. | 3 " |

Quarterly postage cannot be paid for less than three months. If a subscription begins at any other time than the commencement of an official quarter, the postage received by the p. m. must still be entered in his account for that quarter. Subscribers for short terms—exceeding three months, say four or five months—can pay quarterly postage for the actual term of their subscriptions—that is for one quarter and a third, one quarter and two-thirds, &c. The law only requires that at least one quarter's postage shall be prepaid, and not more than one year's postage. Any term between one quarter and one year can therefore be prepaid at proportionate rates.

PUBLISHERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS may send to each other from their respective offices of publication, free of postage, one copy of each publication, and may also send to each actual subscriber, inclosed in their publications, bills and receipts for the same, free of postage. They may also state on their respective publications, the date when the subscription expires, to be written or printed.

Religious, Educational and Agricultural Newspapers of small size, issued less frequently than once a week, may be sent in packages to one address at the rate of one cent for each package not exceeding four ounces in weight, and an additional charge of one cent is made for each additional four ounces or fraction thereof, the postage to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance.

NEWSDEALERS may send newspapers and periodicals to regular subscribers at the quarterly rates, in the same manner as publishers, and may also receive them from publishers at subscribers' rates. In both cases the postage to be prepaid, either at the mailing or delivery office.

Publications issued without disclosing the office of publication, or containing a fictitious statement thereof, must not be forwarded by postmasters unless prepaid at the mailing office at the rates of transient printed matter.

Postage on Transient Printed Matter.

[All printed matter (except single copies of newspapers, magazines and periodicals to regular subscribers) sent via Overland Mail, is to be charged at letter postage rates.]

CIRCULARS, not exceeding three in number, to one address, 2 cts.; over three and not over six, 4 cts.; over six and not over nine, 6 cts.; over nine and not exceeding twelve, 8 cts.

ON MISCELLANEOUS MAILABLE MATTER, (embracing all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, handbills and posters, book manuscripts and proof-sheets, whether corrected or not, maps, prints, engravings, sheet music, blanks, flexible patterns, samples and sample cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes or wrappers, cards, paper, plain or ornamental, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, and scions,) the postage to be pre-paid by stamps, is, on one package to one address, not over 4 oz. in weight, 2 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 4 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 6 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 8 cts.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General, the fifth subdivision of the 42d instruction of the new Post Office Law, has been amended by striking out the word twelve and inserting thirty-two before the word ounces, so that it shall read as follows—"The weight of packages of seeds, cuttings, roots and scions, to be franked, is limited to thirty-two ounces."

All mail matter not sent at letter rates of postage, embracing books, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, and other printed matter, and all other mail matter except seeds, must be so wrapped or enveloped with open sides or ends as to enable the postmaster to examine the package without destroying the wrapper, otherwise such packages must be rated with letter postage. No communication, whether in writing or in print, can be sent with any seeds, roots, cuttings or scions, maps, engravings or other matter not printed, except upon the separate payment of postage upon each separate matter at the established rates.

Exchange newspapers and periodicals cannot be re-mailed without being chargeable with postage.

Where packages of newspapers or periodicals are received at any post office directed to one address and the names of the club of subscribers to which they belong, with the postage for a quarter in advance, shall be handed to the postmaster, he shall deliver the same to their respective owners. But this does not apply to weekly newspapers which circulate free in the county where printed and published.

Weekly newspapers and all other printed matter to the British North American Provinces, although sent from countries bordering on the line, are chargeable with the same rates as when sent to any point in the United States.

☞ All transient matter must be prepaid by stamps. But if it comes to the office of delivery without prepayment, or short-paid, the unpaid postage must be collected on delivery at double the prepaid rate. Great neglect exists in the strict quarterly prepayment of postage on printed matter sent to regular subscribers. No such paper should be delivered, unless it is either prepaid at the mailing office, or at the delivery office for at least a quarter. If not so prepaid, postmasters must collect postage on each copy as on transient matter. If they fail, they will be charged with the full postage due, and in clear cases removed from office for neglect.

To inclose or conceal a letter or other thing (except bills and receipts for subscription) in, or to write or print anything, after its publication, upon any newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, is illegal, and subjects such printed matter, and the entire package of which it is a part, to letter postage.

Any word or communication, whether by printing, writing, marks or signs, upon the cover or wrapper of a newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, other than the name and address of the person to whom it is to be sent, and the date when subscription expires, subjects the package to letter postage.

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

TO THE BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

Cape Breton, Pr'e Edward's Island, and Nova Scotia. To Newfoundland prepayment required. To Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., any distance.

* 10 cents when not over 3,000 miles from the line of crossing.
* 15 cents when distance exceeds 3,000 miles. Prepayment optional.

Steamers of the Cunard line sail from Boston twice each month, touching at Halifax, and when letters are sent by that conveyance for Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Prince Edward's Island, the U. S. postage is 5 cents the single rate, to be prepaid. The inland rate is collected on delivery. On newspapers by this route, the postage is two cents each.

Newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and sent to regular subscribers in the British North American Provinces, or published in those Provinces and sent to regular subscribers in the United States, are chargeable with the regular prepaid quarterly rates of United States postage to and from the line; which postage must be collected at the office of mailing in the United States on matter sent, and at the office of delivery in the United States on matter received. In like manner, such matter, if transient, is chargeable with the regular domestic transient printed matter rates to and from the line, to be collected at the office of mailing or delivery in the United States, as the case may be. Editors, however, may exchange free of expense.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS.

Valuable letters for Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line via New York, or by the Prussian closed mail via New York and Boston, as also letters addressed to Great Britain and Canada, will be registered on the application of the person posting the same, in the same manner and on the same terms as those deliverable in the United States, provided that the full postage chargeable thereon to destination, together with a registration fee of twenty cents on each letter to Great Britain or Ireland, and five cents on each letter to the other places mentioned above, is prepaid at the mailing office. Such letters should be mailed and forwarded to the respective United States exchange offices in the same manner as domestic registered letters are mailed to those offices.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS, ETC.

Letters addressed to Great Britain and Ireland are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, a single rate being charged for each half ounce, &c.

Letters in the mail to France are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of one quarter ounce; double rate if exceeding a quarter, but not exceeding half an ounce; and so on, an additional rate being charged for each quarter ounce or fractional part of a quarter ounce. Letters addressed to the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, and the British North American Provinces, are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, one rate being charged for each half ounce or fractional part of half an ounce. Postmasters, should be careful, where the postage is prepaid, to collect the proper amount. They should be particular to notice the route indicated on the envelopes of letters, and to collect postage accordingly. Letters mailed at some offices, marked "via England," or "via Prus'n closed mail," for a German State, are frequently taken upon the prepayment of Bremen rates, and those marked "via Bremen," at Prussian closed rates, &c.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS GOING VIA FRANCE

In the case of letters to be forwarded in the British mail for transmission from England via "Marseilles," the French postage is rated at 6 cents the quarter ounce, except on letters for Java, China, Labuan, Borneo, Japan, the Moluccas and Philipine Islands, which are rated at eight cents per half ounce, and except, also, on letters for Syria and Tunis, by French packet, when the single French rate is 12 cents per quarter ounce.

The rates by "French mail" are in full to destination, except to the following places, viz.: Aden, Batavia, Ceylon, China, cities of Turkey, in Europe, except as herein mentioned, via Austria, countries to which correspondence can be sent via Suez, countries beyond seas, via France, other than those enumerated, East Indies, Gibralter, Hong Kong, Java, Mauritius, Montenegro, Penang, Portugal, Isle of Re-Union, Servia, (except Belgrade,) Shanghai, Singapore and Spain. The limit of prepayment to Spain, Portugal and Gibralter, is Behobia; to Servia, (except Belgrade,) Montenegro, and cities of Turkey in Europe, except as herein mentioned, "via Austria;" the frontier of Turkey and Austria; to Aden, East Indies, Ceylon, China, and other countries via Suez, the seaports of the Indies, or of the sea of China to which the English packets ply; and to places beyond seas, other than those designated, the limit is the port of arrival in the country of destination.

RATES ON PAMPHLETS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

On pamphlets and magazines, to or from the West coast of South America, the United States postage is four cents; and to or from all other foreign countries, (except Great Britain, Belgium, and the German States, via Bremen or Hamburg mail,) two cts. per 4 oz. or fraction thereof, to be collected in all cases in the United States.

Newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries (particularly to the continent of Europe) must be sent in narrow bands, open at the sides or ends; otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage.

ROUTES OF TRANSMISSION, ETC.

To prevent mistakes at the exchange offices, it is desirable that the particular routes by which letters are to be forwarded from the United States to Europe, should be distinctly written on the covers. Letters intended for transmission in the open mail to England, should bear the direction "open mail via England;" if for transmission in the French mail, they should be directed, "via France in French mail;" if for transmission by closed mail to Prussia, they should be directed "via Prussian closed mail;" if for transmission in the closed mail to Belgium, they should be directed "via Belgian closed mail;" and if for transmission by the New York and Bremen line to Bremen, or by the New York and Hamburg line to Hamburg, they should be directed "via Bremen," or "via Hamburg."

It is important that letters addressed to Germany and other European countries, via France, where the single rate per quarter ounce is 21 cents, should be plainly marked to be sent via France; otherwise they may be missent in the open mail to Liverpool by United States packet, the 21 cent rate per half ounce being also chargeable on letters thus forwarded.

VOL. VI, No. 9. NEW YORK, JUNE, 1866. WHOLE No. 69.

Business of the New York Post Office.

We copy from the New York Evening Post some comparative statistics of the former and present operations of the New York Post Office. These figures are interesting, as showing not only a large augmentation of postal business at New York, but as also indicating a corresponding increase throughout the entire country:

One of the great institutions of New York, which grows far more rapidly than population, commerce or wealth, is the post office. During the last quarter of a century, its business has more than quadrupled. This is known by a comparison of the aggregate amount of mail matter which passes through the office.

Thirty-one years ago the receipts, distributions, &c., each day, were about eighteen tons, of which one half came into the office, and the other half was sent away. Now the total weight of the matter received in each twenty four hours and forwarded is ninety tons.

According to careful estimates and calculations, an average of about fifty-five tons a day of this matter are sent out of the city, and thirty-five tons are received here for our citizens. It appears that the difference of nearly one third in favor of the out-of-town districts in the distribution, is accounted for by the fact that this is the great centre of publication in America, and the number of the books, newspapers, &c., sent by mail, compared with other descriptions of mail matter, is increasing in a very rapid ratio. Two days ago, when not more than the average business was done, the number of mail bags closed here and forwarded to various parts of the country was seven hundred and thirteen; the number received was three hundred and eighty-five—a total of one thousand and eighty-eight. Probably no other fact would represent so forcibly as this does, the extent and variety of the business of the New York office.

The records which are kept at the Post Office show results for the past two or three years of deep interest, and in some respects of an astonishing character. In the short period of about three years and a half, the mail correspondence of our citizens has doubled. There is, it appears, a lively season among the letter writers, not only of New York, but of all the country

The missives of every kind never came here before in such numbers; the numbers that are conveyed away are equally without example. But it is not so much what now is that tempts curiosity and excites speculation, as what is likely to be not far in the future.

Persons who have given this subject much attention assert with confidence their reasons for believing that in less than a century from this time the city of New York, representing America, and being in the shortest path of travel and commerce between Europe and Asia, will be the postal centre of the world.

The recent action of government in appointing a commission of eminent citizens to select a site for a new post office building, to meet all requirements, and the fact that extensive improvements of the branch offices up town have lately been found necessary, and are now in progress under the direction of Postmaster Kelly, give the various questions relating to our postal affairs a special interest.

In addition to the statements already printed of the work in the General Post Office, we present the following comparative statistics, showing the changes in some departments of the postal business in two or three years:

CARRIERS' DEPARTMENT.

The Carriers' Department of the General Post Office extends over the lower part of the city to the line of Franklin street, Canal street, Bowery and Catharine street. Most of the letters written in our business offices down town are sent directly to the post office. The collections and deliveries in this district by carriers were as follows in 1863 and 1865:

| | 1863. | 1865. |
|---|---|---|
| Letters collected from lamp-post boxes | 1,550,303 | 2,671,043 |
| Newspapers, &c | 183,727 | 408,484 |
| Total collections by carriers | 1,734,030 | 3,079,527 |
| Letters delivered from lamp-post boxes | 1,999,913 | 3,379,798 |
| Newspapers, &c | 124,587 | 299,307 |
| Total deliveries by carriers | 2,124,500 | 3,679,105 |

BOX DEPARTMENT.

The following were the deliveries from the boxes in the post office in the period named:

| | |
|---|---|
| Letters delivered in the quarter ending December 31, 1862 | 3,225,500 |
| Letters delivered in the quarter ending December 31, 1865 | 5,275,640 |

FOREIGN DEPARTMENT.

In four years the increase in the number of foreign letters that went through the post office was about seventy-five per cent, namely:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Letters sent and received for the year ending March 31, 1862 | | 4,637,159 |
| Letters sent and received for the year ending March 31, 1866 | | 7,416,129 |
| St'rs arr'd with foreign mails in Mar., 1862, | | 23 |
| Do. departing | do. do. | 27 |
| Total | | 50 |
| St'rs arr'd with foreign mails in Mar., 1866, | | 33 |
| Do. departing | do do | 46 |
| Total | | 79 |

LETTERS COLLECTED AND DELIVERED.

The statistics of the collection and delivery of letters at the post office, and at the various branches, indicate many very important facts. They show a remarkable increase in postal business:

COLLECTIONS.

The collections made by the collectors from the street letter-boxes in the quarter ending December 31st, 1863, were as follows:

| No. Letters. | Newspapers. | Total. |
|---|---|---|
| 1,550,303 | 183,727 | 1,734,030 |

The collections were as follows in the quarter ending December 31, 1865:

| No. Letters. | Newspapers. | Total. |
|---|---|---|
| 2,671,043 | 408,484 | 3,079,527 |

| | |
|---|---|
| Number of letters, &c., collected in three months in 1863 | 1,734,030 |
| Increase | 1,345,497 |

DELIVERIES.

The number of letters and newspapers delivered by the carriers in the quarter ending Dec. 31st, 1862:

| No. Letters. | Newspapers. | Total. |
|---|---|---|
| 1,999,913 | 124,587 | 2,124,500 |

The deliveries in the quarter ending December 31st, 1865, were:

| No. Letters. | Newspapers. | Total. |
|---|---|---|
| 3,379,798 | 299,307 | 3,679,105 |

| | |
|---|---|
| Number of letters, &c., delivered in one quarter of 1862 | 2,124,500 |
| Increase | 1,555,605 |

The increase in the collections in two years, it will be seen, is nearly equal to the whole of the collections for the first period named, in 1863, and the increase in the deliveries is 75 per cent.

It should be observed that the vast number of letters, &c., sent directly to the post office is not included in these statements.

Monsieur Tonson Again.

BETWEEN BOSTON AND BUFFALO.

It is perfectly in keeping with the sensational spirit of the times in which we live, to be impatient, expectant, and dissatisfied, and of course I go with the multitude. The big war which we have so successfully finished up, put healthy and vigorous life into every artery and vein of our national body corporate, and its great heart still throbs with the excitement incident to the development of resources, which, under other circumstances, might have lain dormant for a century. The effect of progress exerting itself everywhere, is seen and felt everywhere; and a restless desire to increase personal and national influence and power, is now as much a part of our general economy as building comfortable houses to live in, or baking bread to live on.

Among other good results produced by the excitement of the last four years, a love of literature has been created, and a steady, healthy demand for books, and periodicals, and newspapers, has grown beyond conception. With all its immensity, however, a corresponding and neverfailing supply is to be found.

Letter-writing, too, increased far beyond human calculation, and thousands who learned to appreciate the importance and value of missives to and from our soldiers, became so familiarized through these epistolary communications with each other, that what was whilom regarded as a task, grew into a pleasure—and grew, and grew, like Lord Lovell's briar, "till it couldn't grow any higher,"—the effect of which is to be seen in the increased clerical labor in post offices, and in the plethoric condition of mail bags and pouches passing over our post roads. I think we may now be called a universal letter-writing people; and the amount contributed to the revenue of the Government for the transmission of letters and papers by our people, requires that every postal officer should mentally "take off his coat and roll up his sleeves," to put "things through." It is really amusing to hear officials complain sometimes of the increase of business. I don't know anything about the proportion of help apportioned out to the different offices; but I presume if there is business enough for a dozen clerks, authority would be granted to employ a dozen; but in some places where I have been, and have heard functionaries complain to their neighbors of hard labor, I noticed that several hours of each day were devoted exclusively to the use of ancient meerschaums, the smoke from which made the atmosphere of their offices anything but sweet-scented. The only hard labor I could see about the establishment was the exhaustive efforts to suck smoke through the time-worn and possibly clogged pipe-stems which they had in their mouths. And just here allow me to say that I could send you a pencil sketch of a postmaster and his clerk, who, I am told, never take their pipes from their mouths, except when they are eating, and sometimes they do not even do it then. However, I did not intend to say so much on the pipe subject. I have adverted to it before, and you know where I stand on the subject. I will only say that I am fond of tobacco, and like to smoke myself; but I do not think a place of business where ladies are obliged to come, should be used for such purposes any more than a church, a concert-room or nursery. A little more work, and a little less smoke, would make a better average.

But I was talking about increase of letter-writing. This great stimulant to social progress should be encouraged and fostered, and I believe all the efforts of the Postmaster General tend that way. The increase in the carrier system—the introduction of railway postal cars—the adoption of the money order system, and various other modes and plans for giving celerity and certainty to letters, and ensuring the safety of their contents, show conclusively what pains his Department takes to perfect the system of mail service. Now if his deputies and other aids fail to co-operate, they not only mar his arrangements and defeat his expectations and calculations, but they, in my humble opinion, as a high private, disqualify themselves for position or commendation.

As a body, the postal community of course, reflect great credit on the Government; but, as in every other branch, there are some "whose feathers run the other way," and whose contrary natures look every way but the right one. These are the ones to whom I speak the words of "truth and soberness," when I say, that when you need friends to see you out, they won't be found. Your positions give you influence while you hold it; but if you have to let go to spit on your hands for a fresh grip, you are gone up.

Therefore let me, as a benevolent layman, enjoin upon you to encourage learning and letter-writing; enjoin upon your clerks to be strictly men of letters, and, during business hours, nothing else (if your clerks are ladies, they will need no instruction), let them be models of industry, discreetness, and promptness; satisfy everybody that it is "no trouble to show goods at your establishment;" be on the qui vive yourself all the time you can; and your and your clerks' kindness and attention will make you as "invincible as an army with banners."

See that your mails are promptly received and despatched; your letters carefully assorted, examined and delivered, and legibly stamped, cancelled, wrapped, and sent off in time. See that your office is kept in good order, and the Government property in your charge properly cared for; see that your mail messengers are prompt and prudent, and that the pouches and bags are not delayed at depots and stations, or misused or abused, and everything else that comes within the purview of your duty, which needs your official attention—stand not on the order of doing, but do at once.

MONSIEUR TONSON.

Mail and Female Losses.

It would seem, from the following extracts from the diary of one whose business is the investigation of losses by mail, that an epidemic of a singular nature has lately seized upon the correspondence of a portion of the fair sex. For the benefit of all concerned, we publish the "diagnoses" of some of the more "marked cases," and think it likely that most of our readers will be able, after a careful study of the "symptoms" to tell "just what's the matter":

Case No. 1.—Mrs. X. expected a registered letter from Europe, to be addressed to her at a small village where she was temporarily residing, but being disappointed in her expectation, returned to New York, leaving directions with the village Postmaster to forward the letter to the Postmaster of New York should it arrive. It did arrive shortly thereafter, and was forwarded as requested. Mrs. X. receiving it on application. It was from the aunt of Mrs. X., and, as the writer stated, had contained seven Bank of England notes, value £65, when mailed, but when opened only one £5 note appeared. This unfortunate state of things naturally aroused in the mind of Mrs. X. a suspicion that there was "something wrong somewhere," and she requested an investigation, which being made, revealed the fact that the letter had been prepaid but one rate of postage, although, on enclosing therein seven Bank of England notes, three rates were found to be the proper charge. As all registered letters must be fully prepaid before being forwarded, and as, in addition to this weighty circumstance, there were one or two others, touching the relations of the writer with Mrs. X., which finally convinced the complainant that "aunty had tried to cozen her," the case was "discharged—cured."

Case No. 2.—An artist made a complaint that a letter from a lady friend, in which she had enclosed a ten dollar greenback, in payment of a trifling order executed by him, had, before reaching him, been rifled of its valuable contents, and in proof of his statement exhibited the letter, to which a small portion of the note still adhered, and the envelope, which had been neatly opened at the end, and as neatly reclosed with mucilage. He was requested to write to the lady, informing her of the absence of the money, and stating that the flap of the envelope showed no signs of having been tampered with. In due time, an answer was received in which, with much extraneous matter of the "gushing" order, and many minute particulars as to to the enclosure of the money, the suggestion was made to the artist to "examine carefully the end of the envelope." This rather strange coincidence somewhat staggered his hitherto strong faith in his fair patroness—and when an additional circumstance was brought to his attention, namely: that the fragment adhering to the letter was beyond all doubt a portion of a one dollar note, his faith disappeared altogether, he following the example, after some rather confused apologies about "unnecessary trouble," &c.

Case No. 3.—"Minnie," from the country, visited her friend "Susie," in the city, and on her return sent Susie a letter requesting the purchase of a dress—leaving the selection entirely to the latter's taste, and referring casually to the enclosure of sixteen dollars to be used for the purpose together with two dollars "for Uncle William." But no money appearing, and the envelope bearing undoubted evidences of having been opened and resealed, Susie applied at the City Post Office for an investigation. Being instructed to request some further particulars from Minnie, she did so, and among other particulars, (in a letter with so many words underscored, in feminine fashion, as to make it look like a fit of hysterics) got these: "The Postmaster here tells me that it was not done in his office, and I do not think so either. He says letters can be opened by steaming, without the least fear of detection." Indiscreet Minnie! The Postmaster, on being interrogated, denied that Minnie had ever mentioned the subject to him, or given the least hint of any such loss; and Minnie, on being requested to swear to the pretty little story she had told, wept copiously, and promised never to do so again.

The fact is, ladies, "your little heads were never made" for the concoction of such schemes for throwing the blame of your own little misdeeds on the Post Office. You will be sure to "make a mess of it" in some way, and spoil all by doing just a little too much. Knavery is outside of your "sphere," and you had better leave its practice, like electioneering and fighting, to the men, to whom it comes more natural—perhaps.

Box Rents.

The unsettled and incorrect opinions which seem to prevail among postmasters, respecting "Box Rents," induces us to make the matter the subject of an editorial article, and give to it more importance, and claim for it greater and more extended attention than would be accorded to it when noticed in our column of Answers to Correspondents.

In order to cover the whole field, we give in full the law and instructions bearing on the subject:

Act of March 3d, 1863, Sec. 3, provides that "no box at any post office shall be assigned to the use of any person until the rent has been paid for at least one quarter, for which the postmaster shall give a receipt, and keep a record thereof in his office." * * * Instruction 3, immediately following, provides: "Each postmaster must keep a list of all box-holders, with the number of the box assigned to each, and the time during which he has used it. This list will be examined by special agents, and be delivered to his successor in office The postmaster must state in his quarterly returns, the amount of box-rents accrued in each quarter, whether he has collected them or not."

The Act establishing salaries for postmasters was approved July 1, 1864. By this Act—

"The basis on which salaries is adjusted, is the aggregate compensation of postmasters as derived from commissions, box rents, or other sources."

Sec. 7 of same Act provides, "That all postages and box rents at post offices, and all other receipts and emoluments at a post office, shall be received and accounted for as a part of the postal revenues; any part thereof which the postmaster ought to have collected, but has neglected to collect, shall be charged against him in his account, and he shall be liable therefor in the same manner as if the same had been collected." * * *

In regard to this question of box rents, our correspondence shows that two difficulties present themselves to postmasters. The first, that as the boxes are generally the private property of the postmaster, and the rents heretofore have been private property also, there seems an injustice in the Department requiring them to account for such rents This is not so, however; for where postmasters have complied with the instruction of the Act of 1863, and rendered an account "of all emoluments or sums by them respectively received for boxes or pigeon-holes, or other receptacles for letters or papers, or for the delivery of letters, and of all other emoluments, receipts, and profits," the amount of box rents is included in the allowance as salary, it being the design of the law that the "salaries should be made equal, as nearly as may be, to the compensation heretofore received." Postmasters, therefore, should be satisfied that where they have complied with the requirements of the law, and "assigned no box at any post office to the use of any person, until the rent therefor has been paid for at least one quarter," and have also reported quarterly to the Department the amount received for box rents, such amount, as nearly as may be, is included in the salaries assigned to them; where, however, boxes have been assigned, without collecting rent theretor, and no report of box rents has been made in proper time,—that is, previous to July, 1864,—postmasters who are now called upon to account for box rents must not consider it a hardship, for the loss is through their own negligence.

The second difficulty which presents itself to postmasters respecting box rents, is that of ownership in boxes. We find that in some offices boxes have been put up by a general subscription, with the understanding that the subscribers should have the use of the boxes without the payment of rent. The law makes no provision for such ownership, and evidently did not intend to recognize it; for the language is clear and unmistakable, that "no box shall be assigned to any person till the rent is paid for at least one quarter." Ownership in boxes is also impracticable, for heretofore box rents being the perquisite of the postmaster, no postmaster could bind his successor either in the rent or in such ownership. All control of boxes ends with the term of office of the postmaster, and any claim against his successor could only be made good by the good nature of the latter. This is the law of the case. But it seems to be thought unjust that parties who have paid for boxes, with the understanding that they were to own them, should now be compelled by the Government to pay rent for them. This is not so; for having had the boxes free for so long a time, they have already received more in value than the cost of them. If they should aver that the postmaster by collecting rent would obtain the ownership of boxes which cost him nothing, they have only to reflect that the boxes can be transferred from postmaster to postmaster, as heretofore. Should there be any who would refuse to accede to this arrangement, it would be the postmaster's duty to take away the boxes, and have a new set made at his own expense; the rent for them would more than repay him for the outlay.

A new adjustment of salaries will be made after the 1st of July; box rents will be a part of the basis of this adjustment; we would, therefore, advise postmasters who have not heretofore collected rent for boxes to do so at once, and return the amount, with their Quarterly Returns for the present quarter; the amount of rents will then be included in the new salaries assigned to them. It would look rather bad for a postmaster, should a Special Agent visit his office, and see a goodly lot of boxes, ask to examine his box account, and be told that there was none, no rent being collected. He, the postmaster, might be called on to pay moneys, which, through his own negligence, he had never received, and he might be called on to hand over his books, papers, &c., to a successor.

We wish this article to be a reply to all correspondence on the subject of box rents, whether to what we have received, or what we may receive.

Registering Letters to a D. P. O.

Notwithstanding our many and repeated instructions for registering letters, a misapprehension still prevails as to how to direct registered letter packages to a D. P. O. We therefore propose to give such full instruction that we think they cannot be mistaken.

Registered letters, to go out of the State, should be sent to the nearest D. P. O. on their route. Let us now suppose that you are postmaster at A——, N. Y., and that on the —th of June, you have one, two, or three registered letters to go out of the State, and that New York is the nearest D. P. O. on their routes. You will then fill in the heading of a Registered Letter Bill to read thus:

"Registered Letters from A——, June —— 1866, to New York D. P. O."

You will then enclose the registered letters and this bill in a sealed envelope, mark this envelope "Registered," and direct it "Postmaster, New York," (not Postmaster, New York D. P. O.,) and put it in the package for delivery, the same as if it was an ordinary letter to the postmaster, also put with it a common post bill, marked 1, in the column headed "Reg." The reason for putting it with the letters for delivery is, that it is an official letter from the postmaster at A—— to the postmaster at New York, and should therefore be sent directly to him, and reach him, or his proper clerk, unopened.

Postmasters should make themselves thoroughly familiar with the Regulations for registering letters, for though the Department is not responsible in case of a loss, yet in equity, if not in law, a postmaster is liable for losses occasioned by ignorance or carelessness.

Registered letters mailed direct, should also be put in sealed envelopes, and directed to the postmaster at the office to which they are sent.

Distributing Post Offices.

In the list of Distributing Post Offices contained in the advance sheets of the new Regulations, there were one or two errors, which were copied by us last month. We therefore give below a corrected list of the Distributing Post Offices in the United States on the first of April last:

| | |
|---|---|
| Boston, Mass. | St. Louis, Missouri. |
| Portland, Maine. | Louisville, Kentucky. |
| Hartford, Connecticut. | San Francisco, Cal. |
| New York, New York. | Sacramento, Cal. |
| Buffalo, New York. | Norfolk, Virginia. |
| Albany, New York. | Richmond, Virginia. |
| Philadelphia, Penn. | Kanawha C. H., W. Va. |
| Pittsburgh, Penn. | Raleigh, North Carolina. |
| Baltimore, Md. | Montgomery, Alabama. |
| Washington, D. C. | New Orleans, La. |
| Wheeling, Virginia. | Charleston, S. C. |
| Cincinnati, Ohio. | Savannah, Georgia. |
| Cleveland, Ohio. | Columbus, Georgia. |
| Detroit, Michigan. | Nashville, Tennessee. |
| Indianapolis, Indiana. | Memphis, Tennessee. |
| Cairo, Illinois. | Little Rock, Arkansas. |
| Chicago, Illinois. | Napoleon, Arkansas. |
| St Joseph, Missouri. | Galveston, Texas. |

MAIL FACILITIES TO THE WEST.—The St. Louis (Mo.) Democrat, of May 19th, remarks: "Gradually we are lessening the distance between the Atlantic and Mississippi sections of the country and those of the Rocky Mountains and Pacific slope, and approaching the railroad stage of transportation. The contract for the delivery of the Santa Fe mail this year shows a long stride in the progress of postal events. When New Mexico was annexed, some nineteen or twenty years since, a monthly mail was all that the government was willing to afford. Then a semi-monthly connection was adopted, and afterwards a weekly. This last has existed for the past four or five years, but is now about to give way to a tri-weekly. The starting point under this new arrangement is Lawrence, selected on account of its advanced position on the old trail and its railroad facilities to the East. In a few seasons the departure will be from some other locality still farther West, and so it will proceed until we shall witness, in a decade more, perhaps, a train or two a day from the Mississippi to the Rio Grande."

J. GAYLER, . . . . Editor.

NEW YORK, JUNE, 1866

TERMS—One dollar per year, payable in advance. All communications to be addressed to the Publisher of the UNITED STATES MAIL, New York.

Subscriptions received at any Post Office in the United States.

☞ Letters containing remittances for subscriptions, or in reference to the business department of this paper, should be addressed to "Publisher U. S. Mail" and not to the Editor.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, October 25, 1861.

DEAR SIR,—I consider the U. S. MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT a valuable and meritorious publication, useful alike to this Department, to Postmasters throughout the country, and to the public. It is my wish to see it generally circulated among postmasters and others, and I shall with pleasure extend to you every proper facility for enlarging the sphere of its official usefulness, and the range of its circulation. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.
To J. HOLBROOK, Special Agent P. O. Department.

The following Official Order has also been made by the Postmaster General:

Ordered, That the Assistant Postmasters General, and Chief Clerk of this Department, each cause to be furnished from time to time to J. Holbrook, for publication in the "United States Mail," all such new orders or regulations of the Department touching the business of the several bureaus as may be of general importance or interest as soon as practicable after the same shall have been promulgated or established. M. BLAIR, Postmaster General.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, Washington Oct. 13, 1864.

DEAR SIR:—I have no hesitation in adding my endorsement to that of my predecessor, Postmaster General BLAIR, to the usefulness of the "UNITED STATES MAIL AND POST OFFICE ASSISTANT," as a medium of communicating correct information to Postmasters and others respecting postal operations; and cheerfully recommend it to the favor and support of Postmasters and other agents of the Department. W. DENNISON, Postmaster General

To J. GAYLER, Esq. Editor U. S. Mail.

Special Notice to Subscribers.

Each wrapper enclosing a copy of the Mail bears a number in addition to the address. This number signifies that the term for which the subscription is paid expires with the corresponding whole number of the paper. Subscribers will please take this as a notification to forward the subscription for another year, when due, if they intend to renew. Those whom this number reaches, marked 65 or 66, will please remit at once.

☞ Although it is our desire and endeavor that our paper should appear on the first of each month, yet it is sometimes, owing to various circumstances, impossible to secure that result. Important changes in the laws and regulations occasionally occur at such times as to require, for the benefit of our readers, that our issue should be postponed for a few days in order to enable us to lay the details of such changes before them at as early a date as possible, instead of allowing a month to elapse before their publication. Our subscribers will therefore readily understand that a short delay in receiving their papers is sometimes unavoidable, and that when such delay occurs, it is the result of a desire to give them advantage of the latest official information on the postal matters.

POSTAGE TO THE DUTCH WEST INDIES BY FRENCH MAIL.—We are requested to state that, from the first of July next, letters posted in the United States and addressed to the Dutch West Indies, (Curacoa, Saba, St. Eustatius, and St. Martin,) may be transmitted to destination, via France, in the French Mail, at a postage-charge of 33 cents for each single rate of one quarter ounce or under; prepayment being optional with the sender.

[OFFICIAL.]

AN ACT

To provide that the "Soldier's Individual Memorial" shall be carried through the mails at the usual rate of printed matter.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled: That the ornamental records of the personal services of Federal officers and soldiers, composed partly of written and partly of printed matter, but containing no private communications, and known as the "Soldiers' Individual Memorial," shall be allowed to pass through the mails upon the payment of the usual postage on printed matter.

Approved April 17, 1866.

☞ The new edition of the Post Office Laws and Regulations will be issued to postmasters at an early day. In mentioning the work in our last issue, we neglected to notice its very superior typographical execution, which is creditable in the highest degree to the Government Printing Office, where the work was performed.

STONE'S POST OFFICE ACCOUNT BOOK.—We have examined a specimen of the above book, advertised in another column by Mr. M. H. Stone, Assistant P. M. at Burlington, Vt., and are satisfied that its use by postmasters would be of great advantage to them in enabling them to keep their newspaper postage and box rent accounts correctly, with little expenditure of labor, and in a most convenient form. From the many letters which we have received from our subscribers on this subject, it would seem that the proper mode of keeping these accounts is, especially to postmasters at the smaller offices, a matter of considerable difficulty, and we cheerfully recommend the use of Mr. Stone's account book as a ready means of avoiding all those mistakes and complications which are apt to result from a less simple and systematic method.

Post-mark Letters Distinctly.

It is an established fact, that the mode of working a reformation is, "by line upon line, precept upon precept, here a little, and there a little." We therefore again allude to the subject which heads this article. It seems to us that many postmasters have not a correct idea of the necessity for a distinct, legible post-mark, or if they have, they also have very careless habits; which is the more blameworthy, ignorance or carelessness, we leave to moralists to decide, and will only remark that both are entirely out of place in a post office.

Although it should be sufficient to secure a legible post-mark, that the Regulations require it, yet there are some few men who cannot be induced to do what they should, merely because required by a superior authority, but must know "the why and the wherefore." We will state a few reasons in favor of our subject.

The post-mark on a letter is often the only means of discovering anything of either the writer of a letter or the party to whom it is addressed; it is often of great assistance in deciding which of two or more claimants of similar names is entitled to a letter; it enables a postmaster to return a misdirected letter to the office where it was mailed, to have the direction corrected, instead of sending it to the Dead Letter Office, and thus saving as many weeks as it would in general take days to have the correction made; it is often of value as legal evidence; it assists in tracing lost letters, and it adds to the credit of the postmaster, and of the office where the letter is mailed.

We will add a few plain directions: Clean your stamps frequently, at least once a week; provide a good ink-pad of cloth, leather, or printer's roller composition, and then, with some good printer's ink, spread very thinly on the pad, you cannot fail to secure a distinct, legible post mark. To clean your stamp, use benzine, camphene, or burning fluid, the first being the best.

☞ We would again caution postmasters against paying any sort of attention to requests, from persons in New York and elsewhere, to send lists of the names of those who receive letters within their deliveries. These requests come from rascals who make their living by furnishing the names so obtained, at a certain price per hundred, to the bogus lottery and jewelry certificate swindlers, who use them in directing their lying circulars. All postmasters who do not wish to be made accomplices in cheating their neighbors will throw such requests as we have mentioned in the waste baskets. Tax collectors and assessors are also applied to for the same vile purpose, and if our paper reached them, we should give them a similar warning.

REGISTERING LETTERS TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES.—Many postmasters seem to be under the mistaken impression, that letters can be registered to any part of the world; and letters are received daily at the New York office for transmission abroad, on which a registry fee has been paid at the mailing office, but which are obliged to be sent from the New York office as unregistered. Letters CANNOT be registered to any of the following countries:

France, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, Holland, Asia, Africa, Australia, Oceanica, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, nor to any of the Islands or Colonies of the various powers, (except Canada and Jamaica,) nor to any part of this continent, other than the United States, except Canada.

The registry fee to Canada, Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, is but five cents: to all other places to which letters can be registered, twenty cents.

Return receipts should not be sent with registered letters addressed to foreign countries.

An Ocean Post Office.

From Victor Hugo's last work, Les Travailleurs de la Mer, ("The Toilers of the Sea,") we copy the following account of a Post Office, without either postmaster or clerks. The description is given in a conversation between two characters in the book—sea-captains:

"Didn't you say, Captain, that the 'Tamaulipas' would not touch anywhere?"

"Yes; she goes direct to Chili."

"In that case, she can send no news of herself on the voyage."

"I beg your pardon, Captain Clubin. In the first place, she can send any letters by vessels she may meet sailing for Europe."

"That is true."

"Then there is the ocean letter-box."

"What do you mean by the ocean letter-box?"

"Don't you know what that is, Captain Clubin?"

"No."

"When you pass the Straits of Magellan—"

"Well."

"Snow all around you; always bad weather; ugly down-easters, and bad seas."

"Well."

"When you have doubled Cape Monmouth—"

"Well, what next?"

"Then you double Cape Valentine."

"And then?"

"Why, then you double Cape Isidore."

"And afterwards?"

"You double Point Anne."

"Good. But what is it you call the ocean letter-box?"

"We are coming to that. Mountains on the right, mountains on the left. Penguins and stormy petrels all about. A terrible place. Ah! by Jove, what a howling and what cracks you get there! The hurricane wants no help. That's the place for holding on to the sheer-rails—for reefing topsails. That's where you take in the mainsail and fly the jibsail; or take in the jibsail and try the storm-jib. Gusts upon gusts! And then sometimes four, five or six days of cap seche. Often only a rag of canvas left. What a dance! Squalls enough to make a three-master skip like a flea. I saw once a cabin-boy hanging on to the jibboom of an English brig, 'The True Blue,' knocked, jibboom and all, to ten thousand nothings. Fellows are swept into the air there like butterflies. I saw the second mate of the 'Revenue,' a pretty schooner, knocked from under the fore crosstree, and killed dead. I have had my sheer-rail smashed and come out with all my sails in ribbons. Frigates of fifty guns make water like wicker baskets. And the damnable coast! Nothing can be imagined more dangerous. Rocks all jagged edged. You come, by-and-by, to Port Famine. There it's worse and worse. The worst seas I ever saw in my life. The devil's own latitudes. All of a sudden you spy the words, painted in red, 'Post Office.'"

"What do you mean, Captain Gertrais?"

"I mean, Captain Clubin, that immediately after doubling Point Anne you see, on a rock, a hundred feet high, a great post with a barrel suspended to the top. This barrel is the letter-box. The English sailors must needs go and write up there 'Post Office.' What had they to do with it? It is the ocean post office. It isn't the property of that worthy gentleman, the King of England. The box is common to all. It belongs to every flag. Post Office: there's a crack-jaw word for you. It produces an effect on me as if the devil had suddenly offered me a cup of tea. I will tell you now how the postal arrangements are carried out. Every vessel which passes sends to the post a boat with despatches. A vessel coming from the Atlantic, for instance, sends there its letters for Europe; and a ship coming from the Pacific, its letters for New Zealand or California. The officer in command of the boat puts his packet into the barrel, and takes away any packet he finds there. You take charge of these letters, and the ship which comes after you takes charge of yours. As ships are always going to and fro, the continent whence you come is that to which I am going. I carry your letters; you carry mine. The barrel is made fast to the post with a chain. And it rains, snows, and hails! A pretty sea. The imps of Satan fly about on every side. The 'Tamaulipas' will pass there. The barrel has a good lid with a hinge, but no padlock. You see, a fellow can write to his friends this way. The letters come safely."

"It is very curious," muttered Clubin, thoughtfully.

SALES OF STAMPS AND ENVELOPES.

The following is a statement of the sales of postage stamps and envelopes at the New York office for the last quarter of each year since 1862, and for the first quarter of the present year:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Quarter ending December 31, | 1862 | $240,667 65 |
| " " " | 1863 | 271,447 38 |
| " " " | 1864 | 341,706 38 |
| " " " | 1865 | 421,544 08 |
| " " March 31, | 1866 | 460,272 74 |

OLD RATES OF POSTAGE.

The improvements made in the postal system of this country during the past few years have been so numerous and useful, that it is difficult to comprehend at once their extent and value. The revolution in the post office has been as complete as that in the means of public travel; and the progress has been, in some respects, more rapid. Only a few years ago the rate of postage was twenty-five cents for considerable distances. For that sum, it will be remembered, one piece of paper was allowed to be sent, and every additional piece was charged for as an additional letter. For shorter distances deductions in the prices were made.

The following abstract of the old law is interesting for the curious comparison it furnishes:

RATES OF POSTAGE.

For Single Letters, composed of one piece of Paper.

| | Miles. | Cts. |
|---|---|---|
| Any distance not exceeding | 30 | 6 |
| Over 30 and not exceeding | 80 | 10 |
| Over 80 | 150 | 12½ |
| Over 150 | 400 | 18¾ |
| Over 400 | | 25 |

Double letters, or those composed of two pieces of paper, are charged with double these rates.

All letters weighing one ounce avoirdupois or more, are charged at the rate of single postage for each ounce according to their weight; and no letter can be charged with more than quadruple postage unless its weight exceeds one ounce avoirdupois.

Triple letters, or those composed of three pieces of paper, are charged with triple those rates.

Quadruple letters, or those composed of 4 pieces of paper, are charged with quadruple those rates.

NEWSPAPERS.

For each newspaper not carried out of the state in which it is published, or if carried out of the state, but carried not over one hundred miles, one cent; over one hundred miles, and out of the state in which it is published, one and a-half cents.

MAGAZINES AND PAMPHLETS.

If published periodically, distance not exceeding 100 miles ........ 1½ cents per sheet.
Exceeding 100 miles ........ 2½ " "
If not published periodically, distance not over 100 miles .... 4 " "
Exceeding 100 miles ........ 6 " "

Small pamphlets containing not more than half-sheet royal are charged with half these rates.

The letters, &c., on which this postage was due, were ordinarily carried on stage coaches at a speed of perhaps six miles an hour.

Answers to Correspondents.

N. B.—In future, correspondence, to receive attention, must be accompanied by the name and full post office address of the writer.

Notice to Publishers.—L. S., C——, Mass.—Enclose your notices to the postmaster at the publisher's place of business, the postmaster will see them delivered. The newspaper law you quote has no reference to the postal law on the subject of papers.

Postage on Insurance Plates.—E. M. E., Mt. P——, Iowa.—Postage on insurance plates should be charged at letter rates.

Franking Privilege.—J. McO., M——, Ill.—Instruction 1, accompanying Act of May 1, 1865, provides, "That all communications on official business, of whatever origin, addressed to heads of the Executive Departments of Government, or heads of bureaus therein, or to Chief Clerks of Departments, or one authorized by the Postmaster General to frank official matter, shall be received and conveyed by mail free of postage, without being franked or endorsed 'Official Business.'"

Franking Privilege.—J. R. B., T——, Pa.—See preceding answer.

Postage on Internal Revenue Returns.—W. H., I——, Ky.—Internal Revenue Returns, containing manuscript, are chargeable with letter postage.

Carriers Delivering Mails.—F B., C——, Col.—A carrier or contractor is obliged to deliver mails as near to the door of a post office as convenient, even if he should have to leave the main road. You had better report the facts of the case to the Contract Office, P. O. Dep't.

Delivering Mail Pouches on Mail Cars.—C. E. S., G—— P——, Ill.—Failures to receive or deliver mails, or any delinquencies on the part of mail contractors, should be reported to the 2d Assistant P. M. Gen., Contract Office, Inspection Division, Washington, D. C.

Exchanges Between Publishers.—Sec. 43, act of March 3, 1863, provides that "publishers may exchange periodicals, magazines and newspapers." The terms of exchange would seem to be left to the publishers—and it could not be otherwise, as such matter varies in value, or in terms of subscription.

Ownership of Boxes.—P. M., R——, N. Y.—The Department evidently does not recognize an ownership in boxes, and parties who purchased boxes did so subject to the laws and regulations of the Department. Sec. 3d, Act of March 3d, 1863, requires that "no box at any post office shall be assigned to the use of any person until the rent therefor has been paid for at least one quarter." See article on this subject in the present number.

Postage on Papers to Regular Subscribers in Canada.—W. F. C., D——, O.—Postage on such papers is chargeable at the regular rates, payable at the office of mailing. See Sec. 150, Regulations of 1859.

P. O. Directories and Marking Stamps.—R. D. R., M——, Mo.—1. Each postmaster is furnished gratuitously with a P. O. Directory. 2d. Postmasters whose gross receipts are less than $75 per annum, must obtain marking stamps at their own expense.

Postage on Package of Newspapers Published within the County, and sent to one Address.—The letter containing this inquiry has unfortunately been mislaid, but we give the reply as follows: The postage on such package is two cents for four ounces, the privilege of receiving a county paper free being limited to one copy.

Legal Tender for Postage Stamps.—R. W., C——, Miss.—Yes, national currency is a legal tender for postage stamps, as well as in all post office business.

Postage on Papers to a Subscriber who has Changed his Post Office Address.—C. M., W——, Me.—You should send a receipt to the Postmaster. This would be evidence that the postage had been paid; he would not then demand additional postage.

Newspapers Containing Enclosure.—R. E. R., S——, Wis.—You did right in charging letter postage. Postmasters are authorized to examine all newspapers, if it can be done without destroying the wrapper; if it cannot, then to charge letter postage.

Letters Going out of the State.—W. B., R——, O.—Letters for post offices in other States and Territories, which should not pass through a distributing office on their proper route to the office of delivery, must be mailed direct; all other such letters must be mailed to the nearest D. P. O.

P. O. Directory.—F. R. P., P——, O. The latest P. O. Directory published by the Department was issued in 1862. The American News Company, of this city, issued one in the beginning of the present year.

Returning Request Letters; Disposition of Misdirected Letters, &c.—W. W., F——, Ind.—1. Request letters should be returned immediately after they are refused, and not held till the time expires. 2. Letters misdirected, or directed to places not known, should be returned to the mailing office, for "better direction," or to be sent to the Dead Letter Office. If they cannot be returned to the mailing office, send them to the Dead Letter Office. 3. It is the duty of the first P. M. who discovers a letter is astray or cannot be delivered, to take the proper care of it.

Postage on Trusses.—C. W. G., O——, Ill.—Trusses are to be charged at letter rates; so are all articles not named in Sec. 20, Act of March 3, 1863.

Affixing Stamps, Making Change, Mutilated Currency, &c.—W. T. W., Mt. V——, N. Y.—1. Postmasters are not required to affix stamps to letters; 2, nor are they required to make change, but courtesy often demands what the law does not, and in nothing more frequently than in money transactions. 3. You are not obliged to redeem mutilated currency, but you are obliged to receive it in payment for stamps, provided not more than one-tenth is missing. 4. You cannot "frank" to the editor or publishers of the Mail.

Mutilated Currency.—M. E. D., B——, Ind.—See preceding answer.

Old Records and Papers.—H. Z. J., P——, Ind.—Old accounts of mails received, quarterly accounts, and other similar papers up to within two years, may be sold, and the proceeds credited to the Department.

Printed Matter to more than One Address.—J. P., F——, Ala.—Packages of newspapers to more than one address must be prepaid transient rates for each address, unless the postage be paid quarterly in advance. They must also be sent to regular subscribers (or newsdealers) to entitle them to pass at quarterly rates at all. Any package of papers to one address, prepaid at transient rates by stamps, should be delivered. If bearing more than one address, and prepaid only as if for one address, transient postage must be collected from each person addressed, on delivery.

Wrapping Paper.—J. M. F., West H——, Vt.—If your salary amounts to $12.50 a quarter you are entitled to wrapping paper and twine. You can get them by writing to Beverly Clark, Esq., Blank Agent P. O. D., New York.

Stopping Letters Passing Through a Post Office.—A. J. D., Lake C——, Ill.—A postmaster has no right to stop letters addressed to another office, even to deliver them to the party having a right to them.

Open and Closed Mails.—A. L. C., G——, Neb.—Letters by the "open mail" are sent to London, England, and from thence to their destination. Letters by a closed mail are put into pouches that are not opened till they reach the country to which they are sent. Letters for South America are sent to England or France, in cases where there is no mail communication between the United States and South American Governments.

Ass't P. M. Signing Quarterly Returns.—P. M., T—— H——, Me.—An Assistant P. M. can only sign quarterly returns in case of the unavoidable absence of the postmaster.

Advertising Letters.—W. J., H——, N. Y.—In offices of the Fourth Class, letters are to be advertised once a month, by posting a written list in the post office, and no payment is allowed therefor.

Monthly Account of Postage, &c.—W. F. C., L——, Tenn.—1. Monthly accounts of postage must be sent quarterly, with the quarterly returns. 2. Quarterly returns must be sworn to, at whatever trouble. 3. No allowance is made for advertising letters, unless the list is printed.

Postage on Photographs.—F. W. P., B——, Me.—The word photograph, in postal matters, does not include all pictures made by the action of light, but only those commonly known by that name, the postage on which is two cents for four ounces; all others, letter rates.

Right of News Dealers to Receive Bills in their Packages, &c.—W. F., C——, Ill.—1. News dealers cannot receive bills in their packages, without subjecting the whole package to letter postage. 2. When a newspaper is refused, the publisher should be immediately notified, and requested to discontinue the paper. Enclose such notice in an envelope to the postmaster.

Miscellaneous Information.

Dead Letters.

By the instructions under the postal laws, UNMAILABLE LETTERS are specified to be—

Letters attempted to be sent with stamps previously used, or stamps cut from stamped envelopes.

Unpaid letters for foreign countries, on which prepayment is required by the regulations.

Letters not addressed, or so badly addressed that their destination cannot be known.

Letters misdirected to places where there are no post offices.

Civilian's letters, (domestic) wholly unpaid, (including unpaid drop letters.)

Only such letters as are herein described are, when deposited in any post office, to be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office; all others must be dispatched to their destination, charged with the amount of unpaid postage.

When unmailable letters are sent to the Dead Letter Office, the specific reason therefor must be endorsed upon the envelope of each.

These instructions will be strictly followed at all post offices.

For more full instructions relating to dead letters, advertising letters, &c., examine carefully the 7th and 8th Sections of the Act of 3d March, 1863, and the instructions attached thereto, also, Sec. 1, Act of March 3, 1865.

Foreign Letters, &c.

RULE FOR RATING LETTERS TO GREAT BRITAIN, &C.

The attention of postmasters is particularly called to the mode of rating postage upon letters exchanged in the mails between this country and the United Kingdom, which differs only in the rate, and not, as heretofore, in the weight or standard. The maximum standard weight is now half an ounce, and the rate is twenty-four cents; postage to Great Britain and Ireland, therefore, is as follows, viz.:

One rate (24 cents) for a single letter not exceeding ½ oz. in weight.

Two rates (48 cents) when over ½, but not exceeding 1 ounce.

Three rates (72 cents) when over 1, but not exceeding 1½ ounces, &c., &c.

Thus, a letter to Great Britain, weighing 4¼ ounces, should be paid $2.16, being chargeable with nine rates. All part paid letters to foreign countries are treated as wholly unpaid, and the amount paid lost to the sender.

Letters to foreign countries, where prepayment of postage is compulsory, when insufficiently paid are sent to the Dead Letter Office, to be opened and returned to the writers, and are thereby delayed one or two mails, and, no doubt, in many cases, causing serious loss and annoyance to the writers.

REGISTERING FOREIGN LETTERS.—Letters can be registered in the United States for Great Britain and Ireland, for Germany, or any part of the German Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen, Hamburg, or Prussian closed mails. Letters to Canada can be registered, but not to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, or Prince Edward's Island. Postmasters will, therefore, decline to register letters addressed to other foreign countries.

The registry fee to be charged on registered letters to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, via Bremen or Hamburg, or by Prussian closed mail, and to Canada, is five cents—to Great Britain and Ireland, twenty cents. All registered letters must be prepaid in full to destination. See "Foreign Miscellany" on fourth page of this paper, for full information in regard to rating all foreign letters.

Our Postal Convention with the United Kingdom, provides that each country shall levy and collect its postage only, on newspapers, at the rate of two cents each, whether they are sent or received. Hence, newspapers received in this country from Great Britain come prepaid the British postage only, and postmasters must be particular, in all cases, to collect the United States charge of two cents on their delivery.

CANADIAN CORRESPONDENCE.—Irregularities having arisen in respect to Canadian correspondence, these directions must hereafter be observed:

Letters addressed to Canada must be mailed to a United States Exchange Office. Letters cannot be sent direct to Post Offices in Canada.

The postage on a single letter to and from Canada is 10 cents, prepayment optional; but the whole postage must be prepaid or none. Part prepayments are not recognized. Prepayments must be made by United States postage stamps—not in money.

A postmaster may frank a letter to Canada the same as to any point in the United States; but it is optional for the Canadian P. O. Department to deliver such letter free, or charge full postage on it, at its pleasure.

COLLECTIONS IN COIN.—In pursuance of the provisions of a resolution of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails despatched to this country from Great Britain and Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen, or Belgium, are collected in gold or silver coin. Should, however, payment of such postage, and of the premium on a corresponding amount of coin, be tendered in United States notes, the same is to be accepted in lieu of coin. The amount to be collected in U. S. notes, (in case coin is not offered,) is marked on each letter on its arrival at U. S. Exchange Offices, and if charged in the post-bills. Hence, when coin is collected at the office of delivery, the difference should be entered in the account of Mails Received as an overcharge.

The above applies exclusively to the mails received from the countries mentioned.

On out-going letters the former regulations remain unchanged, and, when prepaid, the regular rates (in currency) only are to be collected.

Mail Bags and Locks.

DEPOSITORIES.—The following post offices are constituted depositories for mail Bags and Locks, viz:

When the postages collected at an office amount to $100 a year, the name of the postmaster and of his office will be printed on the post bills. When the postmaster's compensation exceeds $12 50 a quarter, the postmaster is entitled to wrapping paper and twine, at the above agencies.

Applications for blank registers of arrival and departure of the mails must be made direct to the "Inspection office." For special instructions, to the First Assistant Postmaster General.

All postmasters whose compensation is less than $12 50 per quarter, can purchase a reasonable quantity of wrapping paper and twine, provided the net proceeds of the office exceed twenty dollars per year.

STAMPS.

Post Offices, the gross receipts of which are over $1,000 per annum, will be furnished with circular marking and rating stamps of class No. 1; less than $1,000 and over $500, with stamps of class No. 2; less than $500 and over $100, with stamps of class No. 4. Applications for these stamps should be made to the Appointment office.

Postmasters at offices, the gross receipts of which are less than $75 per annum, if they use rating stamps must obtain the same at their own expense.

Letter balances, upon the like application, are furnished to offices which collect in postages $75 a year.

MODE OF INDICATING THE PREPAYMENT OF POSTAGE UPON LETTERS RECEIVED FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

When the United States official postage entries on the letters received from Great Britain or the Continent of Europe, are in red ink, the letter is to be considered as paid, and is to be delivered accordingly; when in black ink, as unpaid, and the postage is to be collected on delivery. The postage on such letters is either wholly paid or wholly unpaid. Postmasters can readily decide any question as to prepayment, by this simple criterion.

Domestic Postages.

The law requires postage on all letters, (including those to foreign countries when prepaid,) excepting those written to the President or Vice-President, or members of Congress, or, (on official business) to the chiefs of the executive departments of the government, and the heads of bureaus and chief clerks, and others invested with the franking privilege, to be prepaid by stamps or stamped envelopes, prepayment in money being prohibited. Postmasters can send official letters to other Postmasters free.

All drop letters must be prepaid. The rate of postage on drop letters, at offices where free delivery by carrier is established, is two cents per half ounce or fraction of a half ounce; at offices where such free delivery is not established, the rate is 1 ct.

The single rate of postage on all domestic mail letters throughout the United States is three cents per half ounce, with an additional rate of three cents for each additional half ounce or fraction of a half ounce. The ten cent (Pacific) rate is abolished.

RATES OF LETTER POSTAGE BETWEEN OFFICES IN THE UNITED STATES, AND TO AND FROM CANADA AND OTHER BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES

To and from Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., irrespective of distance.

To and from other British N. Am. Provinces, for distance not over 3,000 miles. ........ 10 cts.
For any distance over 3,000 miles.......... 15 "

For every additional half ounce, or fraction of a half ounce, an additional rate is charged. Prepayment is optional on all letters for the British North American Provinces except Newfoundland, to which prepayment is compulsory.

Letter postage is to be charged on all handbills, circulars, or other printed matter which shall contain any manuscript writing whatever.

Daguerreotypes, when sent in the mail, are to be charged with letter postage by weight.

Photographs on cards, paper, and other flexible material, (not in cases,) can be sent at the same rate as miscellaneous printed matter—viz., two cents for each four ounces or fraction thereof.

Photographic Albums are chargeable with book postage—four cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof.

POSTAGE PER QUARTER (to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance) on NEWSPAPERS and PERIODICALS issued less frequently than once a week, sent to actual subscribers in any part of the U. S.:

Quarterly postage cannot be paid for less than three months. If a subscription begins at any other time than the commencement of an official quarter, the postage received by the p. m. must still be entered in his account for that quarter. Subscribers for short terms—exceeding three months, say four or five months—can pay quarterly postage for the actual term of their subscriptions—that is for one quarter and a third, one quarter and two-thirds, &c. The law only requires that at least one quarter's postage shall be prepaid, and not more than one year's postage. Any term between one quarter and one year can therefore be prepaid at proportionate rates.

PUBLISHERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS may send to each other from their respective offices of publication, free of postage, one copy of each publication, and may also send to each actual subscriber, inclosed in their publications, bills and receipts for the same, free of postage. They may also state on their respective publications, the date when the subscription expires, to be written or printed.

Religious, Educational and Agricultural Newspapers of small size, issued less frequently than once a week, may be sent in packages to one address at the rate of one cent for each package not exceeding four ounces in weight, and an additional charge of one cent is made for each additional four ounces or fraction thereof, the postage to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance.

NEWSDEALERS may send newspapers and periodicals to regular subscribers at the quarterly rates, in the same manner as publishers, and may also receive them from publishers at subscribers' rates. In both cases the postage to be prepaid, either at the mailing or delivery office.

Publications issued without disclosing the office of publication, or containing a fictitious statement thereof, must not be forwarded by postmasters unless prepaid at the mailing office at the rates of transient printed matter.

Postage on Transient Printed Matter.

[All printed matter (except single copies of newspapers, magazines and periodicals to regular subscribers) sent via Overland Mail, is to be charged at letter postage rates.]

BOOKS, not over 4 oz. in weight, to one address, 4 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 8 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 12 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 16 cts.

CIRCULARS, not exceeding three in number, to one address, 2 cts.; over three and not over six, 4 cts.; over six and not over nine, 6 cts.; over nine and not exceeding twelve, 8 cts.

ON MISCELLANEOUS MAILABLE MATTER, (embracing all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, handbills and posters, book manuscripts and proof-sheets, whether corrected or not, maps, prints, engravings, sheet music, blanks, flexible patterns, samples and sample cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes or wrappers, cards, paper, plain or ornamental, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, and scions,) the postage to be pre-paid by stamps, is, on one package to one address, not over 4 oz. in weight, 2 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 4 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 6 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 8 cts.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General, the fifth subdivision of the 42d instruction of the new Post Office Law, has been amended by striking out the word twelve and inserting thirty-two before the word ounces, so that it shall read as follows—"The weight of packages of seeds, cuttings, roots and scions, to be franked, is limited to thirty-two ounces."

All mail matter not sent at letter rates of postage, embracing books, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, and other printed matter, and all other mail matter except seeds, must be so wrapped or enveloped with open sides or ends as to enable the postmaster to examine the package without destroying the wrapper, otherwise such packages must be rated with letter postage. No communication, whether in writing or in print, can be sent with any seeds, roots, cuttings or scions, maps, engravings or other matter not printed, except upon the separate payment of postage upon each separate matter at the established rates.

Exchange newspapers and periodicals cannot be re-mailed without being chargeable with postage.

Where packages of newspapers or periodicals are received at any post office directed to one address and the names of the club of subscribers to which they belong, with the postage for a quarter in advance, shall be handed to the postmaster, he shall deliver the same to their respective owners. But this does not apply to weekly newspapers which circulate free in the county where printed and published.

Weekly newspapers and all other printed matter to the British North American Provinces, although sent from countries bordering on the line, are chargeable with the same rates as when sent to any point in the United States.

☞All transient matter must be prepaid by stamps. But if it comes to the office of delivery without prepayment, or short-paid, the unpaid postage must be collected on delivery at double the prepaid rate. Great neglect exists in the strict quarterly prepayment of postage on printed matter sent to regular subscribers. No such paper should be delivered, unless it is either prepaid at the mailing office, or at the delivery office for at least a quarter. If not so prepaid, postmasters must collect postage on each copy as on transient matter. If they fail, they will be charged with the full postage due, and in clear cases removed from office for neglect.

To inclose or conceal a letter or other thing (excep- bills and receipts for subscription) in, or to write or print anything, after its publication, upon any newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, is illegal, and subjects such printed matter, and the entire package of which it is a part, to letter postage.

Any word or communication, whether by printing, writing, marks or signs, upon the cover or wrapper of a newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, other than the name and address of the person to whom it is to be sent, and the date when subscription expires, subjects the package to letter postage.

RATES OF POSTAGE ON PRINTED MATTER FOR FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

1. TO OR FROM GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND, IN UNITED STATES AND BRITISH MAILS.—Newspapers two cents each without regard to weight; pamphlets and periodicals, two cents each if not weighing over two ounces, and four cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce if exceeding two ounces; which is the United States postage only; but pamphlets weighing over eight ounces, or periodicals weighing over sixteen ounces, are chargeable with letter postage. Books and all other descriptions of printed matter, are subject to letter rate of postage. Neither pamphlets nor periodicals are entitled to conveyance in the British mail, through England, to countries on the Continent of Europe.

2. Newspapers received by the Bremen or Hamburg line are in like manner prepaid in Germany. On pamphlets, magazines and other printed matter, one cent an ounce or fraction of an ounce must be prepaid at the mailing office when sent from, and collected at the office of delivery when received in the United States. This is the United States postage only.

5. TO BELGIUM, IN THE UNITED STATES AND BELGIUM CLOSED MAIL.—Newspapers, gazettes and periodical works:

FOREIGN MISCELLANY

TO THE BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

Cape Breton, Pr'e Edward's Island, and Nova Scotia. To Newfoundland prepayment required. To Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., any distance.

* 10 cents when not over 3,000 miles from the line of crossing.
* 15 cents when distance exceeds 3,000 miles. Prepayment optional.

Steamers of the Cunard line sail from Boston twice each month, touching at Halifax, and when letters are sent by that conveyance for Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Prince Edward's Island, the U. S. postage is 5 cents the single rate, to be prepaid. The inland rate is collected on delivery. On newspapers by this route, the postage is two cents each.

Newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and sent to regular subscribers in the British North American Provinces, or published in those Provinces and sent to regular subscribers in the United States, are chargeable with the regular prepaid quarterly rates of United States postage to and from the line; which postage must be collected at the office of mailing in the United States on matter sent, and at the office of delivery in the United States on matter received. In like manner, such matter, if transient, is chargeable with the regular domestic transient printed matter rates to and from the line, to be collected at the office of mailing or delivery in the United States, as the case may be. Editors, however, may exchange free of expense.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS.

Valuable letters for Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line via New York, or by the Prussian closed mail via New York and Boston, as also letters addressed to Great Britain and Canada, will be registered on the application of the person posting the same, in the same manner and on the same terms as those deliverable in the United States, provided that the full postage chargeable thereon to destination, together with a registration fee of twenty cents on each letter to Great Britain or Ireland, and five cents on each letter to the other places mentioned above, is prepaid at the mailing office. Such letters should be mailed and forwarded to the respective United States exchange offices in the same manner as domestic registered letters are mailed to those offices.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS, ETC.

Letters addressed to Great Britain and Ireland are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, a single rate being charged for each half ounce, &c.

Letters in the mail to France are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of one quarter ounce; double rate if exceeding a quarter, but not exceeding half an ounce; and so on, an additional rate being charged for each quarter ounce or fractional part of a quarter ounce. Letters addressed to the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, and the British North American Provinces, are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, one rate being charged for each half ounce or fractional part of half an ounce. Postmasters, should be careful, where the postage is prepaid, to collect the proper amount. They should be particular to notice the route indicated on the envelopes of letters, and to collect postage accordingly. Letters mailed at some offices, marked "via England," or "via Prus'n closed mail," for a German State, are frequently taken upon the prepayment of Bremen rates, and those marked "via Bremen," at Prussian closed rates, &c.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS GOING VIA FRANCE

In the case of letters to be forwarded in the British mail for transmission from England via "Marseilles," the French postage is rated at 6 cents the quarter ounce, except on letters for Java, China, Labuan, Borneo, Japan, the Moluccas and Philipine Islands, which are rated at eight cents per half ounce, and except, also, on letters for Syria and Tunis, by French packet, when the single French rate is 12 cents per quarter ounce.

The rates by "French mail" are in full to destination, except to the following places, viz.: Aden, Batavia, Ceylon, China, cities of Turkey, in Europe, except as herein mentioned, via Austria, countries to which correspondence can be sent via Suez, countries beyond seas, via France, other than those enumerated, East Indies, Gibralter, Hong Kong, Java, Mauritius, Montenegro, Penang, Portugal, Isle of Re-Union, Servia, (except Belgrade,) Shanghai, Singapore and Spain. The limit of prepayment to Spain, Portugal and Gibralter, is Behobia; to Servia, (except Belgrade,) Montenegro, and cities of Turkey in Europe, except as herein mentioned, "via Austria;" the frontier of Turkey and Austria; to Aden, East Indies, Ceylon, China, and other countries via Suez, the seaports of the Indies, or of the sea of China to which the English packets ply; and to places beyond seas, other than those designated, the limit is the port of arrival in the country of destination.

RATES ON PAMPHLETS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

On pamphlets and magazines, to or from the West coast of South America, the United States postage is four cents; and to or from all other foreign countries, (except Great Britain, Belgium, and the German States, via Bremen or Hamburg mail,) two cts. per 4 oz. or fraction thereof, to be collected in all cases in the United States.

Newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries (particularly to the continent of Europe) must be sent in narow bands, open at the sides or ends; otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage.

ROUTES OF TRANSMISSION, ETC.

To prevent mistakes at the exchange offices, it is desirable that the particular routes by which letters are to be forwarded from the United States to Europe, should be distinctly written on the covers. Letters intended for transmission in the open mail to England, should bear the direction "open mail via England;" if for transmission in the French mail, they should be directed, "via France in French mail;" if for transmission by closed mail to Prussia, they should be directed "via Prussian closed mail;" if for transmission in the closed mail to Belgium, they should be directed "via Belgian closed mail;" and if for transmission by the New York and Bremen line to Bremen, or by the New York and Hamburg line to Hamburg, they should be directed "via Bremen," or "via Hamburg."

It is important that letters addressed to Germany and other European countries, via France, where the single rate per quarter ounce is 21 cents, should be plainly marked to be sent via France; otherwise they may be missent in the open mail to Liverpool by United States packet, the 21 cent rate per half ounce being also chargeable on letters thus forwarded.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the third section of the act entitled "An act to establish a postal money order system," approved May seventeen, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, be, and the same is hereby, amended so as to authorize the issuing of a money order for any sum not to exceed fifty dollars, and that the charge or fee for an order for a sum not exceeding twenty dollars shall be ten cents; for an order exceeding twenty dollars shall be twenty-five cents.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That a money order shall be valid and payable when presented to the deputy postmaster on whom it is drawn within one year after its date, but for no longer period; and in case of a loss of a money order a duplicate thereof shall be issued without charge, on the application of the remitter or payee, who shall make the required proofs; and postmasters at all money order offices are hereby authorized and required to administer to the applicant or applicants in such cases the required oath or affirmation free of charge.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That all railroad companies carrying the mails of the United States shall convey without extra charge, by any train which they may run over their roads, all such printed matter as the Postmaster General shall, from time to time, direct to be transported thereon with the persons in charge of the mails designated by the Post Office Department for that purpose.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That if any person or persons shall wilfully and maliciously injure deface, or destroy any mailable matter deposited in any letter-box, pillar-box, or other receiving boxes established by authority of the Postmaster General of the United States for the safe deposit of matter for the mails or for delivery, or shall wilfully aid and assist in injuring such mailable matter so deposited as aforesaid, every such offender, being thereof duly convicted shall, for every such offence, be fined not more than five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned not more than three years, at the discretion of the court.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That whenever it shall become expedient, in the opinion of the Postmaster General, to substitute a different kind of postage stamps for those now in use, he shall be, and is hereby, authorized to modify the existing contract for the manufacture of postage stamps so as to allow to the contractors a sum sufficient to cover the increased expenses, if any, of manufacturing the stamps so substituted.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That section two of the act entitled "An act to establish salaries for postmasters, and for other purposes," approved July one, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, be amended by adding the following: Provided, That when the quarterly returns of any postmaster of the third, fourth, or fifth class show that the salary allowed is ten per centum less than it would be on the basis of commissions under the act of eighteen hundred and fifty-four, fixing compensation, then the Postmaster General shall review and readjust under the provisions of said section.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That whenever the Postmaster General shall require special agents of the Post Office Department to collect or disburse the public moneys accruing from postages such special agent or agents, when so employed, shall, prior to entering upon such duty, give bond in such sum, in such form, and with such security, as the Postmaster General may approve.

Approved, June 12, 1866.

Sections 1 and 2 of the foregoing act make important changes in existing laws and regulations, and greatly simplify the work of mailing and delivering letters.

No postage is to be charged on letters forwarded from one office to another, or on dead letters returned to the writers, and consequently, no account of them is to be kept. Articles and 11 in the account current will in future be useless.

"Request Letters" (described in the regulations of 1866, sections 394 to 399) are also to be restored to the writers free of postage. No account of them is to be taken in post bills or mails sent.

Postmasters are expected by all means to encourage the endorsement of requests for the return to the writers of unclaimed letters, so as to reduce the number of dead letters. Any postmaster sending such letters to this Department, regardless of the request, will subject himself to severe censure.

The section limiting the amount for which a Money Order may be drawn has been so amended as to authorize the issuing of Money Orders for any sum not to exceed fifty dollars, and that the charge or fee for an order not exceeding twenty dollars shall be ten cents, and for an order for more than twenty and not exceeding fifty dollars, twenty-five cents.

Postmasters are hereby instructed, that when the sum to be remitted in favor of the same payee, and payable at the same office, is more than twenty dollars, and not exceeding fifty dollars, to issue but one order therefor. A violation of this rule will be regarded as a fraud upon the revenue of the Department.

A Money Order issued on and after the 2d of July, 1866, shall be valid and payable when presented to the postmaster on whom it is drawn within one year after its date, but for no longer period.

In case of the loss of a Money Order, a duplicate thereof shall be issued without charge, on the application of the remitter or payee, who shall make the required proofs; and postmasters at all Money Order offices are hereby authorized and required to administer to the applicant or applicants in such cases the required oath or affirmation free of charge. The revenue stamp of five cents will, however, be required.

Any postmaster claiming a readjustment of salary under the 8th section of the new law, must make to the First Assistant Postmaster General, under oath, a special exhibit of the whole amount of stamps canceled—that is, the amount of postage prepaid by stamps on letters originally mailed at his office during a period of not less than two quarters—also a statement of other items of postage on which commissions were estimated under the act of 1854.

ADDITIONAL INSTRUCTIONS.

MONTHLY REGISTERS.

Sections 109 and 110, Post Office Regulations published 1866, page 20, having been rescinded by order of the Postmaster General, 15th of June, 1866, postmasters will in future return registers once a month only for all kinds of service, and report all failures or irregularities immediately by letter, with the cause thereof.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

Sections 315 and 361 of the Post Office Regulations, published 1866, are modified, by order of the Postmaster General, so that from the 1st of October, 1866, the advertising of letters and newspapers is restricted to first-class offices.

At all other offices, after the date named above, postmasters must discontinue such advertising, and in place thereof post manuscript lists of unclaimed letters in a conspicuous place. These lists must be carefully corrected, so as to distinguish the letters delivered from those returned, and forwarded to the Dead Letter Office with returns of dead letters.

N. B.—Under no circumstances will allowances be made, after the 1st of October, 1866, to postmasters, other than at first-class offices, for advertising letters in newspapers.

REQUEST ENVELOPES.

Section 187 of the Post Office Regulations, published 1866, is so far modified as to allow postmasters to receive orders for envelopes bearing a business card, and request to return to a particular address, in quantities of 500 and upward, instead of 1,000, as heretofore.

WILLIAM DENNISON,
Postmaster General.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, July 1, 1866.

P. O. INNUBBIUS N. Y.

Editor U. S. Mail:—I am postmaster in as snug a little place as there is in the United States. I close my office at 7 P. M., comforming therein to Section 27 of new regulations, which requires a P. O. to be kept open the usual hours of business. I try to make mine a "model office," hence sometimes after it is closed for the day, and the clerks have left, I sit down in my arm chair, elevate my feet supporting them on my desk, take my pipe, (I smoke sometimes, but not at improper times) and then think over the affairs of the day, to learn where there is room for improvement in the conduct of my office. I did this one evening not long since, I had that day received the June number of The Mail, and the article entitled "Mail and Female losses" had made a deep impression on my mind, this impression was deepened by the fact that soon after reading the article, I was obliged to listen to a "complaint" in which the honesty and efficiency of myself, my clerks, and my "model office" were called in question in terms more forcible than convincing, a characteristic, I believe of most post office complaints. I may be getting a little garrulous, but I trust you will excuse this, seeing I am a trifle fussy in post office matters. Well, as I was proceeding to say, on this particular evening I thought I would sit awhile by myself, in my office, in the hope that, on the Homoœpathic principle, a cloud of smoke about my head would clear away the cloud of doubt within it. "The Post Mistress" hangs directly over my desk, and this evening I was so placed that I could look squarely at it. And by and by, as the smoke soared away from my lips in those beautiful spiral clouds so admired by smokers, I fell into a contemplative state of mind, with my eye rested on the picture. What was there in it that soon gave my thoughts a practical turn, and set them to running along clearly and distinctly on the question that had so disturbed me, viz.,—"post office depredations", until they arrived at the "cause" of the "effect." That cause seemed to me twofold, "prying" curiosity, and an "inexcusable" want of money; and first I reasoned on "Curiosity": for I had a representation of that fault before me. In my musing I could see the inquisitive, longing look of some postmaster or postmistress, or clerk, as he or she held up to view a letter, may be for Miss Susan Jones, the address written in a bold business hand. Ah! that is surely from the young merchant, who spent some weeks here last summer,—or may be the letter is one of those delicate little affairs, addressed in a tiny handwriting—very annoying, by the way, to postmasters—to Mr. Augustus Summons, our talented young lawyer, and that is doubtless from Miss Jones' cousin, who last winter set half the young fellows crazy; for who could talk and laugh, and dance and sleigh-ride as she could—and now a letter for Grabem and Keepem, merchants, who are thought to be tottering, must undergo examination. Ah! that lawyer-like hand looks like trouble, indeed. And so letter after letter must be subjected to "prying curiosity." But it is not alone that the addresses are studied, but each letter is turned and twisted and held to the light, and squeezed, in the hope that some little word my be read. Nor are the surmises which are the result of all this examination retained, but they are retailed out, over the tea table, or the store counter, and gathering strength as they go, reach the ears of the interested parties, greatly to their annoyance, if not their sorrow. Nor does this "prying" curiosity stop here—ah no; for now I see some silly clerk whose curiosity overcomes his integrity: he thinks he can just see what this letter says, he can open it and reseal it without its being discovered, but alas! what is that bright new glittering thing that meets his eye? what mean those figures 10 it bears is it a serpent? it might well be, for it puts into his heart a serpent's thought. He is tempted and he yields, he picks up the envelope, examines again the address, thrusts into one pocket a crumpled bit of paper, and into another, the wily serpent; "no one will ever know what became of it nor what office it reached", is his thought, and soon the fire needs a stirring, or he must take a walk, and the crumpled paper disappears forever. The first step taken, I see many more, and follow them till they lead to a prison cell, and on my way I pass much sorrow and misery and want all traceable to this prying curiosity.

But Mr. Editor I have already made my letter so long, that I will defer to another time, how I reasoned on "inexcusable want of money", and also some suggestions to those officials employed in handling mail matters.

Yours truly, NICOTINUS.

Another Bogus Special Agent.

One of those periodical nuisances, who from time to time manage to impose upon too credulous Postmasters and others in the falsely assumed character of a Special Agent of the Post Office Department, has made his appearance at the West. Below we give some of the statements of the western press in regard to his operations:

PASS HIM AROUND.—We learn that a man named J. E. Vinton, is traveling through the country and representing himself as a Special Postal Agent. In this way he has managed to get "dead headed" over steamboat and stage lines. We have good authority for saying that the fellow is an impostor. At last accounts he was traveling through the Boise country. Our friends of the press will pass his name around, and thus warn stage men and postmasters against the imposition.—Walla Walla Statesman.

The sanctimonious cuss passed through Boise City and has gone to Montana to play out his game. We heard of him down on the road toward Walla Walla playing himself off for a Special Agent and Methodist preacher, calling upon "the brethren" at different places, and promising them each a Post Office, but were not then quite sure to "open him," and so waited for him to arrive in town. It appears now that he came and went several weeks ago, being seen in this city by only a few persons, but not without borrowing sundry little sums of money of some unsuspecting though benevolent citizens here. This Vinton takes a hand at temperance lecturing sometimes, or almost anything that will give him an audience and a "pass" We advise our exchanges to the east of us to have an eye on him.—Idaho Statesman.

The individual above referred to is a peripatetic temperance lecturer, one-horse politician and bummer. In the assumed character of an Agent of the Post Office Department, he traveled from California overland to Portland; thence up the Columbia river to Wallula; thence overland to Boise City; thence on the Salt Lake route as far as Bear river, and thence into Montana Territory, passing free over the entire distance; paying few hotel bills, but borrowing money from postmasters and others on the route. It is estimated that the gross amount out of which he swindled mail contractors and others on the trip, falls little short of a thousand dollars. At Helena he was detected and exposed by Postal Agent Lawrence. Vinton was fortunate enough to escape being hanged by the people, but they notified him to leave the country immediately. At last advices he was seen passing out of the town, making most eloquent time on the back of a dilapidated mule. Pass him around.—Dalles (Oregon) Daily Mountaineer.

There is no necessity for Postmasters being deceived by impostors similar to the above. Every Special Agent of the Post Office Department is able (and should in all cases of doubt be required) to produce a commission signed by the Postmaster General and bearing the seal of the Department (an engraved copy of which will be found at the head of the first column of the second page of this paper). Postmasters, Mail Contractors or other persons who lend money to, or obey orders from unknown self-styled Special Agents who cannot produce such a document, do so at their own risk.

In addition to the above test, another quite as effectual will be found in the following order issued by the Postmaster General.

ORDER IN RELATION TO SPECIAL AGENTS' COMMISSIONS.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
APPOINTMENT OFFICE,
Washington March 21, 1866.

Ordered: All commissions of Special Agents of this Department held by persons other than those named in the annexed list, of a date prior to the date hereof, are hereby cancelled and annulled; and no Railroad Company or other mail contractor in the United States will be required to recognize the same.

Such commissions as may be hereafter issued by the Postmaster General, or the Acting Postmaster General, will be respected and recognized by all mail contractors.

Obituary.

Information has been received at the Post Office Department of the death, by an accident on the Reading Railroad, of MR. THOMAS DORNAN, of Pottsville, Pa., one of the oldest contractors in the service of the Department. Mr. Dornan was a man of great perseverance and energy of character, which enabled him to overcome obstacles in the fulfilment of his obligations to the Department which would have been insuperable to most other men. This disposition was signally displayed by him, some years ago, to the great advantage of the Department, by his undertaking, and successfully accomplishing, the difficult task of running an important mail in opposition to an influential and powerful railroad corporation with which the Department had a difficulty in regard to the rate of compensation. The company demanded what was deemed an exorbitant price for the service, and, with a view of forcing the acceptance of their terms, threw down the mails and refused to have anything to do with them. Mr. Dornan made a proposition to convey them over the route in coaches, and to deliver them in as good time as the railroad company had done. This proposition was accepted; and, for a reasonable compensation, he performed the service with such regularity and promptness as to convince the company that the Department was not to be forced into their terms for the want of competition on the route. They receded from their extravagant demands and agreed to convey the mails upon reasonable terms, deeming it more prudent to accept a smaller compensation for their services than to bear the discredit of having been successfully competed with, and sometimes actually beaten, by a stage driver. At the time of his death Mr. Dornan was the contractor for conveying the mails between the Post Office in Philadelphia and the several railroad stations in that city; and also upon several minor routes in the State of Pennsylvania. His death is a loss to the mail service.

Postman's Poetry.

In England, letters are carried in the rural districts by what are known as "country-walking postmen." One of them, Edward Capern, "the Wayside Poet", who is mentioned in Elihu Burritt's recent work descriptive of a pedestrian journey through England, thus describes the joys of a carrier's life:

"O! the postman's is as blessed a life
As any one's, I trow,
If leaping the stile o'er many a mile
Can blessedness bestow.

"If tearing your way through a tangled wood,
Or dragging your limbs through a lawn;
If wading knee-deep through an angry flood,
Or a plough'd field newly sown,—

"If sweating big drops 'neath a burning sun,
And shiv'ring 'mid sleet and snow;
If drenched to the skin with rain, be fun,
And can a joy bestow;

"If toiling away through a weary week,
(No six days work, but seven)
Without one holy hour to seek
A resting place in heaven;

"If hearing the bells ring Sabbath chimes,
Who bid us all repair
To church (as in the olden times)
And bend the knee in prayer;

"If in these balls he hears a voice—
'To thy delivery!'
God says to every soul 'rejoice,'
But, postman, not to thee.

"Oh, the postman's is a blessed life!
And sighing heavily,
'Ha, ha,' he'll say, alack a-day!
Where's Britain's piety?'

"Heigho! I come and go
Through the muck and miry slough;
Heigho! I come and go,
Heavy at heart and weary O!

"Heigho! Heigho!
Does any one pray for the postman? No!
No! no! no! no!
Or he would not be robbed of his Sabbath so!"

It is gratifying to know that this poetical complaint led to an amelioration of his condition by his official superiors, who increased his pay of ten shillings and six-pence per week, and relieved him from his Sunday labors.

Registering Letters.

"It is of the utmost importance that postmasters should exercise the greatest care and diligence in the custody and despatch of registered letters."—Instructions issued by Postmaster General with Act of March 3, 1863.

[We have compiled from the regulations of the Department the following instructions in regard to the registration of letters. They are intended specially for the benefit of postmasters at the smaller offices, and include replies to many questions on this subject, which we are constantly receiving from our subscribers.]

REGISTERED LETTER BLANKS.—All the blanks which are required for use in the registration of letters can be obtained by addressing the Blank Agents of the Department, whose names and addresses will be found in another column.

REGISTRATION FEES.—The registration fee on all registered domestic letters is twenty cents, and the same on letters to Great Britain and Ireland. On those to Canada, and to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line, or by Prussian closed mail, the fee is five cents. The places mentioned above are the only foreign countries to which letters can be sent registered. The full postage on all registered letters, both foreign and domestic, must be prepaid by stamps.—(See last column of fourth page of this paper.)

RECEIVING LETTERS FOR REGISTRATION.—A sheet is furnished by the Blank Agents, on application by postmasters, on the right hand of which is printed the form of "Registered Letter Receipt," in the centre the "Return Registered Letter Receipt," and on the left hand the "Marginal Entry." When a letter is presented for registration, the postmaster should give to the depositor the registered letter receipt, (right hand) first entering therein the registered number of the letter, the date of deposit, the name of his post office, the name and residence of the depositor, and the address of the letter. In the Return Registered Letter Receipt, (centre) should be entered the same items, and also in the Marginal Entry, (left hand.) This latter is to be retained by the postmaster, and the return receipt disposed of as hereinafter directed. No entry of the sum said to be contained in the letter is required to, or should, be made.

PREPARING REGISTERED LETTERS FOR MAILING.—After the above directions have been followed, the postmaster will fill up a "Registered Letter Bill," (which is printed on the back of the ordinary post-bills headed "Unpaid Letters," which are supplied to all small offices,) entering therein the same items which are entered in the "Return Receipt;" but being careful, when intending to forward the registered letter through a Distributing Post Office, to insert the name of that office instead of that of the office which the letter is intended finally to reach. (In all cases, however, the "Return Receipt" must be filled up with the name of the office of final destination.) Then he will fill up the "Return [illegible] Receipt") in the same manner; then enclose the letter, the "Registered Letter Bill" and the "Return Receipt" in a sealed envelope, marked "Reg." or "Registered," and addressed to the postmaster of the office to which he intends to forward it.—[N. B. The instruction printed on the present "Registered Letter Bills," to the effect that postmasters are "not required to put up registered letters in a separate envelope," &c., has been rescinded by the Department, and all registered letters are now required to be so put up.] Then he will enclose it in a wrapper, marked with the name of the same office to which he has addressed the envelope in which he has placed the letter. The package should then be placed in the mail and sent forward—but should never be placed in a bundle of letters intended for distribution—as a registered letter is always intended to reach the postmaster of whatever office it is sent to, and consequently is not, strictly speaking, a distribution letter, although it may be sent to a Distributing Office.

MAILING REGISTERED LETTERS.—It is advisable for postmasters, at all small offices, to mail such of their registered letters as are intended for offices outside of their respective States, to the first Distributing Post Office on the route over which it is intended the letters shall pass—being careful to address the sealed envelope in which they enclose them, to the postmaster of that office, and also marking the name of that office on the wrapper, and being sure that the "Registered Letter Bill" is also filled up with the name of that office. In short, registered letters sent through a Distributing Post Office, should be mailed and billed exactly the same as though they were intended for delivery there. It is only when registered letters are sent direct that the bill should be filled up with the name of the office of final destination.

THE "RETURN BILL."—This should be filled up exactly in the same manner, and bear the same date as the "Registered Letter Bill," but should be sent in the next mail which leaves the office after the one in which the letter it refers to was sent. It should be enclosed in an envelope addressed to the postmaster of the same office to which the letter was sent, whether for delivery or for distribution.

ACCOUNTS OF REGISTERED LETTERS "SENT" AND "RECEIVED."—Separate blank sheets for these accounts are furnished by the Department, and may be procured by application to the different Blank Agents. On these are entered the dates of receiving (and sending) registered letter bills, the names of the offices to which the letters are sent (and from which they are received,) the registered numbers of the letters, the names of the persons to whom they are addressed, and the amounts of the registry fees paid on them. These sheets will be retained by postmasters, copies being forwarded to the Department with the Quarterly Accounts.

DELIVERY OF REGISTERED LETTERS.—On receiving a registered letter for delivery, the postmaster should deliver it only to the person to whom it is addressed, or to some person whom he knows to be authorized to receive it, taking a receipt therefor, and also requiring the person to whom he delivers it to sign the "Return Receipt" which accompanies it. This "Return Receipt" he should then forward by first mail to the postmaster of the office at which the letter was originally mailed. When the "Return Bill" arrives, (which it should by next mail after the letter,) it should be marked "correct," and signed by the postmaster, and then forwarded by first mail to the postmaster of the office at which it is dated, whether that be a Distributing Office or the one at which the letter was originally mailed. If, however, a "Return Bill" arrives, and the letter which it calls for has not been received, the "Return Bill" must be marked "not received," signed by the postmaster, and returned in the same manner.

FORWARDING REGISTERED LETTERS.—When a registered letter arrives, addressed to a person who has removed, or who for any other cause wishes it forwarded to him at another office, it may be done at his written request. The order to forward should be posted on the account of registered letters received, opposite the name of the person making the request. The letter should then be sent forward as a registered letter—in the same manner as if originally mailed as one; but no additional registry fee is to be charged on it. The order to forward must be filed in the office of forwarding, as a voucher for the action had in the case.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,

The following Official Order has also been made by the Postmaster General:

Ordered, That the Assistant Postmasters General, and Chief Clerk of this Department, each cause to be furnished from time to time to J. ### Special Notice to Subscribers.

Each wrapper enclosing a copy of the Mail bears a number in addition to the address. This number signifies that the term for which the subscription is paid expires with the corresponding whole number of the paper. Subscribers will please take this as a notification to forward the subscription for another year, when due, if they intend to renew. Those whom this number reaches, marked 69 or 70, will please remit at once.

☞ Although it is our desire and endeavor that our paper should appear on the first of each month, yet it is sometimes, owing to various circumstances, impossible to secure that result. Important changes in the laws and regulations occasionally occur at such times as to require, for the benefit of our readers, that our issue should be postponed for a few days in order to enable us to lay the details of such changes before them at as early a date as possible, instead of allowing a month to elapse before their publication. Our subscribers will therefore readily understand that a short delay in receiving their papers is sometimes unavoidable, and that when such delay occurs, it is the result of a desire to give them advantage of the latest official information on the postal matters.

POSTAGE TO THE NETHERLANDS, IN BRITISH MAIL, VIA ENGLAND.—We are requested to state that hereafter the full postage to destination, upon letters transmitted, via England, between the United States and the Netherlands, may be pre-paid or not, at the option of the senders.

The single rate, per half ounce or under, is 27 cents, prepayment optional.

POSTAGE TO THE DUTCH WEST INDIES BY FRENCH MAIL.—We are requested to state that, from the first of July, letters posted in the United States and addressed to the Dutch West Indies, (Curacoa, Saba, St. Eustatius, and St. Martin,) may be transmitted to destination, via France, in the French Mail, at a postage charge of 33 cents for each single rate of one quarter ounce or under; prepayment being optional with the sender.

☞ In answer to many inquiries from correspondents we have to say that the Bill lately introduced in Congress to prevent the commission of frauds through the mails, (such as bogus lottery and gift enterprise schemes) has not yet been passed.

[OFFICIAL.]

Below is a copy of an order of the Postmaster General, made June 15, 1866, rescinding the regulations requiring Postmasters to return weekly registers, where the service is six times a week, and monthly registers where the service is once a week or oftener, and directing them instead to return monthly registers only, for all kinds of service, and to report at once, by letter, all failures and irregularities of service as they occur. Hereafter, there will be but one form of register, (the monthly,) which will be furnished to all Postmasters upon application to the Contract Office, Inspection Division.

Ordered: That sections 109 and 110 of the Post Office Regulations (Ware's Edition, 1866,) page 20, be rescinded, and the following adopted in lieu thereof, viz:

Postmasters will report immediately by letter, each failure to arrive, to depart, or to connect, entering it also in the proper place in the register, with the cause, and forward the register at the close of each month, (whether the service is six times a week, more or less,) to the Inspection Division of the Contract Office, and be careful to retain a correct copy of the same.
(Signed) W. DENNISON,

[OFFICIAL].

The following circular has been issued by the Department, and its instructions are designed chiefly to apply to route agents and others connected with the service in the Southern States:

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
CONTRACT OFFICE,
Washington, 1866.

SIR,—You are instructed to observe the following rules, as far as they relate to your own official conduct, and so far as you may be able to enforce their observance upon all others to whom they are applicable, via:

1. The mails of the United States must not be delivered at any Post Office or other place where there is not a regularly appointed postmaster duly commissioned, or other authorized agent, duly appointed and sworn, according to law, to receive them.

2. Persons not duly sworn and commissioned as postmasters must not cancel stamps, register letters, receive money in payment of postage on letters not stamped, or marked letters as "paid." Such persons must not sign, as postmasters, certificates or other communications addressed to, or intended for use in the Post Office Department.

3. Route agents and postmasters must return or refuse all letters marked "paid" by persons not duly sworn and commissioned as postmasters.

Respectfully, &c.,
GEO. WM. McLELLAN,
Second Assistant Postmaster General.

Payment of Contractors—Important Decision.

The following is a copy of the decision of the Hon. James Speed, Attorney General of the U.S., in regard to the payment of contractors for services rendered prior to subscribing to the oath required by law.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE,
June 5, 1866.

HON. WM. DENNISON,
Postmaster General:

SIR:—In your letter of the 21st of May you informed me that C. S. LeBaron has conveyed the mail on route No. 6584, running from Pensacola, Florida, to Pollard, Alabama, for the quarter ending March 31st, 1866.

LeBaron did not take the oath prescribed by the act of March 3d 1863, till 4th May 1866. Such being the facts, you desire to know, whether in my opinion, he can be paid for conveying the mail before he took the oath. The question may be best answered by dividing it thus:

1st. Are Contractors for carrying the mail required to take the oath prescribed in the act of the 3d of March 1863?

2d. If Contractors are required to take the oath, is it necessary that they should take it before discharging the duties or performing the service, in order to entitle them to pay?

As to the first:

Looking through the Legislation of Congress from 1792, particularly to the Acts of 1792, 1810 and 1825, considering the opinion of Chief Justice Marshall in the case of the United States vs. Solomon Belew, (2d Brockenborough's reports 280), and being informed of the fact that the Post Office Department has constantly, since the [illegible] Contractors and Mail Carriers to take the oath prescribed in the Acts of 1810 and 1825, and seeing that Mail Contractors and Mail Carriers are as certainly embraced by the terms of the oath prescribed in the Act of 1863, as they were in the oath prescribed in preceding Acts, I cannot doubt but that Mail Contractors should be required to take the oath.

As to the second question:

The Act of March 3, 1863, Section 2d, requires that the Postmaster General, all Postmasters and Special Agents, and all persons employed in the General Post Office, or in the care, custody and conveyance of the mails, hereafter appointed or employed, shall, previously to entering upon the duties assigned to them, or the execution of their trusts, and before they shall be entitled to receive any emoluments therefor, take the prescribed oath, and cause a certificate thereof to be filed in the General Post Office.

It will be perceived, that it is made as much the duty of the Mail Contractors to take the oath, as for the Postmaster General or any other officers of the Department to do so.

There is no difference in this respect under the Act, between officers and employees and Contractors. In one aspect of the case, and probably its chief aspect, the ability to take the oath, and the fact that the oath is taken, are made qualifications as well for employees and Contractors as for officers in the Post Office Department.

It will hardly be contended that the regular officers of the Department could draw their salaries without taking the oath, and as the Act makes no distinction between officers and Contractors, I do not see why the oath is not also a condition precedent in the case of Contractors.

The duties of an office may be performed by one who is not qualified, and who cannot therefore receive the emoluments thereof. So a Contractor may render service for which he is not qualified, and for which he cannot therefore get his reward. Cases of individual hardship may occur under the statute, because parties are not diligent in learning what are the requirements of the law. The cause of such hardship cannot be said to be in the law, but in the party.

I am of opinion that a Contractor for carrying the mail, cannot draw pay from the Department for services rendered or work done prior to his taking the oath, and therefore that you are not warranted by the law in paying LeBaron for services rendered prior to his taking the oath.

JAMES SPEED,
Attorney General.

Postage by British Mail via Marseilles.

In calculating the proper postage to be charged on letters to go by the above route, some of our readers have been rather puzzled, on consulting our Table of Foreign Postages, to find such apparent discrepancies as the following:

To Aden, (British Mail, via Marseilles) 39 cents for a letter not exceeding a quarter-ounce, and but 45 cents for a letter not exceeding a half ounce—being but six cents difference between two letters, one of which is double the weight of the other.

In explanation, we will state that the postage on such letters is divided between the French and British offices—the French share, in the case given above, being 6 cents per quarter-ounce and the British share 33 cents for a half ounce (or less)—France rating by quarter ounces and Great Britain by half ounces (up to one ounce, after reaching which weight, in the case of letters going through England to other countries, a full ounce rate is charged on each ounce or fraction of an ounce.) So a letter to Aden, for instance, sent by this route, and weighing one and a quarter ounces, should be charged $1.32 for the British portion of the postage, and 30 cents (6 cents per quarter ounce) for the French portion—total, $1.62. In some cases the French portion of the postage is greater. For these cases consult the paragraph headed "Rule of Rating Letters going via France," on last column of fourth page.

Post Office Visitors.

Some time since we published an article on Volunteer Post Office Clerks; we now propose a few words on Post Office Visitors. The Post Office Visitor differs from the Volunteer Clerk, in this, he does not assist in distributing a mail, a matter in which nine-tenths of them are ignorant, or have just knowledge enough to make their assistance a source of annoyance, if not loss to many persons, who may be anxiously expecting letters; and yet like the Volunteer Clerk, the Visitor has the happy faculty of getting very much in the way. In most instances he is to be found, or rather he selects the very spot where he ought not to be. Perhaps one reason of this is, that in all offices of moderate size, the multifarious duties of a Post Office may, during some portion of the day, at least, devolve on one clerk, generally on not more than two. If on one clerk, he may have to "tend delivery," sell stamps, listen to a complaint, register a letter, issue a money order, make up a mail, perhaps direct a letter, as the readiest means of getting rid of the person requesting it,—all in rapid succession, and to do all this he requires that his movements should not be unnecessarily impeded; so that there is in a Post Office very little room which is at the undisturbed service of a visitor, unless it be some lonesome nook or corner, which, possessed of none of the attractions of a Post Office, he is sure never to seek.

We have known two or three of these visitors hang around the letter box and delivery window, engaged in conversation with the clerk, or the applicants for letters, and not even having the grace to move in order that access might be had to the letter box, closing up immediately the gap which a patient request has made of sufficient duration to enable the box to be emptied, and repeating this till the patient request became impatient, or was merged in a stern request to leave the way clear. Whereupon these visitors scatter like flies from a molasses cup and return quite as eagerly.

There seems to be a mysterious attraction about a post office; the public show a fondness for assembling even in the outer rooms, some to see and be seen, some in the hope, and a few in the expectation of receiving letters; nor is their conduct such as one would expect. Courteous well bred people have been known to depart from the courtesy that characterizes them, and to fall back to the first principles of every one for himself without regard to his neighbors. But as we are not writing to improve the manners of the world at large, and only aim to improve the inner workings of our post offices, and bring them up to that high standard of efficiency which the age demands, we will bring our article to a close, with a few words of advice: we must condemn the practice of allowing too frequent visits or visitors to a post office. The safety of the mails, the proper putting up of mails, the sacred secrecy that should characterize correspondence, the reputation of the clerks, all demand that human visits should be like those of angels—short and far between.

CAUTION TO ROUTE AGENTS.—A short time ago one of the route agents on a railroad terminating at New York reported that he had found in a crevice in one of the boxes of his distributing case, two letters of an old date, which had accidentally slipped through and lain concealed there for some months. A careful examination of the car was made, and resulted in the finding of over forty letters which had fallen behind the sloping false bottoms of the boxes—some of them having remained there over a year. They had fallen through a space formed by the shrinking of the false bottoms and the backs of the boxes. Route agents would do well to overhaul their cars for these letter-traps.

Answers to Correspondents.

Distributing Packages of Papers to Clubs.—H. P. R., B.—C——, N. Y.——, Postmasters are obliged to separate and deliver from a furnished list of names, all packages of papers on which the postage has been duly paid.

Postage on Foreign Papers.——A. Y.——, N. Y.—There is a United States postage charge, of two cents for four ounces, on all foreign papers, even if the foreign postage is prepaid by stamp.

Wrapping Letters, and procuring Wrapping Papers.—F. J. B. C——, Mo.——1. The practice of wrapping letters has been discontinued only in offices supplied in whole or in part by "Railway Post Offices". 2. If your office yields a revenue of $12.50 a quarter, you are entitled to wrapping paper, and the Blank Agent at Buffalo should furnish it on request.

Opening and Closing P. O.—— E. W. F., K——Ind——The Regulations provide, that "a post office shall be kept open every day except Sunday, during the usual business hours in the place, and when the mail arrives on Sunday one hour or more, if the public convenience require it, after the arrival and assortment thereof, unless it be during the time of public worship."

Postage on papers from Nova Scotia, &c.,—S. K. B., B——, Ill.—Domestic postage must be charged at the office of delivery, on all papers from places out of the United States. For time of opening and closing office see answer preceding.

Postage on Newspapers to Scotland.—A. S., C——, N. Y.——Only United States postage on papers to Scotland, and all other Foreign countries, can be paid: besides this postage, another is charged on delivery. The charge of 10 shillings on the picture of General Grant was no doubt caused by the mode in which it was done up letter postage being charged. The United States has nothing to do with this charge however. All papers for foreign countries should be put up singly, and in narrow wrappers or bands.

Postage Notice to Publisher.—W. W. S., C——C——, Ja., and H. O. N., D——, N. Y. Notices to Publishers of refusal to take papers, should be enclosed in an official envelope to the Postmaster at the publishers place of business.

Internal Revenue Tax on Salary, Postage on Drop Letters.—C. C. S., West R——, Vt.—1. We cannot decide on your tax question, as we know none of the facts: write to the officer who sent you the notice, for an explanation. 2. Postage on drop letters is one cent where there is not a free delivery.

Delivering Mails to Mail Carriers.—C. M., C——, O.—You should not deliver mails to a carrier, until he is ready to take proper charge of them, and leaving them in a Stable or Hotel is not, under ordinary circumstances proper charge.

Marking and Rating Stamps.—A. B., T——, Wis.—For these stamps apply to the appointment office, Washington, D. C.

P. O. Regulations and Money Orders.—L. E. J., C——, Ark.—1. You can obtain the new edition of Regulations by addressing the First Assistant Postmaster General, Washington D. C. —2. Certain offices, are designated by the Department as money order offices, and only such offices can draw or pay money orders. When an office is made a money order office, the postmaster is notified to that effect, and also instructed in the duties required of him, furnished with blanks, and all matters necessary for the business. The printed instruction however can be found in the Nos. of the Mail for October and November 1864.

Money Order Offices.—H. M. O., L——, Ind.—We do not know that postmasters can do anything towards having their offices constituted Money Order Offices; a clear statement of the need and convenience of such an office to a large section of country, sent to the Superintendent M. O. Office Washington D. C. might result in having the application considered, when a new selection is made. See preceding answer.

Closing the doors of a Post Office while opening a Mail.—H. D. C., S——, Minn.—You have a right to close the doors of your office, if necessary, while opening a mail. Postmasters should extend to the public all the courtesy compatible with a proper discharge of their duties; a like courtesy should, however, be extended to them, but closing the doors might subject orderly persons to much inconvenience while waiting, and therefore, to prevent disorder in an outer office, a little "law" is the better remedy.

Delivering Mail Matter only to Person addressed.—W. B., C—— F——, Iowa—If a person gives you a general order not to deliver his mail matter to any one but himself, you are perfectly right in obeying that order, until it is countermanded, unless the party sends a special written order, on which you should deliver his mail matter, and preserve the special order for reference. You did right in keeping cool: there is probably no position that so much calls for coolness and politeness as that of a Post Office Clerk.

Allowance for keeping Mail Registers.—F. V. W., D——, N. J.—Ten cents was allowed for each Monthly Mail Register under the old law of compensation: no such allowance is now made.

Post Offices in Bar Rooms.—H. K., H——, Ind.—We should say Post Offices should not be kept in bar rooms, store houses, or in any place to which it is unfit for a lady to go. The convenience of the public should be consulted in the location of a Post Office, not that of the Postmaster.

Mail Carrier signing Receipts for Packages of Stamps.—E. M. G., H——, O.—Mail Carriers are not required to sign receipts for packages of Stamps, unless they pass through their hands out of a mail pouch.

Altering the Time of sending or receiving Mails.—J. E. S., O—— O.—Such alteration can only be made by orders from the Contract Office, Washington, D. C.

Postage on Internal Revenue Reports.—S. W., A.——Ga., H. H., H——, Texas, and C. P., S—— N. Y.—Internal Revenue Reports, and all matters on Internal Revenue business containing writing, are chargeable with letter postage, unless addressed to Internal Revenue Officers having the franking privilege.

Cards and Circulars.—J. J. S., L——, Ky.—A "slip of paper 2 inches by 4" cannot, it clearly appears to us, be construed to be a "card" within the meaning of the law regulating the rate of postage on cards, circulars, &c. Such a slip of printed paper may be a hand bill or a circular, according to the nature of the matter printed thereon—but the word "cards" as used in the law, is evidently intended to mean what are technically known as such—as business, wedding, visiting, and playing cards, &c.

Time allowed for changing Mail.—P. M., O—— Texas.—Seven minutes is the time allowed for changing a mail, but if with due diligence this time is not sufficient, a driver is not allowed to drive on without the mail.

Office of Fourth Class sending Dead Letters to Dead Letter Office — C. O. J., H——, N. Y.—The new regulations require offices where the salary is $500 or more, to advertise once a week in newspapers, and to forward their Dead Letters weekly, about one month after they are advertised. See Additional Instructions, 1st page.

Disposing of old accounts, &c.—P. S., R——, Mich.—1. Accounts more than two years old may be sold and the amount credited to the Department. 2. If a letter arrives at your office addressed to a person whom you know resides in another place of similar name, you should not forward it, but you might address the Postmaster of that place, requesting him to inform the party that such a letter is in your office. 3. We do not see how a Justice of the Peace, or Notary, can administer an oath to himself. 4. The new regulations are furnished to Postmasters, and charged in their accounts at two dollars a copy.

Enclosing Hand Bills in Newspapers.—S. J. B., S——, O.—Hand Bills or Circulars cannot be enclosed in county papers without subjecting the whole to letter postage.

Carrying Mails between Depot and Post Office.—C. C. B., W——, Ind.—Railroad and Steamboat contractors are obliged to deliver the mails if the Post Office is within 80 rods of a station or landing; the Railroad Company must deliver the mails at your office, if it is within that distance, at whatever cost, therefore you are not obliged to carry them unless you see fit.

Franking to a Member of Congress.—T. S., A——, O.——, C. E. T., H. H——N. Y.—Letters or papers on any business whatever, can be sent free to a Member of Congress.

Disposition of Newspapers Published in County, and not taken from the Office.—L. M. T., P——, N. J.—Such papers are to be sold and the proceeds credited to the Department.

Publishers of County Papers enclosing Circulars.—G. O. O., E——, N. Y.—In all cases where you find a circular enclosed in a regular paper, passing free through the mail, or delivered free from a Post Office, or charged with the regular quarterly postage, the whole package must be charged with letter postage. Where the paper is published in the same town, the Postmaster must either collect letter postage or refuse to deliver the papers.

Procuring order to receive Mails twice a-day.—J. E. S., O——, O.—You would have to procure an order. Write to the Contract Office, Washington, D. C.

Newspapers to News Dealers.—H. C. C., V——, Miss—Your letter states the law correctly; "News dealers may pay the postage on their packages of newspapers and periodicals as received, at the same rates that actual subscribers thereto pay quarterly in advance."

Forwarding Letters.—W. L. H., P——, Me. C. R. G., P——, Va.—See the new law on this subject, published in this number of the Mail.

Office Furniture, Marking Stamps, &c.—J. N. R., P—— City, Iowa.—A plain desk is allowed to all offices in which the net proceeds amount to at least five dollars a quarter. For permission to procure this desk, write to the First Assistant P. M. Gen., Washington, D. C.

Delivering Papers Published in the same Town.—H. J. B., A——, Ind.—As this question has occasioned much discussion, we give in full the decision of the Department: "It is no part of the duty of a postmaster to receive and deliver to subscribers any other newspapers than those which come in the mail. Through courtesy, sometimes a postmaster receives a few papers from the office of publication, and hands them to subscribers calling for them, without charge; but this even should not be done when it interferes with the legitimate business of his office. In other words, a postmaster is not required to receive newspapers printed in his town, and deliver them to subscribers; but should he receive and deliver them, no charge can be made for so doing, unless in a large city where letter carriers are employed; then a contract should be made, under the 15th Section of Act of 1863."

Laws and Regulations.—L. E. J., C——, Ark., and others.—For laws, regulations, and instructions, apply to First Ass't P. M. General, Washington, D. C.

Letter Addresses.

Under guard of the "Hero" this paper please send,
He "tickets it" through and will closely attend;
With "Uncle Sam's aid," it shall go safely there,
By rail, boat, or stage, sent to "A. KING'S" care;
To North Sanford, Broome Co., N. Y., with due speed,
For "MISS MARY KING," to open and read.

To
The President of the Great Union,
Witehouse,
Washington,
D. C.

Miscellaneous Information.

Dead Letters.

By the instructions under the postal laws, UNMAILABLE LETTERS are specified to be—

Letters attempted to be sent with stamps previously used, or stamps cut from stamped envelopes.

Unpaid letters for foreign countries, on which prepayment is required by the regulations.

Letters not addressed, or so badly addressed that their destination cannot be known.

Letters misdirected to places where there are no post offices.

Civilian's letters, (domestic) wholly unpaid, (including unpaid drop letters.)

Only such letters as are herein described are, when deposited in any post office, to be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office; all others must be dispatched to their destination, charged with the amount of unpaid postage.

When unmailable letters are sent to the Dead Letter Office, the specific reason therefor must be endorsed upon the envelope of each.

These instructions will be strictly followed at all post offices.

For more full instructions relating to dead letters, advertising letters, &c., examine carefully Chap. 35, Regulations of 1866, and Sections 1 and 2, Act of June 12, 1866.

Foreign Letters, &c.

RULE FOR RATING LETTERS TO GREAT BRITAIN, &C.

The attention of postmasters is particularly called to the mode of rating postage upon letters exchanged in the mails between this country and the United Kingdom, which differs only in the rate, and not, as heretofore, in the weight or standard. The maximum standard weight is now half an ounce, and the rate is twenty-four cents; postage to Great Britain and Ireland, therefore, is as follows, viz.:

One rate (24 cents) for a single letter not exceeding ½ oz. in weight.

Two rates (48 cents) when over ½, but not exceeding 1 ounce.

Three rates (72 cents) when over 1, but not exceeding 1½ ounces, &c., &c.

Thus, a letter to Great Britain, weighing 4½ ounces, should be paid $2.16, being chargeable with nine rates. All part paid letters to foreign countries are treated as wholly unpaid, and the amount paid lost to the sender.

Letters to foreign countries, where prepayment of postage is compulsory, when insufficiently paid are sent to the Dead Letter Office, to be opened and returned to the writers, and are thereby delayed one or two mails, and, no doubt, in many cases, causing serious loss and annoyance to the writers.

REGISTERING FOREIGN LETTERS.—Letters can be registered in the United States for Great Britain and Ireland, for Germany, or any part of the German Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen, Hamburg or Prussian closed mails. Letters to Canada can be registered, but not to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, or Prince Edward's Island. Postmasters will, therefore, decline to register letters addressed to other foreign countries.

The registry fee to be charged on registered letters to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, via Bremen or Hamburg, or by Prussian closed mail, and to Canada, is five cents—to Great Britain and Ireland, twenty cents. All registered letters must be prepaid in full to destination. See "Foreign Miscellany" on fourth page of this paper, for full information in regard to rating all foreign letters.

Our Postal Convention with the United Kingdom, provides that each country shall levy and collect its postage only, on newspapers, at the rate of two cents each, whether they are sent or received. Hence, newspapers received in this country from Great Britain come prepaid the British postage only, and postmasters must be particular, in all cases, to collect the United States charge of two cents on their delivery.

CANADIAN CORRESPONDENCE.—Irregularities having arisen in respect to Canadian correspondence, these directions must hereafter be observed:

Letters addressed to Canada must be mailed to a United States Exchange Office. Letters cannot be sent direct to Post Offices in Canada.

The postage on a single letter to and from Canada is 10 cents, prepayment optional; but the whole postage must be prepaid or none. Part prepayments are not recognized. Prepayments must be made by United States postage stamps—not in money.

A postmaster may frank a letter to Canada the same as to any point in the United States; but it is optional for the Canadian P. O. Department to deliver such letter free, or charge full postage on it, at its pleasure.

COLLECTIONS IN COIN.—In pursuance of the provisions of a resolution of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails despatched to this country from Great Britain and Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen, or Belgium, are collected in gold or silver coin. Should, however, payment of such postage, and of the premium on a corresponding amount of coin, be tendered in United States notes, the same is to be accepted in lieu of coin. The amount to be collected in U. S. notes, (in case coin is not offered,) is marked on each letter on its arrival at U. S. Exchange Offices, and if charged in the post-bills. Hence, when coin is collected at the office of delivery, the difference should be entered in the account of Mails Received as an overcharge.

The above applies exclusively to the mails received from the countries mentioned

On out-going letters the former regulations remain unchanged, and, when prepaid, the regular rates (in currency) only are to be collected.

POST OFFICE BLANKS.

The agencies for supplying postmasters with blanks are as follows:

DISTRICT No. 1—Supplies blanks for the District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida. Postmasters in either of these States, wanting blanks of any kind, should address "Wm. O. Redden," Blank Agent, Washington, District of Columbia."

DISTRICT No. 2—Supplies blanks for the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, California, Nevada and Oregon, and Washington Territory. Postmasters in either of these States or Territories, wanting blanks of any kind, should address "Beverly Clarke, Blank Agent, New York, N. Y."

DISTRICT No. 3—Supplies blanks for the States of Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, New Mexico, Utah, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska. Postmasters in either of these States, wanting blanks of any kind should address "A. F. Lee, Blank Agent, Buffalo, N. Y.

When the postages collected at an office amount to $100 a year, the name of the postmaster and of his office will be printed on the post bills. When the postmaster's compensation exceeds $12 50 a quarter, the postmaster is entitled to wrapping paper and twine, at the above agencies.

Applications for blank registers of arrival and departure of the mails must be made direct to the "Inspection office." For special instructions, to the First Assistant Postmaster General.

All postmasters whose compensation is less than $12 50 per quarter, can purchase a reasonable quantity of wrapping paper and twine, provided the net proceeds of the office exceed twenty dollars per year.

STAMPS.

Post Offices, the gross receipts of which are over $1,000 per annum, will be furnished with circular marking and rating stamps of class No. 1; less than $1,000 and over $500, with stamps of class No. 2; less than $500 and over $100, with stamps of class No. 4. Applications for these stamps should be made to the Appointment office.

Postmasters at offices, the gross receipts of which are less than $75 per annum, if they use rating stamps must obtain the same at their own expense.

Letter balances, upon the like application, are furnished to offices which collect in postages $75 a year.

MODE OF INDICATING THE PREPAYMENT OF POSTAGE UPON LETTERS RECEIVED FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

When the United States official postage entries on the letters received from Great Britain or the Continent of Europe, are in red ink, the letter is to be considered as paid, and is to be delivered accordingly; when in black ink, as unpaid, and the postage is to be collected on delivery. The postage on such letters is either wholly paid or wholly unpaid. Postmasters can readily decide any question as to prepayment, by this simple criterion.

Domestic Postages.

The law requires postage on all letters, (including those to foreign countries when prepaid,) excepting those written to the President or Vice-President, or members of Congress, or, (on official business) to the chiefs of the executive departments of the government, and the heads of bureaus and chief clerks, and others invested with the franking privilege, to be prepaid by stamps or stamped envelopes, prepayment in money being prohibited. Postmasters can send official letters to other Postmasters free.

All drop letters must be prepaid. The rate of postage on drop letters, at offices where free delivery by carrier is established, is two cents per half ounce or fraction of a half ounce; at offices where such free delivery is not established, the rate is 1 ct.

The single rate of postage on all domestic mail letters throughout the United States is three cents per half ounce, with an additional rate of three cents for each additional half ounce or fraction of a half ounce. The ten cent (Pacific) rate is abolished.

RATES OF LETTER POSTAGE BETWEEN OFFICES IN THE UNITED STATES, AND TO AND FROM CANADA AND OTHER BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES

To and from Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., irrespective of distance.

To and from other British N. Am. Provinces, for distance not over 3,000 miles. ........ 10 cts.

For any distance over 3,000 miles.......... 15 "

For every additional half ounce, or fraction of a half ounce, an additional rate is charged. Prepayment is optional on all letters for the British North American Provinces except Newfoundland, to which prepayment is compulsory.

Letter postage is to be charged on all handbills, circulars, or other printed matter which shall contain any manuscript writing whatever.

Daguerreotypes, when sent in the mail, are to be charged with letter postage by weight.

Photographs on cards, paper, and other flexible material, (not in cases,) can be sent at the same rate as miscellaneous printed matter—viz., two cents for each four ounces or fraction thereof.

Photographic Albums are chargeable with book postage—four cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof.

Newspaper Postage.

Subscribers for short terms—exceeding three months, say four or five months—can pay quarterly postage for the actual term of their subscriptions—that is for one quarter and a third, one quarter and two-thirds, &c. The law only requires that at least one quarter's postage shall be prepaid, and not more than one year's postage. Any term between one quarter and one year can therefore be prepaid at proportionate rates.

They may also state on their respective publications, the date when the subscription expires, to be written or printed.

Religious, Educational and Agricultural Newspapers of small size, issued less frequently than once a week, may be sent in packages to one address at the rate of one cent for each package not exceeding four ounces in weight, and an additional charge of one cent is made for each additional four ounces or fraction thereof, the postage to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance.

NEWSDEALERS may send newspapers and periodicals to regular subscribers at the quarterly rates, in the same manner as publishers, and may also receive them from publishers at subscribers' rates. In both cases the postage to be prepaid, either at the mailing or delivery office.

Publications issued without disclosing the office of publication, or containing a fictitious statement thereof, must not be forwarded by postmasters unless prepaid at the mailing office at the rates of transient printed matter.

Postage on Transient Printed Matter.

[All printed matter (except single copies of news papers, magazines and periodicals to regular subscribers) sent via Overland Mail, is to be charged at letter postage rates.]

BOOKS, not over 4 oz. in weight, to one address, 4 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 8 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 12 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 16 cts.

CIRCULARS, not exceeding three in number, to one address, 2 cts.; over three and not over six, 4 cts.; over six and not over nine, 6 cts.; over nine and not exceeding twelve, 8 cts.

ON MISCELLANEOUS MAILABLE MATTER, (embracing all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, handbills and posters, book manuscripts and proof-sheets, whether corrected or not, maps, prints, engravings, sheet music, blanks, flexible patterns, samples and sample cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes or wrappers, cards, paper, plain or ornamental, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, and scions,) the postage to be pre-paid by stamps, is, on one package to one address, not over 4 oz. in weight, 2 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 4 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 6 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 8 cts.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General, the fifth subdivision of the 42d instruction of the new Post Office Law, has been amended by striking out the word twelve and inserting thirty-two before the word ounces, so that it shall read as follows—"The weight of packages of seeds, cuttings, roots and scions, to be franked, is limited to thirty-two ounces."

All mail matter not sent at letter rates of postage, embracing books, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, and other printed matter, and all other mail matter except seeds, must be so wrapped or enveloped with open sides or ends as to enable the postmaster to examine the package without destroying the wrapper, otherwise such packages must be rated with letter postage. No communication, whether in writing or in print, can be sent with any seeds, roots, cuttings or scions, maps, engravings or other matter not printed, except upon the seperate payment of postage upon each separate matter at the established rates.

Exchange newspapers and periodicals cannot be re-mailed without being chargeable with postage.

Where packages of newspapers or periodicals are received at any post office directed to one address and the names of the club of subscribers to which they belong, with the postage for a quarter in advance, shall be handed to the postmaster, he shall deliver the same to their respective owners. But this does not apply to weekly newspapers which circulate free in the county where printed and published.

Weekly newspapers and all other printed matter to the British North American Provinces, although sent from countries bordering on the line, are chargeable with the same rates as when sent to any point in the United States.

☞ All transient matter must be prepaid by stamps. But if it comes to the office of delivery without prepayment, or short-paid, the unpaid postage must be collected on delivery at double the prepaid rate. Great neglect exists in the strict quarterly prepayment of postage on printed matter sent to regular subscribers. No such paper should be delivered, unless it is either prepaid at the mailing office, or at the delivery office for at least a quarter. If not so prepaid, postmasters must collect postage on each copy as on transient matter. If they fail, they will be charged with the full postage due, and in clear cases removed from office for neglect.

To inclose or conceal a letter or other thing (excep bills and receipts for subscription) in, or to write or print anything, after its publication, upon any newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, is illegal, and subjects such printed matter, and the entire package of which it is a part, to letter postage.

Any word or communication, whether by printing, writing, marks or signs, upon the cover or wrapper of a newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, other than the name and address of the person to whom it is to be sent, and the date when subscription expires, subjects the package to letter postage.

DEXHEIMER'S COMBINED STAMPING CUSHION AND PAD.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, Washington, August 9, 1865.

SIR—Your favor of the 28th ult., with model of a new Stamping Tablet and Cushion, is received. The merit of your invention is perceptible at a glance, and has my hearty approval. The plan of its arrangement, together with its compact and portable form, are such as to recommend it to general use. I have no doubt, that its adoption by postmasters would tend to give a plainer post-mark upon letters, as well as a better defacement of the postage stamp. You have, therefore, the best wishes of this Department for its introduction among the various post offices of the country.

Very respectfully,
A. N. ZEVELY,
3d Ass't Postmaster General.

CHRISTIAN DEXHEIMER,
Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The inventor of the combined Stamping Cushion and Pad, above referred to, is now prepared to furnish the same, "ready for use," to postmasters and others at the following rates:

No. 1, $6.00; No. 2, $3.50. Also, the best prepared Stamping Ink furnished by the pound or less.

CHR. DEXHEIMER,
Post Office Clerk,

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

TO THE BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

| | |
| Cape Breton, Pr'e Edward's Island, and Nova Scotia. To Newfoundland prepayment required. To Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., any distance. | * 10 cents when not over 3,000 miles from the line of crossing. * 15 cents when distance exceeds 3,000 miles. Prepayment optional. |

Steamers of the Cunard line sail from Boston twice each month, touching at Halifax, and when letters are sent by that conveyance for Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Prince Edward's Island, the U. S. postage is 5 cents the single rate, to be prepaid. The inland rate is collected on delivery. On newspapers by this route, the postage is two cents each.

Newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and sent to regular subscribers in the British North American Provinces, or published in those Provinces and sent to regular subscribers in the United States, are chargeable with the regular prepaid quarterly rates of United States postage to and from the line; which postage must be collected at the office of mailing in the United States on matter sent, and at the office of delivery in the United States on matter received. In like manner, such matter, if transient, is chargeable with the regular domestic transient printed matter rates to and from the line, to be collected at the office of mailing or delivery in the United States, as the case may be. Editors, however, may exchange free of expense.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS.

Valuable letters for Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line via New York, or by the Prussian closed mail via New York and Boston, as also letters addressed to Great Britain and Canada, will be registered on the application of the person posting the same, in the same manner and on the same terms as those deliverable in the United States, provided that the full postage chargeable thereon to destination, together with a registration fee of twenty cents on each letter to Great Britain or Ireland, and five cents on each letter to the other places mentioned above, is prepaid at the mailing office. Such letters should be mailed and forwarded to the respective United States exchange offices in the same manner as domestic registered letters are mailed to those offices.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS, ETC.

Letters addressed to Great Britain and Ireland are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, a single rate being charged for each half ounce, &c.

Letters in the mail to France are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of one quarter ounce; double rate if exceeding a quarter, but not exceeding half an ounce; and so on, an additional rate being charged for each quarter ounce or fractional part of a quarter ounce. Letters addressed to the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, and the British North American Provinces, are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, one rate being charged for each half ounce or fractional part of half an ounce. Postmasters, should be careful, where the postage is prepaid, to collect the proper amount. They should be particular to notice the route indicated on the envelopes of letters, and to collect postage accordingly. Letters mailed at some offices, marked "via England," or "via Prus'n closed mail," for a German State, are frequently taken upon the prepayment of Bremen rates, and those marked "via Bremen," at Prussian closed rates, &c.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS GOING VIA FRANCE

In the case of letters to be forwarded in the British mail for transmission from England via "Marseilles," the French postage is rated at 6 cents the quarter ounce, except on letters for Java, China, Labuan, Borneo, Japan, the Moluccas and Philipine Islands, which are rated at eight cents per half ounce, and except, also, on letters for Syria and Tunis, by French packet, when the single French rate is 12 cents per quarter ounce.

The rates by "French mail" are in full to destination, except to the following places, viz.: Aden, Batavia, Ceylon, China, cities of Turkey, in Europe, except as herein mentioned, via Austria, countries to which correspondence can be sent via Suez, countries beyond seas, via France, other than those enumerated, East Indies, Gibralter, Hong Kong, Java, Mauritius, Montenegro, Penang, Portugal, Isle of Re-Union, Servia, (except Belgrade,) Shanghai, Singapore and Spain. The limit of prepayment to Spain, Portugal and Gibralter, is Behobia; to Servia, (except Belgrade,) Montenegro, and cities of Turkey in Europe, except as herein mentioned, "via Austria;" the frontier of Turkey and Austria; to Aden, East Indies, Ceylon, China, and other countries via Suez, the seaports of the Indies, or of the sea of China to which the English packets ply; and to places beyond seas, other than those designated, the limit is the port of arrival in the country of destination.

RATES ON PAMPHLETS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

On pamphlets and magazines, to or from the West coast of South America, the United States postage is four cents; and to or from all other foreign countries, (except Great Britain, Belgium, and the German States, via Bremen or Hamburg mail,) two cts. per 4 oz. or fraction thereof, to be collected in all cases in the United States.

Newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries (particularly to the continent of Europe) must be sent in narow bands, open at the sides or ends; otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage.

ROUTES OF TRANSMISSION, ETC.

To prevent mistakes at the exchange offices, it is desirable that the particular routes by which letters are to be forwarded from the United States to Europe, should be distinctly written on the covers. Letters intended for transmission in the open mail to England, should bear the direction "open mail via England;" if for transmission in the French mail, they should be directed, "via France in French mail;" if for transmission by closed mail to Prussia, they should be directed "via Prussian closed mail;" if for transmission in the closed mail to Belgium, they should be directed "via Belgian closed mail;" and if for transmission by the New York and Bremen line to Bremen, or by the New York and Hamburg line to Hamburg, they should be directed "via Bremen," or "via Hamburg."

It is important that letters addressed to Germany and other European countries, via France, where the single rate per quarter ounce is 21 cents, should be plainly marked to be sent via France; otherwise they may be missent in the open mail to Liverpool by United States packet, the 21 cent rate per half ounce being also chargeable on letters thus forwarded.

A Raid on the Mail Swindlers.

At the beginning of the present quarter, Postmaster Kelly, of New York, notified about forty gentlemen, who up to that time had rented boxes at the Post Office, that they would no longer be allowed the privilege, and that their letters would thereafter be delivered according to their addresses by carriers. Nearly all the individuals thus notified belonged to that benevolent class who have for so long employed the mails in notifying the residents of the rural districts, through circulars, ("strictly confidential,") of their willingness to insure for $10 "a prize of at least $5,000" in mythical lotteries "on the Havana plan"—better known, perhaps, as the "dead open-and-shut" plan; to furnish a "patent screw and lever gold composite oreide double-jointed hunting and fishing-cased high pressure self-winding never-stopping chronometer," marked at $250, for the ridiculous sum of $5 24; to give to each of 10,000 agents $5,000 a year, $25 a day, and 90 per cent. commission on sales of "an article used every day by everybody;" to send the celebrated "Family Nuisance Sewing Machine" for $5; to dispose of the "bankrupt stock of a large jewelry importing house"—which, though worth some millions of dollars, would seem to have been confided by the credulous creditors to the charge of a seedy-looking personage with a dyed moustache, occasionally frequenting a dusty 7x9 back office up five flights of stairs in Nassau street;—in short, to swindle and defraud by every means their rascally ingenuity can devise. Others were dealers in obscene literature and art, "marked back playing cards," &c.

This proceeding on the part of Mr. Kelly created dire consternation in the ranks of the mail swindlers. They were thereby deprived of the advantage of advertising themselves as box holders, which fact had hitherto acted as a sort of endorsement of their business standing, and a number of them made strenuous efforts to have the order rescinded, but without success. One of them—a fellow of infinite brass, who has carried on various swindling schemes under a variety of names—has resorted to an ingenious dodge [illegible]nteract the disastrous effect of this bomb-shell in the camp of the Jeremy Diddlers by issuing a circular, in which, among other lies, he pompously announces, in large type, that he has "discontinued our box at the Post Office." He has the further impudence to advise his customers, in the same circular, never to remit by mail, but always by express—stigmatizing the Post Office as a "rotten concern," to which it is unsafe to entrust letters of value. But the scamp is careful not to send these circulars except to those who have already been foolish enough to remit money to him by mail which of course he can safely pocket and credit its "loss" to the "rotten concern" aforesaid. If he would only take the further precaution to enclose his photograph with the "certificates" he issues, there would be no fear of any of his circulars (not directed to patients in lunatic asylums) eliciting a pecuniary reply, either by mail or express.

The comic papers have taken up the schemes of these rascals as a fitting theme for their comments, and one of them administers the following "first rate notice," in the shape of a burlesque "gift enterprise" circular:

GRAND GIFT ENTERPRISE!

SPLENDID CHANCE TO MAKE A PERMANENT INVESTMENT.

ALL GUARANTEED PRIZES

Who Don't Draw Blanks.

The intense and overpowering benevolence displayed by certain philanthropic gentlemen of this city and elsewhere, as displayed in their eagerness to give everybody and all other persons the choice of numberless articles of immense value for the trifling sum of one dollar, has excited our bump of benevolence, and we propose to arrange a Gift Enterprise which shall eclipse all previous efforts of the kind. We propose to distribute the following (more or less) valuable gifts among the public, on a plan at once simple and satisfactory. We shall print 100,000 "certificates," which we shall dispose of at the rate of 25 cents each; six for 15 cents; or 10 cents per hundred. Agents selling certificates will retain the whole amount, and will (perhaps) receive a liberal salary in addition. They will be required to accept a double-back-action-lever-full-jeweled watch and diamond pin, which it is understood they will hang up in some public place, as samples of our goods.

Each certificate will name some article which the person can have by sending us one dollar. On receiving the money it is to be optional with us whether to send the article or not. This rule, adopted by nearly all gift concerns, has worked entirely satisfactorily—to the proprietors. All articles not proving exactly as we represent them may be returned to us (express charges paid) on payment of an additional fifty cents.

We are enabled to make these liberal engagements owing to the inflated currency, the panic in England, high rents and the extremely warm weather.

The following will give an idea of the style and desirableness of our articles:

[Here follows a cut representing a venerable and badly dilapidated watch.]

The above was the property of Sir Morton Peto. It had been a cherished relic of his grandmother. While in this country a transient pecuniary embarrassment induced him to leave it with a benevolent relative in Chatham street. Circumstances beyond his control prevent his redeeming it. The winner of this prize will no doubt value it as a memorial of the great Sir M. Peto no less than for its intrinsic worth. Its thorough finish will be noticed by the most casual observer.

Monsieur Tonson Again.

Between Boston and Buffalo.

The rumored approach of the cholera, which was positively expected in the early summer months, hurried me away from town, even before I had time to prepare for my usual annual tour; and gathering up a few imperative necessities, and stowing them away in bags and boxes, and arraying myself in my loose garments, covering my head with a new Panama, very high in the crown and very wide in the brim, and saddling my nose with a pair of blue dust goggles, I headed incontinently for the hills and valleys of the Adirondacks. I am free to confess to you that I was dreadfully afraid of becoming a victim to the fell epidemic, for I know how susceptible I am, and the idea of a man of my proportions going through a series of constrictions, contortions, contractions and convulsions, preparatory to a final collapsion, was anything but pleasant, and I aver I lost no time in getting off.

As we whirled along beneath the shadows of the Green Mountains, and as we thundered along the skirts of old Champlain, I felt as if it was good for me to be there. The wholesome breezes from the hills and lake were so bracing and recuperating that I forgot all about the danger I had fled from, and felt almost disposed to throw a quart bottle of "cholera killer," which I had taken the precaution to provide myself with in case of emergency, from the car window. In fact, I felt elegant, and had just commenced chanting to myself that beautiful ballad of my boyhood, "Believe me, if all those endearing young charms," &c., when I was interrupted by the ear-piercing shriek of our engine, and in a few moments we rolled into the depot, where we were to be transferred to other cars. Observing considerable commotion in the motley crowd which thronged the station, I inquired of a cadaverous-looking individual the cause of the excitement. Shoving his hat as far back on his head as it would go without falling off, and advancing his right leg with a sudden jerk as far forward as it would reach, he bent his neck down to get his mouth to my ear, and in a drawling, nasal tone, proceeded to inform me that thirteen car-loads of emigrants had been landed at some place in Canada by mistake, and that they were on their way to New York to take passage west on the line contracted with in Europe. He further went on to state that they had been there about four hours; there were a great many sick among them; a number had died, and more were dying, and the local medical opinion was that the prevailing disease was Asiatic cholera of the worst type! If some huge monster had risen out of the lake and had swallowed depot, cars, passengers and everything else except me, I could not have been more astounded. I made no reply, asked no further questions; but terror lending wings to my haste, I sought and soon found the train in which we were to proceed, and—breathed again when we started. But we had scarcely left the suburbs of the town when I experienced a peculiar twinge in my internal economy, and I felt, or imagined I felt, the various symptoms of incipient cholera as laid down in the books, and knowing that promptness was everything, I took my satchel from the rack overhead, drew from it and uncorked the sovereign remedy, which I felt rejoiced I had not thrown away, and without stopping to read the directions I poured down my throat heaven only knows how much of the unknown thing. And if I did I suffered for it; for I had scarcely taken the bottle from my lips when I was seized with such an intolerable heat that I expected to see the flames burst from every pore from my nose to my toes. O! the agony was awful! I could not restrain myself; and my fellow passengers, seeing my condition, felt convinced that I had either taken poison or was suffering from an attack of cholera, and of course a general consternation was the result. At once I was approached by a representative of every nationality on earth, and the confusion of tongues outbabbled Babel. I was perfectly conscious, and warned the Samaritans back with my hand; but it availed little, and it took some time to convince them that I was suffering from an antidote instead of a poison. Indeed, I entirely failed to convince an elderly but diminutive Teuton, who insisted upon my loosing a "hint of plood," and having a "plister but on my aptoman"—and the infernal Dutchman was so exceedingly demonstrative besides it required no little effort to keep his hands off me.

I got through with my torture after a while, however, and resumed my seat at the open window. I made up my mind that I had suffered more than my share, and mentally objurgated patent medicine makers in general, and the one in this case in particular—after which a peaceful calm settled upon me, and would have abode with me to the end of my journey had I not observed three very small boys tugging at a mail bag which had just been thrown from the mail car attached to our train. I stepped on to the platform to witness the operation more fully; and I did. There stood the route agent in his car, looking as lazy and self-complacent as possible, while three little boys—not one of them, I verily believe, over ten years of age—were each striving to get possession of the mail bag for the purpose of carrying it to the neighboring Post Office—a reward, no doubt, of a penny, or a stick of candy, being the incentive which stimulated them. I asked the agent if it was not wrong to entrust the mail with these little ones, to which he replied that all he had to do was to throw it out—it was the duty of the station keeper to deliver it. Thereupon I took upon myself the responsibility of resorting to a little plain talk, the result of which I am sure will be that juvenile mail carriers will be interdicted in that locality hereafter. And just here I would ask, is a Postmaster or a route agent fit for his position who acts thus carelessly, and in such violation of the Department laws and instructions? I should say not. A tree or a tooth may be saved sometimes from decay by timely plugging or pruning; but when they cannot they are generally rooted out. I think that Postmasters or route agents, who can read their instructions, who have no more judgment than to entrust the carrying of the mails from Post Offices to mail cars and from mail cars to Post Offices to little children, should be served precisely as teeth and trees are when they are beyond salvation—they should be "rooted out." Selah!

In due time I reached my destination, and found myself in the very heart of the Fenian war councils. Arriving at the hotel I repaired at once to the room assigned to me, and forthwith began unpacking, preparatory to a display of my skill in the woods and trout streams in the vicinity, which I was informed were unusually fruitful. Among my little fixings I had a peculiar shaped box, in which was carefully packed away a great variety of Conroy's "flies," and upon which was painted in bright colors the letters F. B. (fly box.) This, with a Springfield rifle, a revolver, a hunting-knife, an opera-glass, a combined cane and umbrella, and an India-rubber cape with a hood to it, I had laid out upon a table when the bell rang for dinner. Without locking my door I descended to the dining-room, and leisurely enjoyed a capital dinner. When I had done I lit a segar and stepped out on to the piazza to enjoy it. Pretty soon I observed a crowd collecting, and staring at me, (very respectfully, I admit), but it made me feel decidedly awkward, for I am modest, and I returned to my room and looked into the mirror, when it struck me at once that my old-fashioned garb had attracted the attention of these idlers. Stepping over to the table I found my fish box emptied and gone, and the flies scattered all over the floor. Says I to myself, "Who's been here since I've been gone?" I had little time to think, however, for a ball military chap rushed into my presence, and in a hasty but subdued voice said, "Old fel, I don't know who you are! I know you are one of us; but you've got to 'git up and git.' Uncle Sam's officers are down stairs, and have arrested all our leaders, and they'll be after you in a minute, so git up and git!" I was perfectly amazed, and before I had time to ask him what he was talking about, a very tall, thin man, and a very short, thick man entered, and clapping me one on each shoulder said: "You are a prisoner." This was the straw that broke the camel's back. I got mad—sorry to have to acknowledge such weakness—but I got very mad, and casting them off in a most theatrical manner, I took my rifle in one hand and my opera glass (I intended to seize my revolver) in the other, and planting myself against the wall, bade them stand back. "Approach," says I, in deep bass, "and you are dead men." Not a word spake they, but opening a passage between them, about a dozen soldiers, putting their guns in a horizontal position, approached ~~their shining bayonets~~ so close to me that I called for a parley. I knew there were no highwaymen in United States uniforms, and changed my opinion of my first visitors. Stepping on to the bed in my room, I asked the long and short gentlemen what this treatment meant. "Why, sir," said one of them, "you are arrested as a Fenian officer, and it will be necessary for you to go with us; we know you;" and as he said this he held up my empty fly box, and shutting one eye, tapped with the end of his finger on the letters "F. B." Instantly the whole thing burst upon me—the initials on my innocent "Fly Box" had been mistaken for mystic symbols of the terrible Fenian Brotherhood!—and it appeared so ludicrous that I laughed immoderately for some time. Feeling something sharp calling me to order, I looked round, quietly asid "shoulder arms," and ceased.

An explanation soon followed, apologies were offered, a general friendship was formed, and we separated—I to prepare for my departure inland, and they to arrest transgressors, and convince Her Majesty's government that our neutrality law is not a dead letter. And talking about "dead letters" reminds me of a question or two. Is there not a great deal of carelessness and indifference manifested by post office people in regard to these same dead letters? I think it would be a good idea for some one (authorized, of course,) to go on a voyage of discovery. I may be in error, but I think a great many dead letters would be found stowed away in dusty desks, rusty boxes and forgotten out of the way places, where they have been put by ignorant, careless or designing persons. The anxiety and solicitude of the Department to have these letters returned to the writers or addressees meets with little sympathy from some officials; and I hope if any such read this they will take a hint and put their houses in order, and be prepared to see "company."

Perhaps I ought to apologize for obtruding my personal sufferings on you. I didn't write you last month, and this is the apology.

Mons. Tonson.

Mail Facilities in the Sandwich Islands are still of a somewhat primitive order. Every Wednesday afternoon, it is said, a travel-worn pedestrian enters the village of Kawaihae with his rubber-covered bag strapped securely to his back. This he has brought from Hilo, since Monday morning, and as the shades of evening cool the rocky hill sides he starts on his return, reaching the bay on Saturday night, an arrival which, in steamer times, is no less welcome than regular. This journey which, measured on the many curved roads up and down the sides of ravines, and including a detour into Waipio, must be not less than 160 miles in length, is performed in alternate weeks by two men who show great power of endurance. Sometimes, though rarely, a horse is brought into requisition.

☞ A mutilated letter, mailed at Fort Erie, Canada, and addressed to a person at New Glasgow, Pictou County, was received at the Halifax Post Office. Upon the cover was written "this letter was damaged in this office by a bullet from a Fenian musket."

Subscribers will please take this as a notification to forward the subscription for another year, when due, if they intend to renew. Those whom this number reaches, marked 70 or 71, will please remit at once.

RATES OF POSTAGE TO NEW ZEALAND AND AUSTRALIA, VIA PANAMA.

A new line of mail packets, subsidized by the Government of New Zealand, to run between Panama and Wellington, New Zealand, with branches to Sydney and Melbourne, has been established, making monthly departures from Panama about the 24th of each month, on the arrival of the mails despatched from Southampton, England, by the West India packet of the 2d of each month.

Letters, newspapers, and book packets addressed to New Zealand and Australia may hereafter be forwarded to their destination by this route in the mails despatched from New York or from San Francisco to Panama at the following rates of postage, prepayment required: Letters, 22 cents per single rate of half ounce; newspapers, 6 cents each; books, 10 cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof.

NEW MAIL-POUCH LABEL.—We have been shown by Mr. Leander Fox, Clerk in the Railway Post Office between New York and Washington, a sample of a new metallic Mail-Pouch Label of his invention, which appears to us to combine several advantages over any we have seen. One end of the label is securely fastened to a pivot attached to the pouch, and on each side is cast the name of the office from which the pouch is to be sent, and also that to which it is destined, the position of the names being reversed, thus: on one side "Washington, D. C. from New York City"—on the other, "New York City (P.) from Washington, D. C.," the "P" indicating the office to which the pouch was originally issued. By raising the label perpendicularly, it is turned on the pivot and reversed. By the use of these labels on all through pouches, any confusion or error regarding the destination of any pouch would be avoided. They are durable and entirely free from any liability to a defacement or alteration of the names of the offices between which they are intended to pass. We should be glad to see them put into use by the Department.

Resignation of Hon. William Dennison.

On the 12th ultimo, Hon. Wm. Dennison resigned the office of Postmaster General, which he had held since September, 1864. The reasons which led to his resignation were of an entirely political nature: feeling that his views of public policy were at variance with those of the President, he could not, of course, consistently remain a member of his Cabinet, and therefore was obliged to terminate his connection with the Department. During his term of office Governor Dennison enjoyed, as he deserved, the respect and esteem of all who were brought into official contact with him, and we believe his administration of the important interest under his charge as Postmaster General has been eminently satisfactory to the country. We do not remember to have read an unfavorable criticism of any one of his official acts. Within a few months from the commencement of his term the cessation of the war imposed upon the Department a vast increase of labor and responsibility in the reorganization of postal matters at the South—a task beset by peculiar difficulties, but which has nevertheless been performed with a success which, in view of those obstacles, may be called surprising. The extent and efficiency of the money order system have been increased, and the postal service generally has, under Governor Dennison's administration, been, as it should be, progressive.

Governor Dennison is succeeded in office by

Hon. Alexander W. Randall,

who, since October, 1862, has acted as First Assistant Postmaster General, and who, consequently, possesses the great advantage of experience in postal matters. Governor Randall is a native of central New York, from whence, several years since, he removed to Wisconsin, where he entered upon the practice of the law. He soon became prominent in his profession, and was ere long called from the bar to the bench, occupying the position of Circuit Judge, which he filled with ability until nominated for the Chief Magistracy of the State, to which office he was twice elected. During the first administration of the late President Lincoln he was appointed United States Minister to Rome, where he remained for more than a year, representing his government at the Papal Court with entire satisfaction. On his return he was selected for the important post of First Assistant Postmaster General, succeeding the Hon. John A. Kasson, who about that time was elected a member of Congress from Iowa. From the manner in which he has discharged his duties in other branches of the public service, together with the knowledge of the practical workings of the Post Office Department acquired by him as First Assistant, it is safe to predict that the new head of the Department will be found an able, energetic and faithful officer.

The New First Assistant.

On the 27th instant the President nominated to the Senate, as First Assistant Postmaster General, ST. JOHN B. L. SKINNER, Esq., to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of Gov. Randall as Postmaster General, which nomination was immediately confirmed. General Skinner has for many years past filled the post of Chief Clerk in the Appointment Office most acceptably and faithfully, and it would have been difficult to find a gentleman better qualified for the office to which he has been promoted. He is thoroughly conversant with every detail of post office business, and with all decisions and precedents in regard to the Laws and Regulations governing the operations of the Department—a qualification invaluable to one in his present position. He will prove an efficient, thorough working First Assistant, and we are glad to congratulate him, as well as the Department and the public, on his appointment.

Returning Letters Deposited in Post Offices.

Sections 64 and 65, as printed in the Regulations of 1866, read as follows:

SEC. 64.—To prevent fraud, the postmaster will never return any letter put into his office for transmission by mail, to any person whatever.

SEC. 65.—To enable him to know that the person applying for the return of a letter is the writer, he may require him, or his messenger, to exhibit to him the same superscription and seal that are upon the letter. And if the postmaster is satisfied that the handwriting and seal are the same, he will return the letter, taking a receipt, and preserving it with the paper containing the superscription, and the order, if one were sent.

It will be seen that the above two sections—the first forbidding the return of a letter "to any person whatever," and the second authorizing such return under certain precautionary conditions—directly contradict each other. This fact has naturally led to some confusion in the minds of postmasters as to what is their duty in such cases. We are authorized to say that the apparent discrepancy between the two sections arose from the accidental omission in the printed Regulations of the words "EXCEPT THE WRITER THEREOF," from the end of Section 65. That section is therefore to be considered as being in force in the following form:

"SEC. 64.—To prevent fraud, the postmaster will never return any letter put into his office for transmission by mail, to any person whatever, except the writer thereof."

As thus amended, there is no conflict between the two sections mentioned. A delivery to a "messenger" duly authorized by the writer, referred to in Section 65, is, of course, a legal delivery to the writer himself.

☞ MARSHALL SMITH, Esq., late Assistant Postmaster at St. Louis, Mo., has been appointed a Special Agent of the Post Office Department, with authority to introduce, upon such routes as he may deem proper, the use of the mail boxes invented by him, (which we have several times noticed,) in place of the present pouches. These boxes have been for a long time in use between New York and St. Louis, and recently between New York and Boston, and have given great satisfaction. The Department has concluded a contract for the manufacture of a large number of these boxes.

Wise Prophecies.

Mr. Edmund Yates, who, as well as several other eminent literary men, is officially connected with the British Post Office Department, in a recently published caustic letter, "reviewing the reviewers," quotes, for their confusion, from certain old copies of the London Quarterly Review, divers unfulfilled predictions of the speedy decay of the fame of such writers as Dickens, Tennyson, &c. In the course of his researches he encountered some profound prophecies concerning postal matters. In view of the present facts, this twaddle of a past age is pretty good reading:

"While I am on this subject I cannot refrain from giving a specimen of the Quarterly Reviewer's prophetic accuracy on a social matter. In a notice of Mr. Rowland Hill's pamphlet on his proposed plan of Post Office reform, he says, 'Whatever may be thought of the abstract advantages of a general penny postage, Mr. Hill's specific plan has broken down on almost every point, both as to the facts on which it professes to stand, and on the result which it promises.'

And a little further on the writer is not content with showing up the undoubted commercial failure of this preposterous scheme of penny postage, but he shows us the harrowing effects on morality should it be introduced.

'After all, no one can doubt that the low postage will gradually increase the amount of general correspondence, and nowhere, we believe, so much as is in letters of friendship amongst the middle and lower classes,—a great advantage a great increase to individual happiness, and in some cases perhaps a preservative from evil by maintaining the family tie; but even this advantage will not be unmixed. Will clerks write only to their fathers, or girls to their mothers? Will not letters of romance or love, intrigue or mischief increase in at least equal proportion? Does any natural mind doubt that there will be on this point of the question a balance of good and evil? And even admitting what it would be hard to prove, that there should be a preponderance of good, can it be shown that the preponderance shall be so great as to compensate the other, as we think, inevitable disadvantages?'"

Additional Money Order Offices.

On our first page will be found a list of 293 newly established Money Order Post Offices. This large increase is a gratifying evidence of the progress in efficiency and in public favor and confidence of this admirable system, and there is no doubt that it will ere long be still further extended until its benefits are made available to all who may have occasion for the remittance of small sums by mail. It is very likely that its operations at some offices where it is already established could be greatly increased, if the Postmasters at those offices would take a little more pains in explaining its workings and advantages to the public, who should be urged to avail themselves of it whenever desirous of making a remittance. There are, to our knowledge, intelligent persons residing within the delivery of money order offices who are not even aware of the existence of the system. They should no longer be permitted to remain in this state of ignorance if in the Postmaster's power to prevent it. Most Postmasters are able, through the exercise of a little influence with their local newspapers, to ensure that publicity shall be given to the existence of so great a social convenience, and they should do so by that and all other means, both for their own interests and those of the Department and the public.

To those Postmasters at the newly-established money order offices we need scarcely say that careful study and strict observance on their part of the Regulations governing the system are essential to its success, and will be rigidly required by the Department.

MONEY-ORDERS—A MISUNDERSTANDING.—In the instructions under the new Postal Law published in our last, the following, in relation to the issuing of money-orders, occurs:

Postmasters are hereby instructed, that when the sum to be remitted in favor of the same payee, and payable at the same office, is more than twenty dollars, and not exceeding fifty dollars, to issue but one order therefor. A violation of this rule will be regarded as a fraud upon the revenue of the Department.

Some postmasters at money-order offices have misconstrued this instruction, and have refused to pay two or more orders issued on the same day, and in favor of the same payee, when the sum desired to be remitted was over fifty dollars. This is a mistake. A careful reading of the instruction will show that it is designed solely to prevent the multiplication of orders for sums which should be put into a single order. For instance, if a person desires to remit forty dollars, he cannot obtain two orders of twenty dollars each, but must obtain a single order for the amount; but if he desires to remit sixty dollars, he can obtain one order for fifty dollars and another for ten, &c. He cannot obtain three orders for twenty dollars each, for the reason that two of those orders would amount to over twenty dollars and less than fifty, and the issuing of two such orders is forbidden. The reason for this restriction is that in its absence a fraud upon the revenue of the Department might be committed by parties who could, by obtaining two or more orders instead of one, avoid the full payment of the fee chargeable on the amount they desire to remit. Postmasters at money-order offices will consult on this point Section 13, page 12, of the money-order Instructions, issued in pamphlet form by the Department, July 2, 1866.

Answers to Correspondents.

Postage on Monthly Publications.—R. K. S., Mt. C ———, Ill.—If the pamphlet to which you refer is issued as a monthly, though occasionally the numbers for two months are combined in one, you should charge the regular monthly postage.

Keeping Account of Stamps Cancelled, &c.—J. W., C—H———, N. C.—1. The account of stamps cancelled was to be kept only for the quarter ended June 30, 1866. 2. Letter postage is to be charged and collected on any newspaper or periodical so marked or written upon as to give any other information than that contained in the print. The same charge will be made where it is so enclosed that it cannot be examined without destroying the wrapper. But in the case of publications from publishers to regular subscribers, publishers may print on the wrapper the name and address of the subscriber, and the date when the subscription will expire, and may also enclose in their publications the bills for subscription. A wrapper on a transient newspaper, having on it the name of the sender, conveys information, and hence subjects the package to letter postage.

Postage on Small Religious Papers Published Weekly.—D. C. P., T ———, Wis. All papers published weekly are subject to the regular quarterly rates of postage as weekly papers.

Postage on Artificial Flowers.—C. R. V., A ———, N. H.—Artificial flowers should be charged with letter postage. Section 34, of Act of March 3, 1864, refers only to postage on "mailable matter." Section 20, of same act, describes "mailable matter," while Section 25 establishes the rate of postage on all matter not "mailable," in which class artificial flowers must be included.

Unpaid Transient Matter.—E. M. D., P ——— N. J.—Unpaid transient matter should be charged on delivery at prepaid rates. The law making the change was passed May 1, 1865.

Delivery of Newspapers Published in Towns having a Free Delivery.—A. K., C ———, Wis.—You are not required to deliver newspapers published in the same town or village in which your office is located. But you may contract with publishers to deliver their papers by carriers. Such contract, however, must be submitted to the Postmaster General for approval.

Postage on Papers to a Subscriber who has Removed.—F. B., East G ———, Ind.—Give the subscriber a receipt for the postage, as evidence of payment, and tell him to have the post office address of his paper changed.

Retaining Commission for Delivering County Papers to Subscribers.—W. R., S ———, Ill.—All postmasters are now paid by a fixed salary, and are not allowed commissions, except for money order business.

Persons in a Vehicle Demanding Mail Matter to be brought to them.—T. W. W., P ———, Conn.—The proper place to ask for mail matter is at the delivery window or counter of the post office, and no one has a right to demand its delivery anywhere else. If a postmaster chooses to carry it to a person sitting in a wagon or other vehicle he can do so as a matter of courtesy, providing it does not interfere with the duties of his office. Duty and courtesy should be the aim of all postmasters.

Paying Mail Carrier, &c.—C. H. M., G ———, Vt.—1. Drafts on postmasters, and payable to mail carriers, are generally for the whole amount due the Department, and a mail carrier cannot demand more; and of course he cannot if the draft is for a specific sum. 2. Postmasters must pay postage on "The Mail."

Allowance for Clerk Hire, &c., in Offices of the Third and Fourth Classes.—W. E. W., H ———, Va.—The Postmaster General is authorized to make allowances, in his discretion, for expenses in offices of the third and fourth classes; and also to furnish them with printed envelopes. See Sections 17, 18, 19, of Regulations of 1866.

Carelessness in putting up Mails.—H. W. R., J ———, Vt.—Report carelessness by postmasters to the Appointment Office, Washington, D. C.

Sending Package of Letters to another Post Office to be Mailed as "Drops."—J. C. N., C ———, Mass.—The case you state is clearly a violation of the law. See Section 40 and Chapter V. of new Regulations.

Payment of Drafts for Balances Due the Department.—C. S. R., S ———, Ill.—You will have to take, or send at your own risk, to the postmaster having the draft on you, the money to pay it.

Postage to British Columbia.—J. L. W., O ———, N. Y.—There is at present no postal communication between the United States and British Columbia. All mail matter for the latter place is sent to San Francisco and forwarded thence by express; hence only United States postage can be paid at the mailing office, the express charges being collected on delivery.

Insufficiently Prepaid Letters from Canada, &c.—C. H. A., U. S ———, N. Y.—1. Part prepayments to and from Canada are not recognized. A letter, therefore, insufficiently prepaid, must be treated as if wholly unpaid, and the full postage collected, and the amount placed in your account of undercharges. 2. If you desire such a marking-stamp you will have to provide it at your own expense.

Time of Keeping Office Open.—W. H. H., M ———, Ill.—The Regulations require that a post office should be kept open every day except Sunday the usual hours of business in the place, and, when the mail arrives on Sunday, one hour or more on that day, if the public convenience require it, after the arrival and assortment thereof, unless it be during the time of public worship.

Delivery of Mails by Contractor.—T. C. M. S., B ———, O.—Railroad and steamboat contractors are required to deliver the mails at all offices within a quarter of a mile of their depots, stations or landings, as well as at the terminal offices of their routes.

The Charge for the New Edition of the Regulations.—R. C. B., W ———, Mich.—When you turn over your office and its appurtenances to your successor you will, doubtless, be allowed credit for the $2 which you now pay for the Regulations.

Franking Privilege of Assistant Paymaster General.—N. H. J., West L ———, O.—Assistant Paymasters General have not the franking privilege, but like every one else they may send mail matter free to the Paymaster General or any other person authorized to frank, subject to certain restrictions, for which see Section 265 A, of Laws.

Wrapping Single Letters.—A. F. S., N. S ———, Iowa.—The Regulations require that letters should be wrapped at all offices not supplied in whole or in part by railway post offices.

Newspapers Chargeable with Letter Postage.—A. G. M., F ———, Ill.—To enclose or conceal a letter, or other thing (except bills and receipts for subscription) in, or to write or print anything, after its publication, upon any newspaper, &c., is illegal, and subjects it to letter postage, and not to a fine of five dollars, except it is done in order that it may be carried free of postage.

Connecting Mail Route.—W. F. C., L ———, Tenn.—Write a statement of the facts to the Contract Office, Washington, D. C.

Marriage of Postmistress, &c.—E. F. G., M ———, Ga.—1. As married women are incapable of holding the office of postmaster, it follows that a female postmaster would have to resign her office if she married. 2. An assistant postmaster is not entitled by postal law to any portion of the salary of a postmaster.

Letters from other Offices with Stamps not Cancelled.—A. P., East W ———, Me.—Section 177, of new Regulations, directs that if the cancelling of stamps has been omitted at the mailing office, the postmaster at the office of delivery shall do it, and forthwith report the delinquent postmaster to the Postmaster General, as the law requires.

Postage on Half Yearly Periodicals.—H. W. S., V ———, Ind.—The law provides that the postage on periodicals to regular subscribers, issued less frequently than once a week, shall be one cent for each copy not exceeding four ounces in weight, and an additional rate of one cent for each additional four ounces, to be prepaid at either mailing or receiving office. Under this law the postage on a twenty ounce semi-annual periodical would be five cents for each copy; but this cannot be prepaid by stamps, but must be paid in money. If the publisher uses stamps in prepayment, he must prepay at transient rates—ten cents on such a periodical as you describe. If the periodicals reach the office of delivery prepaid but five cents in stamps, the remaining five cents should be collected before delivery.

Time of Closing Office.—J. H. E., W ———, Mass.—The Regulations require that a post office should be kept open during "the usual hours of business" in the place. Those hours are generally well defined in every town, and the Postmaster must be guided by his knowledge of them.

Changing Mail.—G. W. H., P ———, Iowa.—We cannot see any objection, under the circumstances, to your changing the mail in the manner proposed.

Forwarding Request Letters.—J. H. D., B ———, Me.—You are required to forward request letters, when desired to do so by the party addressed, before the expiration of the time named in the "request."

Post Office Regulations.—F. B., K ———, Miss.—A new edition of the Laws and Regulations has lately been published, which will be furnished to you on application to First Assistant Postmaster General, at a charge of two dollars.

Forwarding Letters Free.—J. L., B ———, Ind.—The Law took effect July 2d.

Franking Letters to the Pay or the Pension Departments, &c.—1. Any one can send letters on official business free to the Pay or the Pension Departments. 2. It is sufficient to keep your office open on general holidays a convenient time on the arrival of the mails.

Payment of Balance Due the Department, &c.—E. W. S., R ———, West Va.—1. You are required to hold all balances due the Department until a draft is made on you. (See our answer above.) 2. At the time the Account Current was printed a discount of five per cent. was allowed to purchasers of stamps to the amount of not less than one hundred dollars, or packages of envelopes of not less than five hundred. This provision was repealed. 3. If your office yields a gross revenue of over $100 you can procure a marking stamp on application to the Appointment Office.

Marking Stamps, Balances, &c.—G. M. E., D ———, Ill.—Marking stamps are furnished to offices where the gross receipts are over $100, and letter balances to offices which collect in postages $75 a year: for these write to the Appointment Office; for twine apply to "Blank Agent at Buffalo, N. Y." Official envelopes are furnished only to offices of the first and second classes.

Postage on Newspapers to Canada.—E. H. S., D ———, Pa.—Postage on newspapers to Canada is the same as on papers in the United States, viz., two cents for 4 oz. on transient, and the regular quarterly rates for regular papers; but this postage must be prepaid at the mailing office.

Miscellaneous Information.

Dead Letters.

By the instructions under the postal laws, UNMAILABLE LETTERS are specified to be—

Letters attempted to be sent with stamps previously used, or stamps cut from stamped envelopes.

Unpaid letters for foreign countries, on which prepayment is required by the regulations.

Letters not addressed, or so badly addressed that their destination cannot be known.

Letters misdirected to places where there are no post offices.

Civilian's letters, (domestic) wholly unpaid, (including unpaid drop letters.)

Only such letters as are herein described are, when deposited in any post office, to be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office; all others must be dispatched to their destination, charged with the amount of unpaid postage.

When unmailable letters are sent to the Dead Letter Office, the specific reason therefor must be endorsed upon the envelope of each.

These instructions will be strictly followed at all post offices.

For more full instructions relating to dead letters, advertising letters, &c., examine carefully Chap. 35, Regulations of 1866, and Sections 1 and 2, Act of June 12, 1866.

Foreign Letters, &c.

RULE FOR RATING LETTERS TO GREAT BRITAIN, &C.

The attention of postmasters is particularly called to the mode of rating postage upon letters exchanged in the mails between this country and the United Kingdom, which differs only in the rate, and not, as heretofore, in the weight or standard. The maximum standard weight is now half an ounce, and the rate is twenty-four cents; postage to Great Britain and Ireland, therefore, is as follows, viz.:

One rate (24 cents) for a single letter not exceeding ½ oz. in weight.

Two rates (48 cents) when over ½, but not exceeding 1 ounce.

Three rates (72 cents) when over 1, but not exceeding 1½ ounces, &c., &c.

Thus, a letter to Great Britain, weighing 4½ ounces, should be paid $2.16, being chargeable with nine rates. All part paid letters to foreign countries are treated as wholly unpaid, and the amount paid lost to the sender.

Letters to foreign countries, where prepayment of postage is compulsory, when insufficiently paid are sent to the Dead Letter Office, to be opened and returned to the writers, and are thereby delayed one or two mails, and, no doubt, in many cases, causing serious loss and annoyance to the writers.

REGISTERING FOREIGN LETTERS.—Letters can be registered in the United States for Great Britain and Ireland, for Germany, or any part of the German Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen, Hamburg, or Prussian closed mails. Letters to Canada can be registered, but not to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, or Prince Edward's Island. Postmasters will, therefore, decline to register letters addressed to other foreign countries.

The registry fee to be charged on registered letters to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, via Bremen or Hamburg, or by Prussian closed mail, and to Canada, is five cents—to Great Britain and Ireland, twenty cents. All registered letters must be prepaid in full to destination. See "Foreign Miscellany" on fourth page of this paper, for full information in regard to rating all foreign letters.

Our Postal Convention with the United Kingdom, provides that each country shall levy and collect its postage only, on newspapers, at the rate of two cents each, whether they are sent or received. Hence, newspapers received in this country from Great Britain come prepaid the British postage only, and postmasters must be particular, in all cases, to collect the United States charge of two cents on their delivery.

CANADIAN CORRESPONDENCE.—Irregularities having arisen in respect to Canadian correspondence, these directions must hereafter be observed:

Letters addressed to Canada must be mailed to a United States Exchange Office. Letters cannot be sent direct to Post Offices in Canada.

The postage on a single letter to and from Canada is 10 cents, prepayment optional; but the whole postage must be prepaid or none. Part prepayments are not recognized. Prepayments must be made by United States postage stamps—not in money.

A postmaster may frank a letter to Canada the same as to any point in the United States; but it is optional for the Canadian P. O. Department to deliver such letter free, or charge full postage on it, at its pleasure.

COLLECTIONS IN COIN.—In pursuance of the provisions of a resolution of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails despatched to this country from Great Britain and Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen, or Belgium, are collected in gold or silver coin. Should, however, payment of such postage, and of the premium on a corresponding amount of coin, be tendered in United States notes, the same is to be accepted in lieu of coin. The amount to be collected in U. S. notes, (in case coin is not offered,) is marked on each letter on its arrival at U. S. Exchange Offices, and if charged in the post-bills. Hence, when coin is collected at the office of delivery, the difference should be entered in the account of Mails Received as an overcharge.

The above applies exclusively to the mails received from the countries mentioned.

On out-going letters the former regulations remain unchanged, and, when prepaid, the regular rates (in currency) only are to be collected.

POST OFFICE BLANKS.

The agencies for supplying postmasters with blanks are as follows:

DISTRICT No. 1—Supplies blanks for the District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida. Postmasters in either of these States, wanting blanks of any kind, should address "Wm. O. Redden," Blank Agent, Washington, District of Columbia."

DISTRICT No. 2—Supplies blanks for the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, California, Nevada and Oregon, and Washington Territory. Postmasters in either of these States or Territories, wanting blanks of any kind, should address "Beverly Clarke, Blank Agent, New York, N. Y."

DISTRICT No. 3—Supplies blanks for the States of Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, New Mexico, Utah, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska. Postmasters in either of these States, wanting blanks of any kind should address "A. F. Lee, Blank Agent, Buffalo, N. Y."

When the postages collected at an office amount to $100 a year, the name of the postmaster and of his office will be printed on the post bills. When the postmaster's compensation exceeds $12 50 a quarter, the postmaster is entitled to wrapping paper and twine, at the above agencies.

Applications for blank registers of arrival and departure of the mails must be made direct to the "Inspection office." For special instructions, to the First Assistant Postmaster General.

All postmasters whose compensation is less than $12 50 per quarter, can purchase a reasonable quantity of wrapping paper and twine, provided the net proceeds of the office exceed twenty dollars per year.

STAMPS.

Post Offices, the gross receipts of which are over $1,000 per annum, will be furnished with circular marking and rating stamps of class No. 1; less than $1,000 and over $500, with stamps of class No. 2; less than $500 and over $100, with stamps of class No. 4. Applications for these stamps should be made to the Appointment office.

Postmasters at offices, the gross receipts of which are less than $75 per annum, if they use rating stamps must obtain the same at their own expense.

Letter balances, upon the like application, are furnished to offices which collect in postages $75 a year.

United States Exchange Offices for Foreign Mails.

New York is an office of Exchange for British, French, Prussian, Belgian, Bremen and Hamburg Mails.

Boston is an office of Exchange for British, French, Prussian and Belgian Mails.

Philadelphia is an office of Exchange for British and French Mails.

San Francisco is an office of Exchange for British Mails only.

Portland, Detroit, and Chicago, are offices of Exchange for British, Prussian and French Mails.

EXCHANGE OFFICES FOR BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN MAILS.

Portland and the Route Agents thence to the Canada line exchange with the Route Agents beyond. Buffalo exchanges with Toronto, Hamilton, Queenstown, London and other offices on Lake Erie; Whitehall, Plattsburgh, Rouse's Point, N. Y. with St. John's; Burlington and Rutland with St. John's and Montreal; Island Pond with Montreal, Sherbrook and Route Agents. The following exchange with their nearest corresponding offices on the other side; Black Rock, Suspension Bridge, Dovers, Lewiston, Youngstown, Rochester, (with Coburg in summer), Cape Vincent, Morristown, Ogdensburgh and Fort Covington, N. Y.; Richford, Franklin, Derby Line, North Troy, Swanton and Canaan, Vt. Cleveland, Ohio, (with Port Stanley in summer,) Sault St. Mary, Port Huron, Detroit and Algonac, Mich.; Fort Fairfield, Robinson, Calais, Houlton and Eastport, Me.

MODE OF INDICATING THE PREPAYMENT OF POSTAGE UPON LETTERS RECEIVED FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

When the United States official postage entries on the letters received from Great Britain or the Continent of Europe, are in red ink, the letter is to be considered as paid, and is to be delivered accordingly; when in black ink, as unpaid, and the postage is to be collected on delivery. The postage on such letters is either wholly paid or wholly unpaid. Postmasters can readily decide any question as to prepayment, by this simple criterion.

Domestic Postages.

The law requires postage on all letters, (including those to foreign countries when prepaid,) excepting those written to the President or Vice-President, or members of Congress, or, (on official business) to the chiefs of the executive departments of the government, and the heads of bureaus and chief clerks, and others invested with the franking privilege, to be prepaid by stamps or stamped envelopes, prepayment in money being prohibited. Postmasters can send official letters to other Postmasters free.

All drop letters must be prepaid. The rate of postage on drop letters, at offices where free delivery by carrier is established, is two cents per half ounce or fraction of a half ounce; at offices where such free delivery is not established, the rate is 1 ct.

The single rate of postage on all domestic mail letters throughout the United States is three cents per half ounce, with an additional rate of three cents for each additional half ounce or fraction of a half ounce. The ten cent (Pacific) rate is abolished.

RATES OF LETTER POSTAGE BETWEEN OFFICES IN THE UNITED STATES, AND TO AND FROM CANADA AND OTHER BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES

To and from Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., irrespective of distance.

To and from other British N. Am. Provinces.

| | |
|---|---|
| for distance not over 3,000 miles. ........ | 10 cts. |
| For any distance over 3,000 miles.......... | 15 " |

For every additional half ounce, or fraction of a half ounce, an additional rate is charged. Prepayment is optional on all letters for the British North American Provinces except Newfoundland, to which prepayment is compulsory.

Letter postage is to be charged on all handbills, circulars, or other printed matter which shall contain any manuscript writing whatever.

Daguerreotypes, when sent in the mail, are to be charged with letter postage by weight.

Photographs on cards, paper, and other flexible material, (not in cases,) can be sent at the same rate as miscellaneous printed matter—viz., two cents for each four ounces or fraction thereof.

Photographic Albums are chargeable with book postage—four cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof.

Newspaper Postage.

| | |
|---|---|
| Postage on Daily Papers to subscribers when prepaid quarterly or yearly in advance, either at the mailing office or office of delivery, per quarter, (three months).. | 35 cts. |
| Six times per week, " " .. | 30 " |
| For Tri-Weekly, " " .. | 15 " |
| For Semi-Weekly, " " .. | 10 " |
| For Weekly, " " .. | 5 " |

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS (one copy only) sent by the publisher to actual subscribers within the county where printed and published, free.

POSTAGE PER QUARTER (to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance) on NEWSPAPERS and PERIODICALS issued less frequently than once a week, sent to actual subscribers in any part of the U. S.:

| | |
|---|---|
| Semi-monthly, not over 4 oz.................. | 6 cts. |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz... | 12 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz... | 18 " |
| Monthly, not over 4 oz..................... | 3 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz......... | 6 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz........ | 9 " |
| Quarterly, not over 4 oz.................... | 1 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz....... | 2 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz...... | 3 " |

Quarterly postage cannot be paid for less than three months. If a subscription begins at any other time than the commencement of an official quarter, the postage received by the p. m. must still be entered in his account for that quarter. Subscribers for short terms—exceeding three months, say four or five months—can pay quarterly postage for the actual term of their subscriptions—that is for one quarter and a third, one quarter and two-thirds, &c. The law only requires that at least one quarter's postage shall be prepaid, and not more than one year's postage. Any term between one quarter and one year can therefore be prepaid at proportionate rates.

PUBLISHERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS may send to each other from their respective offices of publication, free of postage, one copy of each publication, and may also send to each actual subscriber, inclosed in their publications, bills and receipts for the same, free of postage. They may also state on their respective publications, the date when the subscription expires, to be written or printed.

Religious, Educational and Agricultural Newspapers of small size, issued less frequently than once a week, may be sent in packages to one address at the rate of one cent for each package not exceeding four ounces in weight, and an additional charge of one cent is made for each additional four ounces or fraction thereof, the postage to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance.

NEWSDEALERS may send newspapers and periodicals to regular subscribers at the quarterly rates, in the same manner as publishers, and may also receive them from publishers at subscribers' rates. In both cases the postage to be prepaid, either at the mailing or delivery office.

Publications issued without disclosing the office of publication, or containing a fictitious statement thereof, must not be forwarded by postmasters unless prepaid at the mailing office at the rates of transient printed matter.

Postage on Transient Printed Matter.

[All printed matter (except single copies of newspapers, magazines and periodicals to regular subscribers) sent via Overland Mail, is to be charged at letter postage rates.]

BOOKS, not over 4 oz. in weight, to one address, 4 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 8 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 12 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 16 cts.

CIRCULARS, not exceeding three in number, to one address, 2 cts.; over three and not over six, 4 cts.; over six and not over nine, 6 cts.; over nine and not exceeding twelve, 8 cts.

ON MISCELLANEOUS MAILABLE MATTER, (embracing all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, handbills and posters, book manuscripts and proof-sheets, whether corrected or not, maps, prints, engravings, sheet music, blanks, flexible patterns, samples and sample cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes or wrappers, cards, paper, plain or ornamental, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, and scions,) the postage to be pre-paid by stamps, is, on one package to one address, not over 4 oz. in weight, 2 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 4 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 6 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 8 cts.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General, the fifth subdivision of the 42d instruction of the new Post Office Law, has been amended by striking out the word twelve and inserting thirty-two before the word ounces, so that it shall read as follows—"The weight of packages of seeds, cuttings, roots and scions, to be franked, is limited to thirty-two ounces."

All mail matter not sent at letter rates of postage, embracing books, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, and other printed matter, and all other mail matter except seeds, must be so wrapped or enveloped with open sides or ends as to enable the postmaster to examine the package without destroying the wrapper, otherwise such packages must be rated with letter postage. No communication, whether in writing or in print, can be sent with any seeds, roots, cuttings or scions, maps, engravings or other matter not printed, except upon the separate payment of postage upon each separate matter at the established rates.

Exchange newspapers and periodicals cannot be remailed without being chargeable with postage.

Where packages of newspapers or periodicals are received at any post office directed to one address and the names of the club of subscribers to which they belong, with the postage for a quarter in advance, shall be handed to the postmaster, he shall deliver the same to their respective owners. But this does not apply to weekly newspapers which circulate free in the county where printed and published.

Weekly newspapers and all other printed matter to the British North American Provinces, although sent from countries bordering on the line, are chargeable with the same rates as when sent to any point in the United States.

☞ All transient matter must be prepaid by stamps. But if it comes to the office of delivery without prepayment, or short-paid, the unpaid postage must be collected on delivery at double the prepaid rate. Great neglect exists in the strict quarterly prepayment of postage on printed matter sent to regular subscribers. No such paper should be delivered, unless it is either prepaid at the mailing office, or at the delivery office for at least a quarter. If not so prepaid, postmasters must collect postage on each copy as on transient matter. If they fail, they will be charged with the full postage due, and in clear cases removed from office for neglect.

To inclose or conceal a letter or other thing (except bills and receipts for subscription) in, or to write or print anything, after its publication, upon any newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, is illegal, and subjects such printed matter, and the entire package of which it is a part, to letter postage.

Any word or communication, whether by printing, writing, marks or signs, upon the cover or wrapper of a newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, other than the name and address of the person to whom it is to be sent, and the date when subscription expires, subjects the package to letter postage.

RATES OF POSTAGE ON PRINTED MATTER FOR FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

1. TO OR FROM GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND, IN UNITED STATES AND BRITISH MAILS.—Newspapers two cents each without regard to weight; pamphlets and periodicals, two cents each if not weighing over two ounces, and four cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce if exceeding two ounces; which is the United States postage only; but pamphlets weighing over eight ounces, or periodicals weighing over sixteen ounces, are chargeable with letter postage. Books and all other descriptions of printed matter, are subject to letter rate of postage. Neither pamphlets nor periodicals are entitled to conveyance in the British mail, through England, to countries on the Continent of Europe.

2. TO OR FROM FRANCE, ALGERIA, OR IN FRENCH MAIL OR VIA ENGLAND.—Newspapers, periodical works, books stitched or bound, pamphlets, catalogues, papers of music, prospectuses, circulars, and all other kinds of printed matter addressed to France, Algeria, or cities of Turkey, Syria, and Egypt in which France has post offices, (viz: Alexandria, Alexandretta, Beyrout, Constantinople, Dardanelles, Galatz, Gallipoli, Ibraila, Ineboli, Jaffa, Kerassund, Latakia, Messina, in Asiatic Turkey, Mitylene, Rhodes, Salonica, Samsoun, Sinopo, Smyrna, Sulino, Trebizond, Tripoli, in Syria, Tultcha, Varna, and Volo,) can be despatched to France direct, or by way of England, on prepayment of the United States postage, viz: newspapers, two cents each; periodical works, catalogues, or pamphlets, two cents per four ounces or fraction thereof; and all other kinds of printed matter the same as domestic rates; to be in all cases collected in the United States, whether sent or received. France in like manner collects its own postage on all kinds of printed matter, whether sent or received.

3 TO OR FROM THE GERMAN-AUSTRIAN POSTAL UNION IN THE PRUSSIAN CLOSED MAIL.—Newspapers sent in the Prussian closed mail are chargeable with a postage of six cents each, prepayment compulsory, being in full to destination to any part of the German Austrian Postal Union. Newspapers received come fully prepaid at same rate of postage, and are to be delivered without charge. No provision is made for the transmission of other articles of printed matter in the Prussian closed mail, at less than letter rate of postage.

4. TO OR FROM GERMANY, VIA BREMEN OR HAMBURG MAIL.—Newspapers sent from the United States by the Bremen or Hamburg line, three cents each, prepayment required. This pays to any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union.

Newspapers received by the Bremen or Hamburg line are in like manner prepaid in Germany. DEXHEIMER'S COMBINED STAMPING CUSHION AND PAD.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington, August 9, 1865.

SIR—Your favor of the 28th ult., with model of a new Stamping Tablet and Cushion, is received. The merit of your invention is perceptible at a glance, and has my hearty approval. The plan of its arrangement, together with its compact and portable form, are such as to recommend it to general use. I have no doubt, that its adoption by postmasters would tend to give a plainer post-mark upon letters; as well as a better defacement of the postage stamp. You have, therefore, the best wishes of this Department for its introduction among the various post offices of the country.

Very respectfully,
A. N. ZEVELY,
3d Ass't Postmaster General.

CHRISTIAN DEXHEIMER,
Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The Inventor of the combined Stamping Cushion and Pad, above referred to, is now prepared to furnish the same, "ready for use," to postmasters and others at the following rates:

No. 1, $6.00; No. 2, $3.50. Also, the best prepared Stamping ink furnished by the pound or less.
CHR. DEXHEIMER,
Post Office Clerk,
Milwaukee, Wis.

KRAUS' NEW STAMPING PAD

Is all that is necessary for

This PAD recommends itself when seen or used. No one will ever be without who has used one, or look for any other. It gives a clean, clear impression; does not gum the type; is not affected by the weather, and is certain death to postage stamps or bank paper.

The new Pad and Ink can be obtained from me or $2.50 (two dollars and fifty cents.)

M. KRAUS, Milwaukie, Wis.

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

TO THE BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

Cape Breton, Pr'e Edward's Island, and Nova Scotia. To Newfoundland prepayment required. To Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., any distance. | * 10 cents when not over 3,000 miles from the line of crossing. * 15 cents when distance exceeds 3,000 miles. Prepayment optional.

Steamers of the Cunard line sail from Boston twice each month, touching at Halifax, and when letters are sent by that conveyance for Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Prince Edward's Island, the U. S. postage is 5 cents the single rate, to be prepaid. The inland rate is collected on delivery. On newspapers by this route, the postage is two cents each.

Newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and sent to regular subscribers in the British North American Provinces, or published in those Provinces and sent to regular subscribers in the United States, are chargeable with the regular prepaid quarterly rates of United States postage to and from the line; which postage must be collected at the office of mailing in the United States on matter sent, and at the office of delivery in the United States on matter received. In like manner, such matter, if transient, is chargeable with the regular domestic transient printed matter rates to and from the line, to be collected at the office of mailing or delivery in the United States, as the case may be. Editors, however, may exchange free of expense.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS.

Valuable letters for Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line via New York, or by the Prussian closed mail via New York and Boston, as also letters addressed to Great Britain and Canada, will be registered on the application of the person posting the same, in the same manner and on the same terms as those deliverable in the United States, provided that the full postage chargeable thereon to destination, together with a registration fee of twenty cents on each letter to Great Britain or Ireland, and five cents on each letter to the other places mentioned above, is prepaid at the mailing office. Such letters should be mailed and forwarded to the respective United States exchange offices in the same manner as domestic registered letters are mailed to those offices.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS, ETC.

Letters addressed to Great Britain and Ireland are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, a single rate being charged for each half ounce, &c.

Letters in the mail to France are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of one quarter ounce; double rate if exceeding a quarter, but not exceeding half an ounce; and so on, an additional rate being charged for each quarter ounce or fractional part of a quarter ounce. Letters addressed to the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, and the British North American Provinces, are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, one rate being charged for each half ounce or fractional part of half an ounce. Postmasters, should be careful, where the postage is prepaid, to collect the proper amount. They should be particular to notice the route indicated on the envelopes of letters, and to collect postage accordingly. Letters mailed at some offices, marked "via England," or "via Prus'n closed mail," for a German State, are frequently taken upon the prepayment of Bremen rates, and those marked "via Bremen," at Prussian closed rates, &c.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS GOING VIA FRANCE

In the case of letters to be forwarded in the British mail for transmission from England via "Marseilles," the French postage is rated at 6 cents the quarter ounce, except on letters for Java, China, Labuan, Borneo, Japan, the Moluccas and Philipine Islands, which are rated at eight cents per half ounce, and except, also, on letters for Syria and Tunis, by French packet, when the single French rate is 12 cents per quarter ounce.

The rates by "French mail" are in full to destination, except to the following places, viz.: Aden, Batavia, Ceylon, China, cities of Turkey, in Europe, except as herein mentioned, via Austria, countries to which correspondence can be sent via Suez, countries beyond seas, via France, other than those enumerated, East Indies, Gibralter, Hong Kong, Java, Mauritius, Montenegro, Penang, Portugal, Isle of Re-Union, Servia, (except Belgrade,) Shanghai, Singapore and Spain. The limit of prepayment to Spain, Portugal and Gibralter, is Behobia; to Servia, (except Belgrade,) Montenegro, and cities of Turkey in Europe, except as herein mentioned, "via Austria;" the frontier of Turkey and Austria; to Aden, East Indies, Ceylon, China, and other countries via Suez, the seaports of the Indies, or of the sea of China to which the English packets ply; and to places beyond seas, other than those designated, the limit is the port of arrival in the country of destination.

RATES ON PAMPHLETS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

On pamphlets and magazines, to or from the West coast of South America, the United States postage is four cents; and to or from all other foreign countries, (except Great Britain, Belgium, and the German States, via Bremen or Hamburg mail,) two cts. per 4 oz. or fraction thereof, to be collected in all cases in the United States.

Newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries (particularly to the continent of Europe) must be sent in narow bands, open at the sides or ends; otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage.

ROUTES OF TRANSMISSION, ETC.

To prevent mistakes at the exchange offices, it is desirable that the particular routes by which letters are to be forwarded from the United States to Europe, should be distinctly written on the covers. Letters intended for transmission in the open mail to England, should bear the direction "open mail via England;" if for transmission in the French mail, they should be directed, "via France in French mail;" if for transmission by closed mail to Prussia, they should be directed "via Prussian closed mail;" if for transmission in the closed mail to Belgium, they should be directed "via Belgian closed mail;" and if for transmission by the New York and Bremen line to Bremen, or by the New York and Hamburg line to Hamburg, they should be directed "via Bremen," or "via Hamburg."

It is important that letters addressed to Germany and other European countries, via France, where the single rate per quarter ounce is 21 cents, should be plainly marked to be sent via France; otherwise they may be missent in the open mail to Liverpool by United States packet, the 21 cent rate per half ounce being also chargeable on letters thus forwarded.

Curious Letters to Postmasters.

Postmasters, especially those at the larger offices, are sometimes the recipients of very odd letters, containing strange requests and revealing strange secrets. From among a number of such which have been sent to us we select a few, which there is no impropriety in publishing. The first is from a lady who seeks a more congenial mate than the one from whom she has been divorced. In order, however, to avoid exciting any false hopes in the breasts of our [illegible]aders [illegible] will state that the letter [illegible] over two years ago, and that so energetic and sanguine a lady has, beyond all doubt, long since found the "one true soul to love" of which she was then in search:

W———.

Gentleman. Postmaster, Sir, you may wonder at this strange introduction but, did you know my true histry you would not. I was Married young aganest the wish of all my friends, for, 20, years did not live but eedured the time but did not live. I was true to my Husband and he was enny thing but that to me. I have, 2, honest and prety Boys, when my proud spiret could bare his treatment no longer and being weary of suporting my little famaly with my needle and seeing it in vain to reforme him I broke loose from the feters that bound me. I was to independant to call on those that had forsakea me and knowing that Lawyer W. of P. was a Cosin of mine I found places for my sones and went to the City where he lived, there found him. He treated me like a sister, told me, I deserved what I came after, there in the B Houa for long Months served for, Mrs, H, that once lived in your City untill the kind Lawyer pronounced me free and independant he told me my bisness was done strong, and acording to Law it could not be broken. I then returned home or rather back to this state, for I had no home, and there with the help of my kind neighbours have for 2 years fed and clothed my self and youngest son, the other is now able to take care of him self. I have found agood home now for my little son in a dry Goods store and am now determind if there is one as true a heart and soul in this wourld as I am bould to say my own is, I will find him. and now stranger one favour I ask of you: this is a free Country and I have as good a right to loock for a cind honest and true Husband as you men have to loock for a Wife, and I will stand or fall on my own independance. I want a home and ~~one true soul to love. I do not wish to be~~ suported a lady. if you will alow me to speek in my own prase I am not ashamed to be seen in a Citchen, and no one need be ashamed of me in a parlour. I have kept my self aloof from all men, and as I have said before if there is one true soul on earth with a little help I will find him. If you kind Sir know of a man that needes an honest true and faitbful Wife read this to him, and eather you or him rite to me. All I ask of him is to tell the truth, one half of the time stay at home, one half of the time provide what I want to eat. I will coock it, by his Cloths and I will make them. If you will take some trouble to find the man you shall be rewareded in heaven and on earth there is no person but my self shall know enny thing about this letter nether can you know my right name unless you find the man. If you should do so and ether you or him wishes to see me I will send you a perfect likness of my selet as soon as I receve answer to this, and if you are sucsessfull if you undertake the task and he should wish to see me personly I will meet him enny place he will mention this side of that City. Now if you wish to oblige one truet worthy woman please answer this as soon as posable for I donot Intend to stay in this place more than (2) weeks. If you take the task upon yourselef and doonot succeed in (2) weeks then direct to B——— M——— County, to Mrs P T My age is (38) my helt is (100). If you do not wish to asist me I am not one to despare at the first atemt I have plenty ofers here but a true heart is what I want.

Here is one from an Othello, who hases jealousy of his Desdemona upon a rather singular foundation. How the proof or refutation of her statement that by a fall from the Post Office steps her nasal feature received a wound, can corroborate or disprove reports unfavorable to Mrs. J.'s "caracter" we are unable to conjecture. Still, there may be something in it—who nose? A handkerchief (the gift of an Egyptian to his mother, as Shaksperean readers will remember,) played a prominent part in the domestic difficulties of the unhappy Moor of Venice; and if a handkerchief, why not a nose?

June '66

A French lady, desiring to have forwarded to another post office any letters which might have arrived for her at the New York office, makes the request in the following letter, which, as a specimen of French-English, it would be not very easy to surpass:

Could you oblige me to do transmission at the Post-office of S———, letters with the Address M. A. A. R. 1832.——— despatched of France, or Espagne at the post-office of New York If this letters, very important from me, been not arrived to New York, I am requested you from take avis from this reclamation Sir, and to give the commandement at your administration that this letters arrived had send at me from S———.

If space could be spared, we would give several other samples of the same sort, but will postpone them to a more convenient season.

Monsieur Tonson Again.

BETWEEN BOSTON AND BUFFALO.

I spent two weeks in the woods and waters of Northern New York after my narrow escape from the border peace preservers, and met with the most extraordinary success. Fish, flesh and fowl yielded to my hooks and bullets every time, and my fame as a sportsman stood high with the dwellers in tents and shanties among the sylvan shades of "John Brown's tract." Too much good luck, however, and a holy horror of mosquitoes and other members of the long-nebbed fly family, entirely surfeited me, and I grew tired of the truly rural recreation, packed my traps, and prepared to travel towards the St. Lawrence river, to try my skill [illegible]longes—a species of pickerel found only in that river or its tributaries, I believe, and varying in size from a shad to a shark. But my first care was to get out of the woods, and as the primitive two wheeled vehicle which conveyed me thither had dropped me, and gone, the Lord knows where, I was under the dire necessity of chartering a horse and hiring a guide to accomplish my purpose. Now, I wish you to understand distinctly that I do not affect equestrian exercise, and under ordinary circumstances I would sooner travel five miles afoot than one astride a treacherous quadruped. Why, it is so long since I indulged in a canter across the country that I would entirely forget the circumstances were it not for the fact that the animal I rode suddenly and obstinately refused to leap over a low fence, which I had approached with a dash, standing ~~in my stirrups ready for the spring, and without~~ the slightest apology sent me over alone. I was considerably contused and confused; but I rallied as soon as possible, fearful that my charger had scampered away, but to my great surprise, and greater disgust, there he stood looking at me as meek and motionless as a marble lamb. After that occurrence I lost all taste for horse exercise. But necessity sometimes obliges us to abandon the strongest prejudices, and in the present instance I was very glad to avail myself of the services of Cavout and his horse, both of Canadian French extraction. There was nothing very winning or alarming in the appearance of the beast; he evidently scorned a superfluity of flesh, and the skin was drawn so tight over his framework of bones and sinews as to show every joint and angle to the greatest perfection. He lacked an eye, and his tail, which was pretty long, was entirely destitute of hair: these imperfections somewhat detracted from his natural beauty, but Cavout said he was sure footed and gentle, and that satisfied me. In his peculiar kind of English he went on to say "Dis a hos same like a man; he no bite, no keek, no ruaway, no notin'; he hin old stage hos twenty year; no dangy wis him. Sometime he make me vex, for he know de post office in all de village, and it is amposib to make him go on, wen he come dere, before two, tree, six minute; excep dat, he's all right." And so he was, for he brought me to my destination in good season, slightly damaged, it is true, but being naturally thin skinned, that was to be expected.

Seated in a Mexican saddle away up on the camel-shaped back of my veteran steed, with my luggage strapped behind me and my gun swung over my shoulder, I probably bore some distant resemblance to a Bedouin Arab; at least this or some other cause made me wonderfully attractive to the rural human productions of the sparsely populated district through which we passed, and as I journeyed along many a dilated juvenile eye followed me with a "last, long, lingering, wondering look." But I was thinking of something else. The twenty years' experience of a stage horse occupied my mind; and I pictured to myself what sights he had seen, and, if endowed with speech, what tales he could tell of the mails' delay, of unfit and unsafe drivers, and of the gross neglect of many village and hamlet Postmasters too ignorant to comprehend, too cowardly to correct, or too lazy to report such abuses of the service to the remedial department. Poor old horse! your lips were sealed, and the offenders are safe; but true to your ancient instinct you did stop at several Post Offices, luckily just as the mail arrived, and, under the influence of my ruling passion, I dismounted, ostensibly to stretch my limbs, but really for the purpose of observing the customs of the country officials. There is but one bag used on this route, I believe; this is opened and the contents overhauled at each office, the local matter picked out, and the balance returned to the bag, which is despatched to the next office to go through the same process. To do this requires but a very little time; but the prurient curiosity of a good many of these primitive Paul Pry's is so inappeasable that every letter and every paper must undergo the strictest scrutiny, back and front, before it is allowed to slip from their fingers. One old fellow in particular amused me a good deal. His office was in the rear part of a vacant store room, and the little light that struggled to reach it through the front door was so perfectly neutralized that I could get but a dingy view of his mode of operations. Through the broken glass of an unused box I saw him dump the mail stuff on the floor, and then sitting down himself a la Turk, he proceeded leisurely to go through the pile. Not a scrap of anything passed out of his hand until it was thoroughly inspected. He would look at the superscription, holding it close to his eye, then at arms' length, over his spectacles and under his spectacles, varying the position of the letter or paper frequently to get the benefit of the feeble light that pervaded the place. Every now and then something peculiar would attract his attention; his chin would drop on his breast, his tongue would dart out, and his nostrils would swell and vibrate in the most approved rabbit habit, and his eyebrows, from sympathy, perhaps, stooped and rose and kept step with the nervous nasal dance underneath. All this time the stage was waiting and the passengers grumbling; but the unconcerned driver leaned lazily against a tree outside, and harangued an admiring crowd of about six or seven on the rise, progress and fall of mad dogs. He related some alarming adventures and narrow escapes; and when he told of a rabid animal biting the spokes of one of the wheels of his vehicle—which in a minute shrunk so much that the tire came off—there was not a doubting Thomas among his auditors. Meanwhile the Postmaster was vigorously plying his eyes and fingers, and at last got through, and in a shrill, hissing voice sung out, "Here you are, Raif!" This was the signal for a general "mount and away." But the unlawful and improper detention at the Post Office ensured the failure to connect at the railway station, and the mail, of course, was delayed twenty-four hours. Now this is not the only route where such things occur, and if Postmasters at the various termini would do their duty they would see that mail stage drivers are sober, trustworthy men, and their intermediate official brethren competent, prompt and scrupulously careful in the performance of their duties, according to law and in obedience to instructions, and prevent much dissatisfaction among the public and the consequent unwelcome visits of inquiring attaches of the Inspection Department.

Communications.

P. O., INNUBIBUS, N. Y.

Editor U. S. Mail:—In my previous letter I promised you some of my reflections on the second of the two leading causes of Post Office depredations which presented themselves to my mind. And now that my "model office" is closed for the day; now that the almost incessant tread of big feet and little feet, male feet and female feet, shod feet and shoeless feet, is hushed: now that the various tones and modes of inquiry from the short, curt "John Smith?" or the low, sweet-toned "Miss Esmeralda Puffenbeimer?" to the "Will you plaze, sir, be afther lookin' if there's ara commands, sir, in the Post Office, from the ould country, for Patrick Mulloney, in the care of Barney O Flanagan, sir; but maybe it's directed to his sister Bridget, in the care of meself, for sure we've haven't had a letther this six months," no longer reach the ear; and now that my pipe of peace with the whole world, including myself, is smoked, I take my pen to redeem my promise.

I alleged two leading causes for Post Office depredations, viz.: "Prying curiosity and inexcusable want of money." It is my purpose now to speak of the latter. Some may say it is a curious, if not meaningless expression, and may ask "what is an inexcusable want as opposed to an excusable one?" The answer is, any want created by living in a style beyond the limit of one's income is an inexcusable want. A person must dress, but if he dresses better than his salary will allow, he will find in a short time that he will want money: this want will be such as I call inexcusable. So, too, where he indulges in pleasures beyond his means to procure. It seems to me that a person who has thus incurred expenses he cannot meet not only exposes himself to increased temptation, but removes a strong barrier to his yielding to it. Under the most favorable circumstances temptation besets a clerk in a Post Office more strongly than in almost any kind of employment; and hence, he should be careful, by a prudent living within his means, not to increase this temptation. Not being thus prudent, he some day thinks he would like a drive, and accordingly pays a good round sum for a few hours' pleasure; before his next quarters' salary is due he finds an empty pocket book in his pocket; and how shall he refill it? He knows money is passing through his hands; he does not know whose it is; the person he will injure is a stranger to him; and, above all, he thinks there is but little chance of detection; and so he provides the means for his enjoyment.

Within a few years a class of vampires has sprung up who make use of the Post Office to practice on the credulity, and, indeed, the cupidity, of those living in the country, too far away to inquire into their respectability, or aid in bringing them to justice. In fact, these vampires use the mails alike to reach their victims and to screen themselves from responsibility. I refer to gift jewelry dealers, who issue certificates, as they call them. I think I can see the grim, sardonic smiles of some of these creatures as they enclose to some green and greedy dupe a half dozen of their certificates. But, as I was saying, I refer to those men who issue certificates, purporting to entitle the holder, on the payment of a few dollars, to a splendid watch, or elegant bracelet, or a magnificent diamond ring. The dupe sends the money, but never receives the watch, or whatever it may be; and for this the Post Office is blamed. It is alleged that either the letter containing the money was taken or else the goods. But even if it does sometimes happen that the money is purloined in a Post Office, this does not alter the relation between the vampire and his victim; for, had the money been duly received, no watch or jewelry would have been sent. Now, here is the point I wish to make. These men are a species of thief; in a little while the Post Office clerk becomes familiar with their characters; he knows them to be swindlers; he knows that money coming to their hands will not be acknowledged, and if, by force of circumstances, it is acknowledged, that the Post Office can apparently be made to screen their villainy by the charge that the goods were sent, and must have been taken by some Post Office clerk; he knows that under any circumstances the sender will lose his money, and hence, having created an inexcusable want of money, and thereby weakened his barrier to temptation, he says to himself, "This money is going to a thief, and I may as well have it as he." There is a speciousness in this argument of which all who handle letters would do well to beware; for, though one may be able to satisfy his conscience with the sophistry that stealing stolen goods from a thief is no crime; yet, so long as the law remains as it now is, no sophistry or argument will make "Stealing valuable letters from the mails" anything but a crime. But here I am spinning out my letter. I will, then, but add—honesty and integrity are the best safeguards for all connected with postal affairs, and these should be their rule of conduct; but let every one who will not make them such ever bear in mind that the very letter he thinks will "put money in his purse" may be the one to expose him to the world as a thief, and to send him to a prison cell.

Perhaps I ought to apologize to the readers of the Mail for saying so much on this not very agreeable topic. But of course each one will understand that what I have said is intended for general, and not for particular application.

Yours truly,
NICOTINUS.

POST OFFICE, CHICAGO, ILL.

The uninitiated in Post Office matters can have but little conception of how necessary it is in large offices that the letter clerk should have the best geographical, as well as phonographical education, in order to forward letters of various writers to their desired destination; as instance a letter which came to the Chicago office recently with the following address, written in a plain hand:

Mr. GEORGE T. PUGH,
tuke twine, Percy County.
Elen Wouise.

No one could be at a loss to ascertain for whom the letter was intended, but where to send it was the question. Percy county could very easily be transformed to Perry county, and, having been a constant reader of the Tribune, a little practical use of the advantages of phonography enabled the apt student to determine that "Elea Wouise" might mean "Illinois." "Tuke twine," however, was rather a poser, even for our Chicago boys; but as they never surrender, and to conquer it was necessary to know to what office it should be sent, they conned over the different names in that county, and finding Daquoin, at once concluded they had fathomed the mysterious direction, and the letter was soon on its way to

GEORGE T. PUGH,
Duquoin,
Perry County,
Illinois.

☞ The Zanesville (Ohio) Courier gives the following account of a discovery made at the Zanesville Post Office:

A BIRD IN A MAIL BAG.—This morning, when Mr. W. Reed, Chief Clerk in the Post Office, emptied the mail bag for this city from Philadelphia, Pa., out flew a small young bird of the sap-sucker species, scarcely old enough to fly. After some little trouble the bird was secured, and on examination it was found that the only damage it had received from its incarceration in the United States mail bag from Philadelphia to this city was a small bruise on one of its wings. It seemed to be a little stupid from its long fast. How it could have escaped death when enclosed among the mail matter with which the bag was filled is marvelous; and how it came in the sack is equally a mystery. Yesterday morning, from a mail bag from the same city, when opened, out jumped a little mouse, healthy and sound, which soon took up quarters in the building, apparently well satisfied with the change. We will soon expect to hear of some of the clerks in the Philadelphia Post Office coming through the same way.

Mr. Reed designs taking the greatest care of his little sap-sucker.

Letter Addresses.

Speed, speed ye to Memphis, in old Tennessee,
Where there is a friend who is waiting for thee;
He is not an old resident, but a new comer,
And ever subscribes himself BURRILL T. PLUMMER.
But maybe 'twere well that the mail men should know
I'd have this to reach E. S. BURRILL & Co.:
And further, to make this direction complete,
Their number is 201 on Main street.

"In the State of Minnesota there is a Town so pretty
That they have christened it 'Garden City.'
Now this is the place for this message to go,
But the name of the county I really don't know.
Still, in hopes that John Wilson 'twill reach without fail,
We will send it afloat in Uncle Sam's Mail."

"P. M. of Garden Prarie, Illinois,
Please hand this to the 'Porter boys,'
For sister 'Lib,' who feels so nice
Since she has captured Mr. Tice."

Registering Letters.

"It is of the utmost importance that postmasters should exercise the greatest care and diligence in the custody and despatch of registered letters."—Instructions issued by Postmaster General with Act of March 3, 1863.

[We have compiled from the regulations of the Department the following instructions in regard to the registration of letters. They are intended especially for the benefit of postmasters at the smaller offices, and include replies to many questions on this subject, which we are constantly receiving from our subscribers.]

REGISTERED LETTER BLANKS.—All the blanks which are required for use in the registration of letters can be obtained by addressing the Blank Agents of the Department, whose names and addresses will be found in another column.

REGISTRATION FEES.—The registration fee on all registered domestic letters is twenty cents, and the same on letters to Great Britain and Ireland. On those to Canada, and to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line, or by Prussian closed mail, the fee is five cents. The places mentioned above are the only foreign countries to which letters can be sent registered. The full postage on all registered letters, both foreign and domestic, must be prepaid by stamps.—(See last column of fourth page of this paper.)

RECEIVING LETTERS FOR REGISTRATION.—A sheet is furnished by the Blank Agents, on application by postmasters, on the right hand of which is printed the form of "Registered Letter Receipt," in the centre the "Return Registered Letter Receipt," and on the left hand the "Marginal Entry." When a letter is presented for registration, the postmaster should give to the depositor the registered letter receipt, (right hand) first entering therein the registered number of the letter, the date of deposit, the name of his post office, the name and residence of the depositor, and the address of the letter. In the Return Registered Letter Receipt, (centre) should be entered the same items, and also in the Marginal Entry, (left hand.) This latter is to be retained by the postmaster, and the return receipt disposed of as hereinafter directed. No entry of the sum each to be contained in the letter is required to, or should, be made.

PREPARING REGISTERED LETTERS FOR MAILING.—After the above directions have been followed, the postmaster will fill up a "Registered Letter Bill," (which is printed on the back of the ordinary post-bills headed "Unpaid Letters," which are supplied to all small offices,) entering therein the same items which are entered in the "Return Receipt;" but being careful, when intending to forward the registered letter through a Distributing Post Office, to insert the name of that office instead of that of the office which the letter is intended finally to reach. (In all cases, however, the "Return Receipt" must be filled up with the name of the office of final destination.) Then he will fill up the "Return Bill," (which must not be confounded with the "Return Receipt") in the same manner; then enclose the letter, the "Registered Letter Bill" and the "Return Receipt" in a sealed envelope, marked "Reg." or "Registered," and addressed to the postmaster of the office to which he intends to forward it.—[N. B. The instruction printed on the present "Registered Letter Bills," to the effect that postmasters are "not required to put up registered letters in a separate envelope," &c., has been rescinded by the Department, and all registered letters are now required to be so put up.] Then he will enclose it in a wrapper, marked with the name of the same office to which he has addressed the envelope in which he has placed the letter. The package should then be placed in the mail and sent forward—but should never be placed in a bundle of letters intended for distribution—as a registered letter is always intended to reach the postmaster of whatever office it is sent to, and consequently is not, strictly speaking, a distribution letter, although it may be sent to a Distributing Office.

MAILING REGISTERED LETTERS.—It is advisable for postmasters, at all small offices, to mail such of their registered letters as are intended for offices outside of their respective States, to the first Distributing Post Office on the route over which it is intended the letters shall pass—being careful to address the sealed envelope in which they enclose them, to the postmaster of that office, and also marking the name of that office on the wrapper, and being sure that the "Registered Letter Bill" is also filled up with the name of that office. In short, registered letters sent through a Distributing Post Office, should be mailed and billed exactly the same as though they were intended for delivery there. It is only when registered letters are sent direct that the bill should be filled up with the name of the office of final destination.

THE "RETURN BILL."—This should be filled up exactly in the same manner, and bear the same date as the "Registered Letter Bill," but should be sent in the next mail which leaves the office after the one in which the letter it refers to was sent. It should be enclosed in an envelope addressed to the postmaster of the same office to which the letter was sent, whether for delivery or for distribution.

ACCOUNTS OF REGISTERED LETTERS "SENT" AND "RECEIVED."—Separate blank sheets for these accounts are furnished by the Department, and may be procured by application to the different Blank Agents. On these are entered the dates of receiving (and sending) registered letter bills, the names of the offices to which the letters are sent (and from which they are received,) the registered numbers of the letters, the names of the persons to whom they are addressed, and the amounts of the registry fees paid on them. These sheets will be retained by postmasters, copies being forwarded to the Department with the Quarterly Accounts.

DELIVERY OF REGISTERED LETTERS.—On receiving a registered letter for delivery, the postmaster should deliver it only to the person to whom it is addressed, or to some person whom he knows to be authorized to receive it, taking a receipt therefor, and also requiring the person to whom he delivers it to sign the "Return Receipt" which accompanies it. This "Return Receipt" he should then forward by first mail to the postmaster of the office at which the letter was originally mailed. When the "Return Bill" arrives, (which it should by next mail after the letter,) it should be marked "correct," and signed by the postmaster, and then forwarded by first mail to the postmaster of the office at which it is dated, whether that be a Distributing Office or the one at which the letter was originally mailed. If, however, a "Return Bill" arrives, and the letter which it calls for has not been received, the "Return Bill" must be marked "not received," signed by the postmaster, and returned in the same manner.

FORWARDING REGISTERED LETTERS.—When a registered letter arrives, addressed to a person who has removed, or who for any other cause wishes it forwarded to him at another office, it may be done at his written request. The order to forward should be posted on the account of registered letters received, opposite the name of the person making the request. The letter should then be sent forward as a registered letter—in the same manner as if originally mailed as one; but no additional registry fee is to be charged on it. The order to forward must be filed in the office of forwarding, as a voucher for the action had in the case.

Fraudulent Circular

The following circular has been received by a large number of Postmasters. It is of course an impudent attempt to defraud those to whom it was sent, but the scheme is such a clumsy one that it is likely to meet with very limited success. If any Postmasters have responded (pecuniarily) to this appeal, however, let them note in their private accounts the purchase of five dollars worth of experience:

"UNITED WE STAND, DIVIDED WE FALL."

Mr. ——:

DEAR SIR: As you are one of the P. M's holding your appointment under the present administration, it is taken for granted that you are a good and true Johnson man, and that confidence can be placed in you for the purpose of cementing and uniting all the Johnson men in your district, so that there will be no disunion between the Johnson men and all the conservatives in your section.

1. This circular is to be kept PRIVATE; no person is to have access to it but yourself.

2. If you are true to the party, you will do as above requested.

3. If you are not a Johnson man, you will, in confidence send this back, as all circulars are numbered, with the name of each man attached.

4. If you are true to the administration, you are to be made Deputy of your District.

5. If you keep this circular and intend to do all you can for the party, and become equally prominent and efficient, you will on receipt of this, forward to me by mail $5, for which I will send a Charter and Ritual, authorizing you in said charter to act as Deputy in your District.

6. I cannot explain anything further in this circular, as you can see all would be exposed at once.

7. None will know the secret but those who comply with the above and receive the charter.

Yours, &c., E. L. WILLIAMS, Sec'y.

Reports of Missing Letters.

Many Postmasters, in reporting to the department or to Special Agents complaints of missing letters, perform that duty in a rather imperfect, not to say careless manner. In fact, they often seem to lose sight altogether of the object of such reports, and to suppose that when they have announced the bare fact that a letter is missing, they have done all that is required of them in the matter. It is not a very long step towards the recovery of a letter which appears to have gone astray, for a Postmaster to tell the Department that "a letter containing money was sent from this office a few weeks ago, addressed to a firm in Chicago, which is said not to have been received," and to wind up with the request, "Please instruct me what to do about it." All reports of missing letters should state every circumstance connected with the case which may be necessary or useful in its investigation. The exact date of mailing; the name and address of the writer; the precise direction, (if possible a duplicate envelope directed in the same manner and same handwriting as the letter said to be missing); the amount of money, if any, said to have been enclosed, with as close a description of the money as possible: these should always be stated. In addition thereto, other particulars—such as the route by which the letter was sent, whether other letters for the same destination were sent with it, whether it was sent "direct" or through a distributing Post Office, etc.—may be added. In short, a Postmaster, in such a case, should act as he would if the missing letter were his own.

In the case of a missing registered letter, special pains should be taken to give every item of information necessary to a thorough investigation of the cause of its non-receipt. In reporting such cases a Postmaster should describe exactly the manner in which it was prepared for mailing; how directed, wrapped and enclosed; by what route sent; in whose charge it was first placed on reaching the route, (whether railroad, stage or boat,) with any other facts which may tend to assist in tracing it. The reported loss of a registered letter provides for the Postmaster at the mailing office an appropriate occasion for carefully reading the Regulations concerning registration, and if he finds that in the case reported he or any of his subordinates has inadvertently omitted to follow strictly any of the rules there laid down, it will be his duty to include such omission in his report, and to take measures to prevent its recurrence

The Franking Privilege.

A provision of the postal laws which occasions much doubt and discussion among Postmasters is the Franking Privilege. We therefore conclude that some explanation of the subject will not be unacceptable to our readers.

The Franking privilege is specially conferred by law. A list of the persons entitled to it may be found in Section 124, of Regulations of 1866, and in Section 65, of the Internal Revenue Law, approved July 13, 1866. By the former it will also be seen that the privilege is divided into two classes, viz.: personal and official, the first of which belongs to the person, and embraces all correspondence of whatever kind, limiting the weight, however, except in the case of the President and Vice President, to four ounces, except petitions to Congress and Congressional or Executive documents, and such publications or books as have or may be published, procured or purchased by order of either House of Congress, or a joint resolution of the two Houses, to which no limit in weight is fixed. The personal privilege travels with the person possessing it, and can be exercised only at the place where he may be at the time. The second class embraces only such correspondence as is official, and, consequently, cannot travel with the person, but must be exercised only at the place where his office is located. In neither case can a person leave his frank behind him upon an envelope to be used by another party, even if that other party be his assistant or clerk. So strict is the law in this respect that it provides "that all letters or papers put into a Post Office bearing the frank of a privileged person who has notoriously not been in the vicinity of the Post Office for several days, or any such marked 'free,' and addressed to a privileged person, but notoriously intended for another not privileged, whether acting as his agent or not, should be treated by the Postmaster as 'unpaid matter,' and not as 'free.'"

Counterfeiting the frank of a person, or franking for another, is a fineable offence, and Postmasters are required to report these and all other violations of the privilege.

It must be understood that the franking privilege includes correspondence to as well as from the person possessing it; and "all communications on official business, of whatever origin, addressed to heads of Executive Departments of Government, or heads of bureaus therein, or to Chief Clerks of Departments, or one authorized by the Postmaster General to frank official matter, shall be received and conveyed by mail, free of postage, without being franked or endorsed 'Official Business'"

As it may be necessary, in the absence of a Postmaster, to send to other Postmasters letters on official business, the head clerk should endorse them, and frank his own name as acting Postmaster.

Postmasters and their clerks should study carefully Sections 72 and 73, and Chapter xv. of Regulations of 1866.

With regard to the franking privilege conferred by Section 65 of the Internal Revenue Law, (approved July 13, 1866, and which went into effect August 1,) it is provided by that Act that all official communications sent

By Assessors to Collectors,
" " " Assessors,
" " " Assistant Assessors,
By Assistant Assessors to Assessors,
" Collectors to Collectors,
" " " Assessors,
" " " Deputy Collectors, and
By Deputy Collectors to Collectors, may be officially franked by the writers thereof, and shall, when so franked, be transmitted by mail free of postage.

It will be observed that the privilege thus conferred is confined to correspondence between officials on official business. Official or other communications from these officials to private individuals cannot pass free, whether franked by the former or not.

Forwarding Letters Free.

We have received quite a number of inquiries relative to the provisions of Section 1, of the Act of June, 1866, relative to the forwarding, free, of letters from one Post Office to another. Peculiar cases have arisen in which Postmasters have been in doubt as to the application of this law, and we have received from the Department several decisions as to its proper construction. We give these below, as answers to those of our subscribers who have written to us on the subject:

1. The law referred to provides that "prepaid and free letters shall be forwarded, at the request of the party addressed, from one Post Office to another, without additional postage charge" A letter which has been delivered by the Post Office to an authorized person (such as one to whose care it is directed), and by him re-directed to another Post Office, and again deposited in the Post Office from which it was delivered, cannot be forwarded to its new address without the prepayment of domestic rates of postage in stamps.

2. Drop letters which the parties addressed desire to have forwarded to them in the mails to another Post Office can be so forwarded; but they must be charged on their face, and on the post bill, with letter postage—three cents for each half ounce or fraction thereof.

3. The provisions of this act do not apply to any form of mail matter whatever except letters. Neither books, newspapers, pamphlets nor circulars—in short, nothing but letters—are entitled to be forwarded free.

4. Neither paid nor unpaid foreign letters can be forwarded free under this act, which applies only to domestic letters.

A DISTINCTION WITH A DIFFERENCE.—The New Haven Register says that one afternoon during the recent "heated term," a gentleman on Church street taking compassion on the hard working clerks of the Post Office, suggested to them that a pitcher of lemonade or something of that sort would not be amiss, and like sensible fellows as they are, they cordially assented. Accordingly Austin Alling was commissioned to concoct the beverage and it was done in Kitty's artistic style. A dusky son of the South was commissioned to place the vessel within reach of the thirsty throats so anxiously expecting its arrival, and about that time Mr. Mailhouse, the well known dispenser of toys, etc., received what he regarded as a very generous gift from an unknown patron, and with a few lucky friends, proceeded to "punish it" without ceremony, but with many benisons on the head of the generous unknown. In the meantime a search had been instituted for the missing pitcher, and as a last resort the colored gentleman was called up to give an account of himself.

"Where did you take that pitcher?"

"Took it to the mail-house, sah?"

"What the —— did you take it to the Mail-house for?"

"Why, sah, down souf, we always call de post offis de mail-house. Same ting sah?"

Answers to Correspondents.

[Subscribers will greatly oblige us, and often save time and trouble, if they will, before sending us inquiries to be answered in this column, consult the various standing articles in the Mail under the heads of "Miscellaneous Information," "Domestic Postages," &c., &c., for information on the subject in regard to which they are in doubt. We receive a great number of questions, answers to which could readily be found by attending to this request.]

Postage on Dry Goods.—W. M. N——, N. Y.—All kinds of dry goods, whether in closed packages or in those with open ends, are subject to letter postages, except clothing to soldiers, for which see Section 223, postal laws of 1866.

Franking Privilege, Section 265 of Laws.—P. S, S· ——, N. Y.—Our reply applied to the character of mail matter that could be sent free to a member of Congress, and not to the weight. The weight is limited to four ounces except in the cases mentioned in Section 265.

Stamps Cut from Stamped Envelopes.—J. K. B., M——, Iowa.—Stamps cut from stamped envelopes cannot be used to prepay postage under any circumstances whatever, while the use of such stamps is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars; and Section 174, of Regulations of 1866, provides that they "lose their legal value." Section 189 provides that "the postage on stamped envelopes spoiled in directing may be refunded in stamps by a Postmaster, if satisfied they have never been sent by mail, and that the misdirection actually occurred at the place where the redemption is claimed. In no case is an envelope to be redeemed at the Post Office to which it is directed. See the Section for further information.

Carrier Refusing to take all the Mail for his Route.—S. S. T., P——, Col.—Mail carriers are required to take all the mails for their respective routes; you should, therefore, be careful to have all your mails ready at the proper time; if the carrier then refuses to take all, let him take such part as he chooses, and do you report the facts of the refusal immediately to the Contract office.

Postage on Drop Letters where there is not a Free Delivery.—T. B., P——, Fla.—The law reducing the postage on drop letters to one cent, where there is not a free delivery, was passed May 1, 1865. See Section 261, Laws of 1866.

Quarterly Newspaper Postage.—J. M. W., P——, Ill.—You will find your question answered under the head of "Domestic Postages," in another column.

Sending Printed Circulars in County Papers.—E. L. S., S——, Mich.—It is clearly illegal to send circulars in newspapers whether in or out of the county, and it subjects the papers to letter postage.

Postage on Foreign Papers sent by News Agents to Regular Subscribers., &c. W. W., F——, Ind.—1. The postage on such papers is chargeable at the regular quarterly rates, and can be paid at the office of delivery. 2. The postage on papers to Germany is six cents each; they must be put up singly, in narrow bands, open at the sides and ends, otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage.

Time of Closing Mails.—S. R., F——, Ill.—Section 76, of Regulations of 1866, provides that all mails at all offices other than distributing offices, are to be closed at not more than half an hour before the time fixed for their departure, unless the departure is between 9 o'clock P. M. and 5 A. M., in which case the mail is to be closed at 9 P. M.

Postal Route Maps, &c.—D. C., Mt. P——, Utah.—1. We can give you very little information respecting the Postal Route Maps, except that they are in preparation; but when they will be completed, or whether they will be furnished to Postmasters, either free or at a charge, we cannot say. 2. It is the purport of our paper to instruct on the postal laws as they are rather than discuss what they should be. The people of the section between Kansas and California should endeavor to procure a change through their members of Congress or Delegates.

Unlawful Carrying of Mail Matter.—D. F. P., E——, N. Y.—Section 198, of laws of 1866, after naming certain parties who shall be subject to fines and penalties for carrying mail matter, concludes as follows, viz.: "But nothing in this act contained shall be construed to prohibit the conveyance or transmission of letters, packets or packages, or other matter, to any part of the United States by private hands, no compensation being tendered or received therefor in any way, or by a special messenger employed only for the single particular occasion."

Postage on Manuscript Music. J. G. P., ——, Mass.—Manuscript music should be charged with letter postage.

Regulating the Salaries of Clerks, &c.—T. U. S. and C. A. M., ——, ——.—1. The Postmaster General makes the allowance for salary of clerks upon a statement by the Postmaster of the amount required. 2. Newspapers published in Canada and sent to regular subscribers in the United States are chargeable with the regular quarterly postage, to be collected at the office of delivery; transient papers are chargeable with the transient postage, viz.: two cents for four ounces. 3. Papers from Germany marked "paid," in red, are not chargeable with additional postage.

Distance between Post Offices.—M. H., P—— P—— F——, Tenn.—There is no law regulating the distances between Post Offices. The Postmaster General is authorized to establish, on post roads, Post Offices at all such places as may appear to him expedient.

Postmasters Reading Valuable Dead Letters.—G. W. S., N. Y——, N. Y.—Valuable dead letters are returned, under cover, to the Postmaster, and accompanied by instructions to him to read them carefully to discover the writer, but to preserve a profound secrecy respecting their contents. It follows, then, that the Postmaster did not go beyond his duty in reading the letter in question.

Postage on Drop Letters.—J. R. W., E——, Wis.—The postage on drop letters where there is a free delivery by carriers is two cents, at other places one cent.

Return Registered Letter Bill endorsed "Not Received."—H. T. K., N——, Minn.—Send a memorandum of the facts in the case to the Contract office, Inspection Division.

Disposition of Letters not Prepaid.—J. P. O., N—— L——. Ky.—Letters deposited in a Post Office and not prepaid one rate, must be marked "held for postage," and sent to the Dead Letter office immediately, accompanied with a list of the names they bear; a copy of this list must also be retained by the Postmaster.

Postage on Books to Canada.—S. H. B., W—— F——, R. I.—Postage on books and other printed matter can only be paid to the Canada line; this must be paid at the mailing office, in addition to which postage is collected at the office of delivery.

Letters not Postmarked, &c.—T. S., H—— H——, Texas.—1. If a Postmaster makes a regular practice of mailing letters without a postmark he should be reported to the Appointment Office for delinquency. 2. We do not know that there is any objection to a contractor, or his regular sworn driver, carrying the mail more frequently than is required by the contract; but it cannot be done by any one else. In your case you had better address the Contract Office, and the matter will doubtless be arranged satisfactorily according to your proposition. 3. Offices, the gross receipts of which are $100 a year, will be furnished with marking stamps, and if over $75 a year with rating stamps.

Forwarding Drop Letters.—H. A., O——, Neb.—Drop letters bearing a one or two cent stamp, when forwarded in the mails at the request of the person addressed, should be charged with letter postage, to be collected on delivery.

Forwarding Letters on which Postage is Due.—U. L., S——, Cal.—Such letters can be forwarded without additional charge, but the amount already charged must be collected at the office of delivery. For reply to your first question see preceding answer.

Account of Transient Newspaper Postage, &c.—P. H., ——, Mich.—1. This account can be kept in a book, and at the end of the quarter the amount added to the amount collected for regular newspapers. 2. The gross receipts of an office include all the money received on account of the Department, whether from postage, box rents, waste paper, &c. 3. For information respecting bills with your printed signature write to the Blank Agent who supplies you with blanks; and for answer to your question on forwarding mail matter see our article in another column. 4. The act of 1854 will be found in the Laws and Regulations of 1859; only such laws as are now in force are included in the edition of 1866.

Postage on Printed Matter Collected for a Year.—A. W. T., W——, Pa.—See preceding answer.

Franking Privilege.—Several correspondents who have addressed us on this subject are referred to our article to be found elsewhere.

Forwarding Printed Matter.—A. M. K., L——G——, Wis.—See article in another column.

Forwarding Letters addressed to the care of another, &c.—L. R., O——, Ill.—1. See article in another column. 2. No regard need be paid to return requests on circulars and transient newspapers. 3. A retiring Postmaster should pay over to the incoming Postmaster all money collected on account of the Department since the beginning of the quarter, and not accounted for to the Department.

Miscellaneous Information.

Dead Letters.

By the instructions under the postal laws, UNMAILABLE LETTERS are specified to be—

Letters attempted to be sent with stamps previously used, or stamps cut from stamped envelopes.

Unpaid letters for foreign countries, on which prepayment is required by the regulations.

Letters not addressed, or so badly addressed that their destination cannot be known.

Letters misdirected to places where there are no post offices.

Civilian's letters, (domestic) wholly unpaid, (including unpaid drop letters.)

Only such letters as are herein described are, when deposited in any post office, to be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office; all others must be dispatched to their destination, charged with the amount of unpaid postage.

When unmailable letters are sent to the Dead Letter Office, the specific reason therefor must be endorsed upon the envelope of each.

These instructions will be strictly followed at all post offices.

For more full instructions relating to dead letters, advertising letters, &c., examine carefully Chap. 35, Regulations of 1866, and Sections 1 and 2, Act of June 12, 1866.

Foreign Letters, &c.

RULE FOR RATING LETTERS TO GREAT BRITAIN, &C.

The attention of postmasters is particularly called to the mode of rating postage upon letters exchanged in the mails between this country and the United Kingdom, which differs only in the rate, and not, as heretofore, in the weight or standard. The maximum standard weight is now half an ounce, and the rate is twenty-four cents; postage to Great Britain and Ireland, therefore, is as follows, viz.:

One rate (24 cents) for a single letter not exceeding ½ oz. in weight.

Two rates (48 cents) when over ½, but not exceeding 1 ounce.

Three rates (72 cents) when over 1, but not exceeding 1½ ounces, &c., &c.

Thus, a letter to Great Britain, weighing 4½ ounces, should be paid $2.16, being chargeable with nine rates. All part paid letters to foreign countries are treated as wholly unpaid, and the amount paid lost to the sender.

Letters to foreign countries, where prepayment of postage is compulsory, when insufficiently paid are sent to the Dead Letter Office, to be opened and returned to the writers, and are thereby delayed one or two mails, and, no doubt, in many cases, causing serious loss and annoyance to the writers.

REGISTERING FOREIGN LETTERS.—Letters can be registered in the United States for Great Britain and Ireland, for Germany, or any part of the German Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen, Hamburg, or Prussian closed mails. Letters to Canada can be registered, but not to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, or Prince Edward's Island. Postmasters will, therefore, decline to register letters addressed to other foreign countries.

The registry fee to be charged on registered letters to Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, via Bremen or Hamburg, or by Prussian closed mail, and to Canada, is five cents—to Great Britain and Ireland, twenty cents. All registered letters must be prepaid in full to destination. See "Foreign Miscellany" on fourth page of this paper, for full information in regard to rating all foreign letters.

Our Postal Convention with the United Kingdom, provides that each country shall levy and collect its postage only, on newspapers, at the rate of two cents each, whether they are sent or received. Hence, newspapers received in this country from Great Britain come prepaid the British postage only, and postmasters must be particular, in all cases, to collect the United States charge of two cents on their delivery.

CANADIAN CORRESPONDENCE.—Irregularities having arisen in respect to Canadian correspondence, these directions must hereafter be observed:

Letters addressed to Canada must be mailed to a United States Exchange Office. Letters cannot be sent direct to Post Offices in Canada.

The postage on a single letter to and from Canada is 10 cents, prepayment optional; but the whole postage must be prepaid or none. Part prepayments are not recognized. Prepayments must be made by United States postage stamps—not in money.

A postmaster may frank a letter to Canada the same as to any point in the United States; but it is optional for the Canadian P. O. Department to deliver such letter free, or charge full postage on it, at its pleasure.

COLLECTIONS IN COIN.—In pursuance of the provisions of a resolution of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails despatched to this country from Great Britain and Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen, or Belgium, are collected in gold or silver coin. Should, however, payment of such postage, and of the premium on a corresponding amount of coin, be tendered in United States notes, the same is to be accepted in lieu of coin. The amount to be collected in U. S. notes, (in case coin is not offered,) is marked on each letter on its arrival at U. S. Exchange Offices, and it charged in the post-bills. Hence, when coin is collected at the office of delivery, the difference should be entered in the account of Mails Received as an overcharge.

The above applies exclusively to the mails received from the countries mentioned

On out-going letters the former regulations remain unchanged, and, when prepaid, the regular rates (in currency) only are to be collected.

Applications for blank registers of arrival and departure of the mails must be made direct to the "Inspection office." For special instructions, to the First Assistant Postmaster General.

Applications for these stamps should be made to the Appointment office.

MODE OF INDICATING THE PREPAYMENT OF POSTAGE UPON LETTERS RECEIVED FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

When the United States official postage entries on the letters received from Great Britain or the Continent of Europe, are in red ink, the letter is to be considered as paid, and is to be delivered accordingly; when in black ink, as unpaid, and the postage is to be collected on delivery. The postage on such letters is either wholly paid or wholly unpaid. Postmasters can readily decide any question as to prepayment, by this simple criterion.

Domestic Postages.

The law requires postage on all letters, (including those to foreign countries when prepaid,) excepting those written to the President or Vice-President, or members of Congress, or, (on official business) to the chiefs of the executive departments of the government, and the heads of bureaus and chief clerks, and others invested with the franking privilege, to be prepaid by stamps or stamped envelopes, prepayment in money being prohibited. Postmasters can send official letters to other Postmasters free.

All drop letters must be prepaid. The rate of postage on drop letters, at offices where free delivery by carrier is established, is two cents per half ounce or fraction of a half ounce; at offices where such free delivery is not established, the rate is 1 ct.

The single rate of postage on all domestic mail letters throughout the United States is three cents per half ounce, with an additional rate of three cents for each additional half ounce or fraction of a half ounce. The ten cent (Pacific) rate is abolished.

RATES OF LETTER POSTAGE BETWEEN OFFICES IN THE UNITED STATES, AND TO AND FROM CANADA AND OTHER BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES

To and from Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., irrespective of distance.

To and from other British N. Am. Provinces,
for distance not over 3,000 miles. ......... 10 cts.
For any distance over 3,000 miles........... 15 "

For every additional half ounce, or fraction of a half ounce, an additional rate is charged. Prepayment is optional on all letters for the British North American Provinces except Newfoundland, to which prepayment is compulsory.

Letter postage is to be charged on all handbills, circulars, or other printed matter which shall contain any manuscript writing whatever.

Daguerreotypes, when sent in the mail, are to be charged with letter postage by weight.

Photographs on cards, paper, and other flexible material, (not in cases,) can be sent at the same rate as miscellaneous printed matter—viz., two cents for each four ounces or fraction thereof.

Photographic Albums are chargeable with book postage—four cents for each four ounces, or fraction thereof.

Newspaper Postage.

| | |
|---|---|
| Postage on Daily Papers to subscribers when prepaid quarterly or yearly in advance, either at the mailing office or office of delivery, per quarter, (three months).. | 35 cts. |
| Six times per week, " " . | 30 " |
| For Tri-Weekly, " " .. | 15 " |
| For Semi-Weekly, " " .. | 10 " |
| For Weekly, " " .. | 5 " |

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS (one copy only) sent by the publisher to actual subscribers within the county where printed and published, free.

POSTAGE PER QUARTER (to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance) on NEWSPAPERS and PERIODICALS issued less frequently than once a week, sent to actual subscribers in any part of the U. S.:

| | |
|---|---|
| Semi-monthly, not over 4 oz.................. | 6 cts. |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz... | 12 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz... | 18 " |
| Monthly, not over 4 oz......................... | 3 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz......... | 6 " |

| Quarterly, not over 4 oz...................... | 1 " |
| " over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz....... | 2 " |
| " over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz...... | 3 " |

Quarterly postage cannot be paid for less than three months. If a subscription begins at any other time than the commencement of an official quarter, the postage received by the p. m. must still be entered in his account for that quarter. Subscribers for short terms—exceeding three months, say four or five months—can pay quarterly postage for the actual term of their subscriptions—that is for one quarter and a third, one quarter and two-thirds, &c. The law only requires that at least one quarter's postage shall be prepaid, and not more than one year's postage. Any term between one quarter and one year can therefore be prepaid at proportionate rates.

PUBLISHERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS may send to each other from their respective offices of publication, free of postage, one copy of each publication, and may also send to each actual subscriber, inclosed in their publications, bills and receipts for the same, free of postage. They may also state on their respective publications, the date when the subscription expires, to be written or printed.

Religious, Educational and Agricultural Newspapers of small size, issued less frequently than once a week, may be sent in packages to one address at the rate of one cent for each package not exceeding four ounces in weight, and an additional charge of one cent is made for each additional four ounces or fraction thereof, the postage to be paid quarterly or yearly in advance.

NEWSDEALERS may send newspapers and periodicals to regular subscribers at the quarterly rates, in the same manner as publishers, and may also receive them from publishers at subscribers' rates. In both cases the postage to be prepaid, either at the mailing or delivery office.

Publications issued without disclosing the office of publication, or containing a fictitious statement thereof, must not be forwarded by postmasters unless prepaid at the mailing office at the rates of transient printed matter.

Postage on Transient Printed Matter.

[All printed matter (except single copies of newspapers, magazines and periodicals to regular subscribers) sent via Overland Mail, is to be charged at letter postage rates.]

BOOKS, not over 4 oz. in weight, to one address, 4 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 8 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 12 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 16 cts.

CIRCULARS, not exceeding three in number, to one address, 2 cts.; over three and not over six, 4 cts.; over six and not over nine, 6 cts.; over nine and not exceeding twelve, 8 cts.

ON MISCELLANEOUS MAILABLE MATTER, (embracing all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, handbills and posters, book manuscripts and proof-sheets, whether corrected or not, maps, prints, engravings, sheet music, blanks, flexible patterns, samples and sample cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes or wrappers, cards, paper, plain or ornamental, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, and scions,) the postage to be pre-paid by stamps, is, on one package to one address, not over 4 oz. in weight, 2 cts.; over 4 oz. and not over 8 oz., 4 cts.; over 8 oz. and not over 12 oz., 6 cts.; over 12 oz. and not over 16 oz., 8 cts.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General, the fifth subdivision of the 42d instruction of the new Post Office Law, has been amended by striking out the word twelve and inserting thirty-two before the word ounces, so that it shall read as follows—"The weight of packages of seeds, cuttings, roots and scions, to be franked, is limited to thirty-two ounces."

All mail matter not sent at letter rates of postage, embracing books, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, and other printed matter, and all other mail matter except seeds, must be so wrapped or enveloped with open sides or ends as to enable the postmaster to examine the package without destroying the wrapper, otherwise such packages must be rated with letter postage. No communication, whether in writing or in print, can be sent with any seeds, roots, cuttings or scions, maps, engravings or other matter not printed, except upon the seperate payment of postage upon each separate matter at the established rates.

Exchange newspapers and periodicals cannot be remailed without being chargeable with postage.

Where packages of newspapers or periodicals are received at any post office directed to one address and the names of the club of subscribers to which they belong, with the postage for a quarter in advance, shall be handed to the postmaster, he shall deliver the same to their respective owners. But this does not apply to weekly newspapers which circulate free in the county where printed and published.

Weekly newspapers and all other printed matter to the British North American Provinces, although sent from countries bordering on the line, are chargeable with the same rates as when sent to any point in the United States.

☞ All transient matter must be prepaid by stamps. But if it comes to the office of delivery without prepayment, or short-paid, the unpaid postage must be collected on delivery at the prepaid rate. reat neglect exists in the strict quarterly prepayment of postage on printed matter sent to regular subscribers. No such paper should be delivered, unless it is either prepaid at the mailing office, or at the delivery office for at least a quarter. If not so prepaid, postmasters must collect postage on each copy as on transient matter. If they fail, they will be charged with the full postage due, and in clear cases removed from office for neglect.

To inclose or conceal a letter or other thing (excepting bills and receipts for subscription) in, or to write or print anything, after its publication, upon any newspaper, pamphlet, magazine, or other printed matter, is illegal, and subjects such printed matter, and the entire package of which it is a part, to letter postage.

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

TO THE BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

|---|---|
| Cape Breton, Pr'e Edward's Island, and Nova Scotia. To Newfoundland prepayment required. To Canada and New Brunswick, 10c. per ½ oz., any distance. | * 10 cents when not over 3,000 miles from the line of crossing. * 15 cents when distance exceeds 3,000 miles. Prepayment optional. |

Steamers of the Cunard line sail from Boston twice each month, touching at Halifax, and when letters are sent by that conveyance for Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Prince Edward's Island, the U. S. postage is 5 cents the single rate, to be prepaid. The inland rate is collected on delivery. On newspapers by this route, the postage is two cents each.

Newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and sent to regular subscribers in the British North American Provinces, or published in those Provinces and sent to regular subscribers in the United States, are chargeable with the regular prepaid quarterly rates of United States postage to and from the line; which postage must be collected at the office of mailing in the United States on matter sent, and at the office of delivery in the United States on matter received. In like manner, such matter, if transient, is chargeable with the regular domestic transient printed matter rates to and from the line, to be collected at the office of mailing or delivery in the United States, as the case may be. Editors, however, may exchange free of expense.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS.

Valuable letters for Germany, or any part of the German-Austrian Postal Union, by Bremen or Hamburg line via New York, or by the Prussian closed mail via New York and Boston, as also letters addressed to Great Britain and Canada, will be registered on the application of the person posting the same, in the same manner and on the same terms as those deliverable in the United States, provided that the full postage chargeable thereon to destination, together with a registration fee of twenty cents on each letter to Great Britain or Ireland, and five cents on each letter to the other places mentioned above, is prepaid at the mailing office. Such letters should be mailed and forwarded to the respective United States exchange offices in the same manner as domestic registered letters are mailed to those offices.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS, ETC.

Letters addressed to Great Britain and Ireland are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, a single rate being charged for each half ounce, &c.

Letters in the mail to France are to be charged with single rate of postage, if not exceeding the weight of one quarter ounce; double rate if exceeding a quarter, but not exceeding half an ounce; and so on, an additional rate being charged for each quarter ounce or fractional part of a quarter ounce. Letters addressed to the German States, &c., when sent via Bremen or Hamburg, and the British North American Provinces, are rated in the same manner as domestic letters, one rate being charged for each half ounce or fractional part of half an ounce. Postmasters, should be careful, where the postage is prepaid, to collect the proper amount. They should be particular to notice the route indicated on the envelopes of letters, and to collect postage accordingly. Letters mailed at some offices, marked "via England," or "via Prus'n closed mail," for a German State, are frequently taken upon the prepayment of Bremen rates, and those marked "via Bremen," at Prussian closed rates, &c.

RULE OF RATING LETTERS GOING VIA FRANCE

In the case of letters to be forwarded in the British mail for transmission from England via "Marseilles," the French postage is rated at 6 cents the quarter ounce, except on letters for Java, China, Labuan, Borneo, Japan, the Moluccas and Philipine Islands, which are rated at eight cents per half ounce, and except, also, on letters for Syria and Tunis, by French packet, when the single French rate is 12 cents per quarter ounce.

The rates by "French mail" are in full to destination, except to the following places, viz.: Aden, Batavia, Ceylon, China, cities of Turkey, in Europe, except as herein mentioned, via Austria, countries to which correspondence can be sent via Suez, countries beyond seas, via France, other than those enumerated, East Indies, Gibralter, Hong Kong, Java, Mauritius, Montenegro, Penang, Portugal, Isle of Re-Union, Servia, (except Belgrade,) Shanghai, Singapore and Spain. The limit of prepayment to Spain, Portugal and Gibralter, is Behobia; to Servia, (except Belgrade,) Montenegro, and cities of Turkey in Europe, except as herein mentioned, "via Austria;" the frontier of Turkey and Austria; to Aden, East Indies, Ceylon, China, and other countries via Suez, the seaports of the Indies, or of the sea of China to which the English packets ply; and to places beyond seas, other than those designated, the limit is the port of arrival in the country of destination.

RATES ON PAMPHLETS, MAGAZINES, ETC.

On pamphlets and magazines, to or from the West coast of South America, the United States postage is four cents; and to or from all other foreign countries, (except Great Britain, Belgium, and the German States, via Bremen or Hamburg mail,) two cts. per 4 oz. or fraction thereof, to be collected in all cases in the United States.

Newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries (particularly to the continent of Europe) must be sent in narrow bands, open at the sides or ends; otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage.

ROUTES OF TRANSMISSION, ETC.

To prevent mistakes at the exchange offices, it is desirable that the particular routes by which letters are to be forwarded from the United States to Europe, should be distinctly written on the covers. Letters intended for transmission in the open mail to England, should bear the direction "open mail via England;" if for transmission in the French mail, they should be directed, "via France in French mail;" if for transmission by closed mail to Prussia, they should be directed "via Prussian closed mail;" if for transmission in the closed mail to Belgium, they should be directed "via Belgian closed mail;" and if for transmission by the New York and Bremen line to Bremen, or by the New York and Hamburg line to Hamburg, they should be directed "via Bremen," or "via Hamburg."

It is important that letters addressed to Germany and other European countries, via France, where the single rate per quarter ounce is 21 cents, should be plainly marked to be sent via France; otherwise they may be missent in the open mail to Liverpool by United States packet, the 21 cent rate per half ounce being also chargeable on letters thus forwarded.
